Whitaker also linked them with recent counterfeiting of Canadian bills and with activities printing of fake ration stamps.

Iracl and Salli were the "moving spirits in the widespread counterfeiting of O. P. A. (Office of Price Administration, a wartime agency) ration stamps during the war and the organized ring which has been counterfeiting large amounts of Canadian currency during the last few months," he alleged.

Arrested Separately

They were charged with conspiracy to manufacture and sell more than $500,000 in counterfeit bills.

They pleaded innocent at arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Boyce H. Butterfield. He ordered them held in custody and scheduled a hearing for Thursday.

The arrests followed seizures of large quantities of counterfeit currency and the homes in Toronto and Buffalo.

Secret Service officials said the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and police of Toronto and Niagara Falls aided in the investigation.

In another case, Charles Sicurella, 41, pleaded guilty in Federal court Tuesday to a charge of possessing counterfeit $10 bills. He will be sentenced May 8.

Korean Leads At Halfway Mark In Boston Marathon

Boston, April 19 (AP)— A starter's gun at noon today sent off an international field of 134 long-distance runners, including 15 Canadians, on the 54th annual Boston Athletic Association marathon, a 26-mile, 385-yard grind from Hopkinton to Boston.

Boston, April 19 —(AP)— A Korean, Kee Yong Ham, led the field with 3:15 at the half-way point in the 54th running of the Boston Athletic Association marathon—but there was a couple of minutes behind the record.

Govt. May Get Out of Butter Business

Ottawa, April 19 (CP)— The government may get out of the butter business.

An announcement on ceiling butter support prices is expected within the next few weeks. A policy statement by the cabinet contain a statement that the government will leave future marketing entirely to the trade.

This step may be taken, it is understood, as a result of talks between the government and the butter trade. Dairy organization have asked that they be given full responsibility for the sale of butter, with the government supporting the price as it does in the case of eggs.

Submitted to Risky Surgery Of Brain to Cure Him of Evil Tendencies, Now Back in Jail

New York, April 19 — (AP)— A handsome, former Marine, who submitted to risky brain surgery last fall to cure him of criminal tendencies was back in jail today awaited by the law in four states.

He is 25-year-old Charles Hinkley, arrested as a fugitive from a Kansas Veterans Administration Hospital where doctors hoped he would become normal. Hinkley was picked up in South Dartford, Ala., after a series of a trail of bad cheques that began with his escape from the Winter General Hospital in Topeka, Kas., two weeks ago, authorities said.

A hole was cut in his skull and the pre-frontal lobe was cut off from the rest of his brain.

The operation is widely debated in medical circles — frequently has reduced a patient's mental or criminal disorders.

But a long convalescence is necessary. Dr. Perlmutter said it would take up to two years to re-educate the veteran and make him a useful citizen again.

Joint Meeting of City Council And Education Board Over School Ends in Stalemate

An early start in the construction of the proposed new public school for East Belleville was promised as far away as ever last night following a joint meeting of City Council and the Board of Education held at the board room in Queen Alexandra School.

The entire controversy regarding the letting the contract or the construction of the new school was again thrown into the air that was new coming from the two-and-a-half-hour discussion. At the week-end of the meeting it appeared that neither Council nor the Board of Education were prepared to change their opinion with respect to their stands.

Board members gave little or no indication they were prepared to award the school construction contract to the McFarland Construction Company, the lowest bidder, while Mayor H. J. Allin called on the Board to "get together and come up with a solution to the problem, which would save the city money.

Called For Tenders

In February the Board called for tenders for the new school and early in March awarded the contract to the St. Lawrence Contracting Company of Belleville, the second lowest bidder whose bid was some $22,000 over that of McFarland. Council refused to ratify debentures or the amount needed to build the school according to terms of the successful tenderer.

Since then the matter has remained at a stalemate with the Board having taken no official action.

Opening the meeting chairman of the Board Mr. Enos David paid tribute to the work of the Board for their unselfishness in faithfully serving the interests of education in the city. At the same time, he assured, Board members had the interests of the city at heart.

Urges Agreement

Board member Harold Seldon noted that both the Board of Control and council members had been elected to perform specific tasks — the Board to attend to the business of education and the council to attend to the running of the general business of the city. He admitted that in the case of a new debenture issue of the amount involved the city as a whole must back the issue. He felt that the two groups should try to arrive at a suitable agreement.

"Let us not worry about losing face, swallowing one's pride or losing dignity," he said. "I suggest that those on council who voted with me in the issue of the necessary debenture reconsider the matter and vote in favor so that we can get on with the urgently needed school without further delay."

Mr. Seldon said that Board members appreciated the difficult task facing council with respect to rising taxes but at the same time stated the Board has

Plans Being Made For Ontario Butter Competition

Competitions sponsored by the Ontario Creamery Association for butter and cheese have been active in improving the quality of butter in Ontario during the past 50 years, announced by the Dairy Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Already plans for the 1950 event are being made, this year's competitions being arranged by the committee in charge. These are for quality, yield and mould, workmanship, combined competition and keeping quality competition.

Harold West of Stirling is a member of the competition committee in charge of plans for the competition.

COMMONS SEEKS FACILITIES FOR ADVANCE VOTING

Special Committee Will be Appointed

Ottawa, April 19 — (CP) — A broad demand for improved facilities for advance voting in general elections emerged in the Commons Tuesday as the House approved establishment of a special committee to consider amendments to the Elections Act.

For various reasons, members of several parties advocated revision of the Act to broaden and better those provisions which allow some people, such as commercial travellers, to vote ahead of time. The voting problems of fishermen, railwaymen and subarban dwellers were specifically raised.

The debate developed a conflict of opinion between two veterans members — Rev. E. Anstell (SC — Macleod) and Gordon Graydon (PC — Peel) — about a change in the system that allows the government, within a five-year time limit, to name the date of voting.

Mr. Hansell thought it was time definite lines are set, say every four or five years. Mr. Graydon, while sadly admitting he has long been in opposition, said the government should continue to have the discretion it enjoys today even if "the dice are somewhat loaded" in its favor.

It was a busy, far-ranging day that saw these developments:

1. Liberal and Social Credit members united to defeat by a vote of 136 to 23 a C.C.F. motion criticizing the government for failure to implement the "promise" made at the National Liberal Convention of 1948 to impose effective price controls "in the field where prices proved to be unreasonable." The Progressive Conservatives supported the C.C. F.

Court Orders Money be Paid To Toronto Man

Dublin, April 19 (CP)— The high court of the Republic of Ireland Tuesday directed that prize money in the 1949 Irish Republic Sweepstake on the 1949 Grand National be paid to Alphonse Zaborek of Toronto.

The money ($38,750 at current exchange) was ordered to be paid by legal action for the last two years.

The court dismissed an action by Fred H. Gill of Toronto when lawyers submitted that counsel rendered him unable to produce £ 38,000 in prize money, asked for a ruling that he was owner of a one-fifth share in the ticket, drawn on Sheila's Cottage, the 1948 winner of the Aintree Steeplechase. Mrs. Snell contended, he was not entitled to a half interest; in the prize money.

The full amount of the winning ticket on Sheila's Cottage was £ 38,000, but in the area of Ireland Zaborek at the time of the race received half the money, $50,000 at the exchange rate then prevailing.

It was the balance of the prize winning amount which was in dispute.

Says Present Methods Won't Lick TB In Thousand Years, but BCG Answer

Denver, Colo., April 19. (AP)— The vaccine, BCG, will whip tuberculosis, says Dr. Edward J. Cardiello, adding that "the public body has got to raise hell until this country wakes up to that fact."

Dr. O'Brien, one of the country's top TB surgeons, launched a crusade for BCG in a speech here before the American Association for Study and Prevention of which he is president.

He said he considers their present methods of combatting TB—some of which he developed himself—"won't solve the problem in a thousand years."

BCG is the only answer, he declared, "and it's amazing that the U.S. Public Health Service can't see it."

Dissenting opinion came from Dr. Robert J. Anderson of the Public Health Service in Washington, who said evidence is still incomplete as to the effectiveness of BCG.

In reply, Dr. O'Brien said millions of persons in foreign countries had been vaccinated, that BCG had been immunizing 70 to 90 per cent and that there had not been a single report of harmful effects in 20 years.

Charged in Deaths Of Two Young Girls On Way to Church

Police Check Parked Vehicle For Prints Before Arrest

Toronto, April 19 — (CP) Two youths were accused today of being drivers of the truck that fatally struck after striking down and killing two young girls on their way to church 19 days ago.

Police, who admitted several days ago that they had run up against a blank wall in their investigation, said an unexpected telephone tip Tuesday night ended their long search.

The tip led to the arrest of Donald Tackaberry, 19, of Toronto, and Frank Wells, 20, of suburban York Township, employed as truckers by the Ontario Lumber Company, a North Toronto firm that deals in prefabricated houses. The information came from an official of the company.

Charged with manslaughter and with leaving the scene of an accident, the youths appeared in court today and were remanded to April 21. Bail was set at $5,000 for Wells.

Police seized a yellow - and - brown lumber truck which they said may have been the vehicle that struck Ranee Watson, 13, and her five-year-old niece, Barbara Jones. The children were struck down on York March 31 as they walked along North Bathurst Street h. prior to Sen North York township to a Lenten service at St. Eugene's Roman Catholic Church.

Wells has a 18-month-old daughter, Lois. The night of the accident, his wife returned from hospital after losing her second baby.

Both Wells and Tackaberry live in the general area of the accident scene.

Finding of Truck

The three-ton truck, loaded with two prefabricated cottages and a double garage, was found near Agincourt, a northwestern suburb, where the lumber company has a plant, police said. Since the accident, it has been driven many times through Toronto and suburban areas.

Dusting from the side of the truck are two iron braces holding green canvas tarpaulins on top of the rack. Police say they believe the one on the right side was torn loose by the fatal young girl.

Mandelbaum said a customer recently returned a truck to him Tuesday that it was possible that the driver might have helped to hit a fir. Mandelbaum then checked his files to see if any of the company trucks were in the area of the accident the night the girls were killed.

Made Delivery

Police quoted Mandelbaum as saying that Tackaberry and Wells made a delivery to Bathurst on Toronto's northern outskirts, the night of the accident.

Police Chief Detectives George Wilson, in charge of the investigation, said today that both youths made statements following their arrest.

"They said they thought they had hit a bump in the road at Thurst and Carmichael, where the accident occurred," Sgt. Wilson said.

"When they reached Ranee Avenue, they decided to return to find out what had happened. But the truck bogged in mud and, after freeing the vehicle, they did not go back to the scene of the accident."

Rewards offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the driver of the truck that killed the girls grew to $2,700 amid the hue-and-cry of the province-wide search. North York police said today that no one has claimed the reward.

Muddy Pair of Shoes

They belonged to five-year-old Barbara Jones, killed with Lorraine Watson, 13, the night of March 31 by a truck which police said did not stop.

INJURED BY DRIVERLESS TRUCK

Toronto, April 19. (CP) — A three-year-old boy and a woman were injured Tuesday by a driverless truck that careened down a hill in northwest Toronto.

Paul Hartt, 3, suffered a broken leg when he was struck by a bicycle. Mrs. Annie Snider, 36, suffered leg cuts.

James Creighton, 18, driver of the truck said he was thrown from it as he swerved to avoid an automobile. He suffered abrasions and head injuries.

JOINT MEETING

had considerable support in its decision in awarding the school contract to the second lowest bidder.

School Association View

He referred to a letter received from the Imperial Committee of the Home and School Association of Belleville in which the expressed the complete confidence in the Board in the matter of the new school. The whole-hearted support of the committee was promised.

Mr. Seldon also referred to a letter received by Mayor W. J. Allin from the Imperial Construction Association which stated in their opinion, on the basis of facts as outlined in the statement of the Board that the procedure taken by the Board was perfectly proper. The letter stated that to negotiate with the low bidder under the circumstances indicated would seriously upset the basis on which contractors bid works of this kind.

Claims Amount Small

"While one can sympathize," the letter went on "with the desire of a public body to save funds, the amount involved is small, particularly in comparison with the important principle of maintaining tendering practice on a basis on which there will be compete can rely on equal treatment in the competition."

Again Mr. Seldon said, in a letter from the Building Construction Trades Council in Belleville, Trenton and District which stated that by unanimous vote the Council has upheld the decision of the Belleville Board of Education in awarding the school on the proposed new school. A copy of the letter had also been forwarded to Mayor Allin, it was stated.

Mr. Seldon pointed out that the Home and School Associations of the five public schools and the Collegiate are composed of a large cross-section of the taxpayers. These people were specially interested in school in that they have youngsters in schools. Also the local construction trades council represented taxpayers and home owners.

Appraisal Hasty Claim

"Surely gentlemen," he said, "you can see that if any Board member had any doubt in his mind as to the correctness of action, that doubt is completely dispelled by these three letters, and similarly, these letters will perhaps indicate to some aldermen that their appraisal of the matter was hasty and erroneous."

Quoting a high city official who had told him that the local press was behind the council with respect to the Collegiate issue, Mr. Seldon stated he agreed this was correct.

However, he suggested that the three letters he had read indicated support of the board's decision by three widely different groups of responsible people, whose membership numbered thousands. In contrast he said the support of council by the paper was only the opinion and support of only one person—the owner and editor.

Precious Time Lost

Mr. Seldon said possibly some councillors had taken their stand against the detentive issue because of principle, but was the case he suggested that a continued course of opposing up for a principle could result in a stalemate which could be disastrous. "Already," he said, "precious weeks have been lost."

With the opening of general discussion on the matter Alderman Allen asked if the Board intended to be prepared to go ahead with the contract at its original figure.

"What has that got to do with it?" asked Board member E. A. Geen in reply. "The fact remains that the Board's action was based on the lowest tender price by $14,400."

Mr. David said Mr. McFarland had stated he would stick to his original contract, but this had been after the contract had been awarded to the St. Lawrence Contracting Co.

Alderman Asks Question

Alderman Liddle wanted to know if the contract with St. Lawrence had actually been signed. Mr. Geen replied it was awarded pending financing approval by council.

Mr. David said one authority had told the board that in his opinion the board actually were committed but admitted this was not legal opinion, on the basis of facts as outlined in the statement of the Board that the procedure taken by the Board was perfectly proper. The letter stated that to negotiate with the low bidder under the circumstances indicated would seriously upset the basis on which contractors bid works of this kind.

ethical business practice to advise a tenderer that his tender was low. The architect had advised in the affirmative and the telegram suggesting a mistake and giving the opportunity of withdrawing was sent to McFarland.

Would Let Tender Stand

He said McFarland's telephone reply was that he would let his tender stand.

"What business of the Board was it if McFarland's tender was low," asked Alderman Liddle. "You have supervision."

To this Alderman Duffy noted that there had been supervision with respect to McFarland's Picton contract while Mr. Geen asked if the sewers built in the city by McFarland were satisfactory.

Mayor Allin assured there was no question of the sincerity of the Board, but at the same time suggested there was a possibility the Board convicting the contractor unjustly. The Mayor also claimed the telegram to McFarland from the Board was an invitation for him to change his tender.

Again the Mayor called upon the Board to make every possible effort to see that a contract for the full council had been wise in refusing the detentive issue and said if necessary he would protest the matter to the municipal board.

Council Has Control

He pointed to municipal regulations which stated council may pass by-laws without a vote of the people for borrowing purposes. However, if council refuses to pass such a money by-law the question can be submitted to the electors. If the electors voted in the affirmative the council was required to pass the debentures.

"In effect the regulations mean that council has the control," pointed out the Mayor.

"I don't think I understands that," replied Mr. Geen.

Alderman Liddle was of the opinion that the Board's telegram to McFarland was an invitation to the contractor to change his original tender still stood at the time of the deadline," he said.

Regretted Personalities

The alderman went on to say that unfortunately the called for specification the lowest tender should be accepted, but regretted that personalities were creeping into the issue and also referred to the fact that a statement that he he "would not" or "could not" supervise the lowest tender was accepted.

In this all respect to Mr. Watson, how do you know that he would supervise any contract?" he asked.

He said the architect should have the right to recommend or to supervise before, and not after, a certain tenderer was found low.

"To me the whole thing is elementary," he said. "The fact remains that even the second lowest tender it is going to cost the city $35,000 to $40,000 more to build the school."

Mr. Seldon said that when the Board met with Mr. McFarland suggesting a possible mistake in his tender it was not been no thought on the part of the Board that the telegram was an invitation for the contractor to revise his figures.

Alderman Disagrees

Alderman Haig, however, disagreed, stating he was only natural for a contractor to get a better price. He said that subcontractors' prices were adjusted "all the time" although he was not sure if it was good practice.

Board member Mr. Geen pointed out that council had previously approved of an expenditure of $300,000 for the school. Alderman Haig pointed out that approval for the $300,000 figure had been given before any tenders were received.

Alderman Hyde wanted to know why the words "lowest or any tender not necessary accepted" appeared in tender advertisements.

This question was directed at Architect W. A. Watson who at that moment appeared at the meeting. Mr. Watson replied the words were inserted to enable assessing of the various tenders.

Only One Function Claim

According to Alderman Duffy the city solicitor had informed him that council was only to give approval for the construction of the school. The matter of cost was up to the Board of Education. If the decision of the Board could not be accepted in this matter then there was point in having a board of education.

To this Alderman Haig said that in a matter of capital expenditure approval of Council for the amount must be obtained by the Board. This did not apply with respect to current account, however, he said.

Mr. Watson was asked to comment with respect to the low tender submitted by Mr. McFarland. The architect said he had immediately recognized that the lowest tender was low. He had had several sad experiences with low tenders and if this was to be the case with regard to the new school he did not want to be involved. He said it put the architect in an almost impossible position.

Asked Two Questions

Mayor Allin wanted to know what the Board's legal advice on the matter had been. Mr. Kells replied that the board's solicitor had been asked two questions, one with respect to financing of the school, and the other with respect to the legal position with the St. Lawrence contract. His reply was given to the effect that financing must be approved by the council, on the matter of borrowing by the electors and to the effect that the St. Lawrence contract had been signed but was subject to financing.

Mr. Kells said it would be ridiculous to put the matter before the electors. He said that everything was ready to start the school and claimed the question put before the electors would be whether they favored issuing debentures to build the school. The vote would vote to build the school," stated Alderman Potter.

Council Gave Approval

Alderman Tice pointed out that council already had given approval to the erection of the school. Before the matter could be placed before the people the council would have to rescind, he said.

"My opinion is that the Board of Education is responsible to the people, and I am a member of city council. If they do wrong they will be voted out of position."

Continuing Alderman Tice asked if in the opinion the board had been motivated other than by the advice of their architects.

Chairman Duffy replied Mr. Seldon, "If we had disregarded their advice what would have been the public's reaction had the tender later been found to be low."

"Your argument sounds plausible," said Alderman Haig, "but with the contractor's deposit, the holdback pending completion and the completion bond, how could you lose."

Merely an Assurance

Mr. Seldon advised that the bonds were merely an assurance he not over-estimated. He said that sometimes there was only insurance policy against the contractor covering insolvency. This, he said, isn't many bondsmen.

Again Mr. Watson was asked by Alderman Haig to supervise if the lowest tender had been accepted.

Mr. Watson said if the McFarland tender had been within reason he would have entertained no objection. He assured his relationship with Mr. McFarland was most cordial. However, if Mr. McFarland tender had been so low that it would be financially impossible.

Have No Concern

"Whether morally or not, I do not know," he said. "Possibly Mr. McFarland would have been willing to lose money."

"That changes the whole com-

Obituary

W. W. GOULD
Los Angeles, Calif.)

Wooler—Relatives have been notified of the death of Mr. W. Gould in Los Angeles, Calif., on April 10. Mr. Gould was born in Wooler over eighty years ago, being the son of the late Lorenzo Gould and Janet McColl. Following his education in the local schools and the Toronto Normal School he was principal of the Wooler Public School for a number of years. He left here some forty years ago, going first to Edmonton, Alberta, and later to Los Angeles, where he has resided for several years. He was twice married. His first wife Nellie McColl, died shortly before he left Wooler. Later he married Miss Edith Free, of Campbellford, who survives. One son, Douglas, lives in Calgary, Alta. Funeral and burial took place in Los Angeles on Friday. He was the last of his family, three brothers, L. R. Campbellford, George of Kenora, and Arthur of Dryden, pre-deceased him some years ago.

MRS. ELINOR ROBINSON

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 19— (CP)—Industrials and Base Metals showed signs of continuing yesterday's advance as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today. Activity slowed considerably early in the day when profit-taking was comparatively heavy.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,528,000 shares.

Base Metals showed the best gains as market leaders continued in demand following news yesterday of an increase in the price of copper. Strong buying yesterday lifted the base metal group to the highest average price level since 1937. Consolidated Smelters added 1 3-8 at 100 1-4 and Quemont was ahead 3-8 at 22 5-8. East Sullivan, a feature yesterday, slumped 20 cents at $7.80 under pressure of profit-taking.

A few key industrials pushed additionally higher in dull dealings. Construction, utilities, papers, steels and liquors showed malorities of advance. Refining Oils dipped.

Giant Yellowknife, a gold producer in the Yellowknife area, Northwest Territories, highlighted golds, trading briskly for a gain of 60 cents at $7.80. Other junior producers were generally active and seniors tended fractionally lower. Several uranium prospects were moderately active.

Royalite gained 1-4 at 13 7-8 pick up the auto.

Sokol, Glee Club Offer Programs At Collegiate

To be presented under the auspices of the Belleville Collegiate Home and School Association an evening of unusual entertainment is being offered to Belleville residents on Friday night at the auditorium of the local Collegiate Institute.

Featured on the program will be the Sokol Club of Batawa in conjunction with the Slovenian Glee Club. A colorful evening of entertainment through a program of gymnastics, folk dances, songs and instrumental numbers is being provided.

As well as providing a splendid evening's entertainment the concert will have considerable educational value and is expected to prove one of the outstanding concerts of the season. Popular price admission will prevail.

Cannot Operate Car Without Proper Plates

Automobiles kept in storage for the winter months must carry licence plates for the current year when they are taken out of storage and put to highway use in mid-April, it was learned by a Montreal man passing through the city today.

Karan told police that the car was owned by Tony Lesavick of the New York Rangers hockey club and that the auto had been kept in storage for the winter. Karan was driving the car to Toronto where the hockey star would plexion, said Alderman Haig in commenting on Mr. Watson's statement. "The only thing remained is Mr. Watson's concern over Mr. McFarland's bank account—which we have no concern. The entire matter now resolves back to the original question."

Mr. David said that under the circumstances the Board was not willing to take the chance on the lowest tender. He said the Board could not take any chance on a possible delaying action by the contractor.

Resolved to Two Questions

Alderman Armstrong pointed out the whole question was whether council was prepared to accept the judgment of the Board of Education in awarding a contract which would cost the city $35,000 more than the lowest tender, or whether they wished to absolutely abide by the law.

Mr. David felt that the Board of Education had done a good job in keeping education costs down in Belleville, stating costs in this city were below the average for Ontario.

"We feel the Board did the right thing and are willing to stand on our responsibility," he said.

Again Alderman Potter said if the matter went to the electors the question would be whether they wanted the school. If the electors felt the Board had done right, okay, if not let them resign.

Thought Authority Wise

Miss Josephine Tickell felt that the question was not in any contract, the contractor could still do the many things if such was the desire.

A. C. Campbell, board member, said that legislation gives council authority with respect to capital school costs and was wise. At the same time he said that when council turned down the board's request for issuing debentures they automatically assumed the responsibility of seeing that the lowest tender was carried out.

Mayor Allin still placed the responsibility with the board and felt that the lowest tender could be successfully carried out. "Council should not be blamed for the delay in the construction of the school," he said. "I ask that the board get together and come up with a solution acceptable to all."

Not Changed Mind

Alderman Hyde wanted to know if Mr. Watson was willing to supervise construction of the school by the lowest tender. "I have not changed my mind," was Mr. Watson's reply.

As a recently appointed member of the Board Alderman Hyde said the matter was not entirely one of dollars and cents. He said there was no guarantee that acceptance of the lowest tender would save the city money. He felt that since the contract had been awarded to St. Lawrence it should be continued, adding that it was the duty of the Board and council to settle the matter satisfactorily and get the school built.

Mr. Seldon objected to an interference by Mayor Allin that the Board had been responsible for the delay. He said that legal rights with respect to the successful liability had been received only on April 12th.

Mr. David quoted high municipal and other authorities in Toronto as saying that the local Board could not have acted in any other way.

Opinion Given

He said it was the opinion of these men that if McFarland had not approached Board members seeking to review his figures, the Board would be bound to accept the lowest tender. However, this could not be under the circumstances.

Referring to the request of the Mayor that the Board come up with a solution to the matter, Mr. David pointed out the Board had been unanimous in its decision. On the other hand opinion had been divided.

"It's not a question as to the integrity of the Board," stated Alderman Deacon. "Personally I think this delay for which the Farland is said to have sought to cover his tracks, has been worked to the limits."

The fact is that the lowest tender will produce the school. The question is can we get the school built for $210,000." The essence of the thing is that the city would be saved something like $32,000."

Can Save City Money

"You have your specifications and with a competent architect you can have the school built and save the city money."

Mr. Green objected to what he termed as direction by council that the McFarland tender be accepted.

"No, no," objected Mayor Allin, "there was no suggestion as to who should get the contract. If that is to be the basis of the discussion I ask the council to withdraw."

The question was raised as to whether there had been a completion date set for the Prince Charles School. Mr. Seldon replied there had been no date set. He admitted he had expected the building would be completed at a certain date but said he had sadly underestimated due to material and other holdups.

No Chance of Compromise

With no chance of a compromise between Council and the Board of Education seen, Alderman Duffy suggested that the whole matter be placed before Hon. George H. Dunbar, minister of municipal affairs, for decision to be accepted, yes or no. He suggested a telegram from council and from the Board approach Mr. Dunbar on the matter.

"We have no power at this meeting to bring in such a recommendation," countered Mayor Allin. "In any event the direction of Mr. Dunbar would be for us to go back to Belleville and settle out our own differences."

"Again I ask that the board get together and come up with the solution," advised the Mayor. "What about it, Mr. Watson?" Mr. Burke.

"A solution to save the city money," replied the Mayor. "It is dollars and cents I am concerned with.

Turkey, Program Mark Men's Club Final Meeting

Presenting what he termed "The Borden Memorial" in the art of public speaking, Rev. Canon J. Grant Sparling, rector of Christ Church, addressed a gimmy meeting of St. Andrew's Men's Club Tuesday evening. Timely and together with well appointed sectionsness brought out the highlights of Canon Sparling's humorous yet highly instructive discourse.

Tuesday evening's meeting was the final assembly of the year. Club of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church until meetings are resumed in the Autumn. President of the club, Wilfred D. Richardson was chairman at the meeting. The guest speaker was introduced by W. Lorne McDougall with appropriate remarks. Approximately one hundred members in attendance being voiced on behalf of the club by Stanley Lennox.

In added feature of the evening's entertainment was the rendition of two vocal solos by Glenn Hjalmerson, who is becoming very well known in musical circles in Belleville since his recent association with the local radio station. Mr. Hjalmerson was accompanied by Earle Mason at the piano.

Group singing was conducted by Linton Bird and accompanied by Earle Mason.

A turkey dinner was prepared and served to the Club by members of Mrs. A. Bell's group of the Women's Guild of the church under the personal direction of Mrs. Bell. The hearty thanks of the club was extended to the ladies by Dr. Smith.

Briefly addressing the club, the president thanked the members of the committee and those members who assisted the committee in organizing the recent meetings of the club. He also expressed the thanks of the club to Glenn Hjalmerson for his musical contribution to the evening's entertainment. Special thanks was extended to Earle Mason and Linton Bird for their preparation and conducting of the group singing program. In closing, the president thanked all members of the club for the excellent support given to the newly-inaugurated recreational early this year, and called upon those present to show the same enthusiasm and support when activities are resumed in October.

Prince Charles School Will Open First Next Week

The new Prince Charles public school on Ridley Ave. will be ready for occupancy by school children the first of next week, City Council and the members of the Bord of Education were told last night at the joint meeting of the two bodies.

H. C. Seldon, as chairman of sites and accommodation committee, stated that barring unforeseen circumstances it was expected to hold "open house" at the new school this weekend with children to occupy the classrooms on Monday morning.

Mr. Seldon said the new Prince Charles School was a fine building. He had see none better. He would be pleased to show the building to any member of the council at their convenience.

The new school contains five classrooms with kindergarten space and school auditorium. Principal's office, teachers' room and health room are also included. The school is well lighted with individual thermostatic heating controls for each of the classrooms.

According to Mr. Seldon the new school was so well laid out and so well suited to needs that it is one of five schools chosen by the Department of National Defence as a model for schools in military camps across Canada.

PROGRESS IN WAR ON DISEASE

Cancer now ranks second only to heart ailments in its toll of Canadians, says Dr. Jonathan C. Meakins, President of the Canadian Cancer Society and new cases will develop within the next year, facts known about cancer and its incidence among the people indicate.

Yet this society and its research organization, the Canadian Cancer Institute, are some hope for successful treatment of certain types of the disease in the new drugs ACTH and cortisone. However, much further research in these drugs and urethane, nitrogen-mustard and radioactive isotopes is required before their value can be properly assessed, he said.

There is the fact that "we know the cause of cancer to a point, but the fundamental trigger mechanism which produces cancer is not known." Therefore a considerable proportion of research funds is being spent to define the occurrence of cancer in relation to locality, age groups and other factors.

"We begin to suspect its occurrence in industry but we cannot be sure that conditions prevailing in certain industries are responsible for cancer," the doctor said. "The important aspect of treatment is that people shall have knowledge and hope, rather than the traditional attitude of ignorance and fear."

The belief that cancer is "a painful disease that ate into your vitals" did untold harm, according to the doctor. For most cancers are painless in their primary stages; so that victims were unlikely to ask for careful diagnosis until they recognized the symptoms of cancer.

Cures are possible in 94 per cent of skin and lip cancers if they are found early enough. However it is necessary to bring the patient to the treatment, that is one difficulty. Equipment for radiological treatments of cancer was too bulky, too costly and too delicate for easy transportation. It is pointed out that a well-equipped radiation centre could provide treatment for 1,500,000 or more persons.

In the present campaign the Canadian Cancer Society has set as its objective $1,000,000. Of this $350,000 will be allocated for research. Some items will go to further the listing of cancers, the special technique of diagnosis and treatment and for the exchange of information with other countries.

"The chief need is for money and men. Neither is of any use without the other and you would be surprised how great is the poverty of specially trained men," the President pointed out.

One of the encouragements of this time is the sustained effort to carry on the war against this dread disease and other diseases which distress mankind. Science itself and men and women are deeply interested in discovering any facts about this disease which may help to lead the way to conquest over this malady which knows no favorites of international boundaries and no class or race distinction. The war on cancer is an all-out war against a great enemy of mankind. Men and women are involved and are devoting their lives to this study so that they may if possible be able to gain the victory over disease and carry on the cause of human betterment and freedom from the threat of sickness and disease.

SYMBOL OF THE BARN

A middling-sized argument is going on in the East over whether the house or the barn is the most valuable building on the farm. Some argue that the barn is the more important, since the home can only be maintained according to the revenues which the land and barn provide.

Be that as it may, there is an old theory about barns and farm houses in these parts. It has long been accepted that if the barn is large, well-painted and in good repair, the farmer is running the show. If the house is painted and in good shape, the farmer's wife is boss. And if both barn and house are in good shape, the income tax inspector has not yet visited the district. — Winnipeg Tribune.

HIGHWAY SIGNS

Most of us are familiar with a new type of sign which is particularly effective after dark. In the daytime it looks like any other painted sign — but after dark it catches headlights and shows up as if specially luminated.

In Nova Scotia it has been used exclusively by commercial interests. But in New Brunswick highway signs are so painted and they stand out particularly well. — New Glasgow News.

Wild geese on their way north now have a stopover sanctuary in Renfrew county, near Cobden, says Ottawa Journal. They enjoy Ontario hospitality and food.

Tomorrow is the day when idlers work, and fools reform, and mortal men lay hold on heaven.

JUST FOLKS

GOLF LESSON

"I've read a book on golf," he said,
"And now I know the way to do it;
This year I'll never lift my head,
But watch the ball and follow through it.

"The way to win at golf I've
From studious, careful
winter reading.
The hips by pivoting are turned;
That movement keeps the club head leading."

I wondered should this man I wake
From dreaming, since the simple fact is:
One book on golf cannot make;
Skill only comes from constant practice.

Though just a game, golf
makes this plain:
That skill in something none
can sell us.
The books, and all the pros,
are vain
Unless we practice what they tell us.

Ald. H. W. Ackerman, Chairman of the executive committee, presented the estimates to the city council and the tax rate for this year was struck at 27 mills. The Board of Education, the Separate School Board, the Board of Police Commissioners, Public Library and the Board of Health will require the sum of $30,054.27. Ald. Ackerman, in submitting the estimates said that the burden of our taxation is fall more because of our large ossolodated debenture debt, most of which was incurred before many of the present taxpayers were born. If these old debts had been taken care of as well as the present day obligations are being cared for, the lot of the chairman of the executive would indeed be a happy one. One reason that our tax rate looks high is because our assessment is kept so low. The average assessment of properties in the cities of Ontario per head is $602.00, while in Belleville it is only $440.09 or over 26 per cent below the average. The taxation in Belleville is only 23 per cent less per head than the average of the cities in the province. By the last government census the average amount paid per head in the cities of the province in taxes for all purposes is $13.50 and in Belleville it is $11.64 over 10 per cent less.

Treasurer Poppy Day Fund Issues Statement On Financial Report

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

In the March 31st. issue of The Intelligencer there appeared a news item regarding the financial statement of the Belleville Poppy Fund under the signature of J. H. Lazenby, (Treasurer).

The item is not according to facts and such statements as it is entirely beyond his jurisdiction to do, no such remarks were every received by him at that time nor has he received such monies to the time of this letter.

Personally, Mr. Editor, you are absolved from any blame in this matter as you printed without bias from the letter of information received from the party who gave you that information.

There are two committees working jointly, on the Belleville Poppy Fund viz. Campaign Committee and Administration Committee respectively.

After the completion of a Poppy Campaign it is the duty of the Campaign Committee to turn over the net proceeds to the Administration Committee. At the present time this procedure has not been done, an amount of $692.00 has been collected but there is still a considerable balance (exact amount unknown) that the Campaign Committee has tentatively refused to do, this we understand is from orders of the Provincial Poppy Fund, Canadian Legion, Toronto, Ontario.

The Administration Committee of which the undersigned is treasurer is composed of representatives from the Canadian Legion, Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans, Canadian National Railways, War Veterans and their Auxiliaries, and this committee has sanctioned this letter to you and the citizens of the province.

The receipts and disbursements of the Administration Committee for the year 1940 (Certified) are as follows:

Receipts
Balance in bank Dec. 31, 1948	$ 250.14
Receipts from Poppy Day 1949	1428.09
Receipts from Poppy Day 1940	692.60

POP GOES THE PROPAGANDA!

Generalissimo Joseph V. Stalin, Chairman, Council of Ministers Kremlin, Moscow, U.S.S.R.

Dear Joe:

If I may make so bold, I'd like to call your attention to a matter which is no laughing matter, even though it's been getting a lot of laughs lately. I refer to the recent efforts of your propaganda boys to win friends and influence people in this part of the world.

The bug in the borscht, as I see it, is that your tub-thumpers are currently telling such whoppers that a Moscow dateline alone is enough now to set folks snickering. And, as an old hoopla huckster, I can readily see that if your average citizen will swallow a certain amount of bologna he'll naturally insist on having it sliced thin and between two pieces of honest bread.

Take for instance, last winter's lollapalooza about how your engineers were nudging mountains with uranium. We degenerate democrats, who think we know it or not, are a fact-minded people who thrive on details. Where before he's Napoleon we want to see his birth certificate, and when he says he's an explorer an Alp we want to see the hole in the ground. Even the Soviet Government failed to back up its brag with a single snapshot, initiated the happy one. One reason that our tax rate looks high is because our assessment is kept so low. The average assessment of properties in the cities of Ontario per head is $602.00, while in Belleville it is only $440.09 or over 26 per cent below the average. editors and copywriters.

Now and occasionally, as some idle-eye in your press division has apparently noticed, I take a playful poke at your regime in my column—an event which certainly doesn't figure to precipitate a crisis of state. But instead of filing it in the wastebasket and going about their business, your name-callers have been making the front pages of everything back—and both things with the finesse of a lumberjack trying to lat.

The first time, a year ago, both Pravda and Izvestia reported it was a "white slaver" and that my humply-dumpty little cartoon was "the biggest bordello in the world." And as if that weren't enough, they went on to say that my partners in this enterprise were John Edgar Hoover and Bernard Baruch.

Well, as might have been expected, this journalistic bombshell exploded nothing but giggles. Time magazine reprinted the item as a gag. My chorus girls seemed to picket the Russian consulate, and my bookie refused to handle my stuff picked up a few more papers.

Now you birds should have taught your word-waxters a lesson, but they didn't. Only a month later one mailed me the February issue of your magazine, Novy Mir (New World), and—get set for surprise!—in it was an article by one Z. Khrustalev which, in a way of documenting the degeneracy of American culture, described me as "the notorious pornographer who" "murdered a man and grabbed his capital."

Now, I'll assure you, as a plaudit rather than a pot-shot that I've never killed to get an son or climate: Choose and wear what makes you feel comfort. It is not to keep you warm—outer clothing serves that purpose. It is not to protect you from pneumonia or rheumatism—that is too idiotic to discuss in a column for people with enough intelligence to read an even think. For the edification of youngsters everywhere, who may be entertained by the antics of your underwear, I do herby solemnly testify that the best time for a change from heavy underwear to light underwear or none at all is

THE BEST TIME FOR A CHANGE

DISCUSS WORLD BROTHERHOOD ORGANIZATION

Three leaders of the U.S. National Conference of Christians and Jews are shown in New York after they mapped final plans for an international conference to be held in Paris from June 8th to 11th, to set up the "World Organization for Brotherhood." Shown, left to right, are: Roger W. Straus, chairman of the board of the American Smelting and Refining Co., and co-chairman of the national conference Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Nobel Prize physicist and Second Protestant co-chairman of N.C.C.J., and Dr. Everett R. Clinchy, N.C.C.J. president. Clinchy will head a team of 10 Canadian and U.S. delegates scheduled to visit 16 countries. The Paris conference will open under the chairmanship of Dr. Compton and will be attended by 100 leading figures in the industrial, religious and civic life of most of the countries of the west. — Central Press Canadian.

Skipper Wins Gold-Headed Cane For Second Time

Montreal, April 19 — (CP) — Capt. S. W. Keay, skipper of the Canadian Pacific cargo liner Beavercove, made navigation history Tuesday by winning Montreal's coveted gold-headed cane for a second time.

The cane, awarded annually to the skipper whose vessel is first to reach Montreal harbor from an overseas port after the spring breakup, will be presented Capt. Keay today or tomorrow. He first won it in 1943 when he was master of the freighter Gaintoul Park.

Sailing out of Liverpool, the Beavercove docked here at 8:35 P. M., TST, Tuesday night to win a nip-and-tuck race that started in Quebec City at 4 a. m. when the Swedish freighter, Eriand, stole away from other competitors under cover of darkness.

Nearly Five Hours Behind

The 10,000-ton Beavercove left Quebec nearly five hours and 22 miles behind the Eriand. With her superior speed of 16½ knots, she passed the Eriand 24 miles from Montreal. Total distance between Quebec and Montreal along the St. Lawrence River is 150 miles.

Pitching the vessel was A. Gaubiher who this year steered his fourth winner upriver. He was with Capt. Keay in 1945 and his last winning ship was the Beaverburn in 1947.

Gaubiher was transferred from the Beavergien to the steamship, shortly after they passed Three Rivers, Que., half way between Quebec and Montreal, when it appeared the Beavercove stood a better chance of winning.

Leading the pack was the ice-breaker Ernest Lapointe which cleared the channel of drift ice, the first time in years that an ice-breaker showed the way to early arrivals.

SEES DEFEAT OF U.K. LABOR BY END OF YEAR

Philadelphia, April 19—(AP)—Geoffrey Crowther, editor of the Conservative British weekly, the Economist, said yesterday he believes Britain's Labor party will be defeated on crucial issues by the end of the year. He said the ultimate test probably will come next fall when a pending motion for the nationalization of the steel industry is scheduled to come to a vote in the House of Commons.

MacKenzie's Column:

American Note To Russia Tough, Solemn Protest

DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The American note to Russia regarding the shooting down of an unarmed United States plane over the Baltic sea, with the loss of a crew of 10, is tough in any man's language.

The communication is introduced with the punctilious phraseology of diplomatic language but soon develops a thoroughly two-fisted approach in which blunt "demands" are made.

The substance of the note is this:

The U.S. navy unarmed plane "did not fly over any Soviet or Soviet-occupied territory or territorial waters adjacent thereto." It must be concluded that a Soviet aircraft shot down an unarmed American plane over the open sea. And now the note gets really tough:

Asks for Punishment

The U.S. government protests "in the most solemn manner against this violation of international law." It "demands" that there be no repetition, "under whatever pretext", or incidents of this kind "which are so clearly calculated to magnify the difficulties of maintaining peaceful and correct international relationships."

The U.S. government "confidently expects" that Moscow will see that those responsible are severely punished, and will "pay appropriate indemnity for the unprovoked destruction of American lives and property."

Having thus declared its position, where does the U.S. go from here? Supposing Moscow tosses back the fighting reply which Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe made to the German demand for surrender in the Battle of the Bulge: "Nuts". Does the United States government then have to sever diplomatic relations?

Not so many years ago such notes as this would have had grave results. However, we are passing through a strange and hectic period in which values have changed sharply, at least temporarily.

There is no present indication that this new quarrel is worse than numerous other developments in the cold war. The U.S. certainly means business in the present instance, but a Russian rejection might result in another stalemate. That would mean a heightening of the tension, which obviously would continue the trend away from peace.

The Washington note doesn't put a chip on Uncle Sam's shoulder. It does make it plain that he refuses to be pushed about.

OFFERED NO HELP

Paris, April 18—(Reuters)—For not trying to stop his wife from committing suicide, a Paris court today gave Rene Ancker, a railroad foreman, a suspended sentence of three years' imprisonment. After an argument with her husband last December, Madame Ancker walked out, threw herself into the Seine and was drowned. The charge against Ancker was "voluntary refraining from giving assistance to a person in peril."

Thirty-three years of age, Mr. Baicer was elected to Parliament in the 1949 campaign.

Mr. Baicer will undertake extensive organization particularly within the Province of Quebec. In his acceptance speech he stated he would visit every section of the country in the near future on behalf of the Young Progressive Conservatives of Canada.

2 Newly-Gained Fortunes Wiped Out by Budget

London, April 19 — (Reuters) — Two newly-gained fortunes of £100,000 ($310,000) were all but wiped out Tuesday by a few clipped words from Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The sufferers were Sir John Black, 52, and Leonard Lord, 52, two of Britain's top automobile men.

Last Autumn both received payments of £100,000 from their companies on the condition they never would transfer their services to rival manufacturers.

Tuesday while presenting the budget, the Chancellor announced that such payments will be subject to surtax. That means the two will, in fact, get only $5,000 of the bonus.

Lord said Tuesday night the payment was made to him under terms covered by a House of Lords' decision in 1942.

"What Sir Stafford has done now is to reverse the decision of the House of Lords — in fact there is no law in England any more," he said.

"If the Chancellor of the Exchequer can overrule the whole law, where are we?"

500,000 VISIT ROME

Rome, April 19—(Reuters)—At least 500,000 pilgrims have visited Rome in the first six weeks of the Holy Year, figures issued by the Holy Year committee showed today. Italy, with 18,000 pilgrims, tops the list, followed by France with 40,000. The United States and Britain each sent 10,000 and Canada 2,000.

MADE HONORARY BROTHER

London, April 19 (CP)— Viscount Alexander's election as an honorary member of Trinity House has brought a suggestion to the London Press that he may now sometimes wear, like Winston Church, a uniform of naval type.

Churchill's familiar short naval coat and peaked cap, and the full form of Trinity House, Britain's senior lighthouse and pilotage authority when received its first charter from King Henry VIII in 1514.

WEDDINGS

CURTIS—WATSON

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Alford, of Roslin, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, April 15, when their younger daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Lena Watson, was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert William Curtis.

The officiating minister was the Rev. J. Goforth Hornsby, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville.

The groomsman was Mr. Gordon J. Morrison, of Belleville.

Appropriate music was played by Mrs. G. Goodfellow, Roslin.

Miss Olive Walpole of Ostenden, near Wiarton, was the soloist.

Following the ceremony refreshments were served the numerous guests by Mrs. John Cross, Mrs. R. Copeland and Mrs. G. J. Morrison.

Mrs. A. A. Goodfellow officiated at the tea room.

The bride wore for the occasion a French blue suit which she also wore on leaving for the wedding trip, in addition to a matching topcoat.

Guests were present from Belleville, Roslin, Shannonville, Tweed and Wiarton.

After visiting Toronto and Wiarton, the couple will reside in Roslin.

GANNON—McINROY

Before a background of lovely Spring flowers of assorted varieties, the marriage was solemnized by the Rev. J. Grant Sparling in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, April 8, at 2 p.m., of Vivian Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McInroy, Belleville, to Reuben Desmond Gannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gannon, of Belleville.

Miss Genevieve Tracey, guest soloist, rendered before the ceremony, "Because", and during the signing of the register, "I Love You Truly".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her bridal floor length gown of white satin featuring a yoke of net with seed pearls and rhinestones, long, tight fitting sleeves ending in lily points at the wrists, the skirt forming a train. Her full length veil was held by a coronet of encrusted pearls and rhinestones. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

The two little flower girls, cousins of the bride, Miss Judy Andrews, of Belleville, and Miss Gloria Austin, were gowned alike in floor length frocks of light green taffeta and light mauve taffeta, respectively. They carried sprays of yellow daffodils.

Mr. Dalton Gannon, of Ottawa, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and the ushers, Mr. William O'Sullivan, and Mr. Walter Daynard, both of Belleville.

At the reception, which was held at Tobe's County Gardens, the bride's mother, gowned in a navy blue gabardine suit, with accessories of powder blue, and corsage of pink carnations, was assisted in receiving the 65 guests by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in grey with corsage of pink carnations.

Following the reception, the young couple left by motor car and Pembroke, the bride travelling in a navy blue suit with navy accessories, and corsage of American Beauty roses. Upon their return, they will reside in Belleville.

THOMASBURG YP Societies Hold Drama Festival In Oddfellows Hall

Thomasburg—The Drama Festival for the Young People's Societies for South Hastings took place on Wednesday night in the Oddfellows Hall in the village. Only two groups entered the contest. The president, Mr. D. Ross, presided.

The group from Foxboro United Church chose as their entry in the contest "Utter Relaxation" while the Moira United Church Society presented "Mama's Little Helper." The judges after considerable consideration decided the honors for the Foxboro cast. A suitably inscribed cup was presented to the winners and on Saturday evening they would compete with the winners from Lennox and Addington. The Rev. Mr. F. A. Gilbert of Foxboro introduced the characters and he was later presented with the trophy.

Mrs. Wesley Farrel introduced and directed the Moira group, this being the first public appearance for any of the members of their cast. Special mention might be made of Miss Lue Ann Foster, the youngest member of the cast who handled one of the leading parts in an outstanding manner.

Vocal numbers were given by Miss Ross and Miss Eggleton, while the Moira group with the Rev. Mr. Clarke as their leader, presented an enjoyable camp fire sing song with guitar accompaniment.

An enjoyable evening was spent by all who attended.

Mrs. Duncan Ketcheson Will Mark 94th Birthday Friday

Still taking a keen interest in everyday life, Mrs. Duncan (Myra) Ketcheson, of the Green Nursing Home, Stirling, will mark her 94th birthday on Friday, April 21st.

Hastings County's "Grand Old Lady", descendant of one of the oldest families of Sidney Township, is the daughter of the late John Vandevoort and Margaret Merritt. She has lived practically all her life in her native township.

A musician and lover of music in all its phases all her life, Mrs. Ketcheson still enjoys playing her favorite hymns and other melodies on the organ. She is in good health and looking forward to many years of life.

Time has left but few marks on this fine elderly lady. She derives keen enjoyment from her knitting activities and a retentive memory recalls many events that happened in the distant past.

Many friends will offer their congratulations and best wishes to Mrs. Ketcheson on her natal day.

'Country Store' Sponsored By Minerva Chapt. at Christ Church Parish Hall Success

Sunny skies and balmy breezes ushered in the first real Spring day of the season and brought many patrons and members to the fine "Country Store" held yesterday afternoon in Christ Church Parish Hall under the auspices of the Order of the Eastern Star, Minerva Chapter No. 238.

Receiving at the door were the Worthy Matron, Mrs. A. Jordan, and Mrs. B. Humphreys, and close by the treasurers, Mrs. J. Lazenby and Mrs. L. Gerow.

Arranged around the three sides of the hall were the various booths each with its own particular commodity, and colorful decoration, while along the remaining side was the long tea table, tastefully appointed with its silver services, white cloth, and floral centre piece. Those who presided were: Mrs. A. Strickland and Mrs. J. Allin, for the first portion; and for the last portion, Mrs. F. B. Foley and the Worthy Matron of Belleville Chapter, 55, Mrs. C. Baker. Those who invited the guests to the tea room were Mrs. R. Hinchey and Mrs. J. Little.

In the centre of the room the little quartet tables were arranged, with snowy cloths, centred with a vase of fragrant narcissi. The conveners of the tea room were: Mrs. E. Mason; Mrs. V. Stark; Mrs. A. Williams, and Mrs. W. Gray, with their assistants, while Mrs. W. Adams replenished and made the delicious cups of tea.

Novelty Booth

The first booth was that of the novelties, designed with valance of gay garlanded with purple ropes, having a large purple clematis at each corner. Here one could purchase for a fraction of the original cost, lovely costume jewellery, sparkling earrings; pansy brooch, gift cards with dainty handkerchiefs inserted; hot-dish pads in scenic beauty; a lovely string doll dressed in pink knit dress and hood; a wool's row of tea dolls, including "Topsy" all neatly dressed, and begging to be carried away; then there was black "Dinah" made entirely of crepe paper, with swirling Hawaiian hulu-hulu skirt, her black hair topped by a light blue turban. A perfect decoration for some tiny bed. In addition, there were embroidered guest towels, pot holders, beautifully crocheted in red and white, and one in blue, with a blue rose centre; bracelets, in Egyptian work; and at one corner of the booth, just a little piggie bank in glass, mutely asking to be filled; a pink wooly Pekinese dog with brown button eyes guarded a necklace in sapphire blue beads and one in amber colored moonstones as well as tiny cacti plants and bulbs of iris. Over this presided Miss W. Silrland and Mrs. J. Marsh.

Aprons Well Displayed

Next to the novelty booth was that of the aprons, done in green with yellow garlands gracefully looped to the centre with yellow roses highlighting each corner. There were tiny little girl aprons, and grown-up aprons in many pretty pinks and colors. One especially pretty one was made of fine pale blue cotton, having a cretonne gathered flounce set in the front portion, with matching pockets on either side, and matching cretonne ties. Beside the aprons, there were fancy guest towels, bath towels, dainitly appliqued with a waitress in uniform on one, and the waiter also in uniform, on the other. Presiding over these attractive articles, were Mrs. A. E. Wonnacott and Mrs. A. Williamson, with their assistants.

The next booth was that of the home-made candy, ornate in pale blue and yellow, with boxes and tiny cup-like containers overflowing with divinity fudge, nut-topped; chocolate and maple-pecan, all dainitly packaged and so tempting, and finding ready customers were Mrs. Craighead and Mrs. M. White were the conveners here.

The parcel post booth was convened by Mrs. K. Barnett and Mrs. R. Reid, and the articles sold were wrapped and had been sent previously by mail to be sold unwrapped and unseen. They afforded as much curiosity to the sellers as to the purchasers. Some upon request opened theirs and displayed dainty crocheted hotpad holders, and tall pale green tapers simply engaging the purchaser for his or her fancy.

Home Cooking

And down at the far end of the room was the table of the home cooking, surrounded by eager purchasers. Here, above rose and green decorations on a white background, were the 'nick-nacks' so much desired; tiny tartlets that melt in the mouth; satisfying tea buns with raisins prettily plump, plus steamed apples with cherry tops; cup cakes, macaroons; chocolate cakes; white cakes, and the ever pleasing cookies, so nice to eat with a glass of milk. Over these delectables were the sales ladies, Mrs. G. Patrick; Mrs. A. Green; Mrs. B. Humphreys, and Mrs. A. Clare, with their assistants.

In charge of the special dainty cake which went to the holder of the lucky draw Mrs. W. A. Gill, Front St., was Mrs. T. York, and the convener over all, was Mrs. A. E. Wonnacott.

An exceptionally fine "Country Store", though somewhat modernized, ably convened and successfully culminated.

2ND THURLOW

Music, Euchre Feature Birthday Party

2nd Thurlow — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ken Bush and family; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Woods, and Dawne, of Sidney; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Dunsbury; Miss Joan Moore, Hershimer Ave., Mr. and Mrs. Manley Mitchell, and family; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, and Doris and Margaret Thompson, in honor of Mrs. Mitchell's mother, Mrs. L. Gummer, who recently celebrated a birthday.

The evening was spent in cards and music.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

T-5-4B

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

Sixteen ounces of fowl in the butcher shop will become six ounces of chicken on your plate later.

When you buy a fowl for boiling, about 40 percent of the original weight is actually to be eaten. If the fowl is excessively fatty or bony, the yield may be even less. Fortunately, when people eat chicken, their appetites seem to accept the smaller portions. There's something gentle and luxurious about chicken that tames the hungriest of beef eaters.

For afternoon canasta groups, late suppers and buffet parties chicken salad is likely to please more tastes than any other choice.

When you assemble a salad, there should be enough salad dressing to coat each particle of food but not so much that the food slushes around in it. All ingredients should be ice cold. If there is room in your refrigerator, you should keep the serving plates there until needed.

Chicken for salad can be stretched with celery, avocado, apple or any fruit or vegetable that doesn't break up too easily.

Chicken, Apple and Pineapple Salad—Serves 8.

Have a 4 to 5 pound fowl cleaned for boiling. Remove any loose pieces from cavity. Pick out any pin feathers, using tweezers or a small paring knife. Hold the fowl over an open flame for a few seconds to singe. Wash fowl inside and outside.

Place in a pot with cold water to cover. Add 2 teaspoons salt, 1 stock of celery and 1 large onion.

Combine cold fowl with 2 cups of celery cut into small cubes, 2 cups of drained canned pineapple wedges and 2 cups of diced apple. Add 1 cup of mayonnaise or more if desired. Add 2 teaspoons lemon juice and salt and pepper to taste. Mix thoroughly.

Place clean dry lettuce leaves on individual serving plates or large platter. Place salad in a mound on lettuce. Decorate with canned pimientos cut into diamond shaped pieces. Sprinkle with 1 cup chopped ripe olives. Serve very cold.

Platter may be garnished with hard boiled egg wedges and tomato wedges, placed around edge of platter, if desired.

Chicken broth may be used to make a tomato bouillon or other clear soup.

ROSLIN

New Officers Elected At Women's Institute For Ensuing Year

Roslin—The April meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday, April 6th at the home of Mrs. William Gillespie with 17 present.

The president, Mrs. W. Slingerland, presided and the meeting was opened in the usual way.

The secretary read minutes of last meeting and minutes of last annual meeting, also correspondence. A meeting open to the members throughout the area will be held in Halloway St. Church, Bellleville, on May 8th, Mrs. Sayer, International president, will be the guest speaker, and Lady Cynthia Brook, of Ireland, will also be one of the speakers. Importance of keeping W. I. records was stressed.

The financial statement for the year showed a balance on hand. The roll showed 31 members, 12 regular meetings, and one special meeting were held during the year.

The co-operative program was discussed. Short courses chosen were: 1st "Modern Dressmaking"; 2nd, "Your Children's Food," "Brighten Your Home With Color" was the subject chosen for district conference.

The conveners of standing committees gave a summary of their years work. Agriculture and Canadian Industries, Mrs. Leslie; Citizenship and Education, Mrs. J. Fargey; Home Economics and Health, Mrs. W. Gladdish; Public relations and community activities, Mrs. W. Golden.

Mrs. M. Fargey was appointed to conduct the election of officers. The following slate of officers were elected for 1950-51:

President, Mrs. W. Slingerland; 1st vice president, Mrs. D. Empey; 2nd vice president, Mrs. F. Meeks; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. H. Sills; Branch Directors, Mrs. W. Gillespie, Mrs. M. Fargey and Mrs. W. White; district directors, Miss A. Wilson; auditors, Mrs. Leslie and Mrs. W. Bates; representatives to district annual, Mrs. Slingerland, Mrs. Sills, Miss A. Wilson and Mrs. Sayers; conveners of standing committees with the exception of Mrs. D. Chisholm who was appointed as convener of historical research and current events, were all re-elected.

Mrs. Slingerland thanked the members for their co-operation in the past year.

A humorous reading was given by Miss M. Wilson, "Don't Let It Stay, You, Gertrude."

The executive will meet at the home of the president next Tuesday evening to plan next year's program.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social time was enjoyed.

Women's Activities

Mt. Pleasant-Rawdon W.M.S.

Rawdon—On Wednesday last the regular meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Ross Hoard with 15 ladies and two children in attendance.

Mrs. John Holmes played Easter music and all sang "Crown Him With Many Crowns".

Mrs. Roy Thrasher president, conducted the devotional service as prepared by Mrs. M. Love, in the February Missionary Monthly, the theme, "What Can I give to my Church?" The various parts were taken by the three visitors Mrs. Don Campbell, Mrs. Will Hubble and Mrs. James Menzies, also two members, Mrs. Ross Jeffs and Mrs. Blanche Sharp. The leader closed with these lines, "You have heard the Bible teaching about stewardship, and all must now commit themselves to live by these principles."

Christ has many services to be done, some are easy and others difficult, some bring honor while others bring reproach. Some may please Christ and please the others, but then there are others which cannot please Christ except by self denial.

The treasurer's report was read by the president. She remitted $31.35 to Presbyterial treasurer for the first quarter. Sixteen fees are paid and there are six life members.

The Easter thankoffering to date is $37.65 with more to be handed in at a later date.

The next meeting will be held on May 10th at the home of Mrs. Milford Wrightman. Plans were completed for a birthday party for Mrs. Fred Jeffs who will be 80 years of age.

Mrs. George Weaver gathered the offering of nearly $8 which was dedicated to missions.

Mrs. John Holmes and Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave a group-sized report of the recent Presbyterial held in Napanee and were tendered a vote of thanks for their efforts. It was regretted that no one from this Auxiliary was able to attend in person.

First Presbyterial

Twenty-five years ago the first Presbyterial meeting, after union, was held at Napanee with Mrs. Allan Bailey, Mrs. George Weaver and Mrs. John Holmes in attendance.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, who completed her four year term as Mission aide secretary, was unable to attend Presbyterial because of illness in her family. She has served as an officer of Belleville Presbyterial and the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch W.M.S. for 20 years and Mrs. Thrasher suggested that Mount Pleasant Auxiliary tender her an ovation on her years of service.

Program

The president welcomed the visitors and hoped they would decide to join in the future. She also graciously thanked the hostess.

The Easter program opened with three Easter hymns. Mrs. Ross Hoard read an Easter message entitled "Victory Over Death." An appropriate poem "My Saviour Died on Calvary" was read.

After the meeting closed the hostess served refreshments daintily.

CENTENARY W.M.S.-W.A.

Centenary — The Easter thankoffering meeting of the Centenary W.M.S was held at the church on Thursday with a good attendance. Mrs. G./ Sills, president, took charge of the meeting.

A report of the afternoon session of the recent presbyterial meeting of the W.M.S. at Trinity Church, Napanee, was given by Mrs. Elwin Hart.

The worship service, following the service in the Missionary Monthly, was led by Mrs. Sills, assisted by Mrs. R. Thrasher and Mrs. R. Edmonds.

AVONDALE N.A.

The regular meeting of Avondale Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. E. Bush with a good number in attendance. The meeting opened in the usual manner.

Mrs. M. Robson read an Easter story, followed by the treasurer's report and the corresponding secretary read her report.

A number of ladies thanked the Neighbors' Aid for cards sent to them.

Some business was discussed. It was decided to hold a rummage sale soon.

Mrs. F. Reid and Mrs. S. Lough, of the Program committee, conducted a few games of bingo; readings by Mrs. T. A. Tucket were also much enjoyed.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Robson and Mrs. Anger. Mrs. Bush was thanked for the use of her home.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Every wife needs a home of her own

By and large, much of the tangled situations of life can be reduced to two general types.

One of these is where the trouble lies with the complaining person himself. Neither is where the situation itself is basically wrong.

A letter I have just received from a young wife, who finds her present mode of living increasingly intolerable, belongs, I think, in the second category. What she has on her hands is a mother-in-law problem, which has developed out of the fact that she and her husband are living with his mother. She writes:

"I have been married just a little over a year, and we have been living with my husband's mother. I was perfectly cognizant of the well-known mother-in-law problem, but was willing for us to live with her and help her out financially because I truly believed we could share a home economically. I regret to say that I was mistaken, and that I am very unhappy here.

This young women goes on to say that no friction has ever come out into the open. On the surface, everything goes smoothly. But this appearance of friendly relations has only been maintained at the cost of strain and tension on the part of the girl herself. Because she loves her husband, is really fond of her mother-in-law, and wants to do her duty by both of them, she has tried to keep things on an even keel. The result is that she has become badly upset nervously.

The girl is fair enough to admit that there are many good things about the housing arrangement. Not the least of them is that since both she and her husband are at work all day, life is a lot easier because the mother-in-law takes care of their room and has dinner ready every night when they come home. The real difficulty boils down to the fact that the perfectly normal desire of any young wife to have a home of her own, and privacy for herself and husband, is completely frustrated.

Obviously, the girl is increasing her tension by reproaching herself for this absolutely natural desire. This she should not do. For no matter how much it may simplify the housekeeping routine to have a mother-in-law at the helm, it cannot possibly compensate for the emptiness and futility any wife feels who cannot look around the place where she lives and thing proudly and hopefully to herself: "This is our own home. Here we can do exactly as we like.

Moreover, by keeping her frustration, her rebellion and her longings entirely to herself, she has only complicated her situation. Having reached such a state of nerves that she went to pieces and couldn't stop crying when her husband startled her by playfully patting her arm, it is high time she stopped doing violence to her emotions. Sooner or later she will not be able to conceal her true feelings any longer and the explosion she has so far avoided my occur suddenly and without warning precipitating shock and distress all around.

For this reason, I think it highly important that she confide in her husband at once. Surely if he loves her, he should be able to understand. Then I think it is up to him to take upon himself the responsibility of the decision to change their mode of living and find a place of their own.

In other words, I think it would be a great mistake if he went to his mother and told her that his wife wanted to make the change. He should be man enough to hold his wife from his mother's possible resentment by saying that he has decided that it si time for them to be an independent family.

If there are financial considerations, it would seem that since both the husband and wife are working, they should be able to make some arrangement through which they could contribute to help his mother. Even though this responsibility made it impossible for them to have as comfortable a place for themselves as they could otherwise afford, or as they had when living in his mother's home, even a one-room apartment that would be all their own would be a happy solution.

If the wife is completely unable to bring herself to tell her husband how she feels, however, there is one other thing she might do. Since, by her own admission, she is in a bad state of nerves, she might go to her doctor and tell him the whole story; then let him deal diplomatically with the husband.

But one thing or the other she should certainly do, and quickly.

GOOD MANNERS

Problem of bride's parents . . .
A difficult groom-to-be

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister is being married in six weeks. Due to financial circumstances my parents are not able to give her a large, expensive wedding, but they would like to at least give her a small reception for the families and close friends of both families. In order to help cut down expenses, I the married sister, have made the bridal gown, the attendants dresses, hats and so forth, the shower favors and decorations. Despite our efforts to give her a nice wedding, the prospective groom is being difficult very difficult. At first he said he refused to have a reception, as he didn't want to share the expenses, but since this was his right, we did not press him. My mother is willing to shoulder all expenses (how, I can't guess!), but the groom-to-be wishes to invite all the "friends" he pleases, and not only his, but his brothers' friends also! Please tell me the proper procedure concerning the wedding invitations. Who handles them? What are the limits as to guests in so far as the groom's friends are concerned? May we not limit his list to the members of his family and close family friends? The groom boasts of having quite a good deal of money in the bank, and consequently states that he is looking for himself and does not care what people say. My sister has to uphold everything he says, for if she doesn't, he threatens her with no marriage. My parents will abide by what you say, and they are so anxious to do the right thing.—M. N.

My advice is that your mother and father decide, definitely and practically, their budget for your sister's wedding. Then they, as hosts of the wedding, should decide how that amount is to be allocated, to the satisfaction, if possible, of all concerned — particularly (if possible!) the prospective groom. Since you, bless your loving heart, have so generously helped to cut down the bride's expenses, and since church expenses are comparatively small and can easily be reduced (no flowers except a few white flowers on the altar, only organ music, and no unnecessary extras) there could correctly be quite a large church wedding, and a very small reception, preferably, if possible, at the bride's home. The invitations to the church ceremony needn't be formal, engraved ones; guests may be invited by word of mouth, by telephone, or by cordial little notes written by your mother.

To the church ceremony all the guests the two families wish to invite (considering the size of the church) can be invited. Then to the reception, the number of guests the budget can provide for; a certain number of your family's relatives and intimate friends, and the same number of the groom's family's relatives and intimate friends. The only items necessary to serve at the reception are: (1) a cold drink, perhaps fruit punch, with which to drink the toasts to the bride and groom; and (2) the wedding cake. All these plans are correct, dignified, as inexpensive as possible and still in good taste, and fair to all concerned — even to the "difficult" groom!

When fiance's mother is dead

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance's mother is dead, and he has a stepmother. In wording the engagement-announcement we are sending to the newspapers, should we say, "son of Mr. Arthur Johnson and the late Mrs. Johnson", or "son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson" (naming his stepmother)?

D. L.

Booklet Answers Family Problems

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 20 (CP)—What to do if Junior swallows a safety-pin, or dad gets into debt? Mother may find an answer in "You and Your Family."

In effect the 50-page health department publication is a book-of-all-sorts.

Concretely written and brightly illustrated, it traces the baby boom system from its beginning with the registration of the newborn infant through to the child of 16 who no longer is eligible for the allowance.

It does more than that.

The pitfalls open to the family with the "keeping-up-with-the-Joneses" complex is revealed. Remedies are suggested. How to cope with chatterpreous teen-agers is dealt with in another chapter. Then there is the adolescent daughter who is constantly bickering with her mother, this is to be expected," says the book. "Friction between mother and daughter at that age is natural and normal."

It suggests the only thing to do, whether with a daughter or adolescent son, is to use patience. It is important to remember that everyone has problems with children.

In her buying the housewife can learn that in all merchandise some inexpensive lines are well made, while others, though they look attractive, contain poor workmanship.

She should buy a washable hand dress not simply because it is "cute," but because it isn't skimpy, has good seams and good buttons. A child's smock may look attractive in pale blue or yellow, but a darker color will not show the dirt so easily. A colored patterned bath towel may look pretty, but it also may be of inferior quality.

A small jar of cold cream or ointment may cost more per ounce than a large jar.

The bride should not let herself be influenced by advertising and she should keep away from bargain-counters — unless she knows the regular price of the article and recognizes the quality of the articles for sale. If she does buy it shouldn't be because the article is a bargain, but because it is something the family really needs.

Many a young mother may find the most valued information lies in the half-dozen pages of the book to which she can turn quickly for information in case of accidents in the house.

Listed are directions for what to do if a young child chokes on an object, has convulsions or croup. Antidotes are given for various poisons as well as first-aid treatment for burns, broken limbs and cuts.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Pouches under the eyes

No joy is in the heart of a woman who looks in a mirror and sees little hammocks under her eyes. She may have lovely hair, a fair complexion and good features, but these blessings mean little or nothing to her if the tissues beneath her eyes are swollen.

If the pouches come and go she must seek the cause and remove it.

If she has always had themif they never disappear—she can blame some ancestor; they are a family inheritance. They may not be evidence of ill health, as some individuals fancy.

The come-and-go type may be due to loss of sleep, fatigue or nervous tension; hence the need of planning a well-organized life, laying down certain health laws, sticking to them. Digestive disturbances may produce this condition. It is wise to drink plenty of water and fruit juices; they act favorably upon the functions of the kidneys and intestinal tract. If possible, divide the twenty-four hours into three parts —eight hours of work, eight hours of sleep, eight hours of play.

Tension is the bane of many individuals. Life is too deliberate, activities tape strenuous. Relaxation and outdoor sports will cure a lot of things that may ail you, and some of your beauty aids as well.

If you have had a hard, rushing day, feel all played out; if the merry evening is ahead of you, and you notice those horrid pouches, here is what you should do. The plan works and is worth trying.

Bathe your eyes with warm water. Wring a heavy washcloth out of fairly hot water, place over the eyes. Lie down for fifteen or twenty minutes and go limp as a rag. Complete relaxation will pick 'you up and you on your feet again. Rest your mind. Think of pleasant places, happy moments. Catch a few winks of sleep, if you can.

Dip the washcloth in ice cold water, wring it fairly dry, and place it over your eyes. The change from hot to cold will cause swollen tissues to shrink; the cold application acts as an astringent. Change the cloth several times. Dry the flesh gently.

Dip your finger in a heavy massage cream. You are going to mold those hammocks, deflate them. Placing the finger on the eyelid close to the nose, sweep

SHANNONVILLE W.A.

Shannonville — The monthly meeting of the Shannonville W. A. was held at the home of Mrs William Houston on Thursday last with 19 members present.

Mrs. Elliott, president, gave a few words of welcome to the members. Mrs. Kenneth Vivian, 1st vice president, took the meeting.

Mrs. Vivian gave a reading, "Easter Power," Mrs. Robert MacFarlane, group leader, took the devotional. Mrs. MacFarlane read the lesson study from "Faith in the Risen Lord" and Mrs. Claude Clarke read the scripture. There were several readings and Miss Bernice Houston sang a solo, "The Old Rugged Cross." Mrs. Scott gave a reading, and Mrs. Vivian took over the business. Several ladies leave thanks for cards and fruit they had received. Mrs. Ross Shetler read two letters, one from the Dominion W.A. convener, and one from the Bay of Quinte Conference, in connection with the 25th anniversary of the church union. It was decided to give flowers to the church members who have reached the age of 90 or over.

A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Wescott for donating the cards to Miss Eckardt. Mrs. Clarke was asked to interview Mr. Mrs. Scott serving lunch at the Community Auction.

It was also decided to buy two gowns, one for the pianist and one for the minister.

Will Reply to Protests

2. Justice Minister Garson told Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) the government within the next day or two will give a point-by-point reply to protests from the Brokers-Dealers Association against denial of the mails to some Toronto stock brokerage houses for alleged violations of the law in stock promotion.

3. Approval was given to establishment of a House committee to study activities of the National Research Council after Trade Minister Howe indicated that Canada's study of the effects of extreme winter weather, linked with development of the north, is being extended to housing. He said a "large laboratory facility" is being built at Ottawa for that purpose.

4. The government introduced a bill to consolidate defence legislation in one act that comprises the largest single bill to confront the House in more than 15 years.

5. Two Saskatchewan members — Rose Thatcher (CCF-Moose Jaw) and A. C. Stewart (Liberal-Yorkton)—gave divided opinions about a private bill by Mr. Thatcher for abolition of hanging as punishment for murder. Mr. Thatcher said hanging violates every Christian principle. Mr. Stewart said it is a necessary deterrent for protection of the innocent.

Two repeated subjects of discussion in the elections debate were the single transferable vote and the result in the Nova Scotia riding of Annapolis-Kings in last year's general election. A new vote has been ordered in the N.S. riding because of troubles over the services vote at the Greenwood air force base.

Wants Transferable Vote

John Diefenbaker (PC — Lake Centre) started a general outcry for study of the transferable vote under which the voter may denote second, third and further choices for use until a clear majority for one candidate is established. He said 105 of 265 members elected in 1949 won on minority votes.

He also found echoes in his statement of surprise that no amendments were planned to prevent repetition of the Annapolis - Kings incident where 134 servicemen voted in that riding wrongly.

Defence Minister Claxton said the improper votes arose from "misunderstanding" rooted in a complicated situation.

Mr. Diefenbaker and M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader, argued that a special commission of officials should be named to handle the redistribution of Commons seats every 10 years. This would take it out of the hands of the Commons and remove the dangers of "political considerations and personal bias."

Mr. Coldwell suggested greater adherence to establishment of federal constituencies on a more equitable population basis. He said Saskatchewan's ridings now were fairly well distributed on population but in Ontario there was one riding, Glengarry, with less than 20,000 people and others with more than 80,000.

CONSERVATIVES

In his speech, Mr. Drew paid tribute to the new officials and to the persons they replaced. He also paid tribute to John Bracken, former leader of the party, who with Mrs. Bracken attended the dinner meeting.

Must Cover Every Part

Mr. Drew said the party must see that the problems of every part of the community are dealt with in the platform.

One of the basic issues today was whether control over the affairs of the nation today should be returned to the representatives of the people in parliament. He charged the present government with "much of some existing laws and with disregard for parliament.

A government was getting on dangerous ground when it said it had no authority from parliament to do something, but what it had done was right anyway. The present government had done just that in withholding the report of an alleged price-fixing combine had done it again recently when in the flour-milling industry. If the Post Office set itself up as a court and banned use of the mails to some investment firms.

He called for development of natural resources to wipe out unemployment and to make it possible for Canada to increase her population. New markets were needed for Canada's products and saner international economic policies were necessary.

Healing Restored to Christianity

Through the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the lost element of spiritual healing is restored for all mankind. The study of the Bible in the new, spiritual light of this book has lifted countless thousands from sickness to health, and from failure to success. Such experience is equally available for all.

Dominion Faces Genuine Dilemma To Work Out Plan

Ottawa, April 19. (CP)—The Dominion faces a "genuine dilemma" in working out a new old-age pensions scheme, the Parliamentary Old-Age Security Committee was told Tuesday.

Dr. G. F. Davidson, deputy Welfare Minister, expressed this view when some members questioned him on "discrimination" under the present pensions plan administered by the provinces under general federal legislation.

F. D. Shaw (SC—Red Deer) and Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglington) suggested there was discrimination in varying administrative practices under the "means test" of determining eligibility for pensions.

Asked by Mr. Fleming if abolition of the means test would not reduce the area of discrimination, Dr. Davidson said that depended on the kind of scheme that might be introduced following the committee's recommendations.

There might be discrimination under a scheme of equal payments for everyone, since those with differing living costs would get the same amounts.

On the other hand, the deputy minister said, the "appearance of inequity" might be credied if regional differentials were established.

"You face a genuine dilemma there," he added. "This is one of the key questions which the committee will have to determine."

The committee at the time was discussing variations in means test procedure in the different provinces. Dr. Davidson said the provinces had considerable latitude in making regulations within the federal law in this respect.

Dr. Davidson presented tables showing variations in pensions procedure and payments in different problems. The average pension for Canada at the end of 1949, they showed, was $37.19.

Parliament At a Glance

Justice Minister Garson promised to make a statement on denial of the mails to some Toronto stock brokers for alleged violation of the law.

The Commons voted 126 to 23 against a CCF motion criticizing the government for not re-imposing selective price controls.

Members discussed a motion to establish a committee to study amendments to the Dominion Elections Act.

Rose Thatcher (CCF-Moose Jaw) urged abolition of hanging as punishment for murder.

Wednesday:

The Commons will consider government legislation. The Senate will not sit.

FLYING BOAT TESTED

San Diego, Calif., April 19 — (AP) The world's first gas-jet turbine flying boat made its initial test flight here Tuesday. It was in the air 30 minutes.

Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation said the 60-ton craft, built for the United States Navy and designated P5Y-1, is the fastest flying boat ever built. Its top speed was given as 350 miles an hour.

The Body in the Ravine

By Lloyd Carr

"You're darned right," Greg replied. "They almost lost their shirts. But Mort was smart and tried to keep the front of acting as Emery Thurman's attorney in the deal, and to protect himself he took a mortgage on the lodge. That's how he got his hold on the place."

Diane was jilting on the edge of the couch at the far side of the room all this time. When Tim seemed slow to draw a conclusion she interposed, "don't you suppose maybe Jake Carson put up some money, too—if he was involved at all—and didn't have a mortgage or any kind of protection?" She seemed a little embarrassed after pushing into the conversation, but Tim snapped up the possibility.

"Sure!" he said. "That could be it. He lost his shirt and had nothing to fall back on. Emery Thurman at least knew he'd tried to cut the throat of the man he hated, so the loss would le tough but not a complete washout. At least he took a crack at Enright. And Taylor had his mortgage." Then he scowled darkly. "But Carson has a part interest now, you say," he said to Greg.

"I only guessed about that, Greg replied. "And they seem to be good friends. I can't imagine they'd be very close if Mort led Carson into losing all his dough and never gave him anything to square it."

There was a fairly long silence then each one of them thinking his own thoughts. And at last Tim got up and stretched his legs, walked across to the table and picked up a cigaret and lighted it, slowly, as if it were job that called for detailed consideration.

"Bruce Thurman certainly was not one to go around winning himself friends, was he?" he said with a grin. "Seems like the darndest thing for a kid to do—get Mitt and gun his father was trying to clean house and that things were about to happen. If he'd kept his mouth shut he might have inherited a fortune when his father died. And in any event he'd have been one of a wealthy family if the coup had worked out."

"Yes," Diane said, "and Bruce never struck me as the kind of gent that would look with tenderness upon anything much less upon the clumsiness of his mother and old Mr. Enright."

"How do you mean, Di?" Tim asked.

"Well I mean he probably would not have been prompted by a sense of honor or anything to go to his mother's devoted admirer and adviser and tell him that dirty work was afoot. From what I've seen of him I'd say he'd go out of his way to set the coup successful and the family fortune safely in."

Greg puffed furiously on his pipe while Diane was talking and Tim didn't fail to notice the fact. When Diane finished Tim turned to Greg.

"There's something you don't want me to find out, Greg," he said, "but I wish to the very devil you'd loosen up. Regard me for just a moment as the old family lawyer, or something, and up me off. This thing is going to break over everybody's head so hard it's knock us all silly unless the real facts are dug up. There are going to be a lot of country constables and sheriffs mixed up in the thing and if there's anything innocent and worth hiding it better not come under their hobnailed shoes."

Greg continued to puff at his pipe and stare into the fire place. At last he nodded as if he had just come to his decision. And without looking up, he said, "You tell him, Di."

Diane laughed and jumped up. She crossed the room with a couple of light skips and ruffed Greg's hair. "You old mossback," she said, "You'd think it was the duty of my murdering my grandmother or something." She turned to Tim, her dark eyes dancing with the thrill of what she was about to say.

"The first time I came up here to the lodge," she said, "was before I met Greg. Bruce was here and he was about my own age and we used to go out together. He got real serious and used to call me when we got back to Chicago, and I used to see him fairly often."

She shot Greg a laughing glance before she continued. "The first time Greg and Bruce met they had a fight. A real fight I mean. And Greg got the worst of it, although he always says that he was embarrassed and didn't want to carry it on any longer. After all, it was right in my apartment! So Bruce packed himself off that night and while I was putting adhesive tape on Greg's chin and holding a beefsteak over his eye I fell in love with him."

"Sure," Diane replied. "I didn't tell Greg anything about who owned the lodge and for the first few summers Bruce wasn't up here so Greg didn't mind after he'd found what a swell place it was."

"Lord!" Tim rubbed the palm of his hand across his forehead. "I'm certainly glad you told me that," he said. "What a thing to have had wrong on me when I wasn't prepared for it."

Greg raised one eyebrow and looked up at Tim. "What do you mean by that?"

"You'll find out, Greg," Tim said. "You'll find out pretty soon, if I'm not mistaken. But for the time being I'm going to ask you to be patient. It's a dirty trick getting all this dope out of you and giving nothing in return, but I'm pretty sure it's the best way."

"You certainly are one for keeping up the suspense," Greg said, holstering himself out of his chair, "How about a drink before dinner?"

Tim didn't appear to hear the question, but Diane nodded enthusiastically. "Swell darling," she said, "and let me while I relax in my new sense of security. I have Tim even going to find that out sooner or later — and think how terrible it would have been if he'd found out from someone else! Why, he'd have had the most terrible suspicions of me. Wouldn't you, Tim?"

"Hmmm? Oh, Oh, yes, I should say," Tim replied absently.

A few minutes before Greg and Diane had finished their drinks, Tim, having polished off the last of his, rose and said he'd meet them in the living room. Then he went out of the house and around to the back.

Walking down the path toward the shed, Tim passed as close as he could to the edge of the ravine and walked slowly so he could see the spot where Bruce Thurman's body had lain when he first saw it. But all he could see was the big pile of brush, thick with ferns and sprigs of green pine needles and balsam. He wanted to stop and peer more closely, but he was directly behind the Taylor cottage and was afraid of being seen.

As he approached the shed, however, he found that he had been seen anyway. By Sid, the hired man, who stood at the corner of the shed in a position where he'd have been able to see Tim almost the time he left Greg's cottage.

"Howdy," Tim said quietly preparing to pass on by the man toward the lodge.

"Howdy yourself," said Sid, looking at Tim with narrowed eyes and a kind of evening grin. "How much yuh gonna pay me fer that favor I done yuh?"

Tim stopped and stared at the man, taking in his shabby clothes and thick features and little beady narrow eyes. "What's that?" he said, narrowing his own eyes and looking at Sid with his head turned slightly, skeptically.

"You heard me," Sid replied flatly. "Yuh think I done it fer nuttin'?"

"Oh," Tim said, nodding. He pointed a thumb over his shoulder toward the ravine. "I get you. Well, how much do you want?"

"So yuh did do it! I knew it—I seen your footprints!"

With surprising agility the little hired man stepped close to Tim and seized his wrist. His hard little face squeezed up now with an almost fanatical cunning as he thrust it up close to Tim's. "Well, it's okay wit' me, see! I'll a done it myself if it wasn't fer Mrs. Thurman. I'll put him in where they'll never find him—not in a million years!"

Tim could smell stale liquor on the man but he fought the inclination to pull back, instead he met Sid's mean little eyes and tried to read what was in them. He knew the fellow was subnormal mentally and he decided to try to share this thing with him, whatever it was making him so courageous and so bold in his admission of what he'd done.

"Where'd you put him Sid?" he said, feigning desperate interest.

"In the lake," Sid replied, his eyes darting toward the shore. "That was right. That was the place—you know!"

Tim didn't know but he nodded vigorously because it was obvious that he should know. And not until he had slipped Sid a $1 bill and gotten halfway to the lodge did he recall the only connection he'd heard of between the Thurmans and the lake as a final resting place. Just last Summer Emery Thurman had drowned in Lake Pokeno.

As he stepped into the lounge, still completely absorbed with the implications of this last thought, he saw Jean Radcliffe sitting by herself near the fireplace. He walked over and dropped into the chair next to hers.

"What are you doing down here all by yourself?" he asked offering her a cigaret from his pack.

"Avoiding one of the Carsons' everlasting quarrelling bouts," Jean said frankly. "I wish to heck Lee had stayed. She's the only one of the whole crowd that seems to have the sense she was born with." Then she laughed and shrugged her shoulders. "Sorry Tim," she said. "I shouldn't always be dragging the dirty linen from our cottage in front of everybody."

Tim was a little embarrassed and he tried to look away and act very much at ease. But he couldn't. Jean was too good-looking and his gaze kept wandering back to her soft white throat and to the deep, Mediterranean blue of her eyes. He'd never seen a nose quite as straight and pretty, or lips that were quite so exactly the kind of lips he liked in a woman. He even wanted to get onto the subject of how beautiful she was, but his better judgement rescued Jim in time. Anyway, he had a murder to solve.

"Has Grace heard any more about her son?" he asked hypocritically. He couldn't look at Jean when he asked the question so he let his eyes wander over the gray stones in the fireplace.

"No, I don't believe so," Jean replied soberly. "But if he's off on one of his binges that isn't to be expected. He'll probably turn up in a week or so."

"Where is Grace now?"

"Mort drove her down to where they found Bruce's car. I don't think they've returned yet. I wish they would. I'm getting hungry."

Tim was straining himself trying to think of a way to enlist Jean Radcliffe's help in his self-appointed office of detective and at last he hit upon a crude but perhaps feasible plane.

"Do you ever read detective stories, Jean?" he asked, concealing the seriousness of his question behind an easy grin.

"I love 'em," Jean replied. "Do you have a good one?"

"Maybe so," Tim said trying to intill a provocative note in his words. "I think I have a very good one."

Jean looked at him, a little bit puzzled. "You think so?"

"Um-hmmm. Let me put it this way: Suppose instead of reading a story you had a chance to do the things that the heroine always does. You know; digging up clues for herself and being very shrewd and clever in deducing things from them. Would you go for that—playing the part yourself, I mean?"

Jean laughed a deep throaty laugh that made Tim's heart skip a beat. She really had a wonderful laugh. "Why, sure I would," she said. "It certainly would beat fishing all hollow."

"Okay," said Tim. "Starting right now you're a detective."

"Do you have any old clues?"

Member Told To Read Act

Ottawa, April 19 —(CP)—After asking the question several times, G. K. Fraser (PC-Peterborough West) Monday in the Commons finally got an answer to whether the government is actually applying anti-dumping laws against Japanese goods.

Directing his question first to Trade Minister Howe, Mr. Fraser was told that Mr. Howe did not administer "dumping".

Redirecting his question to Revenue Minister McCann, Mr. Fraser was told that the government has applied the act on Japanese goods.

Asked whether the law was applied in relation to "fair" Canadian prices or Japanese prices, Finance Minister Abbott replied tersely:

"Read the act".

TOP OFFICIALS STUDY FRONT OF COLD WAR

Expected Russia Will Turn Down Demands

Washington, April 19 (AP) — The possibility of further Soviet-American clashes along the uneasy front of the cold war in Europe is being carefully studied by top officials here.

They are also deeply concerned, it was learned today, about the reasons why the Russians allegedly shot down a United States naval plane in the Baltic sea area April 8. They have demanded that they may be let get—Soviet assurances that no such thing will happen again.

The demand was first put into a note of protest delivered to Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky in Moscow Tuesday by American ambassador Alan G. Kirk.

What the United States will do next if the Russians turn down these demands, it may be expected to do, is the nub of the problem before the state and defence departments at the White House. In a sense American policy decisions will depend on estimates of why the shooting incident occurred at all.

Trying to Close Baltic

Several possibilities are the subject of speculation in official circles here. One is that the Soviet government has determined to try to close the Baltic, a key Russian defence area on its eastern shores, to American flights and has resorted to an act of terror to accomplish this end.

Another possibility is that the Russians sent out fighters to investigate the American plane even though it was over international waters and that one of the fighter pilots fired in a trigger-happy moment. A third possibility is that the Russian fighters were under orders to force the plane to land in the hope of thereby capturing whatever secret American equipment, if any, might be aboard.

The next American moves are based on the assumption that the United States is up against a new and tougher development of anti-American policy on the part of the Soviet Union. As far as flights of American planes are concerned, the U.S. tentatively may decide to stop them as a result of the shooting pending further incidents or to arm the planes so they may defend themselves if attacked.

Labor Government Begins Grim Duel to Get its New Budget Through the Commons

London, April 19 (AP)— The government today began its grim duel to get the new budget through a House of Commons where labor has only an overall majority of four votes.

The budget for the fiscal year beginning April 1 was announced Tuesday in the Commons by Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer. It made minor concessions to Britain's 22,250,000 wage-earners while increasing taxation by £1,800,000 ($5,580,000) a year.

Debate on the budget started today, with Richard Butler due to speak first for the Conservatives. It will last through Monday.

The Conservatives are likely to challenge the "as you were" budget as totally inadequate to Britain's present needs.

Conservative Leader Winston Churchill and his "shadow cabinet" met last night and planned the broad lines of the Conservative attack on the government.

Sir Stafford was due this morning to answer critics in his own party at a private Labor Parliamentary meeting. Some Labor members would have liked to have seen a popular budget, more with an eye to the next general election which has been widely predicted due next fall.

Life Still In Danger

If the government survives the critical debates of the coming few days, its life still will be in danger when the Commons gets down to detailed study of the Chancellor's proposals. Defeat of any one of them could bring the government crashing down.

Sir Stafford granted small income tax concessions to workers in the lower-income group which will save them up to £11 5s ($34.85) a year.

But he doubled the tax on gasoline which sent the fuel to its highest price in Britain in almost 30 years—3s (45 cents) a gallon.

In explaining the budget in a broadcast to the country last night, Sir Stafford said it is "much pleasanter to be a father Christmas than a Scrooge." However, for the good of the country taxes could not be drastically cut at this time.

Take Gloomy View

Industrial leaders took a generally gloomy view of the budget.

Except for the pro-Labor Daily Herald, London morning newspapers had hardly a good word to say for the budget.

The Herald called it "wise and just" and said:

"It continues the policy by which the government is leading the nation to economic recovery and independence."

The Conservative Daily Telegraph said the budget was "wholly inadequate to a situation in which to put off the evil day is only to enhance the evil that threatens."

Not Unlawful to be Drug Addict But Offence to be in Possession Of Narcotics Without a Licence

By MEL SUFRIN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 19 (CP)— It's not unlawful to be a drug addict in Canada, it is an offence, however, to be in possession of narcotics without a licence.

This legal paradox is one of the things that makes the job of police so difficult in attempting to stamp out drug addiction.

In the larger Canadian cities where the problem is centred, police inevitably get to know dozens of addicts. But these persons may go about freely for months before they are caught with drugs in their possession.

Police are well trained in methods of recognizing possible addicts. Police know that a chronic opium addict is usually a pale, emaciated, malnourished individual. They also know that deep pinpoint scars on the arm or other parts of the body often indicate that drugs have been taken by hypodermic needle.

A report on drug addiction in Canada, written by Gordon H. Josie and published last year by the Federal Health Department, tells something about addicts.

Mortality Rate High

He quotes authorities as saying the mortality rate among addicts is high in comparison with the general population. This is due in part to the fact that addicts are diseased when they contract the drug habit, and also because narcotics lower general vitality.

Lawrence Kolb, an authority on drug addiction, describes the effects of narcotics on personality and character in these words:

"The secrecy of the habit, the practice of evading issues and of solving difficulties by blotting them out through use of narcotics the parasite lives that a) many addicts are compelled to live, the conflict with the law; the poverty and malnutrition that result from the spending of so much money to secure needed narcotics in the illegitimate market tend to bring about physical and moral deterioration."

Opportunity One Way

There are various ways in which a person can become addicted. Opportunity is one, applying especially to persons working in hospitals where drugs are handy. Another is the injudicious use of drugs in medical treatment. Others include curiosity and thrill-seeking.

From various statistics on criminal addicts arrested in Canada in the last 15 years, it might be possible to roughly describe the typical addict in this country.

He would be a man, probably ranging between 25 and 35 years of age, likely married, living in a city and Canadian born. His job is probably either that of a laborer, or in domestic services, commercial, manufacturing or construction work. He probably did not get past elementary school.

From figures on convictions, it might of assumed that about 80 percent of the 3,500 known criminal addicts in Canada are male.

About 31 percent of the male addicts and 45 percent of the female addicts are in the 25 to 35-year class. About six percent of male offenders and 19 percent of the girls are 25 or under.

Indian Chiefs Listen Silently As Union Head Offers Support In Claims Against Government

Brantford, April 19—(CP)—The Six Nation Indian Chieftains sat impassively in their longhouse while their hereditary Tuesday. But, this time they listened to a white man.

Garbed in feathers and buckskin—and in suits and overalls—the Chiefs listened intently as George Burt, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) offered support of 400,000 white men in the Indian's fight for treaty rights.

Indian Braves, their women and children, watched curiously as the short, stocky union leader strode to the middle of the longhouse floor and faced the stern-faced Chiefs.

It was the first time in 28 years that the Six Nations hereditary Chiefs had met in their own council room to pow-wow with a white man. They listened, and when Burt was through, they murmured in their native tongue—and declined to give an immediate decision.

Burt said the union with its wrapped membership of 400,000 of them in Canada — is ready, and waiting, to assist all minority groups, including Indians on both sides of the border. The Six Nation reserve numbers about 5,500.

Speaks Through Interpreter

He continued, speaking through an interpreter:

"My race is responsible for breaking more promises to Indians than any other . . . We are used to broken promises. As a minority, you perhaps could handle your problems yourself if given a chance. But, you won't get that chance alone.

"Our union has made this decision. We have set up the machinery to carry it out. We do not ask you to join forces with us by becoming members. We do ask that you permit us to join our large majority to your small minority and be your voice."

Then an Onondaga, John Hensaw, said: "It is time the Six Nations united. Let us speak with one heart and one mind."

The speakers were through, but nobody applauded. There was a brief silence and the Chiefs began talking in their native tongues—Onondaga, Cayuga, Mohawk, Seneca, Oneida. The sixth tribe, the Tuscaroras—were not represented.

An interpreter told Burt that the Chieftains will hold another meeting in a month. Meantime, the Indians may decide whether or not to accept the union support.

Earlier Claims Of Success Not Too Rosy

By SPENCER MOOSA

Taipei, Formosa, April 19 — (AP) — Chinese Nationalists today abruptly choked off their first smashing claims of success in smashing the red invaders of Hainan Island.

The Nationalists said Monday about 8,000 Chinese communists had planted to beachheads on the vital island, 10 miles off Luichow peninsula;

They announced jubilantly their forces had killed 2,000 reds, captured about 3,000 and were smashing the remnants Tuesday. Today they said nothing. The silence could be ominous.

Officially, it was said Chen came to ask the Nationalist high command for instructions. Chen was reported as saying the invaders were "well contained" and Nationalist morale was high.

But reports circulated that the Nationalists' earlier claims of success were too rosy.

These unofficial reports said the reds were entrenched firmly along an 18-mile stretch of coast and at some points had penetrated four or five miles inland.

If this is true, the Chinese communists might be in a position to pour reinforcements across the narrow Hainan trait.

There was a feeling here that the reds would risk staggering losses to do so. The Nationalists control the air and sea around Hainan.

An official spokesman said the communists had not landed reinforcements. Nationalist warplanes were reported pounding the Luichow peninsula, seeking out any concentration of red troops and craft preparing to move against Hainan.

Fears Too Much Man-Made Rain To Wreck Farming

Las Vegas, Nev., April 19—(AP) —Too much man-made rain may "wreck the agriculture of the entire U.S.," Dr. Irving P. Langmuir, Schenectady, N.Y., scientist, told the annual western snow conference Tuesday. He said that uncontrolled rabbit conditions could be over-seeded with silver iodine and dry ice might yield more rain than needed — even cause floods.

FEAR FOUR BOYS CARRIED AWAY BY CURRENT

R.C.A.F. Start Series of Flights Deep Into Arctic

Whitehorse, Y.T., April 19 — (CP)—The R.C.A.F. has launched a series of long-distance navigational flights deep into the Arctic to provide practical experience for navigators in operational flying over the north part of the world.

The flights into the strategic polar area, which began Tuesday, are being made in two converted Lancaster bombers out of the Whitehorse air base, 1,100 miles northwest of Edmonton. Some trips will carry crews to the rim of the polar ice cap. If weather permits, one flight may go over the North Pole.

The planes are from the R.C.A.F.'s air navigation school at Summerside, P.E.I., and the operation is the climax of an intensive 30-week course for eight men, directed by Sqdn. Ldr. W. L. Gillespie of Ottawa.

Ranging as far east as Greenland, the planes will cover an estimated 26,000 miles before returning to their home base at Summerside, via Frobisher Inlet, Baffin Bay and Labrador.

Besides giving practical training, the flights will be used to test new navigational instruments, including two periscopic sextants never before used by the R.C.A.F. These permit sextant readings to be taken from inside an aircraft and eliminate the need for fragile and speed-reducing blistery jutting from the planes fuselage.

Bomb Slightly Wounds US Guard In Damascus

Damascus, Syria, April 19 (AP) — A bomb tossed into the American legation compound Tuesday night slightly wounded a United States Marine guard and shattered windows and doors of the building.

The bombing apparently was the latest expression of growing anti-American and anti-British sentiment here as a result of tension between the Arab States and Israel.

No arrests were made immediately by police.

The bomb incident came a month after hand grenades were thrown at the British legations here and in Beyrouth, Lebanon.

Anti-American and anti-British feeling has risen recently because of the belief in some Arab quarters that the U.S. and Britain are favoring Israel over the Arabs.

Girl Receives Snake Instead of Posies

Windsor, Ont., April 19 (CP)— Posies proved out of date as bearers of lovers' greetings. A Windsor father complained to police that his daughter had been sent a wriggling garter snake, wrapped in a pretty decorated cardboard box. The father said he suspected a former boy friend, who had been ordered to stay away, as the donor of the gift. The rejected suitor claimed the snake was not his idea.

George Beckett, Union Organizer, Found Guilty of Common Assault

Trenton. (Special.)—A.F.L. organizer George V. Beckett was found guilty of common assault by Magistrate J. L. Lloyd in police court Monday. After a very lengthy trial, Beckett was sentenced to pay $43.50 including costs or spend 15 days in jail for assaulting Samuel Mowbray, assistant manager of Downs Coulter Co.

The evidence of police sergeant Barney McColl was the deciding factor in Beckett's case. McColl testified that he was one of the first officers to reach the side door of the plant through which the returning workers were to enter.

"Beckett was standing beside Mowbray with his hands raised and appeared ready to strike him," said Sgt. McColl. I attempted to hold Beckett back but it was then that he either fell or was pushed to the ground." Beckett was then handcuffed and turned over to Constables Bradshaw and Steenburg, who took him to the police station in Wm. Ireland's car as the police cruiser was unavailable said Sgt. McColl.

Swung at His Chin

Samuel Mowbray testified that Beckett swung at him with his right hand but missed. He then grabbed Beckett's left hand just as Beckett was knocked down and led away said Mr. Mowbray.

Alex Wilson, a designer in the plant said that Beckett was pushing people around and "making a general nuisance of himself." He said however that he did not see Beckett actually strike Mowbray but that he saw Beckett's hands raised in a striking position.

Beryl Evans, a mender at the plant, and Jack Bennett, a plant foreman, also testified that Beckett's hands were raised but that he did not strike Mowbray.

Testifies in Own Behalf

Testifying on his own behalf Mr. Beckett said that throughout the entire affair his left hand remained in his overcoat pocket. Beckett said "I was trying to make my way from one side of the procession to the other. As I passed Mowbray, he grabbed my right arm and called me a constable. The only time my right hand was raised was when I tried to shake off Mowbray's grip."

Eric Pomeroy and Mildred Charlton both witnesses for the defence testified that after they did they see Beckett's hands were in his pockets. They also corroborated Beckett's statement that Mowbray grabbed Beckett's wrist and called for a constable.

Lawyer for the defence, Ramsay Park asked that the charge be dismissed because of the inconsistency in the evidence given by the Crown.

Magistrate Lloyd said that although the defendant was justified in using all the strategy he knew to win his point for his fellow workers he felt that to walk through the crowd with his hands in his pockets and elbows working was just a neat way of assaulting everybody. There is a good deal of contradiction on both sides", said Magistrate Lloyd, "but despite this we have the very strong evidence given by Police Sergeant McColl and I find on his testimony that I find the defendant guilty as charged."

Bodily Harm Case Dismissed

Mary Gray, a picketer in the Downs Coulter strike, was found not guilty and her case was dismissed by Magistrate Lloyd. Miss Gray was charged with causing bodily harm to the person of Miss Effie Willman, a forelady in the plant.

Miss Willman testified that she saw Mary bothering one of the other returning workers. "I reached up and pulled her away, but she turned around and struck me with her fist", said Miss Willman.

Pulled by Hair

"How did you pull her away?" asked defence Attorney Park.

"By the hair," answered Miss Willman.

Mary Gray testified in her own defence that Miss Willman attempted to hit her. "She just missed me by an inch," said Miss Gray, "So I hit her right back."

Magistrate Lloyd said, "I imagine that Miss Gray could see everything she had been striking for slipping away as she saw the other girls go into the plant to work. I also feel that if Miss Willman deemed it necessary to take action against Mary she should be prepared to suffer the consequences. I wish to commend them both for being so truthful and I dismiss the charge."

Found Guilty of Obstructing Police

Found guilty of obstructing Police Officer Gordon Steenburg in the course of his duty, Russell Forbes was sentenced to pay $64.00 including costs or spend one month in jail.

Steenburg testified that he was escorting the workers back to resume their employment when, as they were about to enter the plant, he saw Forbes make a rush at the procession. "As he ran past, I grabbed him around the waist and pushed him back from the workers," said Constable Steenburg. Steenburg added that as he turned around he saw Forbes coming at straight at him with his hands raised. "I once more pushed him back to the sidewalk and told him to stay there," said Steenburg.

Mrs. Mary Waldron, a returning worker, testified that she saw Forbes strike the police policeman. She described Forbes as looking like a wildman.

Attempting to Join Line

Russell Forbes testified that he was not rushing at Steenburg neither was he attempting to obstruct the workers." I was only trying to join my picket line which was stationed at the door of the plant.

Magistrate Lloyd said that despite the fact that Forbes would returned veterans with a partially paralyzed leg he deemed it necessary to find him guilty as charged." I am also taking into consideration the tension which prevailed at that time amongst the picketers and the returning workers. However, Mr. Forbes must understand that it is a serious offence to resist an officer. I hope that Mr. Forbes will not try to make up for his sentence by causing any more disturbance."

Swearing Case Dismissed

The charge against Marilou Bird for causing a disturbance through shouting and swearing was dismissed by Magistrate Lloyd.

Chief Constable Jack Taylor testified that he was standing in front of the side door of the plant when he heard "the most awful swearing and use of obscene language." I thought maybe I should step in at once but when I turned around I saw several girls who had gone out entrance to the plant looking out of the windows and I could see then that Miss Bird was directing here verbal abuse at them," Chief Taylor set the time of the incident at 9.20 a.m.

Police Constable Jenson corroborated Chief Taylor's testimony and added that he could not quote the swearing as he said that if any swear word was chosen it would be one that she used.

Miss Bird testified that at no time that morning did she use the words described by Chief Taylor.

Nowhere Near Plant

"At the time mentioned by him I was nowhere near the plant. I left the plant at 9.10 with Val Bjaranson to go to a committee meeting and to prepare sandwiches for the picket line", said Miss Bird.

"Do you mean to say that Chief Taylor is not telling the truth?" said Crown Attorney Robertson.

"I didn't say that. I said that I didn't swear", said Miss Bird.

"In other words Chief Taylor told a falsehood under oath."

"I don't know, I didn't swear."

"Then Chief Taylor is a liar!"

No Disturbance

In summing up the case Magistrate Lloyd said, "The part I am most interested in is that Miss Bird is charged with causing a disturbance and despite the Chief's testimony that she swore the fact remains that no disturbance was caused. There are laws dealing with swearing in public but swearing does not necessarily cause a disturbance. This was a strike, everyone was keyed to the last notch, everyone was already disturbed, but her remarks showed no further reaction. The charge is dismissed.

Commenting on the entire trial covering the three picketers and their organizer, Magistrate Lloyd said, "I do not in any way encourage strikes, nor am I in complete sympathy with the company, but I hope that the defendants who have appeared before me today will consider that they have received a fair and just trial.

To Go On Daylight Saving Time

Mayor Kenneth Couch announced today a resolution adopted by the Town of Trenton to go on Daylight Saving Time beginning April 30th at 12.01 a.m.

He added that this would remain in effect until Sept. 24th. Council-Union Meeting Cancelled

The meeting between the town council and the A.F.L. textile union which was to be held Monday night in the municipal offices was called off Monday afternoon by the council.

In a letter addressed to George Beckett and signed by O. W. Larson, Town Clerk, the council stated that in their opinion, the subjects to be discussed did not come within the jurisdiction of the town council.

Refuses to Receive Help From Civil Rights Committee

Trenton (Special) — George Beckett AFL organizer, stated today that he had received assistance from the Canadian President of the Civil Rights Committee, asking him to form a delegation of the strikers in Trenton to attend the Civil Rights Conference which is being held next week.

According to Beckett the president stated that the committee would assist the striking Trenton union to the full extent in the alleged hidden microphone business and also to provide them with any information or assistance they should require.

Beckett added that he had accepted the offer and that a delegation of five from Trenton would attend the conference.

"Open House" at the Empire

Among other attractions calculated to be of interest to visitors at the Open house party on April 26, a demonstration will be featured by Mr. Hennessy Canning Company, packers of Vero Spaghetti & Meatballs. This is a new economical dish, easily prepared for quick luncheons, children's snacks or for a hot evening meal.

Cream of Barley, a product of the Thos. Hackney Milling Co., will also be demonstrated. Since no grain has higher nutritional value than barley, it is also extensively used for infant feeding as barley water, barley gruel and as a porridge style cereal. It is rich in vitamins, proteins, iron and salts, and is a real body builder. Many visitors will recognize it as an ol' stand-by from their own childhood days and will be interested in the demonstration of this popular and appealing cereal.

Another display which will find popular appeal is the display of Fennant brand Waffle, Table, and Maplebend syrups, attractively packaged with paten-lever caps. Visitors are invited to sample these syrups which are used not only for waffles and Pancakes, but also popularly on breakfast cereals, for infant feeding, delicious on French toast and hot buns, and as a dessert or a dessert topping. The Maplebend is featured in a popular 6 fluid oz. tin as well as the 2 Tb. glass. These syrups have the highest purity test and are backed by a double your money back guarantee.

Club des Millionnaire Norwegian Brisling Sardines, popularly advertised as "Fish-she is very small," will be another unusual display. These brisling sardines are fished from the cold depths of the Norwegian fjords and are not only delicately petite, but are firm, oil-packed and attractively packed. You are invited to see this demonstration and sample tasty morsels of Millionnaire Sardines on saline crackers.

Not Even 'Beer' Case Is Compensation For Stolen Bills

Baltimore, April 19 — (CP) Cab driver Andy Pulver picked up a passenger lugging a beer case last night.

At the first address, he paused before getting out to ask Pulver to change a $10 bill. Pulver counted out 10 ones and reached back to get the man's 10-spot.

His passenger grabbed the ones and fled. Before Pulver could recover, his party-seeking passenger had disappeared.

Then he thought of the beer case as possible compensation. It was filled with bricks.

Inaudible Sound Waves Remove Gallstones

Atlantic City, N.J., April 19 — (AP) — High frequency sound waves inaudible to the human ear can smash gallstones into small bits that could pass painlessly out of the body.

The sound waves treatment offers hope for removing gallstones — and perhaps kidney stones also — without surgery.

It was described today to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology by a team of three doctors. They are Drs. Harold Lamport of the Yale School of Medicine and Herbert F. Newman and Ralph Eichhorn of the Bridgeport Hospital in New York City.

Their work so far has been done only on anesthetized rabbits and a dog. They found that the beam of sound waves would break up gallstones in five to 60 seconds. In this time, the beam of sound didn't harm the living tissue around the stones.

The sound-wave operation on humans has been tried yet, the right equipment doesn't exist. But some is being developed.

Even Asks Wife To Support Horse

San Jose, Calif., April 19 — (AP) — On the eve of a divorce, Mrs. Maria Lightner told the judge, because she was tired of paying the fiddle to her piano-playing husband's horse.

The disillusioned wife, married to Dr. Samuel Lightner, only 32 days ago, told Judge Byrl R. Salsman her spouse was a talented pianist, but quoted him as saying:

"I'm passionately in love with my horse. I love that horse more than any human in the world."

Not only that, she added, he used her to support the horse.

Divorce granted.

FLEE TO STREETS FROM FIRE

Toronto, April 19. (CP)—Seven persons fled to the streets today when fire broke out in a west-end house. The second-floor kitchen blazed and flames were spreading when Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Borland carried their two small children to safety. Three other occupants were aroused in time. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

HONEST LASS

Shiela Waylen, 7, is being commended by everyone for returning a watch, valued at $1,000, which she found on a Toronto street. She gave it to the principal of her school who gave it to the police who returned it to the owner, Mrs. Irene Moore of Florida.—Central Press Canadian.

"Flying Saucers" Now Like Bananas

Fort Worth, April 19 (AP) Now it's flying bananas!

Ira Maxey, a veteran of 3,600 flying hours in the United States Air Force, said yesterday he saw six of them Sunday plus something he believed to be a flying saucer. Moreover, he took pictures.

"They weren't moving fast and they appeared to be six or seven miles away," he said

He described the six objects as without tails or noise—"not like a meteor, but more like a banana." The saucer looked real enough to him, he said. Maxey said the objects definitely were some sort of aircraft. The pictures showed they left vapor trails.

KVA Defeats Circuits For Mixed Commercial Bowling Championship

The K. V. A. team of the Mixed Commercial Bowling League won the 1949-50 championship Monday night at the Bowl-O-Drome when they defeated the defending titleholders, Short Circuits by the narrow margin of 7 pins. K. V. A. rolled an aggregate of 3585 against the Short Circuits' 3508 to win a 5-2 point victory.

Helena Lehto was the heroine of the piece in the final game, when she rolled a 268 to clinch the title for the KVA's. Short Circuits held the championship for the past two years.

Russ Jones of KVA turned in the best three string with a 693, with Jerry Hyde doing the best job for the losers with 645. Tie teams and scores: — Short Circuits: June Mathews 546; Fred Clarke 597; Shirley Bunnett 608; Ray Lloyd 584; Hilda Lawrenson 538; Jerry Hyde 645.

K. V. A. — Helen Lehto 644; Bill Cameron 612; Dorothy Bone 474; Russ. Jones 693; Isabel Turner 608; Lionel Blaker 649.

NO! NO! THE HORSE FIRST

The horse's head at least should have preceded the rider in this jump. But it didn't happen that way at the Royal Agricultural Society Show at Sydney, Australia, Mrs. Vida Nixon and her horse lost points on this hurdle in the novice women's hunting event. Games Will be Staffed by Own Referees, Umpires

Montreal, April 19 — (CP) — Intercollegiate football games will be staffed by their own officials next season under a new plan through which a commissioner will appoint the officials. Appointment of Joe Breen of Montreal as first commissioner is expected shortly.

Heading a list of 14 men who have decided to go along with the college league are Harold Platt of Montreal and Johnny Munro of Toronto, former backfielder with Queen's University, unofficial reports said today.

Included in the group from which linesmen and umpires will be chosen are Ralph Harrison and Andy McGillis of Montreal, Bob Lye, Joe Sgambati, Bob Elliott and Bobby Coulter of Toronto, Bill Jarvis of Windsor, Ont., Aubrey Fudge of Brockville, Ont., Ted Early of Kingston and Ken McQuarrie of Arvida, Que.

In the past appointment of officials rested with W. C. (Billy) Foulds of the Canadian Rugby Union rules committee.

Both Platt and Munro worked in the big four last year, with Munro also handling college contests.

Picton Bowlers Take Belleville Keglers 5-2

Belleville Bowl-O-Drome Men's Bowling team went down to defeat before the Prince Edward Bowling Alleys squad from Picton last night by a 5-2 point score. The winners racked up an aggregate of 3,524 with the "city slickers" rolling 3,350.

Playing at the Bowl-O-Drome here the locals slipped badly in the first game but rallied in the second and third but could not overcome the Picton lead.

Dick Stewart, Picton, rolled the high three-string with 793 and tied for singles honors with Art. Aikin with a 300. Bill Bateman headed the Belleville team with a 733 with Walter Moore getting the high single of 294.

Intell Inkspots Meet Sacos Team For Major B Title

Although defeated by the 'Just Us' team by a 4-3 score the Ontario Intelligencer "Inkspots" edged the Saco team by one point to win the championship of the second half of the Major "B" (Tuesday) Bowling League in Recreation Alleys last night.

Sacos came within an ace of copping the second half honors by defeating the Pigeons by a 7-0 score. They won the first half of the schedule and will meet the "Inkspots" for the league championship at Recreation Alleys next Saturday night. Other teams of the league will also see action in playoffs for prizes.

In the other game last night, "Our Gang" defeated Hibbards Electric by 7-0 score.

The final standing of the teams at the end of the second half of the schedule was: Ont. Intell., 80; Sacos 79; Just Us 60; Our Gang 52; Pigeons 33, and Hibbard Electric 11.

The scores last night:

Air Travel, Radio Greatly Assist Northern Missionaries

Winnipeg, April 19 (CP)—Air travel and radio have brought great changes to the life of the northern missionary, according to Bishop R. J. Renison.

The Anglican Bishop of Moosonee in Northern Ontario, now returning home after a holiday, said that it used to take three years to cover the entire Moosonee diocese of 35,000 square miles. Now the diocese can be covered in three weeks by air.

"But you don't get to know the country the same way now," said the 73-year-old prelate. "You have to live with these people and starve with them to really understand their problems."

Bishop Renison makes his headquarters at Timmins. From there his diocese extends north to James Bay and the southern reaches of Hudson Bay and eastward into Quebec. It's a domain inhabited by 6,000 Cree and Ojibway Indians.

U.S. Floods Render Thousands Homeless

Bismark, N.D., April 19 — (AP)—Thousands of persons in North Dakota and Western Minnesota were made homeless Tuesday raging flood waters.

The American Red Cross, declaring an emergency as it estimated 1,280 families were homeless, set up relief centres in four cities.

Scores of communities were isolated without power, light or telephones. Railroad and highway traffic was halted.

Jamestown, N.D., a city of some 10,000, evacuated 400 families in the worst flood in that city's history. Refugees included 70 residents of the crippled children's school.

Dies After 19 Years In Iron Lung

Poughkeepsie, N.Y. April 19 (AP)—Death Monday took 32-year-old Birdsall Sweet out of the iron lung that kept him breathing during 19 years of polio.

He had lived in an iron lung longer than any other human in medical history. The next longest case was 15 years.

The young man's release came at the end of a slow decline that began last summer and grew more serious two months ago. Doctors called it "complications of long-established polio."

Sweet's father and mother, who spent a good part of their own lives serving their imprisoned son, were with him when he died.

PINBALL PLAYER DISAPPOINTED

Kitchener, Ont., April 19—(CP)—A Kitchener man may hold the marathon title for pinball machine play. He began playing in a restaurant on a recent afternoon and was still playing when the proprietor wanted to close after midnight. Told he would have to stop, he shattered the glass top of the machine with his fist and walked out.

Stanley Cup Hopes of Rangers On Upgrade as Series Evened With Detroit by 4-3 Win

Detroit, April 19 (AP)— The demonstration of the Stanley Cup hopes of the underdog New York Rangers were on the upgrade today after they beat the Detroit Red Wings 4-3 in overtime Tuesday night to even the series at two games apiece.

It was strictly an uphill battle for the unpretentious orphanage Rangers, who will have to play the remaining games in the best-of-seven series on Detroit ice. Their own playing site at Madison Square Garden is taken up with a circus.

The Rangers played dismal hockey in the first period as they gave up a pair of goals and were outplayed, outskated and outfought.

They rallied by 3-1 with only 17 minutes of regulation play left and Red Wings and 18,557 fans were just about convinced that the game was in the bag.

But then the Rangers showed an amazing reversal of form. They carried the play to Detroit, banging in a pair of goals in the things up and send the game into overtime.

The tying goal, a short post shot off the stick of Gus Kyle, came at 16.26 of the final period and touched off the most heated

Windsor Back In Running For Cage Title

By The Canadian Press

Windsor A.K.O.'s Tuesday night re-entered the Canadian Junior Men's basketball picture, defeating Winnipeg Stellars 50-45 in the third game of their best-of-five series at Winnipeg. Stellars won the first two games 46-41 and 43-41. Next game is billed for Thursday.

A crowd of 1,500 saw the east-erners play head-up ball and turn on the heat in the last quarter to sew up the game.

It was a field day for the little men. Windsor's Eddie Nizlicki, Al Deluca and Gerry Lemon, diminutive beside their taller opponents, racked up 11, 10 and nine points respectively.

Eddie Powers, who bossed the Hamilton Tigers to the Mann Cup Lacrosse final last year, would like to see a "cash and carry" system in Coast lacrosse. He went to Vancouver to coach suburban Richmond this summer and finds the job of building a team a tough assignment. In the east, he said, if you had the cash you could get the players. The sponsors had "well lined pockets."

"They buy and sell players just as in organized professional baseball and hockey," he said Tuesday.

The Ontario Racing Association Tuesday appointed W. A. Hewitt of Toronto steward for Ontario tracks. Robert Van de Bergh of Toronto was appointed associate steward. Hewitt, steward for the incorporated Canadian Racing Association, which controlled Ontario racing before the commission was set up this month. Other appointments: Dr. J. B. Chassells, veterinary, and Edwin Allen, chief of the identification board.

Georgetown Raiders made it three-in-a-row over Sundridge Beavers, belting the defending Northern Hockey Association intermediate B champions 10-3 at Georgetown Tuesday night. The fourth game of the best-of-seven final is scheduled for Bracebridge Thursday night. Del Beaumont pured the fast-skating Raiders with a four-goal performance while Lorne Stinson and Kemahead followed close at his heels, each with a two-goal effort.

Western Ontario's Harness Racing fraternity, baffled by reports of new regulations which may come into effect this season with the formation of the new Ontario Racing Commission, will hold a meeting in Dresden, Ont., Thursday evening to discuss the situation. The meeting is being held under the sponsorship of the Western Ontario Harness Racing Association in an effort to have the many misunderstandings which are now plaguing the sport cleared up.

Queen Elizabeth high school of Halifax came from behind a 10-point first-half deficit to edge Montreal Y.M.H.A. Blues 63-49 at Halifax Tuesday night and win the Canadian Juvenile Basketball championship.

Galt Terriers are still without a manager for the 1950 Intercounty Senior Baseball season. Manager Gus Murray announced that ex-big league pitcher Wes Ferrel has failed to come to terms and has upped the price for his services. However, Murray has called the club's first practice for Saturday and with 15 American imports slated to try out Murray says he isn't worried.

Reinsman Del McTavish of Lachute Que., bid a total of $18,200 Tuesday to win three top-priced harness horses in the seventh annual spring sale at Saratoga Springs, N.Y. More than 1,500 horsemen attended the auction.

Jockey R. J. (Bobby) Martin Tuesday received a 10-day suspension and a $200 fine after Havre de Grace stewards found him guilty of striking a track employee. Cause of the dispute was not disclosed.

Barrie Flyers chalked up a 10-3 victory over Toronto Carwils at Nobleton, Ont., Tuesday night to finish in first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A round-robin playoffs. Barrie, undefeated in the round, now enter a best-of-seven final series with Guelph Biltmore Bees, who ended the round in second place.

Korean and Swede Co-Favorites to Win Marathon

Boston, April 19 —(AP)—Yun Chil Chol of Seoul, Korea, and Sweden's Karl Gosta Leandorson, last year's winner, will be co-favorites today when a field of 187 including 15 Canadian assemblee in Little Hopkinton of the Boston A.A.'s 54th Marathon.

Paul Collins of Wolfville, N.S., the Canadian Marathon Champion, leads the Canadian runners. George Norman of Toronto, 12th a year ago, also will compete. Other Canadians include Gerard Gallant and Paul E. Belliveau, both of Moncton, N.B., and Gordon Norman of Bridgetown, N.S.

Leandorson, who stepped the 26 miles, 385 yards to the finish line in Boston in two hours, 31 minutes 36.2 seconds a year ago, has been slowed down by an attack of hives. Many of the long distance running experts figure, however, he can repeat. They recall the Swede completed of illness last year.

Foremost in the ranks of the Chol supporters is race director Tom Kanaly, one of the world's outstanding marathon authorities. Kanaly has had reports of Chol's secret workouts, including a trial spin over the entire course in several minutes.

Under the record of 2:25:39 set by Yun Bok Suh, another Korean back in 1947.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 19—(AP) — Broadway star David Wayne advises young stage hopefuls to hold out against the lures of Hollywood.

"Hold out until you're an established name," the actor admonished. "Then you can come on your own terms."

The system has paid off handsomely for Wayne. He had some minor offers from the studios when he first gained notice on Broadway. He passed them by. He didn't even snatch at the "big ball" which was dangled before him after his first hit as the leprechaun in "Finian's Rainbow." Finally Seemubed

It wasn't until after his second top success in "Mr. Roberts" that Wayne succumed to Hollywood. He came under his own terms— no exclusive contract.

He has done four pictures in a year's time and soon starts another. Being master of his own destiny, he will return to the stage this fall in the Cole Porter musical "Out Of This World." He feels that if more Broadwayites would not tie themselves up to the movies the theatre would be in better shape.

Snapped Up

"The trouble is that when sayones shows any talent on Broadway," he sighed, "he is snapped up by Hollywood. The result is that there are a few new stars in the theatre."

It is true that few have arisen to rival such longtime theatre greats as Lunt and Fontaine, Helen Hayes, Katherine Cornell and Ethel Merman. Wayne cited an exception—Mary Martin.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Master bridge players are at least a stroke better than others. They have that certain something which is the difference between a gain and a loss in light situations.

They know the rules so well, danger flashes them a warning. This they are able to overcome by some act that will avoid the pitfall the rules have advised them about.

There is nothing phenominal about any of this. Those who know most about what is right will recognize quickly what is wrong. And usually know measures for eluding bad situations.

Handle this deal:

	NORTH
	♥A K 10 3
	♦9 8 2
	♣Q 6
WEST		EAST
♠J 5 3		♠10 9
♥Q 9 5		♥6
♦K J 8 4		♦10 7 5 3
♣J 10 8		♣K 9 5 4 3 2
	SOUTH
	♠K 8 6 2
	♥J 8 7 4 2
	♦A Q
	♣A 7

Good bidding will go like this:

South	North
1 H	2 S
3 S	4 NT
6 D	6 H

Having been supported in spades by south, north knows that their final trump suit can be either hearts or spades. And since this when he goes to six hearts after employing the slam convention.

The four no-trumper (aces and kings asker) is expected to announce the finsi contract. Such is the rule. But the master player in south would not permit this to end at six hearts. He would say six spades.

Why? With enough cards in two suits that can be trump, play it in the suit most evenly divided in the partnership hands. This permits a stuff on the unbalanced suit.

If hearts are trumps no sluff can be had on the side suit of spades. If spades are trumps dummy can get a sluff of a club on the fourth south heart that is then a side suit.

MORE AMERICANS COMING

Ottawa, April 19 — (CP) — More Americans this year are travelling in Canada via automobile than a year ago.

The Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday that in the first three months of the year 122,906 cars entered Canada on traveller's vehicle permits, compared with 114,576 during the corresponding period a year ago.

AT THE CAPITOL

"TENSION" and "THE SECRET GARDEN"

AT THE McCARTHY — Larry Parks meets Barbara Hale while touring Army hospitals in Columbia's "Jolson Sings Again," thrilling new Technicolor film, now on the screen of Odeon's McCarthy Theatre. Sidney Buchman was in charge of production.

AT THE BELLE

"TENSION" and "THE SECRET GARDEN

"Tension," new MGM drama starring Richard Basehart, Audrey Totter, Cyd Charisse and Barry Sullivan on the Belle Theatre screen, is described as one of the season's most unusual and fascinating thrillers.

Set against a background of Los Angeles and its vicinity, the action takes place around such famous spots as Malibu Beach, downtown Los Angeles, Westwood, Beverley Hills and the famed Sunset Strip.

The story concerns a nondescript pharmacist in an all-night drug store, whose wife leaves him for another man. The pharmacist plots the murder of his rival, sets the stage, then suddenly abandons the plan. When his rival is found murdered, the hero finds himself in a trap which he, alone, has set. A surprise climax reveals the true murderer.

"The Secret Garden" Appealing

"The, Secret Garden" one of the world's most beloved classics and a story read by fifty million readers since its publication forty years ago, is the added feature attraction today on the Belle screen, with two of motion picture's youngest Academy Award winners teamed in the leading roles. They are Margaret O'Brien who won an Oscar for her work in "Lost Angel," and Dean Stockwell, who won the award for his outstanding performance in "Gentleman's Agreement."

Others in top roles include Herbert Marshall, Gladys Cooper, Elsa Lanchester and Reginald Owen, together with Hollywood's most unusual newcomers— Captain, a cub fox; Rascal, a squirrel; Nancy, a tiny lamb and Jimmy, the trick raven.

Little Benny's Note Book

Most a exter lot of mail this morning, on account of today being her birthday and all her friends sending her birthday cards to them they realized it, and ma started to open them, saying to me, Now where is this big expensive looking card? Oh, it's from Blanch Hipple, and of all things it's a picture of a tombstone and there's a rime underneath saying, "One more year lies buried here, But you had it while I lasted—cheer up, my dear." Well, is that suppose to be funny? a said.

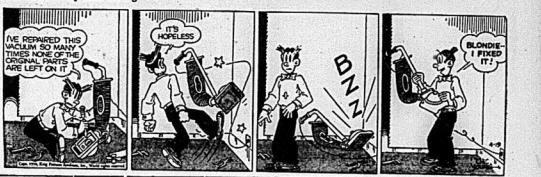
I hardly think so, just simpathetic probably, pop said, and ma said, I dont see any occasion for simpathy. Everybody insists I look and act exceptionally young for my age, she said.

Oh well, mistakes will happen, open another one, pop said.

Which she did, being from Mrs. Hews and saying, "The deepest simpathy from me to you. Believe me, frend, I have them too." Now really, William, I mean really, ma said.

Maybe I better take the rest down to my office and have my secretery go through them and weed out the sheep from the goats, pop said and ma said, I'm going to open one more, but something tells me not to.

Something telling her rite, on account of the next one being a imitation of a crossword puzzle and saying, "It's an 8 letter werd and oh what a shame None of us wants it but we get it just the same, Hey Hey, Berthday."



Yee gods, there must be at least one that says Happy Berthday, pop said. Keep on trying with a stiff upper lip, he said.

Which ma wouldn't saying she wasn't going to open any more till she finished her breakfast because she always felt stronger after her coffee.

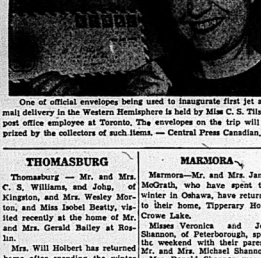
"BREATH OF GOD" CONFINES FIRE TO LUMBERYARD



Fire blazed through millions of feet of lumber at a Pembroke, Ont., mill yard, causing damage estimated at more than half a million dollars. A freak shift of wind kept the fire from sweeping through the city. Army bulldozers cut a fire lane ahead of the flames to check their advance on the town, before wind shifted. The blaze raging more than six hours, was fought by firemen from four centres. No one was injured but hundreds of homes were menaced. Citizens called the shift in the wind the "Breath of God." — Central Press Canadian.

FIRST JET FLIGHT SETS RECORD

The history-making flight of the Western Hemisphere's first jet airliner on its first commercial flight took place on Tuesday when the Avro Jetliner left from Malton airport and set a new record for the Toronto to New York 359-mile journey. It averaged 415 miles an hour for the trip, half the regular flight time. — Central Press Canadian.

One of official envelopes being used to inaugurate first jet airmail delivery in the Western Hemisphere is held by Miss C. S. Tilson, post office employee at Toronto. The envelopes on the trip will be prized by the collectors of such items. — Central Press Canadian.

Peterborough, April 19 (CP)—Four police cars and nearly 100 citizens joined in a two-hour search Tuesday night for a seven-year-old girl believed abducted by an unknown man. The search was directed by Deputy Chief John Naples.

Two hours after she was first reported missing, she was found at the corner of Maria Street and Armour Rd. A doctor examined her and found she had not been harmed.

No description of the man was available, although several citizens saw him walking with the girl. The hunt continues today.

Father of Four Struck by Car, Dies in Ambulance

Owen Sound, April 19 (CP)—Leo Francis Ferguson, 52-year-old father of four children, was killed Tuesday night when he was struck by a car near Rockford, about four miles south of Owen Sound.

Ferguson died while being rushed to hospital by ambulance. He had been walking along the side of the road on his way to a dance at the Rockford Casino when he was struck by a car driven by Howard Trouton of Holland Centre. The accident occurred at 10.30 p.m.

Provincial Police investigated but there was no indication this morning whether charges would be laid against the driver.

San Francisco, April 19 (AP)—Harry Bridges Tuesday filed a $500,000 libel and slander suit against the prosecutor who got him a five-year prison sentence.

Bridges' suit said F. Joseph Donohue called him a liar and perjurer in a Monday luncheon address. Further, the suit charges Donohue said Bridges "made a contract with communism" and was "playing an important part in the plan to bring about a revolution."

Donohue replied that his remarks were a fair statement of evidence which recently convicted Bridges of perjury and conspiracy.

Bridges, president of the CIO Longshoremen's Union, was convicted of having lied in swearing he never was a communist to obtain United States citizenship in 1945. He is free on bond pending an appeal.

Dean and Mrs. J. M. Brownlie, Major Percy Gray spent a few days in Ottawa last week.

Mr. Harold Osborne returned home from Belleville General Hospital, on Sunday.

2,000 Troops Landed South of Makassar

Jakarta, Indonesia, April 19 — (AP)— Reliable Dutch military sources said the Central Indonesian government today landed 2,000 troops south of Makassar, scene of a recent revolt against the Kaarta government.

These sources who have maintained good communications with Makassar—capital of the state of East Indonesia—said no fighting had been reported as a result of the landings.

Rebel Indonesian soldiers, former members of the Dutch Army in the Indies, seized Makassar, in the South Celebes, two weeks ago.

An official Dutch army spokesman today said 200 Indonesian troops who took part in the rebellion, had been disarmed, indicating the incoming Federal troops might encounter little opposition.

Floods Make 3000 Homeless In North Dakota

Bismarck, N.D., April 19 (AP) —Rampaging rivers today poured new torrents over large parts of North Dakota and Western Minnesota to drive added hundreds of families from their homes. The Red Cross estimated 3,000 persons were homeless in North Dakota.

Jamestown, N.D., where 500 families were ousted by the normally placid Pipestem River, faced a new threat as the James River started to move over its banks.

Richard Stoudt, Red Cross disaster committee chairman, said half the houses in Jamestown, a city of some 10,000 already were under water in the south-southwest section along the Pipestem.

RIVER WELL-USED
The Nile River irrigates more than 5,400,000 acres of land.

Three Villages Cut off by Rail, Road by Floods

Winnipeg, April 19 — (CP) — A minor drainage system Tuesday night went on a sudden rampage, isolating at least three southern Manitoba communities. The suddenness and the fury indicated that destruction in the province this year might be worse than in 1948.

Rosenfeld, Plum Coulee and Nordean, three villages nestled below the Pembina hills, today were cut off by rail and road from the rest of the country.

At Rosenfeld two feet of water flooded basements and stores, sending at least 50 families scurrying to higher ground. Storekeepers worked knee-deep in the rising water to move their stocks.

Rosenfeld is about 60 miles south of here and 12 miles west of the mighty Red River, which has still to reach its peak. Hordern and Plum Coulee are a few miles due west.

A little creek a few miles away did the damage. Dikes run north and south to divert the spring run-off into the Red. They gave yesterday, but a main dike between the village and a highway junction still held.

A 50-foot breach was bulldozed out of the highway to lead the water past the outskirts.

South of the village is a vast plain of water and quagmire, creeping closer and threatening to isolate Rosenfeld from three sides.

Flood fitters are rampant along the Red from Winnipeg to the U. S. border. The crest, coming up from North Dakota, is not expected for about 10 days. But earlier optimistic reports of the predicted level are being revised.

"THE BIG DITCH"

Barbara Ann May Play Title Role in Show

London, April 19 — (CP) — Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa, former world and Olympic figure skating queen who now is a professional, may visit London this summer to play the title role in the ice version of "Rose Marie," it was learned today.

The Victor Herbert operetta will be staged in Harringay Arena by producer Tom Arnold. It will open July 15. Arnold now is in North America seeking to line up name stars for the chief roles and Miss Scott is reported among those he is after.

Casting for "Rose Marie" is going forward here and directors have been trying to lure a number of Canadian hockey players who live in Britain into the show's mountie chorus.

Urges Need for Many More Men In Reserve Forces

Kitchener, Ont., April 19 — (CP) — A new approach to the encouragement of reserve force recruiting was suggested today by the North Waterloo Citizens' Defence Committee.

The committee made public a letter it sent to Defence Minister Claxton in which it criticized "public statements by authorities" which indicate that enlistment in the reserve forces is satisfactory. It said such statements are "misleading and detrimental to recruiting and attendance" and added:

Appealing to young men by stressing the attractions or the pay in the reserve seems to have little effect, especially when this very small pay is subject to income tax which rightly or wrongly, the reserve soldier considers an injustice. Some other approach was necessary.

"We, therefore, suggest that the government publicize that the reserve forces are essential to the defence of Canada; that there is a need for many more men in the reserve forces; that the training is essential in case an emergency is forced upon us, for modern warfare demands skills and training beyond that which could be imparted in the time that would be available after such an emergency arises."

NO 'BARE SHOULDERS' AT WEDDINGS

London, Ont., April 19 (CP)— Brides expecting to be married in St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church were warned recently in a sermon by the pastor, Rev. W. T. O'Rourke that if they or their attendants "approach this altar with bare shoulders I'll have those shoulders draped in red bandanas by the altar boys."

Russian Attitude Unpardonable Says London Times

Baltic Apparently Regarded As 'Their Own Preserve'

London, April 20 — (AP) — The Russians apparently have served warning that the Baltic is "their own preserve into which trespassers enter at their peril," the Times says today.

An editorial commenting on the loss of the unarmed U. S. Navy Privateer plane and its crew of 10 over the Baltic April 8 says "The Soviet attitude has been unpardonable."

A Russian note April 11 reported that an American plane flew over Russian - controlled Latvia, exchanged fire with Soviet fighter planes, then headed toward the Baltic. A U. S. note has rejected this, saying Russian fighters shot down the U. S. plane over the Baltic Sea.

The editorial adds:

"It is much more likely, as the American note asserts, that Russian aircraft met the Privateer flying over the sea and shot it down, perhaps in a moment of panic or on deliberate orders from above.

"The Russians may have wished to warn, by force, that they regard the Baltic as their own preserve into which trespassers enter at their peril, but they must have tried to cover a blunder by securing the defiance of violating their territory. Of these two explanations the second is the most palatable."

FOUR BIG RAIL LINES IN U.S. FACE STRIKE THREAT

Chicago, April 20 (AP) —A strike against four of the biggest railroad systems threatening to slow all rail transportation in the United States for hours was called for next Wednesday morning.

The strike call Wednesday night by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen ordered some 18,000 of the union's claimed 110,000 members to leave their jobs at 6 a.m. (EST) on April 26. Union spokesmen said the walkout would make idle some 50,000 railworkers.

The threatened strike followed nearly three years of dispute between the unions and railroads over union demands for a second man on multiple unit Diesel locomotives.

Free To Strike at Any Time

The union is free to strike at any time, having complied with all provisions of the National Railway Labor Act. But the possibility of a postponement was hinted in a statement by union president David B. Robertson, who announced the strike call. He said:

"If time (the railroads) feel some progress is being made toward settlement, the strike may be postponed."

However, a railroad spokesman Daniel B. Lewis, chairman of the Association of Western Railways, said: "Despite the strike threat, the railroads will stick to our decision of refusing to make the make-work demands of the union — — strike or no strike — no additional firemen will be employed on Diesel electric locomotives, which have no fires to feed."

The strike will be against the Pennsylvania System with headquarters at Harrisburg, Pa., the entire Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe system, the Southern Railway, and the New York Central west of Buffalo with three of its divisions, the Michigan Central west of Detroit River, the Big Four and the Cleveland Terminal.

Spokesmen for Canada's two big railway systems said the strike would not affect Canadian lines in any way.

A Canadian Pacific Railway Company official said only incoming trains from United States lines might be affected if the strike is called.

Canadian National Railways have been running on lines that may be struck.

Officials of both systems said the possibility of a sympathetic strike by Canadian affiliates of the U.S. unions is remote.

LORD BERNERS DIES

BODY RECOVERED IS NOT THAT OF CHILD SOUGHT

Montreal Police Have New Mystery to Solve

Montreal, April 20. (CP)— Police had a new mystery on their hands today when relatives failed to identify a dead child found Wednesday in the St. Lawrence River was not the three-year-old Jean Lacas, believed to have been drowned by his grandmother in January.

The body was at first thought to be that of the Lacas child. It was discovered a short distance from the spot where the body of the month-old Pierre-Paul Lacas was found Sunday.

Mrs. Joseph Lacas, the 51-year-old grandmother has been charged with the murder of young Pierre-Paul. She told police three months ago that she had pushed both children into the river rather than see them sent to a foster home.

But when the grandmother and her 28-year-old daughter, Madeleine, the mid-wife mother of the two children, were called in by police today to identify the body, they said it was not that of young Jean.

Police said they were mystified because they had no other reports of missing children.

The body of three-year-old Jean Lacas was found floating in the St. Lawrence River, was found Sorel, Que., Wednesday, three days after his younger brother, Pierre-Paul, in whose death he was charged drowned near the same spot, several is miles down-river from Montreal.

Recovery of Second Body

Mrs. Lacas has already been charged with the murder of Pierre and is scheduled to appear for preliminary hearing next Tuesday.

Recovery of the second body ended a three-month old investigation prompted by Mrs. Lacas' statements that she had thrown her two grandchildren into the icy waters to prevent their unwed mother from placing them in a foster home.

Mrs. Lacas has been in police custody since Jan. 30 when she told police she had pushed the children from a wharf in a baby carriage to prevent them from ever coming between her son and the boys were reported missing the next morning after their grandmother took them out for a walk.

Mrs. Lacas was charged with abduction in connection with attempted suicide while she was confined in the women's jail.

Duncan Cameron, 74, Dies, Was Engineer On Royal Train in '39

Edmonton, April 20 — (CP) — Duncan Cameron, engineer on the royal train which took the king and queen across Canada during their visit in 1939, died in hospital. He was 74.

Mr. Cameron was born in Glengarry Co., Ont., and started with Grand Trunk Pacific Railway in 1906 as fireman. He became an engineer in 1907 and retired in 1942.

THROWN THROUGH WINDSHIELD

Port Credit, April 20. (CP)— Marjory MacDonald, 18, of Long Branch, suffered head cuts Wednesday night when her automobile in which she was riding crashed through a barrier and dropped into a six-foot hole along the Lakeshore Drive near here.

Acheson, Bevin, Schuman Agree on European, Asiatic Issues for London Parleys

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, April 20 (AP) — State secretary Dean Acheson, Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain and Foreign Minister Schuman of France have substantially agreed on the great European and Asiatic issues they will discuss at the London diplomatic conferences next month.

A series of note exchanges among Washington, London and Paris, diplomatic authorities disclosed, have almost completed arrangements for the talks. These indicate that the three western foreign affairs chiefs will be much more concerned with tightening co-operation among the western nations than with charting new moves against Russia in the cold war.

Growing East-West Tension

That the meetings will be held against a sinister background of increasing east-west tension is assured, however, by such current developments as (1) the American protest against the Baltic airplane shooting incident and (2) the crackdown of the Soviet satellite countries like Czechoslovakia on the operations of western diplomatic missions there.

Evidence is increasing that the Kremlin may be aiming to shut the west out of its territories almost completely, to close the Baltic and other border areas to foreign observation and to achieve a degree of isolation which the modern world has not heretofore known.

American relations, therefore, will be one of the matters up for discussion at the London meetings of the Western Big Three. The most that is expected of this is an affirmation of the policy of stopping Communist expansion, and meeting the Soviet menace with growing western power.

The range of the agreed subjects, according to diplomatic informants, includes:

Three-power policies for Germany, including Berlin, and tightening ties among Western Germany and its neighbors in Europe; the Atlantic pact economic co-ordination of Western Europe; defence perparations under the Atlantic pact with particular reference to production and cost problems; the situation in the Middle East under the threat of a new economic-politico-military crackdown of Communism; of southeast Asia against the spread of Communism; the Japanese peace treaty, and the general state of relations between Russia and the west.

Progressive Conservatives May Launch Membership Drive Reaffirm 1948 Platform

Ottawa, April 20 (CP)— A new membership drive may be launched soon by the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada.

The association made up of supporters of the party from all parts of Canada, ended a three-day-annual meeting Wednesday with a recommendation that intensive and widespread campaigns be launched to enlist members in the constituency organizations.

The recommendation was in line with ideas advanced by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and association officials, who stressed in speeches the urgent need for the value of a strong organization right down to the constituency level. The drive would be a replenishment of an executive committee to co-ordinate the organizational activities of the party across Canada.

Royal Commission Favored

On policy matters, the association mainly reaffirmed its support of the platform adopted by the 1948 national party convention. Delegates also supported requests of the party for a Royal Commission to investigate alleged government activities and for a British Commonwealth conference on trade.

Delegates endorsed party requests that natural resources be developed—some of them under public ownership—to relieve unemployment and to make it possible for Canada to support a larger population. Increased manufacturing and greater trade outside of Canadian primary products was urged.

A committee on publicity and public relations recommended greater and improved use of paid time on national radio or on newspaper advertisements at this time. Such advertisements should be dealt with ways and means of "combatting and neutralizing" party organs and information on party activities.

The question of resolutions adopted was small in contrast to other gatherings of the association, but delegates had before them a statement by the party and other officials that there were times when organization was necessary to make modifications in party policy.

Mr. Drew made the pre-meeting opinion that the Conservatives in the United Kingdom owed their 1950 comeback to strong organizations in every constituency. He said it was the duty of every man to help stand today. He admitted, however, that the party would have to be modified from time to time to meet changing conditions.

CZECHS CLOSE R.C. MONASTERIES IN BRATISLAVA

Monks Brutally Beaten Taken Away in Trucks

Vienna, April 20 — (AP) — The usually well-informed newspaper Die Presse reports today that all Roman Catholic monasteries in Bratislava and a number of other Slovakian towns were closed by Czechoslovak state police last Friday.

The report says the communist-led regime had ousted Dr. Gustav Musak, chairman of the Slovak provincial government, for protesting the order closing the monasteries in a cabinet session. Two other local government officials were said to have been arrested with Musak.

According to this report, 5,000 monks and nuns in Bratislava were brought to Bratislava to enforce the closure order. Eye-witnesses were quoted as saying the monks were beaten with rifle butts and clubs when they refused to an unknown destination.

Workers Stage Protest

Die Presse says several hundred workers staged a mass protest demonstration Saturday in front of a church in Bratislava. The workers reportedly tried to have knelt down, offered prayers and sung the papal hymn.

The report says the crowds prevented thousands of farmers from the surrounding villages from joining the protest march through Bratislava.

The official Czechoslovak news agency announced Wednesday that many of the country's monasteries had been taken over by the government to be turned into "hospital and health purposes," and to relieve the housing shortage. The agency account said the monastery management had been used by the monks to hide "anti-state criminals and to carry on espionage."

Berlin, April 20. (AP)—Czechoslovaks today were rushing to patronize the U.S. Information Service's Library there before it is forced to close Saturday under ultimatum from the communist government, the U.S. Embassy in Prague reported.

Joseph J. Kolarek, chief of the U.S.I.S. in Prague, told a reporter in Berlin that Czechoslovaks there was "quite a rush" on the Library following announcement of the closing order.

The Czech government also has ordered the arrest of Kolarek, accusing him of abusing his diplomatic position by conducting anti-Czech propaganda.

Kolarek said he planned to leave the country Tuesday.

New Plant Opens In Gananoque

Gananoque, Ont., April 20 — (CP)—A Subsidiary of the Edmore Incorporated of Montreal, N.Y., to be known as the Ed. Lane Co. Ltd., opened its doors here this week after extensive negotiations.

At present only assembly work is being carried on here pending the arrival of machinery from the United States.

J. R. McIntosh, general manager, said it is expected the plant will be in full operation by mid-summer. He said it would employ at least forty persons and possibly more.

Shots of Brown-Pearce Cancer Used to Immunize Rabbits

Atlantic City, N.J., April 20.— (AP)—Shots that protect rabbits from getting one type of cancer were reported today to the federation of American societies for experimental biology.

The shots are extract of the cancer cells. They make the rabbit produce anti-bodies that immunize him against that kind of cancer.

They work only against this one form of cancer called Brown-Pearce Carcinoma, Dr. Kidd said. The cancer is a rare one that affects certain breeds of rabbits.

It is not yet known the cancer is implanted into their bodies, after being taken from another rabbit.

It has never been shown that any type of human cancer is caused by a virus. The findings in this case aren't likely to have any immediate bearing on human cancers, Dr. Kidd said.

Mystery Surrounds Brutal Slaying Of Pay Clerk

Victim Found in Schoolyard, Head Had Been Beaten, Strangled

Toronto, April 20.—(CP)— Robbery may have been the motive in the mysterious slaying of John R. Snowdon, 43-year-old railway pay clerk.

A wallet containing pictures but no money was found today in the backyard of a house not far from where Snowdon's battered strangled body was discovered. Police said the wallet belonged to the slain man.

The body was found Wednesday in a school yard just north of the Toronto city limits. An autopsy showed death due to beating and strangulation.

Police described Snowdon, married and father of four children, as a man without an enemy in the world. His wife, ill for several months, said Tuesday was her husband's day off from work and that after he cared for her during the day she had suggested that he go out to see a movie. "He kissed me goodbye and that was the last I saw of him," she told police.

Investigators traced his movements to a streetcar near Greenwood Avenue in northwest Toronto where the waiter, John Wyndham, said he had served a meal to Snowdon who left alone. The waiter said there was no indication at that time that Snowdon had been in any kind of fight.

The body was found by the caretaker of the St. Thomas Aquinas separate school. North York Police Chief Robert Alexander said "It looks like he was in a fight, but I don't think it was intended as a murder." A small piece of money Snowdon had carrying was found on the body.

Coroner Dr. R. E. Baxter said the man's injuries could not have been received in a fall. His face was brutally beaten in, probably by a blunt instrument or fists, said the coroner.

Bergman's Hubby Gets Custody Of Own Child

Hollywood, April 20. (AP)— Actress Ingrid Bergman has agreed, with some reservations, to relinquish the physical custody, control and education of her 12-year-old daughter, Pia, to the girl's father, Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

The custody of Pia has been a major point of dispute between the two since the Swedish actress left Dr. Lindstrom, bore a son 11 years ago in Rome to her film star lover, film director, Roberto Rossellini, and obtained a Mexican divorce.

But though the settlement of Pia's custody was announced Wednesday by lawyers for both sides there was no immediate hint of some disagreement over the agreement.

Counsel Isaac Pacht, representing Dr. Lindstrom, told reporters the decision cannot take the child out of the United States during vacation periods when Miss Bergman is allowed to have the child part of the time.

Toronto, April 20 — (CP) — A 24-year-old waitress, sought by police since she disappeared from her Toronto rooming house six days ago, was found Wednesday night at the home of friends.

CANADA HAS BEEN FIRST CHARGE ON UK STEEL EXPORTS

London, April 20 — (CP) — Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, said today Canada has been a "first charge" on British steel exports.

He told the House of Commons that exports of iron and steel to Canada were twice as large last year as in 1948 and that through the efforts of industry I have every hope that efforts in 1950 will be even greater."

He was replying to R. S. Russell, Conservative member for Wembley South, who asked what Britain was doing to increase steel exports to Canada.

In a supplementary question, Russell wanted to know why those foreign orders were interfering a greater percentage of British pig iron and steel than Canada, even after the difference in size of populations was considered.

Opposition benches expressed dissent when Wilson replied: — "Canada has been a first charge on our exports of steel, but larger exports are not available owing to the fact that the British steel industry is not big enough to meet our requirements."

Poke Fingers in Neck or Take Khallin, Two Ways to Halt Pains of Angina

Boston April 20 (AP) —Two new ways of stopping the heart pains of Angina Pectoris were reported to the American College of Physicians today.

One is by the Egyptian drug Khallin. The other is to poke your finger into your neck.

The drug is Khallin. Extracts are used for colic.

Drs. Harold L. Osher and Kermit H. Katz, of Boston City Hospital reported using Khallin on 50 patients who suffered from the Angina Pectoris. All but three were much relieved.

Thirteen had been unable to work because muscular activity caused heart attacks. Eight returned to work.

The drug is manufactured for doctors only by Smith, Kline and French Laboratories, Philadelphia. It is not for sale.

Dr. Paul told of stopping angina pain almost instantly by poking his finger down into the patient's neck. This was done with a dumbwaiter shaft. He had been depressed since being informed his son was missing.

Pilot Battles Woman Trying To Jump to Death

Lansing, Mich., April 20 (CP) —A struggle in mid-air between an airplane pilot and a woman passenger who sought to jump to her death was told Wednesday by the pilot, Owen Keller.

He said he took the unidentified woman up for a sight-seeing ride Tuesday. When the plane was over the city she opened the plane door and tried to climb out.

Keller said he held her with one hand and guided the plane with the other until she returned to her seat. On the ground, she told police she was despondent because she had learned her husband was aboard the United Airlines plane reported shot down by Russians over the Baltic Sea April 8.

In New York City last Sunday William Seeschaf, 62, father of the co-pilot aboard the missing United States plane, was killed in a five-storey plunge down a dumbwaiter shaft. He had been depressed since being informed his son was missing.

Toronto Probes Refusal to Cut Negro's Hair

Toronto, April 20—(CP)—Because a barber refused to cut the hair of a negro child, the city of Toronto may soon inaugurate a public relations campaign to agree not to practice racial discrimination.

The case appeared before the civic property committee, which recommended action to settle the complaint.

Victor Robbins, the barber admitted he refused to cut the Negro boy's hair and said it was because his shop was crowded with other children awaiting their turn. The boy's father took him to the barber here 26 years and had always found a white barber cut the hair of a Negro.

PUPILS WITHOUT SCHOOL

Kemptville, Ont., April 20 — (CP) — About 24 pupils are temporarily without a school today following a $6,000 fire which destroyed their one-roomed public school at Bishop's Mills, eight miles west of here, Monday night. The blaze, believed to have started by nearby residents but could do little against the head-start of the flames. Cause of the blaze was not immediately known.

Star Injured, Stage Director Gives Brilliant Performance In Light Operetta 'Iolanthe'

By GEO. H. CARVER

Light opera came to Belleville last night in the first professional presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's famous fantasy, staged by the Lisbon Operatic Society of Toronto.

Second to the fine performances of the cast was that of the producers who worked hard to give the famous musical the authentic professional appearance, using dramatic lighting and scenic effects on the stage of the Collegiate Auditorium to dress the bright lyrics and excellent melodies of the show.

Perhaps for the first time in the history of theatre going Belleville, the audience witnessed one of the oldest traditions of the footlights, "The Show Must Go On."

Mr. Geoffrey Hatton, billed star of the show was forced because of an injured leg, to perform his role of the "Lord Chancellor". Stepping into the breach at very brief notice and in a character he had not played for ten years, Mr. Alfred Kilroy, stage director of the show gave a brilliant performance that drew the well-merited and unstinted applause of the audience.

Mr. Kidney, not only proved he was a grand "trouper" but his fellow Wrexham, Jack Kidney lyrics typical of Gilbert and Sullivan light opera was equalled by histronics that bespoke the natural actor.

A Grand Trouper

He was supremely confident in his difficult role. Perhaps he hesitated a little at the start but slipped, but the actor in the man overcame anything that might cause an error and he was at his best in the swiftly moving sequences of the show. His cast backed him up just as superbly. There was no indication at any time that the star of the night was any other than the one billed to appear. Mr. Kidney handled his difficult role in a straightforward manner. There was not the slightest indication of "hamming" although that "there was a stranger in these parts". The whole was splendidly done.

Brilliant Costume

The story of Iolanthe calls for brilliant costume and scenic effects. The first set is laid against the beautiful background of an Arcadian glade. Beautiful fairies garbed in diaphanous gossamer gowns and parasols ablaze with brilliants, mourn the loss of their sister Iolanthe who has been for Queen 20 years previous. They succeed in bringing Iolanthe back who tells them of her son Stenphon who has fallen in love with Phyllis, ward in chancery. The Queen agrees to help Stenphon because of Iolanthe's appointment. He proposes marriage to Phyllis.

Naturally the peers of the realm who have fallen in love with Phyllis, the Lord Mayor, Strephon's rival, and Lord Tolloller. The Lord Chancellor quickly extinguishes the hopes of the fairies when he decides he has fallen in love with the beautiful Strephon's relations with his mother Iolanthe "who is five years younger," the mass flirtation where the peers fall in love with the fairies; Iolanthe's dramatic confession that she is the wife of the Lord Chancellor and Strephon is their son; the despair of the fairies when they realize that death is their inevitable fulling in love with mortals the happy solution of the Lord Chancellor when he changes the law to enable such marriages and the Queen's effort to save her own life by attaching herself to an army private, is climaxed by all estranged lovers, husbands and wives being reunited and the entire company setting out happily and musically for Fairyland.

The second act is laid in the more dignified background of Westminster's Palace Yard complete with Big Ben and the bustled sentry and sentry box. The peers, with the exception of Lord Mountararat and Tolloller, who appear in the conventional black and white of the nobility of all eras when on parliamentary duty are gaily apparelled throughout in rich satins, velvets and ermine robes with brilliantined red coronets. The Lord Chancellor wears the shoulder-length grey wig and black satin garb of his calling. The Queen wears a beautiful gown with coronet while Phyllis and Iolanthe appear in different costumes.

Melodious Chorus

Musically, the production left nothing to be desired. The choral effects of the cast of 70 and the voices provided a melodious background to the solos, duets, trios and quartets of the principals. The voices have been carefully selected and in chorus have as organ-like effect in the showing-forth of the score while in the swiftly-moving typical Gilbert and Sullivan satirics! numbers they show the balanced training and rehearsal.

From the impressive finale with its stirring melody back to the lilting gaiety of the opening fairy chorus Iolanthe, like his Gilbert and Sullivan sisters, proved one of the best musical presentations to be shown here in years.

The orchestra superbly directed by musical director Godfrey Ridout was a stimulus to full self. Backgrounding the choral effects with generally strings and woodwind predominating, it rounded out a musical whole that was a delight to hear. The orchestra received a fine ovation on its appearance for the second act.

Meet the Cast

Miss Elizabeth Mawson as Iolanthe gave a splendid operatic performance in a role that called for dramatics in part. Possessed of a fine voice she has the ability in the dark beauty was correctly cast. Miss Frieseu's brilliant lyrical soprano voice was heard in many sequences of the show in her role as Strephon's mother, as well as vocalist. Miss Frieseu's histrionic ability was brought out to fine advantage.

George Simpson as Lord Mountararat and Jack McCleverty as Lord Tolloler might have stepped out of the era in which they were depicted. Baritone and tenor respectively, their fine voices were heard in duet, trio and quartet. They had a fine flair for comedy and in the second act, as period, provoked much merriment.

Howard Mawson, as Strephon, part fairy and part mortal gave a splendid performance. His rich baritone voice and acting ability marked him as one of the leading performers of the cast. Iva Mae Cleverly, as Queen used a fine contralto voice to good advantage throughout the performance and her last-minute romance pleased everybody. Lee Mackey, as Private Willis of the Grenadier Guards used a resonant, bass voice to good effect in a solo, chorus and quartet. Barbara Lyon, Doris Irving and Muriel Gordon as Celia, Leila and Fleta, a trio of fairies rounded out a fine cast of principals.

Entertained by Kiwanis

Members of the cast were dinner guests of the sponsoring Kiwanis Club at Kiwanis Centre at 6:30 o'clock and after the performance they enjoyed refreshments served by the Belleville cafeteria staff to members of the Key Club.

Kiwanis president Taylor Franklin, in a brief footlights appearance, welcomed the audience and expressed regret that the indemency of the weather and consequent attendance had affected the anticipated attendance. He drew attention to the fact that his organization was bringing the famous English comedienne, Gracie Fields to Belleville Memorial Arena on May 21st.

SEARCH DUMP FOR GIRDLE

London, Ont., April 20. (CP)—A London housewife was thrilled a little more than moral support today as the search for her missing girdle ended in the city dump.

Workers at the dump thought the request was stretching their duties a bit, but agreed to hunt for the new girdle accidentally discarded with some papers and whisked away with the regular garbage collection.

IN MEMORIAM

TAYLOR — In loving memory of Robert Sterling Taylor, who passed away suddenly April 20, 1949.
Sad was the day we parted,
He said good-by to none,
We wonder why God took you,
We wonder and long and to die
Without a chance to say good-by.
Ever remembered by the Taylor Family. A20

TAYLOR — In loving memory of our dear son, Robert Sterling Taylor, who died due to an accident behind the wheel one year ago today, April 20, 1949.
From our happy home and circle God has taken one we loved,
He's borne away from sin and sorrow
To a nobler rest above.
No one knows how much we miss him
None but those who loved him best
Sweet death all pain has crossed in heaven
Jesus doeth all things well.
—Lovingly remembered by Mom and Dad. A20

TAYLOR — In loving memory of our dear brother, Robert Sterling Taylor, who died one year ago today, April 20, 1949.
Dearest brother you passed away, April 20, 1949.
Where I had my dear mother
Just twelve years ago today.
Always fondly remembered by her daughter Pearl Thompson. A20

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 20 (CP)—Mining stocks tended slightly higher in comparatively dull trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Prices continued moving in the narrow trading pattern of Wednesday. Some easiness was apparent in market leaders. Volume for the first three hours was 1,207,000 shares.

Senior gold producers recovered Wednesday's fractional losses to pull the gold list into the plus column. Juniors settled pennies and Giant Yellowknife, a feature Wednesday, slipped five cents under pressure of profit taking. Uranium prospects continued active and slightly weaker.

Base metals mixed gains and losses. United Keno Hill and Sherritt-Gordon gained while Noranda and Quemont weakened.

Liquors were in strong demand in industrials. Papers, textiles, and refining oils slipped and steels and foods were mixed. Utilities continued brighter.

Western oils were higher but began giving ground in mid-session.

PRODUCE MARKET

Toronto, April 20 — (CP) — Produce offered and sold on the spot market here this morning:

City Juveniles, Youths Face Various Charges

A number of youths and juveniles, all but one from the city, were apprehended by local police during the past 24 hours and will appear in court, five of them on theft charges and another for being in possession of a housebreaking instrument.

William Watson, aged 18, Kenora district youth, was arrested and charged with being in possession of a housebreaking instrument. Police stated there had been an attempt to enter a local garage.

Two other local youths, Ronald Papke, Emily Street, and Douglas Fox, were arrested and charged with theft of $41 from a Coleman Street residence. The offence allegedly took place some days ago.

Ralph Nelson, Meyers Street, will face a charge involving the theft of money from milk bottles, while several juveniles will appear on theft charges for the same type of offence.

Still another juvenile will appear in Family Court on a charge of theft of money from a local institution.

Kenneth Johnston Pleads Not Guilty Uttering Series of Bogus Cheques, Trial Opens

A cheque-writing machine, amateur printing set and dating stamp, together with blank cheque books and over $100 cash fully made out with the exception of dates, were presented in county magistrate's court here today as evidence against Kenneth Johnston of Picton, charged with uttering a long series of bogus cheques.

Arraigned only on one of the four charges which he will face in Belleville court, Johnson pleaded not guilty. His co-manager, Frank Greeley, also of Picton, was arraigned on a forgery charge, and both were remanded until Friday morning.

The two men were arrested March 14th near Stayner. Out, following suspicions of a Stayner merchant being accused when they allegedly attempted to pass a cheque. The licence number of their car was taken and police notified with result the men were apprehended.

Police claim that during the past several months Johnston and Greeley were responsible for passing a great number of bogus cheques in various parts of the province.

Cpl. Ayres O.P.P. Testifies

The corporal told of coming across a parked car in which Johnston and Greeley were sitting and of asking to search the car. Before he could do so however, Johnston had produced two sets of 1949 licence plates saying he had found them on the highway.

He quoted Johnston as saying he had found the two sets of licence plates on the highway and intended to use them to patch a hole in the spare tire well of his car. The officer said the licence plates had aroused his suspicion and the two men were taken back to Stayner.

An earlier witness, Ray Reid, Shannonville merchant, identified Johnston as E. Hicks for whom he had cashed a cheque at his store. He had later discovered the cheque was worthless and it had not been presented for payment.

Reid said he had noted the licence number of the car used by the man passing the cheque and the number of the plate was later shown to correspond with one set of plates found in Johnston's car at the time of his arrest.

Finding of Club Bag in Car

Continuing his evidence Cpl. Ayres told of finding a club bag in the rear of the car. In the bag was found the typewriting machine, four telephone books, eight blank cheque books on various banks throughout the province and approximately 100 cheques fully made out with the exception of dates.

It was shown that 25 of these cheques were made out to E. Hicks payable by Sweetman Refrigerator Service Rgd. of Belleville and the Cobourg Lumber Company.

Also in the bag were a number of loose cheques drawn on the Bank of Nova Scotia at Bancrie and payable by Refrigeration Sales and Service of that centre.

Referring to the amateur printing set found in the bag Cpl. Ayres said it was the type of set which could be made up into a stamp by means of sliding rubber letters into slots.

Claim Cheque Machine Used

Police claim that cheques allegedly passed by Johnston and Greeley were all written with a cheque writing machine and payable by business firms whose names had been stamped on the cheques forms with a printing set.

Under cross-examinatiov by defence counsel J. D. O'Flynn, Cpl. Ayres said that when he had first accosted the accused men they had denied attempting to pass a cheque at Stayner. Before that car was searched they also had denied having any blank cheque forms or cheque writing equipment.

He said the explanation given by the two men as to their reason for being in the district was that they were looking for refrigeration equipment which had been advertised. Johnston had told him that he operated a machine shop at Picton.

George L. Sweetman, of Sweetman Refrigeration Service, stated he had not written the cheque which had been cashed by Mr. Reid at Shannonville. Neither did he have an account on the bank on which the cheque had been drawn.

Says Licence Plates Changed . . .

Wilfred Cole, Smith's Falls service station attendant, said he had changed 1949 licence plates 744-Y9 for a Smith's Falls resident, the plates having been disposed of at the garbage dump. These licence plates were one removed by the bank as being a forgery.

George Spencer, Frankford, said he had cashed a cheque for a G. H. Storms for $52. The cheque had been payable by E. D. Mott Lumber Merchant. Mr. Spencer identified Johnston as the man for whom he had cashed the cheque and said the cheque which had been returned by the bank indicating it to be a forgery.

Mr. E. D. Mott told the court he had not written the cheq

Guy Fraser, clerk for J. McLaurin grocery at Point stated that he had cashed a que for E. Hicks. He iden Johnston as the man cashing cheque. The cheque had not honored at the bank.

REPLY TO A WANT AD

Sherlock Holmes once lectured his devoted friend and sensible biographer Dr. Watson on the "agony columns" "the Times." Those little paid items under "personal" d "lost and found," said he, are but indexes to thousands intense human ndramas whose beginnings and endings public curiosity seems, says Christian Science Monitor.

DOG, lost; long-haired black male, chow and shepherd named Toby; Theiss Rd. in South Affton; schoolboy offers savings and 28 in. bike; Dad offers two units, Mom, chickens and eggs for return or information. PLEASE. VI 2-5611.

We shall attempt neither to gild refined gold nor paint ily—only to say what we know anyone who reads this e would want to.

Schoolboy, we couldn't use your savings, and we're too for your bike. And tell Dad that no matter what size ose two units are, they wouldn't fit us; and Mom—all of sudden we find we've lost our appetite for eggs, any style, hd chicken, cooked any way, until year after next at two clock. But if we should find your dog Toby, we would rtainly get him back to you.

THE JURY

"No judge is able, as an individual, to determine the bstance of justice as well as a jury. The jury has been e outstanding bulwark of democracy, offering a com- ned wisdom in the administration of justice." Thus did ge Justice Kellock Laskay, of the Ontario Supreme ourt, register his disagreement with the opinions of a ading Canadian criminologist who had declared jury ials to be out of date and that citizens do not wish to be rymen.

It may be true that some are irked by a rare call to ry duty. But most people who have a true conception of e duties of citizenship quite appreciate and undergo in- onvenience and in some cases actual sacrifices, and cheer- lly perform their roles as jurors. Such citizens regard the scharge of this responsibility as their contribution to the pport of a system in which they have confidence — a ith based upon proven results down through many gen- rations.

Dr. Rosario Fontaine, Quebec Government medico- gal specialist, had stated it to be beyond the power of an verage man to follow and understand prolonged and chnical legal evidence.

Mr. Justice Mackay's answer was that if a jury fails comprehend the significance of evidence brought before both counsel and judge might well ask themselves if hey have properly discharged their duty. — Montreal azette.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOCATIONS

It would be interesting to read about the special locations where books and great works of art were given birth. Charles Dickens built a Swiss chalet in a garden at Gad's Hill, and it was there that he wrote his last work —"Mystery of Edwin Drood."

One age Poe was out walking with a friend and took him to a little shop where, three flights up, was a room in which Addison wrote his "Campaign." Gray went to compose many of his poems on roof-tops. Thoreau, all the world knows, wrote the highest of his philosophy in a little cabin at Walden that he built himself for less than fifty dollars.

"Rodin," wrote Rainer Maria Rilke, "had several studios, some that are well known, in which visitors are always letting found him. There were others in out-of-the-way, secluded places of which no one knew. The quietest were like cells, bare, poor and grey with dust, but their poverty was like the great, grey poverty of God out of which trees bud in March.

Something of the Spring was in each of these rooms, a silent promise and a deep seriousness."

In Henry Ford's famous Greenfield Village, at Dearborn, Michigan, is the reproduction of a small cabin that the famous General Electric wizard, Steinmetz, used to retire to in a secluded spot beside a river to think out many problems.

How precious are many of the locations where the great worked in the great still stand. After every visit to the Wayside Inn, at Sudbury, Mass., I take down my copy of Longfellow's "Tales of a Wayside Inn" and read them over again. Even as the violin grows more mellow and sweet in tone after long use, so do locations that have meant much to the world, take on a hallowed tone.

As we ride, or walk, through the quiet countryside of Pennsylvania, silently the words of Lincoln's address, at its dedication, stream through the mind, although cut deeply into the stones of every revered grave there. Beauty is in every location where we are happy!

Impressions of Britain

By RALPH CAMPBELL FARMING

Oxford, England—(Special) After articles on National Farmers Union, the countryside and farm buildings, and one particular Dorset farm, where prices and experiences more or less characterize most farmers, the writer now gives us a conglomeration of impressions to round off the farming picture.

England is not a land of small farmers as we in Canada are led thought; on the whole I should say that farms here are considerably larger than they are in Ontario, though less extensive than on the Prairies. They are highly mechanized and there are a great number of tractors and combines in use. Strangely enough, while every farmer seems to have a tractor, very few seem to have manure-spreaders, but to haul it by horses in a great high cart or wagon, pitching it off into small heaps which are then spread by hand. During a three weeks cycle tour last autumn we only saw two mechanical spreaders in use, though we saw dozens of farmers using the old fashioned method.

High Land Values

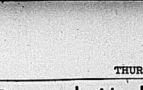
Land values are very high here, and an average farm with reasonable buildings could be worth 50 or perhaps more. Now this I feel, is more than it is worth, and makes it very difficult indeed for producing value. This high land value can be explained by these factors. First, many Englishmen are farmers at heart and only need an excuse to buy a farm and live in the country. Secondly, with taxation being so high, it is considered the safest investment in the country. Thirdly, many farmers have found been better off to leave their money in the bank without interest, than to invest in so-called government securities; but land values yielded at least the same original investment without any decline in capital value. Fourthly, and probably most important, are income tax regulations. Many farmers find that their taxable income find it profitable to buy a farm, and live in it, or else to have a fine country home with country farm, greatly increased supply of petrol, and the possibility of using the agricultural which they would otherwise not have. It seems peculiar that many Englishmen are not content to run any business at a loss, but farm is the case.

Now this may not be such a bad thing for Britain in the long run, because it has led to an influx of capital and new ideas into agriculture. It has led to a rise with the rapid mechanization and improvement of British agriculture. But it has its drawbacks, too, for it has meant that many "gentlemen farmers" cannot buy a farm for his son. It may encourage the break up of many an owner-tenant arrangement than the present system of tenancy. The inter-mingling of urban owners and investors with land farmers has a good effect, but all too often there is not sufficient interest, knowledge or capital in their urban contacts and have cultivated what are known sarcastically as the local people sometimes resent these outsiders. It is interesting, having read and admired Galsworthy one which is filled with possibilities for drama.

Diversity of Herds

The interest of the government in agriculture, and its willingness to assist is evidenced in every field. Britain has more artificial insemination units than any other country, with over 80 bulls at present engaged, and the average cost to a farmer is only 5/- for a service. This development has been promoted and established by the government. It is to my mind a step in the right direction, for if there is anything that one notices about English herds it is their diversity. Whereas in Ontario most herds are all of one breed, in England one can pick out at least two breeds on almost all farms. This generally leads to poorer stock, a willingness to keep any kind of herd sire, and a lack of pride and interest in the animals. The widespread development of artificial insemination should do much to remedy this situation.

In the case of Holsteins, I was very disappointed to hear that importations of Canadian stock had not been considered so successful as importations of Friesland, in spite of the fact that progeny of "Markmanor" three times All-Canadian Champion. were in the herd at Sandringham. The Holstein is almost the same as in Canada except for Supplementary Registration. A female which, though unregistered is considered to conform to type (even though she may be one-half Shorthorn) and meets certain standard of Performance specifications can be registered as Supplementary. A daughter of this animal and a registered sire is accepted as Supplementary B if she meets the same type and R. O. P. qualifications.



There are similar rules for daughters of a Supplementary B and Supplementary A. Supplementary D are accepted as bona fide registered animals. They are said to introduce a certain amount of new blood into the herd. I have not yet clearly ascertained why. Thousands of persons have suffered from duodenal ulcer for years on end, finally dying of some other complaint.

When, ulcer of the duodenum produces a scar which contracts the bowel, narrowing it to some degree—surgery is necessary for obstruction will eventually, of course, upon the degree of the obstruction. Bleeding or hemorrhage from a duodenal ulcer may occur when no obstruction is involved. Bleeding may be slow or it might be furious and terminate in death.

As a general rule, hemorrhage from duodenal ulcer is treated non-surgically. If the hemorrhage is persistant and uncontrollable, surgical intervention becomes necessary. This interference imposes upon the victim a life long procedure but one not conducted under ideal circumstances as far as surgical treatment of the ulcer is concerned. Inasmuch as most patients, with hemorrhage survive without surgery, the question of future management must be considered.

It being necessary to take a stand somewhere in the matter many surgeons subscribe to the view that a person who has suffered three consecutive hemorrhages from a bleeding duodenal ulcer should be operated upon without further ado.

The type of operation performed under the circumstances, depends upon the case and condition, if any, involved. If no obstruction exists, the nerve-cutting operation—"vagotomy"—may be employed, either with or without the removal of a portion of the stomach. Severe obstruction usually calls for removal of a considerable portion of the stomach—in

AFTER THE ULCERS STOP BLEEDING — THEN WHAT?

A bleeding peptic ulcer may be located either in the stomach or the adjacent bowel—very rarely in both. The high rate of development of cancer in ulcer conditions purely to the stomach, is such that the present consensus of informed opinion is that such cases, bleeding or not, should be operated upon without delay. An instrument has been devised which can be passed into the stomach, through the mouth. By this means an ulcer of the stomach may be viewed directly. Unfortunately, it can not always be determined by viewing the ulcer if this ulcer is benign or not if it is cancerous.

Ulcer of the duodenum—duodenal ulcer—is often included under the term "stomach ulcer." Actually, of course, it is not an ulcer of the stomach. Duodenal ulcer is rarely a cancerous one. Thousands of persons have suffered from duodenal ulcer for years on end, finally dying of some other complaint.

When, ulcer of the duodenum produces a scar which contracts the bowel, narrowing it to some degree—surgery is necessary for obstruction will, eventually, of course, upon the degree of the obstruction. Bleeding or hemorrhage from a duodenal ulcer may occur when no obstruction is involved. Bleeding may be slow or it might be furious and terminate in death.

As a general rule, hemorrhage from duodenal ulcer is treated non-surgically. If the hemorrhage is persistant and uncontrollable, surgical intervention becomes necessary. This interference imposes upon the victim a life long procedure but one not conducted under ideal circumstances as far as surgical treatment of the ulcer is concerned. Inasmuch as most patients, with hemorrhage survive without surgery, the question of future management must be considered.

It being necessary to take a stand somewhere in the matter many surgeons subscribe to the view that a person who has suffered three consecutive hemorrhages from a bleeding duodenal ulcer should be operated upon without further ado.

The type of operation performed under the circumstances, depends upon the case and condition, if any, involved. If no obstruction exists, the nerve-cutting operation—"vagotomy"—may be employed, either with or without the removal of a portion of the stomach. Severe obstruction usually calls for removal of a considerable portion of the stomach—in order to prevent the formation of a new ulcer from recontinued acid secretion of the stomach—with the creation of a new outlet.

The results of both types of surgery are variable. In general, they are very satisfactory. In competent hands and with, modern methods of preparation and postoperative management, the hazard is slight. Surprisingly slight handicap in eating—or digestion —follows. The patient soon gains weight and recovers vigor and zest for living.

However, these results are not entirely uniform. Some duodenal development of a "gastric cripple" following operation, has moved some surgeons to adopt a much more conservative attitude regarding surgical interference. They contend that if a person survived three hemorrhages he can probably survive more. Very often, of course, a person who has survived three hemorrhages has had all he wants and asks for surgical treatment.

Medical treatment of duodenal ulcer involving diet, and regulation of physical activities, medication and avoidance of emotional disturbance, as proved highly successful. If victims of ulcer would follow the rules laid out for them, hemorrhages probably would be far less frequent. If a person just simply will not follow the rules—if he wants to eat his cake and have it, surgery will appear more attractive to him.

The person who suffers a hemorrhage, and who upon recovery embarks upon a life of eating, drinking, smoking, dissipation and general disregard of the rules, is a fool for health, asking for surgery. For such a person, following his first hemorrhage surgery is probably the proper thing.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Poor Geek

Your article about the "poor geek" who went to plead with Mohammed, when he had seen arteriasclerosis in his forties proved a wonderful spiritual to my husband who had been worried about the hardening of arteries. I am all very grateful. (Mrs. W. A. J.)

Answer—It would be an extraordinary thing if a man should reach the age of forty without early carlovascular degeneration. That's why athletes generally decline rapidly.

COMMIES RELEASE PRIESTS

Hong Kong, April 20 — (Reuters) — Chinese communists Wednesday released three Irish Jesuit priests whom they arrested 15 days ago on the Macao border. The priests are Joseph Foley, of Limerick, Martin Cryan, of Galway, and Donald Taylor, County Mayo. Reports received in Hong Kong said the priests inadvertently entered Chinese territory while taking photographs on the frontier and were arrested on suspicion of spying.

MacKenzie's Column:

Ceiling Reached In Welfare Outlay, Britons Told

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, delivered notice in his parliamentary budget statement that the ceiling has been reached in welfare expenditures.

Conservative members of the House of Commons cheered this news of the Labor Chancellor's speech. However, his statement will come as a bad jolt to persons who are sweeping "cradle to grave social security."

Coupled with other signs, it supports the idea that Britain has reached the limit in its gallop, and may be pulling back towards "normalcy"—may be forced to do so by her natural position.

Public Disapproval

The narrow margin by which Labor won the last general election indicates that the public disapproval of the nationalization program and the Labor government has been treading circumspectly, and the use of the curb on the welfare program is part of this caution.

Sir Stafford was the most talked of man in Britain, next to Churchill, and there were many who predicted that Sir Stafford would one day be Prime Minister.

Sir Stafford is one of Britain's outstanding statesmen but, curiously enough, he is not popular—he isn't well acquainted with him. He lives within himself, a poor man's rich which is rather a pity because he is a personality who should be known to the British people better.

Before the war he was said to be the highest paid corporation lawyer in Britain, earning the handsome sum of $250,000 a year. However, he gave that up because he said, he was tired of lawsuits, "especially those of very rich men, one capitalist to give to another."

The Exchequer-Chancellor is reserved and lacks the warmth of the "universal" touch. He catches alcohol and is a vegetarian.

Religion plays a great part in

OF GREGORY CLARK

Bureaucracy might be described as an ant-hill dictatorship. It is dictatorship. Every time I go on several tens of thousands of peewee splinters, all of which, by some magnetic force exerted as pulp iron fillings into a string behind a magnet, are instantly aligned and assembled into the biggest dictator you ever saw on this earth.

A dictator is easily—and usually—overthrown. But not bureaucracy, in time grows big enough to have enough people copy from, and every family in the land into its membership. To get rid of a bureaucracy, there has to be a bloody revolution in every family, instead of merely in the palace yard.

There have been dozens of outstanding examples of bureaucracy in history. A bureaucracy is the inevitable combination of, and concentration of power in, administrative bureaus. Right now, the biggest, widest, and best allied world is governed by bureaucracies. Some are under the aegis of dictators, others under the aegis of parliaments or congresses. Some are timid and cautious; others bold and arrogant. But human freedom in the old sloppy sense of the words is mighty scarce and far back from the starting line of men left in the world who do not have to fill out forms. Every year in order merely to function in their daily tasks as breadwinners are those who have lost their freedom in jails or asylums.

Nobody can say at what point a bureaucracy is a good thing or a bad thing. It was a bad thing in Germany when the Jews deliberately seems agreed on that. But in the last hundred years, not only has the human race multiplied enormously, but its texture has altered. It could be that the only method by which present day society can successfully be governed is by a bureaucracy. In other words, a hundred men can do the work of one man, men cannot. There are just too damn many of us for comfort.

Plans to Raise $850,000 To Carry War Against Arthritis And Rheumatism in Canada

With a national objective of $850,000, with which to fight arthritis and rheumatism in Canada, the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society with campaign headquarters at Toronto will sponsor a fund raising campaign from May 1 to 15.

On recommendation of a conference called two years ago by the Department of Health and Welfare, the above society was formed in 1948 with divisions now having been set up in most of the provinces. Aims of the Society are to provide money for research and to establish or extend arthritis clinics and to provide mobile clinics to bring needed physiotherapy treatment into the homes of patients.

Second Only to Mental Illness

Arthritis and rheumatic diseases, it is pointed out, are second only to mental ills as human cripplers, costing Canadian business 9 1-2 million working days yearly and loss of $54,000,000 in wages. Relief and medical costs are extra.

So widespread is arthritis and rheumatism that 600,000 Canadians are suffering in varying degrees from mildly painful nuisance to total disability. Fifteen thousand are confined to bed or to wheel chairs, while 150,000 more are either totally or partially disabled.

Roughly one fourth of the objective, or $225,000 will be earmarked for research in all its phases, in the development of competent research workers. Fellowships will be provided in an effort to meet the acute shortage of physicians with special training in the treatment of rheumatic diseases. Arthritis clinics will be extended in co-operation with existing hospitals while mobile units will be provided to bring treatment right into the homes of patients.

Wide Application of Knowledge

Overnight miracles cannot be expected, it is warned but wide application of present knowledge combined with adequate facilities could do much to relieve human suffering, restore independent living and lift the burden of rheumatic diseases from the community.

The cause is a worthy one and much money is needed that the plans of the society can meet with success. Contributions should be sent to the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society 34 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ont.

TWEED

Rebekah Lodge Entertained by Oddfellows

Tweed (Special) —On Monday evening Tweed Oddfellows were at home at a social evening to their wives and members of the Rebekah Lodge. A variety program was presented with John O. Sager acting as chairman. After singing the National Anthem, W. M. Bush, Grand of Tweed Lodge extended a hearty welcome to all present. Norman Thompson led in the community singing. Joyce Jeffrey and Betty Montgomery delighted with several numbers of tap dancing. Carl Fisher sang two numbers in his Al Jolson style with Fred Porter at the piano. A reading by Mr. G. Cotton of Sulphide was much enjoyed by all present. A solo by Norman Thompson and a solo of western selections by Elmer Holmes with his own guitar accompaniment were well rendered. Mr. Wallace Johnston showed two colored films. The one was of the logging and sawing operations of the plant of the Sawyerstoll Lumber Co., at Maninaw Lake.

The musical part of the program concluded with the two girls doing some more tap-dancing and Elmer Holmes playing another solo.

Refreshments were served and the chairs were then placed back and dancing was enjoyed by a number for a short time.

Rabbi A.M. Babb Special Speaker At Kiwanis Club

By applying the scientific approach to human institutions as well as natural phenomena, all the energies that lead to violent social conflict will go into gradual construction and reconstruction Rabbi A. M. Babb said in an address entitled "The Passover and a Creed for Modern Youth" given at the Kiwanis Club luncheon on Tuesday.

Referring to the Jewish liberation from Egyptian bondage which the Passover festival commemorates, he said that, "freedom is a two edged sword which may cut him who uses it. Authority, on the other hand is a hammer which comes down heavily; it crushes out the soul of him who yields obedience, and brutalizes the soul of him who demands it."

Speaking about the modern problem of administrative control vs. individual freedom, he showed how the Mosaic law was a happy combination of the law of God and the freedom of man." He then called upon Youth to bring about an ethical and social conflict by applying the scientific approach to human relations, and by studying the facts of life with an open mind.

Should Study Religion

He showed that by studying comparative religion, for example, Youth would come to realize that all religions "are merely different methods by which their followers wish to make life livable and lovable—they would come to know that Judaism, Catholicism, Protestantism and Mohammedanism are only different paths leading to good life right here on earth."

The same approach must be applied to the customs, moralities and traditions which have come down to us through the ages, he continued.

"Next to the scientific approach in the call to Modern Youth," he said, "is the belief in the possibility of better things—a faith in human progress." This, he emphasized, meant that all individuals possessed great spiritual reservoir of goodness and generosity, and that we could improve life if we only knew how to tap these hidden resources of the world.

Must Guide Youth

Describing institutions that must be changed in this modern age, he declared that war must be outlawed and that a new form of patriotism must be established which finds a nation's purpose in its highest service to mankind. He said also that the worship of wealth for wealth's sake must be changed. Money is an instrument, that if misdirected, brings it own destruction, he declared.

He concluded by saying that Youth should live for the "fun of life" and rid the world of the pessimism that is in it today. The speaker was introduced by Sid Rose and Kiwanis appreciation was expressed by Herb Fox.

Reds Will Turn Monasteries Into Apartment Buildings

London, April 19. (AP) Czechoslovakia's communist-led government is going to turn many Roman Catholic monasteries into apartment buildings and social and health institutions, dispatches from Prague said Tuesday night.

The official Czechoslovak news agency, according to the reports, said the conviction of 10 monks April 5, for alleged anti-state activities had showed that many monasteries were harboring "hostile agents, spies and even murderers."

Ingredients: 1 lb. Canned Salmon, flaked; ½ cup grated cheese; 2 eggs, well beaten; 1 cup. milk; 2 tablespoons melted butter; 8 rolled crackers; juice of 1 lemon. Directions: Combine Salmon and cheese, add beaten eggs and milk. Pour into buttered casserole. Cover with buttered cracker crumbs. Over all pour lemon juice. Cover, set casserole in pan of water and bake in moderate oven, 350-375° F., for 30 minutes. This Canned Salmon Casserole serves 4.

Appreciative thanks are extended to all those who assisted in making the social such a fine success.

WEDDINGS

SCOTT—LEWORTHY

Quietly at the parsonage of King Street United Church, Trenton, Ont., on Friday afternoon, April 14, the marriage took place of Mrs. Anne Leworthy of Catherine Street, Trenton, to Mr. Fred Scott, of Laura, Saskatchewan, the Rev. G. J. Minielly, officiating.

The bride was becomingly attired in a suit of gray with navy accessories, and she wore a corsage of red roses.

Her only attendant was Mrs. J. Luffman, of Tweed, who wore a suit of navy blue, with corsage of red roses.

Mr. Leonard Wood of Belleville, cousin of the groom, was the groomsman.

After a dinner at the Dutch Mill Inn, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wood in Belleville, for the immediate relatives.

The happy couple will reside in Trenton.

EVANS—HART

On Wednesday, April 12, in Bridge Street United Church, a lovely wedding was solemnized by the Reverend Donald C. Snelgrove in a beautiful service before a background of lilies and daffodils, when Jessie Lettie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hart, of Maynooth, was united in marriage to Donald Grant Evans, son of Constable W. T. Evans and Mrs. Evans of Belleville.

Mr. Harold McNish, guest organist, rendered the wedding music, and Mr. Jack Andrews, soloist, sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer", and during the signing of the register, "Because".

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. B. Reddit, of Trenton, was charming in her bridal gown of white satin and lace. A sweetheart liere of lace and satin fashioned the skirt, while the bodice featured a sweetheart neckline, and long, tight-fitting sleeves ending in lily points at the wrists. Her full length veil of tulle illusion was caught by a halo of the same with matching lace and pearl ornaments, and she carried a cascade bouquet of mixed carnations lace fern.

Miss Kay Hart, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, gowned in peach taffeta, with matching veil and gloves. She carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations.

Mr. William Fulton, of Belleville, was groomsman, and the ushers, Mr. Bill Gilbert, and Mr. Bruce Burns, both of Belleville.

The reception was held at the church parlors, where the guests were received by the bridal party. The bride's mother was gowned in royal blue with white accessories and corsage of Sweetheart roses, and the bridegroom's mother in navy blue with matching accessories, and corsage of Sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa and Niagara Falls, N.Y., the bride chose a navy blue suit with navy and pink accessories, and corsage of roses. Upon their return, the couple will reside at Maconochie Gardens, Belleville.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored by a miscellaneous shower given at the home of Mrs. Roluf, Bridge Street East, when Mrs. J. McCaw and Mrs. Leo Roluf were hostesses.

$300 FINE FOR ILLEGAL STRIKE

Ottawa, April 20 — (CP) — A fine of $500 and costs was levied against the Ottawa local of the Plumbers and Pipefitters Union for conducting an illegal strike. The Union had been convicted in Magistrate's Court one week ago of conducting an illegal strike contrary to provisions of Ontario labor regulations.

About 60 plumbers and plumbers' helpers downed tools January 9, seeking a 30-cents-an-hour wage boost. More than 300 still are on strike.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

Cottage cheese has no nationality.

Every other cheese has its country of origin. Cheddar cheese comes from proud ancestry to England. Blue cheese hails from France, Gorgonzola from Italy. But cottage cheese is the simple homey food eaten in every land where milk is produced.

There is as much protein in a pound of cottage cheese as in a pound of meat. Because of its mild, slightly acid taste people find it easy to eat and refreshing any time of the year.

In the spring especially cottage cheese can be adapted as the principal ingredient in many delicious luncheon and dinner dishes. Hot pancakes, for instance, filled with cottage cheese, rolled and served with jam is a light luncheon dish that combines main course and dessert in one.

Noodle and cottage cheese casserole will satisfy those who prefer a dairy plate for dinner instead of meat. About 20 minutes are needed to bake this dish in a moderate oven. To make it smooth, the cottage cheese should be put through a large-mesh wire strainer or similar.

If you want to give a meat flavor to the casserole, a small quantity of finely diced cooked ham or tongue may be added before baking.

Drop the contents of a 6-ounce package of medium-size noodles into 2 quarts of boiling water to which 2 teaspoons salt have been added. Cook until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain. Soak in cold water 15 minutes. Drain thoroughly.

Wash 1-4 pound fresh mushrooms. Cut into 1-4 inch thick slices. Place in a pan with 1 tablespoon melted fat and simmer until mushrooms are tender, about 5 minutes.

Place 1 cup sour cream in a mixing bowl. Add 1 teaspoon flour, 1 slightly beaten egg, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons grated onion. Mix well.

Add 1 cup cottage cheese and mix well. Add mushrooms. Combine drained noodles and sour cream-cottage cheese mixture. Place in a greased casserole or baking dish.

Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Bake in a moderate over 375 degrees 20-26 minutes or until brown.

Judge Anderson Speaks on Duties Of his Office

The Soroptimist Club dinner meeting was held Monday evening in Latimer's Town Room. The tables were tastefully decorated with spring flowers.

Mrs. Morley Davidson was given a corsage and contributed four very enjoyable numbers, "Rain" by Pearl Curran, "A Little Song of Life" by Mallotte, "Love is in my Heart" by Woodman and "The Loyal Lover" by Deems Taylor. Mrs. Davidson was accompanied by S. Alec Gordon. Club appreciation was expressed to the artists by Lucietta Stirland.

Tickets were sold and a draw conducted on an afghan that had been made by Frances Bennett, the lucky winner was Dr. Matheson.

Dr. Lily B. Mathieson who is Regional Chairman of the Fellowship Committee spoke briefly on the work of her committee. Considerable planning and preparation has already been done in the fields of music, art and medicine. Eastern Canada Region expects to grant a $1500 Fellowship in 1951 to some woman of outstanding ability in one of these fields. This will be declised at the forthcoming convention in Windsor. Under the latter part of April, Helen Keeler thanked Dr. Mathieson for her contribution to the Fellowship Committee.

Judge Anderson Speaker

Judge J. C. Anderson, County Court Judge was introduced by Gladys MacDonald. He spoke on the duties and responsibilities of his position. Under the English Rule of Law a person is innocent until proven guilty, and if there is any doubt, the accused is entitled to the benefit of it. In some countries a person is charged with an offence and must prove their innocence.

One of the duties of a County Court Judge is to preside at cases in the Division Courts, where cases involving amounts up to $250.00 are tried. There are 24 Division Courts in this district and during 1949 seventy-three days were spent in holding these courts.

The County Court deals with civil matters involving up to $1000.00. There are four sittings each year, with a jury and two without. There is also the Court of General Sessions where offenders against Criminal Law with certain exceptions are tried, a person up for trial may elect to be tried either by the judge, or by the judge and jury.

Settles Estates

Other duties include business in connection with the settling of estates, applications for letters administration for those who die intestate, and probation of wills. During the past year 321 such applications were dealt with also 30 audit hearings conducted of the accounts of administrators of estates.

The completion of adoptions under the Adoption Act are also in this jurisdiction. An average of forty to fifty adoptions are completed each year.

The Juvenile Court and the Family Court recently set up here are presided over by the County Court Judge. The Juvenile Court deals with juveniles up to 16 years of age. In this court the emphasis is on reform rather than punishment. Every effort is made to prevent them from becoming repeaters.

Cases in connection with Rental Control, dealing with Landlord and Tenant, disputes are heard, there having been 26 such cases last year.

Applications for citizenship are dealt with. Fifty-one new Canadians were granted citizenship last year. It was suggested that a personal interest should be taken in these new Canadians.

Several amusing incidents were related in connection with the conduct of the courts.

A short business session followed.

$5,000 Prizes Proposed for Books To Aid Literature

Ottawa, April 19—(CP)—Annual book prizes of not less than $5,000 were suggested today by Canadian publishers as a means of stimulating development of a lagging national literature in Canada.

The publishers, represented by the book publishers' branch of the Toronto Board of Trade, said in a brief before the Massey Commission of Arts, that these prizes should be attached to each of the Governor — General's medals awarded annually for outstanding Canadian literary achievement.

The publishers also urged that the eight-per-cent sales tax on certain types of books be eliminated and that books in the mail be classified with newspapers and magazines to save them handling costs.

It believed too, that the railways should reclassify freight charges on books as second and fourth-class shipments instead of first and third class, to bring Canadian freight charges more in line with what the lower rates charged in the United States.

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

You do not need a half acre of land to grow flowers. One of the most enthusiastic gardeners I know applies her talents successfully to four window boxes, two hanging baskets and a few old yard pails. The lack of suitable location for annual and perennial beds in no way curbs her desire for bright color at the front of the house. No one can pass that way without noticing the beauty of these miniature "gardens".

It's catching, too! Just since she moved there three years ago others have been paying more attention to the beauty of their property. Soon the whole district will reflect a brighter, more cheerful appearance.

Double Its Worth

Are you an auction sale fan? I could be after the last I had when I stopped to see why all the cars were parked around a fine house down Oshawa way. I found myself caught in a surging crowd and evidently nodded my head at the wrong time only to find myself the owner of a small square table! Thank goodness the auctioneer didn't have a license to sell another hat pavel! However, it gave me an opportunity to try out an idea seen in a magazine. Now there are two half tables, each performing valiant service, one in the upper and one in the lower hallway. It worked so well I'm passing the idea along to you.

Gay Bottles

Nothing can add color to a window ledge or shelf like gayly decorated bottles. I have often admired their odd shapes and sizes in other people's homes, but never thought of making them. Just last week I saw a large collection displayed in the window of a small village store and learned from the proprietor that they are made his own. After one easy lesson I'm right in the business myself! ...

PICTON

Golf and Country Club Reports Successful Season at Annual

Picton — Reports at the annual meeting of Picton Golf and Country Club Wednesday night indicated a very successful season last year. Plans for 1956 should result in even greater interest.

President H. B. Tully welcomed more than fifty members at a dinner at the Royal Hotel. Secretary-treasurer Nesbitt McKibbon reported receipts of $3,174.48 and expenditures of $2,597.21, leaving a balance of $577.27.

Early days of the club were recalled by E. A. Pearce, who also paid tribute to the late Fred Healey. Members observed a minute of silence in memory of one who had been a generous supporter of the club.

Training of some Boy Scouts to act as caddies was suggested by Mr. Victor Lord. Mrs. E. A. Pearce and Mr. John Arnaud thought an attempt should be made to attract more young people, even though they are well represented at present.

Dr. C. S. Slack congratulated the president, and captain of the games committee on their work. He felt the club house could be improved. A film "Par Breakers" in color showed the Canadian golf championships.

Elect Officers

In the month's election, Dr. Gordon Caughey was elected president, John Arnaud, vice president, Nesbitt McKibbon, secretary; Victor Lord, chairman games committee; Gordon Campbell, chairman greens committee; H. B. Tully house chairman; Don Andrews, membership chairman, and Cal. Spencer, auditor.

The ladies' section elected Mrs. B. Morden as president; Mrs. J. Pickering and Mrs. J. Arnaud, vice presidents; Mrs. Calvin Spencer, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. E. A. Pearce, chairman games committee; Mrs. Gordon Whallan and Mrs. D. P. Pyke, house committee; Mrs. G. N. McKibbon, Mrs. E. L. Bronskill, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. H. B. Tully, tea committee; Mrs. E. A. Pearce, captain; Miss Betty Brown vice captain.

Trophies and prizes were presented by H. B. Tully, Lorne Pickering, E. A. Pearce, Miss Marjorie Wright, R. E. Tassel, Dr. C. S. Slack, George Fraser, Miss Betty Brown, Mrs. R. B. Tully, Mrs. B. D. Morden. Those were won as follows:

Allison Cup, spring handicap—Capt. Silpitz; D. P. Pyke, runner-up. Bristol Cup, club championship, D. P. Pyke; John Fraser, runner-up. D'Eterre Trophy, Don Andrews; George Kinney, runner-up.

Two-ball mixed foursome — Mrs. E. A. Pearce, Victor Lord; Miss Marjorie Wright, L.-B. Callaghan, runners-up.

Carter-Cup, flag competition, Don Andrews; J. E. A. Wright, runner-up.

Healey Trophy, R. B. (Mickey) Pyke.

The Branscombe Trophy, open to clubs within a 150 mile radius of Picton, is now held by Kingston.

Ladies' trophies were won as follows: Leavens' Cup, club championship, Mrs. E. A. Pearce; Miss M. Wright, runner-up. Redmond Cup, handicap, Miss Pat Pyke; Mrs. Pearce runner-up. Currie Cup, bogey, Mrs. Pearce; Miss Betty Brown, runner-up.

Farmers Agree to Calf Vaccination

Picton, —Over 95 per cent of the farmers of Amelisburg Township have agreed to have their calves vaccinated as future protection against Bang's Disease, in their herds, the local agricultural Office reports. Nineteen canvasers reported, that on making a total of 253 calls on township farmers, only six definitely objected to co-operating with the scheme. The canvassers were particularly pleased with the reception given.

Under the chairmanship of D. K. Spencer, the volunteer canvassers have agreed to accompany the veterinarian on a contact call on a farmer on his particular

It was decided to sponsor a meeting in Amelisburg Township Hall on April 20, with a special speaker from the Ontario Veterinary College and films on the subject.

Guernsey Club Holds Meeting

Picton — The new District Guernsey Club had a very successful barn meeting recently at the Sun Joy Farm of Keith Van Dusen, Cherry Valley Road. Approximately 30 Guernsey enthusiasts from the four district counties were present.

A demonstration of preparing an animal for the showring and judging practices conducted by Mr. A. O. Dairymple, Agricultural Representative of Hastings County and Mr. W. N. T. Ashton, Agricultural Representative of Lennox-Addington counties, were followed with a great deal of interest. Mr. Bruce Hodgins, secretary of the Ontario Guernsey Breeders was at the meeting and brought the group up-to-date with news and reports of the program of the Ontario Club.

MELROSE

Melrose — Mr. and Mrs. Al. Newton and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Newton of Peterborough spent a recent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Macfarlane.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Badgley lately visited Mr. and Mrs. Pascoe Jr. of Moscow.

A successful sale of farm stock and implements was held at the farm of Mr. Jas. Murphy on Wednesday last, Mr. Murphy's health prevents him from continuing to operate his farm.

The Body in the Ravine

By Lloyd Carr

Tim grimaced and shook his head. "That was poor, even among puns," he said. "But here's the thing: there's been a murder committed here at the lodge and some one of the guests or employees is guilty." He gave Jean a sharp glance. "Understand, Jean: this is absolutely serious and if we're going to find out who did it, I'm going to have to depend on your keeping everything secret between us."

"You mean you're really serious?" Jean leaned forward in her chair, cupping her chin in her hands and turning her wide blue eyes toward Tim.

"Couldn't be more so," Tim replied.

Jean was silent and thoughtful for a moment, and then at last she said "all right, Tim, I'll work along with you."

"Swell," Tim said. "Now, how well do you know Mort Taylor. Pretty well, eh?"

Jean nodded. "Yes, I know him well enough. Lee is my cousin and for years she's also been my best friend. It's just because of her that I know Mort."

Jean frowned and studied the backs of her hands for a moment before answering. Then she said "your questions are taking a strange turn, Tim. I don't like to talk about Mort and Lee even though I have sounded like I enjoyed gossiping about them."

"I'm sorry," Tim said. "What I really was trying to find out was whether you liked Mort as a friend or regarded him merely as a relative."

"Well—"

"No," Tim interrupted, "let's skip that for a while. What about Jake Carson? What sort of a geut is he?"

"Jake?" Jean thought for a moment. "First of all I'd say he was about the mostest man I've ever known. He's devoted to Claire but at times you'd think he hated her and I don't think Claire would care too much if he decided he said hate her and left her for good."

Tim was phrasing his next question when Jake and Claire came in. They saw Jean and Tim sitting there and came over and joined them. Jean made the introductions and Tim observed again that they'd very obviously been drinking cocktails. Claire's eyes were wide and aralificially bright.

He didn't know whether it was from the liquor or from something she put in them. The latter wasn't too remote a possibility because hers was the theatrical type of makeup throughout. Her eyelids were darkened with purple shadow, her lashes were incredibly long; her figure, which inclined toward being large, was remarkable in its resemblance to Mae West's. Her richly manicured hands were soft, almost flabby, when she reached out to clasp Tim's at their introduction.

Jake was red-eyed as usual, his lean face and stiff black hair giving a harsh, almost dissipated background to the unclear eyes. His handshake was firm but he showed no interest in the meeting, only nodded brusquely and immediately looked around for a chair and dropped into it.

Jean and Claire, sitting side by side now on the couch that faced the fireplace, got into a conversation that carried along in low tones and Tim, sitting across from Jake with the width of the fireplace between them found himself willing to remain as quiet as Carson.

A few moments later Greg and Diane arrived and Tim got up to greet the sliding couple with them. Jean and the Carsons said that they would wait for Mort, so they parted.

Seated in the dining room and finding it empty for themselves, Tim leaned over the edge of the table and said in a low voice, "You didn't happen to see Sid anywhere while you were out fishing, did you?"

"Yes," Diane said excitedly. And then she told him about their being concealed in the inlet and watching Sid dump something heavy into the water up near the big Thurman house.

Tim nodded quietly but his sudden pallor didn't escape Diane. He wished he could be more casual about all this, but the horror of it was definitely getting him down.

"Tim," Diane said in a strained voice "was that thing that he threw in the water—was that—?

Again Tim nodded. "That was Bruce Thurman," he said.

A little gasp escaped Diane but Greg remained completely unruffled only quietly laying a hand on Diane's and giving hers a little squeeze. "Sid always did hate Bruce, him," Greg said, "but I never thought it would go that far."

The Enrights came in then, followed shortly by four guests Tim didn't know by name. Grace Thurman had been trying to make feel at home—and the conversation, by mutual consent, was dropped. Twice during the meal Greg tried to stir up a conversation about fishing but the results were so discouraging he gave up at last.

Grace Thurman and Mort Taylor arrived just as Tim and the Lasvella were getting up from the table. Grace looked completely unstrung, the color all gone from her face and her hair, usually so orderly, hanging in desparing strands around her neck. She didn't seem to notice anyone, and they heard her tell Mort that she wasn't going to eat and for them to go right ahead; she'd grab a bite later.

The afternoon sun had warmed the air considerably and it wasn't too uncomfortable sitting on the porch outside the lounge. Tim promptly took up the conversation where it had been dropped.

"I don't think Sid killed Bruce," he said. "In the first place, he accused me of doing it."

"You!" Diane exclaimed incredulously.

"Should think that would almost convict him," Greg said heavily. "He'd naturally try to throw suspicion on someone."

"That's possible," Tim conceded "but I'm remembering what Joe Gage said. He told me that when he talked to Grace last night she said she'd rather Bruce dead than back on the booze."

"But that's impossible!" Diane said excitedly. "She couldn't have killed her own son!"

"You wouldn't think so," Tim said noncommittally. "On the other hand, Sid made a crack that might be significant. When he told me that he'd thrown Bruce's body in the lake he said, 'that was right. That was the place —you know!' Well, of course I didn't know, but I've a hunch it ties up with Emery Thurman in some way. That's where he is in the lake."

"Oh Greg!" Diane exclaimed, her voice trembling, "do you remember what we were talking about when we saw Sid? The way he looked then I said he must be throwing Bruce in the water, that must be it because Bruce was missing! Greg wasn't that—wasn't it hideous?"

"Take it easy darling," Greg said softly, affectionately. "We didn't know." He turned to Tim. "How'd you know Bruce was dead?"

Tim explained about finding the body in the ravine, being seen by Sid after he'd emerged from behind the bush. He told how excited Sid's scrutiny of his shoes as he sat in the lounge when Sid was cleaning up around the fireplace and suggested that seeing his footprints matched the body must have convinced Sid that he'd killed Bruce.

"It seemed to me," he said then following the same train of thought, that Sid was awfully impertinent with Grace Thurman He must have something on her or she wouldn't keep him around, the way he talks to her."

Greg considered that for a moment, then said "he's a pretty good workman, Tim, and he's been here a long time. He's a lot more insolent than he used to be but I think that's just because his boss is a woman. He was all right with Grace and even with Bruce before Emery died, when he had a man bossing him."

"I can't believe that, Tim," Diane put in. "I've known the Thurmans for years—"

"I know Di," Tim replied gently, "it does seem terrible to talk like this about people you know, but there's been one murder that we know of and there may have been another. And maybe by disclosing the facts of one we'll learn something about the other. The second one might explain the first, or vice versa."

London Dock Strike May Paralyze Port

London, April 20 — (Reuters) — The London dock strike today threatened complete paralysis of this great port. More than 6,000 workers were idle.

Out of 88 vessels in the docks, 35 — most of them carrying food for Britain's rationed larders — were idle. Twelve more were undermanned.

Leaders of the unofficial stoppage, called in protest against a union's expulsion of three longshoremen who led last summer's dispute, now threaten to bring out longshoremen in every British port.

The leaders were stumping the Thames quaysides today to get all 27,000 London longshoremen into the strike. They were also communicating with workers in other British ports and members of the huge Transport and General workers Union in other industries.

Smelt Fishermen Wear Frog Suits To Net Hauls

Burlington, April 19 — (CP) — "Frog Suits," rubber suits used in wartime by men who planted underwater explosives were worn Tuesday night by some of the hundreds of smelt fishermen out along the shores of Lake Ontario and Burlington Bay.

Keith Waddell of Waterloo, Ont., and a friend had the frog suits on when they waded out to the water. They took home four bushels of smelt, weighing about 200 pounds altogether.

As he watched other fishermen in hip boots wading out until the water went over the boot tops, Waddell said:

"There are so many fishermen here that you have to wade out fifio deep water. The only way to get a big catch is to come with a frog suit that will encase you in rubber right up to the neck.

Dudley Hitchcox, Halton County game warden, said he had never before seen so many smelt—or so many fishermen.

"People have been coming from Kitchener, Listowel, Brantford, St. Catharines—in fact, almost any place you want to name."

Toronto, April 19 — (CP) — The smelt run should be "reasonably good" at many points along the lower lakes during the coming weekend, provided weather conditions remain suitable, the Lands Department said today.

South or west winds are most favorable for the area.

"The smelt run started in the Bay of Quinte district Saturday and in the Magetawan River in Parry Sound district Monday," the department announced. "Smelt also being taken in the vicinity of Hamilton beach.

"Between Jordan and Queenston on the Lake Ontario shore of the Niagara peninsula, smelt fishermen have had some success during the last week.

CAN'T PRAISE SYNTONA ENOUGH FOR RELIEF IT BROUGHT TO ME

MR. T. R. ELLIOTT

More and more people every day are praising Syntona Herbal Compound. The fine relief this medicine gives from common disorders of the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, nervousness, rheumatic pain and general rundown condition has been the subject of wide discussion in this city for a number of years. Thousands of men and women have benefited through its use and continue to use it as a standard remedy to help them maintain better health.

An example of the good results Syntona gives is found in the recent report of Mr. T. R. Elliott, 341 Waterloo St., London, Ontario, who said:

"My stomach had been giving me trouble for several months. After my meals I would bloat up with gas and have cramps accompanied by sour acid stomach. I was troubled with constipation, had to get up nights, and could not get a restful sleep. In the mornings I felt fatigued and depressed.

"A friend persuaded me to try Syntona and I cannot praise this medicine enough for the grand relief it brought me. It cleared up all the gas, sourness and distress in my stomach. I don't feel nervous as I did before and I sleep soundly and restful sleep. I have no trouble now with constipation. Am so much better that even my work seems easier."

Why not give this pure herbal compound a chance to help you, too. It is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you too.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1950.

Red River in Flood Threatens Large Area of South Manitoba, Full Fury Yet to Come

Winnipeg, April 20 — (CP)— Tributaries turned into racing torrents by spring ice break-ups Wednesday night fed the greedy Red River and threatened widespread floods to southern Manitoba from the international border to Winnipeg.

Patrols are watching for ice jams which might cause the Red to back up and burst its banks in a weak spot.

The full fury of the rising river is still to come, said engineers, as levels showed a steady rise at Emerson on the international border at Morris, 30 miles north. Road and Rail Disrupted

Conditions were easing in some afflicted areas. A violent tide of runoff water which had swamped five southern Manitoba towns began to recede Wednesday night, but road and rail communications still were disrupted.

Residents of Letellier, 90 miles south of Winnipeg, were awakened early Wednesday by the peal of the town's fire bell—signal that the town was in danger from floods. By mid-afternoon parts of the town were under four feet of water although later the water receded a bit. Some residents said they were awakened by the roar of the rushing waters.

The town's one hotel, the Queens, was jammed with 125 to 150 homeless persons. Other townspeople were forced to set up quarters in coaches of a Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train stranded in the town. The school was closed. Town officials estimated 40 to 50 families had to evacuate their homes.

Garageman Johnny Enns said that "no ice is in sight yet but hasn't broken up much and that's holding the water back. But if that ice goes it will, then just won't be a fool of dry land left in this town."

Fifteen families in the Red River village of Morris prepared to evacuate by Saturday. At this point the Red rose 12 inches Wednesday and the Morris River, a tributary of the main stream, rose higher.

Fear of heavy ice jamming the Morris has resulted in farmers moving their grain to elevators. Livestock also was being moved.

At Gretna, near Morris and at Emerson, flood water receded after residents cut the nearby Canadian Pacific Railway tracks to permit a runoff to the east.

Conditions were similar in four other southern Manitoba towns — Rosenfeld, Hourndean, Altona and Plum Coulee.

The three-quarter-mile road between Selkirk, 25 miles north of Winnipeg, and East Selkirk was under four feet of water.

At Winnipeg the river rose to 15.2 feet — a rise during the day of 1.8 feet and about three feet below flood stage.

DUCKS PROVE COSTLY

Chateauguay, Que., April 20 — (CP) — Mayor Fortunat Crepin of this Chateauguay River village, his son, J. P. Crepin, and J. P. Sabourin paid fines of $40 each and costs Tuesday for shooting ducks out of season. Game wardens, who seized their guns, said they caught the three with 15 dead ducks in their possession.

Changes Made In Legal Bags Speckled Trout

Special fishery regulations for Ontario amended on recommendation of the Divisions of Fish and Wild Life of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests by federal authorities provide the following changes.

The open season for speckled trout will commence April 29th.

The bag limit is now— ten per day, not less than seven inches in length or not exceeding five pounds in weight, if taken from waters in Norfolk County.

Fifteen per day, not less than seven inches in length or not exceeding five pounds in weight if taken from waters other than those in Norfolk County.

The open season for yellow pickerel in 1950 will commence on May 13th.

American Press Advised 'Improve, Not be Police'

Washington, April 20. (AP)— The American Society of Newspaper Editors was advised by its president today to bend its efforts toward improving newspapers in the United States— without trying to exercise police powers.

Ben M. McKelway, editor of the Washington Star, in a message to the nearly 400 editors opened up a topic expected to provide some fireworks at the A.S.N.E.'s annual meeting here.

Some editors, McKelway noted, have urged that the society eject from membership or otherwise discipline any newspaper it deems "guilty of malpractice". He argued against that, saying that the U.S. should preserve its role as an advocate of higher newspaper standards rather than adopt that of "policeman, judge or jury."

"Our experience, and not lack of courage, should make us cautious of any proposition to set ourselves up as an organization that passes judgment upon the performance of American newspapers." This group is headed by J. Donald Ferguson, president and editor of the Milwaukee Journal.

Dewey Approves Toll Bridge Plan

Albany, N.Y., April 20. (AP)— Governor Thomas E. Dewey today approved creation of a bridge authority to construct and operate a toll bridge across the St. Lawrence River, at or near Ogdensburg.

Before construction may begin, the authority must obtain approval of the federal and Canadian governments.

Dewey vetoed a similar bill last year. He said it had "grave defects".

The new law gives the bridge authority power to purchase a Canadian-owned ferry operating between Ogdensburg and the village of Prescott, Ont.

The authority will consist of five members, to be appointed by the governor for staggered terms ranging from two to six years. Future appointments will be for five-year terms.

ONE KILLED; FIVE INJURED

Bombay, April 20 — (Reuters) — One person was killed and five others were injured Wednesday when police opened fire on refugees from West Pakistan in a displaced persons camp in Bombay. The firing followed attacks by a refugee crowd on police who had gone to the camp to enforce attachment warrants on some refugee tenants for failure to pay rent.

Lt. Col. E.A. Geen Honored By Customs Colleagues On Retirement From Service

Culminating 37 years' service with the department at Belleville Lieut. Col. E. A. Geen, local customs and excise collector, has been superannuated, his retirement going into effect on Monday, April 17th.

In honor of the retiring customs collector, employees of the local branch of the Department Saturday evening tendered Col. Geen a farewell party at the Motel Quinte when approximately 50 persons were in attendance. Col. Geen was presented with a handsome travelling bag, while Mrs. Geen received a travelling case.

In attendance at the party, along with a number of close friends of Col. and Mrs. Geen was J. E. Williams, Ottawa, assistant director of Excise Duty, who presented Col. Geen with a motel scroll in recognition of his lengthy service with the department.

Also receiving a merit scroll from Mr. Williams was F. W. Sprague of this city, former chief excise officer who retired some time ago. Max Mathews acted as chairman, while entertainment for the evening included solos by tenor J. Bankier; piano selections by Kaye Martin and tap dancing by petite Miss F. Smith.

Started With Bank

A former employee of the Dominion Bank with service at Belleville, Kitchener, Marmora, and Huntsville, Col. Geen joined the customs service in April 1913 as one of four preventive officers at Belleville. One year later in 1914 he answered the call of his country and joined His Majesty's Services, going overseas as a private with the 21st Battalion. He returned to Canada in the latter part of 1917 with the rank of Lieutenant, resuming his position with the customs.

He was made collector at the Belleville customs in 1918.

Volume of business at the local customs office has increased tremendously during the past 32 years, according to Col. Geen. In 1913 three was a staff of four preventive officers and the collector. Today the normal complement of the local office is 24. Collection dollar range between five and ten millions per year, the peak being reached in 1948.

However, this is for the now combined offices of inland revenue and customs, which departments were amalgamated in 1918.

Following the First World War Col. Geen made his home interred in the military and became associated with the local Argyll Mounted Rifles and Col. Geen rose through the ranks until he was made Lieut. Colonel.

Would Remove Power to Control Commercial Radio

Ottawa, April 19 (CP)—Canadian advertisers today urged that the power to control commercial radio should be taken away from the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

The Association of Canadian Advertisers, representing some 150 major Canadian industries, said in a brief before the Massey Commission on Arts that it did not oppose the principle of government regulation of broadcasting.

"Our disapproval is directed exclusively toward the provisions of the statutes which give the CBC anomalous powers over an industry in which the CBC itself competes."

Turning to other cultural developments, the association invited the government to join with it in the creation of an independent public-service body to promote non-political national projects in the public interests.

The advertisers believed they could play a major role in the expansion of Canadian culture, just as it has already ocome a major factor in the pre-servation of freedom of choice.

12 FORCED OUT BY FIRE

Ottawa, April 20. (CP)—Twelve persons were forced from their home Wednesday night when fire broke out in a three-story frame rooming house.

The blaze, believed caused by overheated furnace pipes, caused not more than $2,500 damage, but the tenants were unable to return to their quarters and sought shelter with friends and relatives for the night.

KILLED ACCIDENTALLY IN HOME

Medicine Hat, Alta., April 20— (CP) — Mrs. Helen Bliss, 17-year-old bride of two months, was killed Wednesday night in a shooting accident at her home. Police said she was killed by a bullet from a .22 calibre rifle in the hands of a younger member of the family. The rifle was being carried into the house when it accidentally discharged.

Disease New, to B.C. Causes 50,000 Fowl to be Destroyed, Virus Resembles Influenza

New Westminster, B.C., April 20—(CP)—One of the top industries of the fertile lower Fraser Valley is facing perhaps the gravest peril of its existence.

A disease new to British Columbia has caused almost 50,000 egg-producing and breeding stock poultry to be destroyed in the last few weeks. The area supports an estimated 3,000,000 head.

The disease, Newcastle Disease, a virus infection resembling influenza in humans, which attacks mature stock and forces affected birds, eggs and poults to be destroyed.

Affected farms are quarantined by inspectors of the Dominion Health of Animals Branch. Farmers are reimbursed two-thirds of vaule for slain stock.

Newcastle Disease has been traced back to Asia but first was located in England in the city from which it derives its name. Western Canada and Saskatchewan have reported some incidence but British Columbia's outbreak is believed by federal authorities to have come from breeding stock shipments from the United States.

New Westminster, B.C., April 20—(CP)—A warning that a disease among Fraser Valley poultry flocks might spread poliomyelitis was given Wednesday by City Health Officer Dr. E. W. Wyde.

Dr. Wyde said there was no proof that Newcastle Disease in poultry would transmit the polio virus but advised housewives to serve their eggs hard-boiled until the epidemic is over.

Nearly 50,000 birds have been ordered killed in recent weeks in an effort to halt Newcastle Disease, new to British Columbia.

Dr. Wyde said thorough cooking would destroy any virus that might be carried in the eggs of diseased chickens.

Indonesians Take Makassar Without Fight

Jakarta, Indonesia, April 20 — (AP) —Federal Indonesian troops have occupied Makassar without a fight, the Indonesian news agency Antara reported today from the capital of East Indonesia.

The Indonesian government Wednesday ordered the surrender of rebel troops who seized the South Celebes city two weeks ago. The surrender without bloodshed followed the landing of the 700-man battalion of 900 federal soldiers about 40 miles south of Makassar.

Antara reported eight other Federal battalions were mobilizing or were en route to occupy the South Celebes area, the centre of the East Indonesia state.

GIRL KIDNAPPED

Toronto, April 20 — (CP) — Penny Elias, 23, told police she was kidnapped by two men Wednesday night while sitting in an automobile in East York with her escort. She was released unharmed about a mile from the scene. She said the men approached the parked car, robbed Robert Ferry, 24, of $3 and then ordered him out of the suit.

Campaigns for Publication of Swinburne Work

London, April 20 (CP)—Woodrow Wyatt, Labor Member of Parliament, said today he will continue his campaign against the British Museum's decision to withhold the manuscript of an unpublished novel by Algernon Swinburne.

The manuscript deals with flagellation.

Swinburne died in 1909. It is generally accepted that he would have been poet laureate to Queen Victoria if William Ewart Gladstone Prime Minister at the time had considered him suitable.

Wyatt told the House that Swinburne's unpublished novel had been bought before the war with public money for a collection known as the Ashley Library. Late; the British Museum had refused to allow the document to be inspected by an English author named Randolph Hughes.

In so doing, Wyatt said, the museum's director appeared to be committing an illegal act, since it was laid down in the reign of King George II that any studious or curious persons who wanted to see documents should be allowed to do so.

"You can quote us..." say the ALLANS

"IT WAS JUST LIKE A MIRACLE," says Mrs. George Allan, 890 Garfield St., Winnipeg, Man., "the way KEM-TONE covered our old dirty walls with just one coat.

You, too, will like the way KEM-TONE covers more surfaces in one coat, without primer or sealer, and dries to a lovely, washable, matte finish. KEM-TONE is not a water paint . . . it's a resin and OIL finish that mixes with water and flows on quickly and smoothly from brush or Roller-Koater.

EDWIN A. ALLAN
1-1731 Franklin St.,
Vancouver, B.C.

"KEM-TONE is by far the easiest working paint I have ever used. It only seems a matter of minutes before I finished the whole room."

EASY TO APPLY.

MRS. M. ALLAN
1128 - 12th St. South,
Lethbridge, Alta.

"I usually sired my house for a whole day when I used ordinary paint. I used KEM-TONE with the windows closed — never was there the slightest trace of painty odour."

NO DISAGREEABLE ODOUR

GEORGE B. ALLAN
1350 Gladstone Ave.,
Windsor, Ont.

"We had occasion to wash our KEM-TONE walls. I was really surprised how easy it was. All I used was a little soap and water. My KEM-TONE walls wiped clean as new. It was simple."

WASHABLE

MRS. TOM ALLAN
7 South St., East,
Dundas, Ont.

"Kem-Tone covered our old painted walls perfectly, with just one coat. I was pleasantly surprised the way Kem-Tone saved me both time and money."

ONE GALLON DOES A LARGE ROOM

DONALD D. ALLAN
1052 Melrose Ave.,
Verdun, P.Q.

"I painted my room with Kem-Tone, then had something to eat. When I looked at the room after lunch it was perfectly dry. Kem-Tone is really amazing."

Port Colborne Wins First Finals From Tillsonburg

Port Colborne, April 20 (CP) —Port Colborne Merchants, defending Ontario Hockey Association and Dominion Intermediate champions, blasted Tillsonburg Cheesweeds 5-0 Wednesday night in the first game of their best-of-five final series.

With Merchant goalkeeper Cecil Gruhl turning in a top notch performance in the nets and the homesters rapped in two goals in each of the first and second periods and followed up with a single in the final frame.

The third period produced some hectic arguing. Earl Rose of the Chewwoods got a misconduct and then drew a match misconduct for protesting too eloquently. Then Tillsonburg defenceman Bill Cooper drew a misconduct for protesting a minor. In all, the game saw 12 penalties handed out.

Barrett helps you mend them.

Things need fixing up in the spring. There are roofs to be patched, flashings to be reset, drains and gutters to be repaired. There are a "hundred and one" things to be fixed up in the spring—and that's where Barrett can really help you. See for yourself, tomorrow, at your Barrett dealer's. You'll find roofs, shingle and roll, cements, rust-proofers, damp-proofers—almost anything you need.

NEW ROOFS! They cost less than you'd imagine! Ask about Barrett* Asphalt Shingles with a whole new selection of colour harmonies. For barns, you can't do better than hard-wearing Barrett Storm King* Roll Roofing.

Montreal Royals Open 1950 Season With New Cast

Montreal, April 20 —(CP) — Montreal Royals open the new International League baseball season in Jersey City today with a fresh cast that promises to be a tight race all the way.

Opening-day pairings include two night games and two day games. The night games find Rochester at Baltimore and Buffalo at Springfield. In the day encounters, Toronto plays at Syracuse and Montreal visits Jersey City. Springfield has replaced Newark, N.J., in the league.

Largest crowd of the four openings, 20,000, is expected to show up at Baltimore to watch under the lights. Johnny Yuhas is the probable Rochester pitcher and former major-leaguer Carl Drews is the likely hurler for the Orioles.

A gathering of approximately 15,000 will be on hand at Jersey City, where Andy Tomasic is expected to pitch for the Giants against Montreal's Turk Lown or John Milligan.

At Syracuse, 10,000 fans are expected. Either Bud Byerly or Jim Prendergast will oppose Toronto's Lou Possehl.

The smallest crowd will be at Springfield, Mass., where the Cubs clash with Buffalo, the defending pennant winners. Springfield has a capacity of only 7,500.

George McGregor, Halifax St. Mary's forward from Kingston, is the first winner of a trophy to be awarded annually to the Maritime Senior Hockey League player combining the best type of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct" with a "high standard of playing ability."

Judge J. Elliott Hudson, league president, announced at Halifax Wednesday that a poll of eight sports editors and sportscasters had chosen McGregor.

Patterned after the Lady Byng trophy of the National Hockey League the award was made by a Halifax business firm.

The International Baseball League opens its 67th consecutive season today in what promises to be a tight race all the way.

Opening-day pairings include two night games and two day games. The night games find Rochester at Baltimore and Buffalo at Springfield. In the day encounters, Toronto plays at Syracuse and Montreal visits Jersey City. Springfield has replaced Newark, N.J., in the league.

Patterned after the Lady Byng trophy of the National Hockey League the award was made by a Halifax business firm.

At Peoria, Ill., Paul Unruh, All-America player on Bradley University's basketball team, said Wednesday he received a bribe offer in New York last month during the National Invitation tournament.

He said an unidentified man asked him in front of a New York hotel if he would like to "make some easy money."

He brushed the man off, went his way, and didn't mention it to Bradley officials because he didn't think it was important, he added.

Unruh, scoring ace on the Bradley team which was ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press Poll during part of the season, first mentioned the bribe offer in a speech to a church dinner in nearby Pekin, Ill., Tuesday night.

He said the man offered to pay $100 if Bradley won a game by six points and $500 if it won by two points in any tournament game.

Barbara Ann Scott, 21-year-old Olympic figure skating champ and three times world champion, has signed a contract with the Ice-capades, it was announced at Los Angeles, Wednesday. The Ottawa Miss will appear in the opening of the 1951 Icecapades May 4, John Harris, president said.

Brantford Takes Petes 4-3 to Gain 3-2 Series Edge

Brantford, April 20 — (CP) — Brantford Nationals took a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series for the Ontario Hockey Association Senior B title when they edged Peterborough Legionnaires 4-3 in a thrilling contest Wednesday night.

The sixth game will be played in Peterborough Friday night, and the seventh, if necessary at Brantford Monday.

Last year's champs, the Petes started out with a rush but the locals matched the pace and the 2-2 at the end of the first period. Each side scored a goal in each of the second and third frames.

Brantford's goals were split among Linn, Hnatiuk, Lecomte and Messmer. The Petes' fast wingman, Vilarelli, accounted for two. The other was scored by Crowley.

Officials Udvari and Liscombe gave only three penalties in the first two periods. The last stanza was rougher, with six being handed out including a misconduct to D. Mortimer of Peterborough.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Talk and think as you like, there is one "major league" baseball organization, "amateur" that is, in Ontario. And that is the powerful Intercounty League of Western Ontario. That was proven beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt at the recent Ontario Baseball Association convention in Niagara Falls. The IC loop deleven practically dickied to the powers-that-be and failed to lose out on any major amendment affecting their loop.

As Dewar Austin of the Niagara Falls Review said, "The IC circuit makes no bones about the fact that they intend to do things the way they see fit. We, in Niagara Falls, carry on as in the past." Leroy Fennell IC spokesman said, "no matter what this meeting decides".

"This kind of talk," Austin goes on, "is nothing new and as long as they, the IC League, continue to satisfy their own section of the country and show good results, we for one, can't blame them. If they are able to whip the OBA into line with their policy, who are we to complain."

The Intercounty stalwarts predicted the best season in years for their league, and why shouldn't it be. They had everything their own way. They presided bitterly against the proposed 15c tax claiming the baseball public would have to bear the brunt while the spitting ladies would not have to pay extra for their sports activities.

The big boys from the western part of the province rallied their offensive forces and went all out in their defence of the all-star or packed teams in minor baseball, and won. The Hamilton Baseball Association was given a little the worst of it in the question of a picked team into the minor leagues OBA playdowns but they couldn't cope with the powerful home and field influence of the IC. Under the IC, in fact the OBA rule stating that "the winning team and not a selection of all teams from any league shall represent such league in the playdowns", was deleted from the official book of words.

An important change was the deadline date set for players to qualify under the residence rule. Again the powerful Intercounty force came into line the picture scrying for the change and again it won its point. The amendment which carried states the date has been extended to June 15th. The purpose of the amendment was a special student classification which set July 15 for students to take up residence and qualify to participate under OBA sanction.

Reclassification of leagues and clubs in the minor series was laid over for another year and the 1950 executive will study the problem. Umpires' fees in the senior series were upped from ten dollars to ten dollars and where two umps came from the same town the mileage expense would be paid to only one official.

The convention decided the zone system of playoffs was to remain in force with the executive empowered to add more zones if and when necessary. It was also decided that no minor player be permitted to revert back after playing in the playoffs of a higher series.

The convention approved a resolution asking professional baseball teams, the majors, that for a $50 payment for every OBA player signed after a tryout contract. This despite the fact that Bunny Morgansen, Toronto Telly scribe stoutly defended the big-time fellows brother in their help to Ontario baseball teams is concerned. There their help to Ontario baseball teams is concerned. There was, however a feeling of pessimism repeated by the delegates of the professional interests to come to such a demand, but there is a possibility that stronger demands along this line will be made in the future.

Then there is, as we have mentioned before the, the amendment affecting the Central Ontario Baseball League which erases the claim of teams on players residing in centres nearest them. This eliminates the repetition of the unfortunate incident of a year ago, when Trenton baseball interests refused to grant releases to players residing within the town limits to the Batawa team. What is meant by "playing residing nearest them" is when the "centre nearest them" has no team in the COBL, in this case.

The being written for the information of those interested in baseball and possibly teams in the COBL and others affiliated with the OBA. It shouldn't interest generally, a city of 24,000 souls which has neither the guts, ambition, nor civic and local support to enter a team in an intermediate league, unless a miracle happens between now and May 1st.

WHAT ABOUT IT?

President Malcolm Robb has called a meeting of the Belleville and District Baseball League for May 1st in his office. So far, we understand, three teams, Point Anne, efficacy, Frankford and Napanee have indicated their willingness to assist. News about the Belleville baseball front is "all quiet in this sector. Nothing to report". Trenton RCAF are definitely out of baseball this year, we are informed by an authoritative source from the station. Station sports funds cannot stand the financial "rap", it is stated. According to the Trenton paper, there is some possibility of a team from that town entering since Belleville has shown no inclination to sponsor one. Picton may enter a team.

All of which leaves Belleville baseball fandom without its favorite sport since all four teams mentioned have diamonds of their own and will naturally, play all games in their own backyards.

LEST WE FORGET

If anyone here is interested in junior baseball, we might add that the amendment to change the Junior are to 18 and over and midget to 17 and under with elimination of the juvenile series, was tossed out by the Ontario Baseball Association. The present clause of junior age of 21 by May 1st stands.

CONGRATULATIONS, HARRY, M'LAD

Harry M. Moore, former editor and owner of the Trenton Courier-Advocate, and one of the finest sportsmen to come out of the Bay of Quinte District, is still up to his old tricks in sports. Now resident in Pembroke, Ont., where he has taken an active interest in sport since his retirement from the Fourth Estate, Harry has had his baseball efforts rewarded with the 1950 presidency of the Ottawa Valley Baseball Association.

Harry will have plenty on his baseball hands this summer. The OVBA consists of the South Renfrew Baseball League, North Renfrew Baseball League, and the Upper Ottawa Baseball League. In addition, and in his spare moments, he will guide the destinies, as president, of the Pembroke Baseball Club.

Pink-Faced Red Wings Renew Stanley Cup Feud With Cocky New York Rangers Tonight

Detroit, April 20 — (AP) — New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings go at it again tonight in the fifth game of their Stanley Cup finals. Each club has a pair of victories in the best-of-seven series.

Detroit is a bit red-faced about tonight's contest. Actually, the season champion Wings declare, it shouldn't have been necessary. Detroit should have won in four games.

Yet, a combination of hustle and right on the part of the Rangers has paid off in a big way. The Rangers, fourth place club in the regular National Hockey League campaign, never expected to get this far. They have everything to gain and nothing to lose by showing the same fight in the remaining games.

Detroit spokesmen aren't saying much about the situation, but New York general manager Frank Boucher is quite confident "I'm completely confounded by it all," Boucher said. "We were sure of ourselves against Montreal, but we figured Detroit was just too strong for us.

"Then look what happened Tuesday night. This is one nobody can figure out, and I'm just keeping my fingers crossed."

It was learned Wednesday that one, and possibly two, Blueshirt regulars will miss the fifth game. Jackie Gordon, Canada's left winger, is out for the season with torn ligaments in his left knee, and Nick Mickoski, right winger on the line with Gordon and Buddy O'Connor, hopes to be able to play after suffering a dislocated shoulder Tuesday.

Three other Rangers will be below par physically. Edgar Laprade has a bone bruise, pulled groin muscle and a weak left knee. Tony Leswick has been slowed down by the Wing's heavy body-checking. Leswick suffered a slight head injury in the last game.

The Wings are at full strength except for winger Gordie Howe, out of action since he was seriously injured in the first game of the semi-finals against Toronto.

Koreans Finish Win, Place, Show In Boston Race

Boston, April 20 (AP)— Two tiny Korean schoolboys and a chunkier and more experienced countryman, today routed among the world's top long distance runners after finishing one-two-three in the Boston A.A. Marathon.

Winner Kee Yong Ham, runner-up Kil Yoon Song and Yun Chil Choi, who made an exceptional showing in the 1948 Olympic Marathon, completely outclassed 131 rivals Wednesday during the punishing 26-mile 385 yards hill course that stretches from little Hopkinton to Boston.

Ham, a 19-year-old youngster who attends Yong Chung High School in Seoul, was the first to cross the finish line in two hours 32 minutes, 39 seconds. For a time he threatened to break the course record of 2:25.39, set by his famed countryman, Yun Bok Suh, three years ago.

But little Ham lacked the stamina to negotiate the hills as Suh did in 1947 and he was forced to slow down to a walk so many times during the last five miles that he erased the finish line only three minutes 19 seconds ahead of the 20-year-old Song, who ruined his chances of staying too far back during the early stages.

Choi, who started as co-favorite with last year's winner, Karl Gosta Leandersson of Sweden, finished in 2:39.47, beating fourth-place John P. Lafferty of Boston, a United States Navy aviation machinist's mate stationed at Jacksonville, Fla., by only five seconds.

Paul Collins of Wolfville, N.S. led the 10-man Canadian contingent, finishing sixth in 2:50.13 Francis P. D. Mulvihill of the Gladstone Athletic Club, Toronto was 18th in 3:01.35.

Smythe's Marlies Have Ability But No Dough

Toronto, April 19 — (CP) Conn Smythe announced today he has asked the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association what guarantee against financial losses will be given Toronto Marlboros if they go West for Allan Cup play.

The managing director of Maple Leaf Gardens said he wired A. Vicard, C.A.H.A. president, advising him that Marlboros have a $28,000 deficit so far this season.

Marlboros, who lead Sherbrooke Saints 2-0 in the best-of-seven Eastern Canada senior final are part of the Leafs hockey chain.

Smythe said he polled out to Pinard that the club received only $400 as its share of the $14,000 which remained from the gates of the last two games here with Sherbrooke as after Gardens rental was deducted. He didn't think this a fair share for a competing club.

Smythe has said he will not allow Marlboros to go West and suffer heavy financial losses.

King's Platers Join Favorites In Training

Toronto, April 20 — (CP) — E. P. Taylor's colt Bon Vivant, and Vince Sheridan's colt McGill ruled as top favorites today as turf fans began to scan heighened preparations for the 1950 renewal of the classic King's Plate May 27.

McGill was the winter book favorite on the strength of his easy victory in the 1949 Orpen Cup and Saucer for two-year-olds. The colt however was owned by Mrs. Frank Dougherty and ineligible until it was purchased in New York Wednesday by Vince Sheridan of Toronto, who is president of the Ontario Division of the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association. Sheridan outbid several local owners and was understood to have paid $17,500 for McGill, a colt by Bull Lea-Miss Lawless — Titled Chick, bred by Mr. Taylor.

Several hopefuls are training at Long Branch while others are working out at Woodbine Park and Thornciffe. Among them George McCullagh's two platers, Black and Tan and Bard of Avon were reported working nicely.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, April 20 — (AP)— Highlight of New York Giants' opening "exercise" was when commentator Laraine Day (Mrs. Leo Durocher) and coach Fred Fitzsimmons performed a spin dance near the batting cage for the benefit of television viewers . . . And some folks still are wondering what Durocher's shenanigans at Cleveland were bad for baseball . . . Apparently nothing, apart the game . . . Confusion item: While the Detroit and New York baseball clubs were opening the season, hockey teams from the same cities still were struggling for the Stanley Cup — with at least two games to go . . . And at Syracuse, N.Y., the Chiefs start the International League season this afternoon against Toronto and the Syracuse basketball Nationals meet Minneapolis Lakers in a playoff game tonight. What season is this, anyway?

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By GERRY PRATT

Vancouver, April 19 (CP) — Professional hockey is moving to a climax in leagues across the United States and Canada while the turnstiles generally are clicking speedily too.

But there's a feeling in at least one corner that the score is going to be one-sided when the season's last Pacific Coast League game is over.

Eric (Vancouver Province) Whitehead opined that the promoters are getting more for their money this year than last.

"Because the league lost money last year," he says, "the players are being paid more than best-of-five in the past few series and this after the league upped the schedule to 70 games.

There wasn't any player wage boosts, accordingly, however, says Eric.

Shoot Horses for Less

Why, he wrote, "they don't even let horses race on two consecutive days and there is no overtime past the finish wire."

(New Westminster Royals, winners of the Northern division, played five overtime games in the 12 play-off contests so far.)

"As for freezing a guy's leg so he will be able to do or die for the old promoter, they shoot race horses for a lot more minor injuries than some of today's hockey players have to play with," Purse Strings.

Money, he concludes sadly, can buy almost anything "and in this case it is buying the sportsmanship in pro hockey."

Whitehead says he thinks it's time the game was shelled and developed a dog-eat-dog attitude that is rapidly throttling the last frayed vestiges of "sportsmanship" was once fondly known as the 'sporting instinct'."

It was March 24, 1936. A packed Detroit Forum watched Detroit Red Wings meet Montreal Maroons in their first N.H.L. playoff game. The players—every one Canadian-born—kept 9,500 fans tense through three scoreless periods.

The clock ticked on . . . through four more periods. Then, at the 116th minute of overtime, the weary Red Wings rushed. A shout burst from the crowd as 30 seconds later—at 2.25 a.m.—Wings tallied the single goal of the N.H.L.'s longest game.

Sportsmanship and teamwork keep Canada first in the hockey world. And together they help you, too. For teamwork with sportsmanship help keep your opportunities for work and play in Canada...unlimited.

'Many a Slip Twixt the Plate And the Lip' Derocher Finds As Ex-Giants Star For Foe

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sid Gordon and his former Giant buddies are making life tough for their old boss, Leo Durocher. So far, the New York Giants manager appears to be a bum David Harum.

Leo traded Gordon, Willard Marshall, Buddy Kerr and Sam Webb to Boston Braves last December for Al Dark and Eddie Stanky. Durocher said he was building "my kind of a ball club". He was willing to sacrifice home run power for a double play combination.

On the evidence at hand, it looks as if a good defensive still is the best defence. With Gordon, Marshall and Kerr roughing the Giant pitchers, Boston swept to a pair of double figure victories.

Gordon, a polo ground hero for years, proved especially embarrassing. Sidney made Leo's face red Wednesday with a pair of homers, one with the bases loaded. All told, the Gordon-Marshall-Kerr trio blasted some eight runs in the Braves' 10-4 victory.

Yanks Wield Bats

Joe Dobson pitched Boston's Sox to a 6-3 morning victory over New York Yankees in the Patriot's Day doubleheader as Ted Williams hit his first homer of the year. But the Yanks unloaded another big inning—seven runs in the eighth—to cop the afternoon tilt, 16-7. After the eighth the ran out of daylight.

Tommy Henrich, the Yanks' old reliable, had himself a time in the second game, driving in six runs with a three-run homer, triple singles and a pair of walks. Joe Dimaggio knocked home three with three hits in five trips.

Gil Hodges boomed Brooklyn into the win column with a homer, two doubles and a single in a 7-5 decision over the Phillies. Carl Furillo's two-run homer and rookie Bobby Morgan's three singles were other big guns in the Dodgers' 14-hit attack on Russ Meyer and two successors.

Disappointed by Don Newcombe in Tuesday's opener, manager Burt Shotton trusted the second day pitching job to rookie Clarence Podbielan, a Montreal grad. It worked.

Pirates Shade Cards

Pittsburgh Pirates shaded the Cardinals 4-3 in a night game at St. Louis. Two errors by third baseman Eddie Kazak in the fifth inning paved the way for two Pirate runs and the ball game.

Philadelphia Athletics halted Washington Senators 6-1 in the first American League night game of the season before 10,163 fans in Washington.

Hank Wyse, former Chicago Cub, and rookie Bob Hooper allowed Washington eight hits, the same number the A's collected off Sid Hudson and Dick Welk. Gil Coan seconded for three of Washington's hits while Eddie Joost starred for the A's with a homer and a double.

The revived St. Louis Browns copped their second straight from Chicago White Sox 6-1 with three homers and five-hit pitching.

Rookie Don Lenhardt, Dick Kokos and Sherm Lollar provided the homers and Dick Starr held the Sox in check. It was the first big league homer for Lenhardt, 27-year-old newcomer from San Antonio.

The Brownies slashed away at Bob Kuzava and three other Sox pitchers for 15 hits. Kuzava drew the loss.

Detroit and Cleveland were washed out of a scheduled game. Chicago and Cincinnati of the National League were not scheduled.

Bilts, Canadiens Ready But How About Officials?

Montreal, April 20 — (CP) — Guelph Biltmores and Montreal Junior Canadiens were all set today for their fifth meeting in the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup final series—but nobody seemed to know if the referees were.

No official announcement has yet been made on protest by both teams against the "poor officiating" by Bill Morrison of Oshawa, Ont., and Sibby Mundey, Montreal, during Tuesday night's game in Toronto. Canadiens, who took nine of the 12 penalties handed out, won the game 4-2 and took a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

However, manager Roy Mason of Guelph protested strongly against the referees' work and said that "Biltmores are not going on the ice tonight if Mundey is still officiating."

Coach Alf Pike maintained a more neutral attitude and said the teams should "forget the whole thing and play hockey."

Amid unconfirmed reports that both Mundey and Morrison would be replaced for tonight's clash, Montreal coach Sammy Pollock added his voice to the squabble over referees.

He said Biltmores were the victims of "some poor officiating" Tuesday, but he quickly added that Canadiens "weren't completely satisfied with it either."

Neither Mundey or Morrison were available for comment on the situation.

Both Biltmores and Canadiens are expected to be at full strength tonight. Guelph will have a full squad for the first time in the series. Ron Plumb, who was injured during the Ontario finals against Porcupine Prospectors, returned to action Tuesday while Herb Dickenson, Dumbell Hamilton who suffered a leg injury in Toronto last Saturday, is expected to be back in the series tonight.

At Midland George Dudley, secretary of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Wednesday night that Montreal officials have claimed Guelph is operating with an illegal number of imports under C.A.H.A. regulations which allow two imports. Frank Dilio, registrar of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, claims Guelph is using three branch-to-branch imports—Cliff Hicks, Gerry Theberge and Frank Bathgate.

Mr. Dudley said no action could be taken in the matter until an official reply is received from the Biltmore team.

Colorful Yukon Grappler Here On Fri. Night

Wrestling fans will be in for a real treat in this first card of the season at the Memorial Arena on Friday night, for none other than Yukon Eric, the amazing grappling lumberjack from Alaska, will be in the headliner against Jim "Goon" Henry, the towering mat villain from Oklahoma.

Yukon Eric is the mat sensation who has been drawing full houses in Montreal, Toronto, Rochester and Buffalo. Weighing 282 pounds, this young woodsman stands six feet one inch and has a massive, 56-inch chest. Tremendously strong, he breaks holds like string and he has a number of lumber camp methods of attack of his own. Colorfully clad in plaid jacket, dungarees and high, heavy logging boots, he merely slips out of his shirt and shoes to wrestle in the ring in his work-type dungarees.

The exceptional Yukon will be up against as stern a test as he's had to date when he meets huge, rough and powerful Henry. If Eric is able to duplicate his superlative feat against an opponent of "Goon's", calibre, the northerner will prove he has plenty on the wrestling ball.

Lord Albert Mills will meet Ray Villmer in the attractive semi-final and the opener between Bobby Nelson and Al "Krusher" Korman will complete an all-star card.

It's Spring. Time to fall in love, write a poem, swing a club, plant a tree and get a new suit that will make you look like a new man - - - and feel like one.

Spokane Flyers Are Uncrowned Amateur Champs

Spokane, Wash., April 20 — (AP) — The Spokane Flyers hockey team said Wednesday it is disbanding, confident that its claim on the United States senior amateur title is justified.

The Amateur Hockey Association has said the defending champion Flyers must still defeat Chatham, Ont., Maroons, winner of a Midwestern playoff, before they can claim the crown a second time.

Spokane contends its victory over the Eastern league champions, New York Rovers, was enough. That best-of-seven series ended here Monday and has been billed as the "championship finals."

The A.H.A. called it the semi-finals.

Charles Carroll, president of the Spokane team, said he was not aware until a few days before the New York series opened that any more games would be necessary.

The Flyers new consider the series with Chatham as merely a challenge — a challenge they cannot accept because it is too late in the year.

"I told Tom Lockhart, president of the A.H.A., that we were breaking up," Carroll said today. "I pointed out that we just couldn't hold the players any longer."

Just what that will do to Spokane's claim on the crown was up for debate Wednesday night.

The championship cup will stay right here.

The Flyers said they are certain Spokane, only American senior amateur team in the Far West, won the title last year by defeating Hibbing, Minn., the Rovers and Windsor, Ont.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Bridge bidding has improved amazingly in recent years. This is not so surprising. At the beginning any invention is usually crude It is bound to progress toward perfection.

It would be foolish to say the original suit or plane was no good. One was able to run. The other was able to fly. But neither is as good as their successors of the present day.

After all, contract bidding is only about 20 years old. Experts like Work and Whitehead and Culbertson, started almost from scratch. Nuts like me came along to find ways or refining theirs.

Where Horse Sense is known and used, other systems finally fade out of the picture. One of the reasons for this is the ease with which its rules can be learned and remembered.

Have you noticed the outstanding reason for Horse Sense being so easy to apply? The answer is mnemonics, which means easy guide for remembering. Horse Sense is full of mnemonics.

South opens with a big of one heart when you have in north this hand:

♥ Q 9 7 2
♣ A K 9 5

You have enough for a no-trump response. Why? Three high cards are all you need for a reply in no-trump when partner opens with a bid of one. Your hand contains four high cards.

You have enough for an assist. Why? Three tricks are all you need for any response. Queen and two more or any four cards in the suit partner has bid are enough support. You have more than enough.

You have enough for a take-out. Why? A takeout means to a suit that is biddable, you have tricks enough and a biddable club suit. A suit is biddable with four cards if it has two honors.

Which do you do first? The guide tells you. It is the order of preference in N-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump. So, you know your first reply is a takeout to clubs. Great stuff, mnemonics.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 20 — (AP)— The movie town has changed little over the years, says Sally Eilers, film "bad girl" of the '30s who is returning to the screen after a lengthy absence.

In her years of Hollywood life, Miss Eilers boasted, she has never been involved in a scandal. She admits to having married four times, "but that can happen to anyone in any town."

Miss Eilers became a top star in "Bad Girl" and was one of the symbols of the depression - era flapper. She is making a film return as the dance hall queen in "Lost Stage Valley," which is being produced by one of her former husbands, Harry Joe Brown.

She is amused by the current popularity of the weekly charleston contests at the Mocambo. She cited that as an example of how little Hollywood has changed.

Sold Back Prises

"I can remember when Joan Crawford, Sally Blane, myself and other gals used to compete in the charleston contest at the Coconut Grove," she said. "Some of the gals used to sell their cups back to the management for $15 so they could buy dresses to get themselves movie jobs."

Film players have it easier in these days of union regulations, she said. The actress, who made nine pictures in one year following "Bad Girl," recalls one grueling experience in her early days. During a charleston exposé she was signed for a film to rival Joan Crawford's success, "Our Dancing Daughters."

Miss Eilers danced the charleston from eight in the morning until 2:30 the following morning. When a studio boss visited the set, she confessed she could hardly climb another step. "Don't worry; I'll fix things," said the bigwig, leaving the set.

"I thought he was a prince until he came back— bringing some black coffee so I could continue," she said.

NOT ASHAMED OF AGE

London, April 20 (AP)—Queen Mary went to the new Lindsey theatre last night.

She saw a play called "The Orange Orchard" by Eden Phillpotts, who is 87.

Backstage she talked with the leading player, Nancy Price, 70. Later Charles Wreford, who taught the cast the Devon dialect, told the Queen Mother he was 78.

"That's nothing," she said. "I'm 82."

AT THE BELLE

"Secret Garden" and "Tension"

One of the most unusual and fastinating plot situations ever devised for a motion picture will keep you sitting on the edge of your seat as you witness the altister threads which trap the pharmacist, Warren Quimby, married to a worthless and scheming wife, in "Tension," new M.G.M. drama showing today and Friday at the Belle Theatre.

There isn't a performance in this picture that won't hold you whether the character be sympathetic or evil. Richard Basehart is enormously effective in the role of the pharmacist who flirts with the idea of the "perfect crime". Audrey Totter paints a superbly skilful portrayal of the two-timing wife, and Cyd Charisse is warmly appealing as Mary, the girl who turns up in time to prevent Warren from fulfilling his murder plot. Barry Sullivan is convincing in the role of the homicide officer who knows his way around.

"The Secret Garden", Appealing

Frances Hodgson Burnett's hauntingly beautiful story, "The Secret Garden", estimated to have been read by some fifty million readers since its publication forty years ago has at last been brought to the screen and emerges as one of the most poignant and touching dramas to be offered film-goers in the last decade.

Sealed Plane Carries Fleas, Bugs, Mosquitos

Jacksonville, Fla., April 20 (AP)— United States Navy and government officials will leave here Friday in a specially equipped, sealed airplane.

Their co-passengers will be 25,000 fleas, bedbugs, roaches, flies and mosquitos.

The aim: to test an automatic aircraft disinfection device.

The swarms of pests will be released in flight to attack the big shots as they go in a spray. If the pilot will press a button, 20 aircraft will quit using insecticide and, if everything works right, the bugs will die.

The navy thinks it has the answer to pests (insect type) hitch-hiking their way in from foreign countries.

Grows Marijuana In Prison Garden, Gets 7 Years Extra

San Quentin, Calif., April 20 (CP)— George Vierra, convicted forger, took good care of his prison truck garden.

He was sentenced Wednesday to seven years more in prison for his pains.

Guards testified he was growing marijuana.

SIX DIE IN CRASH

Binghamton, N. Y., April 20 — (AP) — Five high school students and a young professional boxer died as the result of an automobile - truck collision in a driving rainstorm Wednesday night. Two other 'teen-agers and the truck driver were injured. Pollie Said the fighter, 20-year-old Roymond Scudder, was driving the car. He fought under the name of Buster Kenney.

Pro-Cons Elect Senior Officials At Session Close

Ottawa, April 20 (CP)— The Progressive Conservative Association of Canada Wednesday elected five vice-presidents, a secretary and a treasurer at a closing session of its annual three-day meeting.

The Association, which also elected George C. Nowlan of Wolfville, N.S., as its new president, chose Henri Courtemanchs, Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for the Quebec constituency of Labelle, as first vice-president.

Other vice-presidents in the order elected were Miss Sybil Bennett of Georgwon, Ont., E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops); Leon Balcer (PC-Trois Riviereг); and A. D. Mackenzie of Toronto.

Miss Bennett is president of the women's branch of the association and Mr. Balcer of the Young Progressive Conservatives.

A. D. Honeywell of Ottawa was elected secretary and Frank E. Lennard (PC-Wentworth) treasurer.

SAY ARAB CAMP SHELLED

Amman, Jordan, April 20 — (Reuters) — Authoritative sources here today alleged that Israelis shelled an Arab refugee camp in the Hebron area Wednesday. It was reported that about 30 mortar bombs landed within the camp area, seriously wounding three refugees.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

He was smoking to himself in his private chair, and I said, I thawt of a good plot for a movie pop, do ou want to hear it?

Why yes, pop said. I've sat through pictures that must of bene dreemed up by writers much younger than you, and I said, The name of it is The Stubborn King.

It's a good name, pop said. What is he stubborn about? he said, and I said, About taking his medicine. He's only 7 years old, I said.

Well, there's nuthing like starting young, pop said, and I said, He's got a chill and he's starting to get a fever and the doctors feel his pulse and look at his tongue, but that's al he'll let them do. He wont go to bed and he wont take any medicine. He claims his werd is law because he's the king, so what he says goes. And he tears up all the prescriptions and deliberately goes out into the street in the poring rain and walks among the common people without his rubbers on, I said.

He probably pays dearly for his foolishness, pop said. Germs and microbes are no respecters of the divine rit eof kings, he said, and I said, That's what the doctors tell him, but he has them beheaded and decapitated for daring to talk back to im, and he grows up to be the champeen of his country in boxing and wrassling and running.

That's not moral and would never pass th e censors, pop said A picture like that must have an ochago ending, he said, and said, Well G, il hat, pop, because he's never quite sure if he's reely the champeen or whether the other guys are scared not to let him win all the cups and meddles because he's the king.

That's belier, I hope to see it on the screen someday, pop said. Which I hope he does.

THREE CZECHOSLOVAKIANS RESIGN POSTS

Prague, Czechoslovakia, April 20. (Reuters)—Three Czechoslovakians employed by the British Information Service in Prague have resigned , it was learned here today.

This is understood to be a consequence of the recent trial of two employees of the United States Information Service in Prague who were sentenced to 15 and 18 years hard labor for espionage.

NAVIGATION SEASON OPENS

Three Rivers, Que., April 20—(CP) — Two river freighters, the Carlierdoc and Soreldoc of the Patterson Steamship Lines, arrived Wednesday night to officially open the 1950 navigation system to this port, 80 miles downriver from Montreal. The two ships, sailing down the St. Lawrence River from Corner Brook, Nfld., were to pick up newsprint cargoes.

RUSSIA REFUSES COMPENSATION FOR U.S. PLANE

Czech Consulate General in Chicago Ordered Closed

Step Taken by U.S. Sequel To Czech Closing of Libraries

Washington, April 21 — (AP) — The United States today ordered Communist Czechoslovakia to shut down its consulate general in Chicago not later than May 1.

The action, announced in a note to the Czech government, was in direct retaliation of an order closing the libraries of the U. S. Information Service in Czechoslovakia and the American consulate general in the city of Bratislava.

The State Department's note rejected as worthless the Czech charges that the U.S.I.S. was being used as a cloak for spying activities against the Communist regime.

FAROUHAR OLIVER WILL NOT STAND FOR LEADERSHIP

Toronto, April 21 (AP) —Liberal House Leader, Farquhar Oliver, will definitely not stand for re-election to the leadership of the Ontario Liberal party, it was learned today.

Mr. Oliver has informed the Ontario Liberal Association that he meant what he said when he tendered his resignation from the post last year.

Speculation as to the selection of a new leader for the party was revived today owing to earlier reports that the convention was to have opened its deliberations in Toronto today.

Convention in Autumn

No god knew where that report came from but it certainly was not right," said Norman Mathews K.C., president of the Ontario Liberal Association today. "You can say that the convention will be held definitely in the fall."

So far only two candidates have definitely announced their intention to stand before the convention. They are Campbell Calder, member of Parliament for London, and Ernest Livermore, western Ontario lawyer.

Said likely to contest the office are Colin Campbell, former minister in the Hepburn cabinet; Walter E. Harris MP Grey-Bruce; William Beattieson, M.P., Haliburton; Col. Harry Hamilton, Sault Ste. Marie, and possibly David Croll, M.P. of Spadina.

A suggestion that John J. Robinette, well-known Toronto lawyer, was in the field for the leadership was denied by Mr. Mathews said. "He has told me that he will not stand."

The government takes £207,581 of it in death duties.

Chief beneficiaries are Sir Harry's niece, Miss Greta Lauder, his constant companion for many years, and other relatives.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, April 21-(CP)— Synopsis: Cloudy, cool weather prevails over southern and central Ontario with light snowfalls and Lake Huron and Georgian Bay. Northern sections are mainly clear, and temperatures are considered somewhat normal.

Warmer weather has spread northward across the north-central states and into the Canadian prairies. This will reach Ontario by Saturday afternoon bringing higher temperatures and sunny skies in all regions.

Another steady surge of cool Pacific air is now moving east of the Rockies and is expected to reach Lake Superior by Saturday evening.

WILL SEIZE CARS OF DRUNK DRIVERS WHEN CHARGE LAID

Move Made to Stop Car Sale Before Trial

Toronto, April 21. (CP)—The automobile of any motorist charged with drunk driving in Ontario will be seized as soon as the charge is laid, police said today.

The move is designed to prevent motorists charged with drunk driving from selling their cars before their cases come up for trial.

Mr. Bickell, registrar of motor vehicles, issued the order under an amendment to the Highways Traffic Act passed at the last session of the legislature.

Two Choices for Accused

From now on, when a motorist is arrested on a drunk driving charge, he will be given two choices. He can either give up his car to police or post a bond for it.

Police will keep the car until the trial. If the motorist is freed he gets the car back, or the bond if he has posted one. If he is convicted, the car remains impounded as long as the judge thinks the motorist should lose it.

The amendment which cleared the way for this order was passed in answer to pleas of police who complained that motorists were selling their cars immediately after arrest on drunken driving charges. The result was that if the motorist was subsequently convicted, there was no car for police to impound.

Inspector Vernon Kemp of the Toronto Police Traffic Division expressed approval of the seizure move.

"The strength of the law is that a drunk driver is off the road in nine cases out of ten until his case is decided," one of his officers told reporters.

Widow Asks King To Protect Her Cottage

London, April 21 — (Reuters) — Basing her claim on the Atlantic Charter, a 74-year-old London widow wrote to the King asking protection against the London county council's plan to buy her house under compulsory powers.

Mrs. Florence Attridge, widow of a dock worker, also wrote to Prime Minister Attlee and Winston Churchill, saying "The British have promised us justice parted company years ago."

Churchill replied that her claim had been heard and given sympathetic study and asked her to send her appeal to responsible authorities.

Mrs. Attridge said she wrote to Buckingham Palace because the Magna Charta was sealed under Royal protection.

Three-Leaf Clover Type of Surgery Used in 'Blue-Baby' Operation

Boston, Apr. 21 (AP) — A new "blue baby" operation, which might be called three-leaf clover surgery, was reported today to the American College of Physicians.

The operation is reported an improvement over the original blue baby surgery of Dr. Alfred Blalock, and Dr. Helen Taussig Hopkins.

The failure is for one of two reasons. Either the tunnel at the top of the heart is too narrow, or the valve at the top of the tunnel does not work properly.

The new surgery is used when the value is at fault.

The valve is shaped like three-leaf clover. The leaves lift as blood passes upward through them.

The new operation uses a knife to cut the leaves apart. This is done by pushing a sharp, pencil-shaped probe into the heart. The probe has a sheathed knife in its end, which makes the separations in the clover leaf.

Studies now are under way to find means of enlarging the heart tunnel when it is too narrow. If that succeeds it may be possible to save about two-thirds of the blue babies.

St. Laurent Trigger-Quick In Retort 'Rather Lose Temper Than Reputation,' He Declares

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 21 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent, usually mild - mannered and soft-spoken, showed the Commons Thursday he has a trigger-quick temper capable of exploding when his integrity is questioned.

A spark from an opposition member's charge that he was sending a nation to war set off the explosion and resulted in a display of anger probably unmatched by Mr. St. Laurent in his eight years in the Commons.

His face flushed, his arms gesturing, the 67-year-old Prime Minister of French and Irish descent, defiantly shouted across the floor to jeering Progressive Conservatives.

"I would rather lose my temper than lose my reputation!"

Charge of Evasion

The evasion charge was made by Howard Green (PC — Vancouver - Quadra). Mr. St. Laurent said he resented the charge and he wanted members of the House to know it. He said he would never be able to put him in a position where "I have to evade any question I am asked."

"I will always be prepared to meet him head on here or anywhere else."

The outburst came during debate on what at first appeared to be a non-contentious resolution fixing House procedure for evening weeks. Before the resolution was adopted, members participated in three divisions and put 2½ hours of noisy debate.

The resolution eliminated the period set aside for study of private members' legislation next Monday and next Wednesday and provided instead that hereafter until the end of the session. This is a customary mid-session maneuver to speed government business, but this time it ran into solid objection from opposition parties.

Gordon Graydon (PC — Peel) protested that the private members' bill — "the ordinary Joe" — had been left sufficient opportunity this session to express views on legislation he would like to see sponsored.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said he saw in the resolution a manipulation of rules that would allow passage of contentious pipe-line bills but cut off discussion on other private members' legislation.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader agreed with both Mr. Graydon and Mr. Coldwell, but said the opposition would be on more solid ground if it had not spent so much time discussing the pipeline bills.

Pipe-Line Bills

The bills would incorporate the Alberta Natural Gas Company and Prairie Transmission Lines Ltd., companies to build two natural gas pipe lines from Alberta fields to the east coast and, after being object of a filibuster for the last two sessions, the bills were given second reading — approved in principle— last Monday and were sent to the Commons committee. The measures were opposed because there was no assurance Canadians had the lines would follow an all-Canadian route into

Demand Made by Russians US, UK Troops Leave Trieste

By THOMAS WHITNEY

Moscow, April 21 (AP)— Russia demanded today that the United States and Britain get their 10,000 troops out of Trieste now that the strategic Adriatic area be organized as a free territory immediately.

Charging the United States, Britain and France with "grossly violating" provisions of the Italian peace Treaty designed to make Trieste a free territory under United Nations supervision, a Soviet note insisted on "liquidation of the present Anglo-American naval base" it said had been established in the port city.

The note was handed here Thursday to Ambassadors from the United States, Britain and France by Andrei Gromyko, Deputy Foreign Minister. Published by the official Soviet newspaper Tass, it charged Trieste "has been converted . . . into a military springboard occupied by the armed forces of the United States and Britain, which constitutes a threat to the peace and security of Europe.

West Within Legal Rights

(In Washington, American officials said the United States and Britain are within their legal rights in keeping troops in Trieste until the free territory is established. They asserted Russia has been chiefly responsible for the delay in setting up the territory because, they charged, the Soviet has been around the clock on a governor to administer the area under a mandate).

(Britain, France and the United States in 1948 proposed return of Trieste to Italy. The city is currently occupied it. United States officials also say that any settlement of the Trieste question must be made into account the interests of Yugoslavia. Boundaries for the territory were backed by the Russians when the Italian Peace Treaty was signed in 1947 but that government since has broken with Russia and her satellites).

Russia Asks Governor for Trieste

The Russian note demanded immediate appointment of a governor for Trieste, the first step outlined by the Italian Peace Treaty for the organization of the free territory.

The note pointed out the appointment was to be made by the U.N. Security Council, of which Russia, the United States, France and Britain all are members, with the permanent seats of Italy and Yugoslavia. Occupation troops — the United States, Britain and Yugoslavia now have 9,000-troops each in the area — will be withdrawn 4 1/2 months after the governor takes office.

The Russian note made no mention of Yugoslavia. But the boundaries of the free territory, outlined by the peace treaty, are cited by the Russians in their official demands, include the Yugoslav-occupied area.

Ganaanoque Lets $215,000 Contract For New Rink

Brockville, April 21 (CP) — City council Thursday night approved acceptance by Mayor Smith Reynolds of the bid of the Fyfe Paving Company Limited of Brantford of $215,000 for construction of a new artificial ice surface of 90 by 190 ft. with seating capacity of 2,500 and a second story auditorium seating 1,500.

The city has provided $50,000 towards the project and the remainder has already been raised by public subscription, during a campaign which ended with a rummage sale yielding $7,000. The project is expected to be completed in the first week of October.

Shackled Son To Tree to Keep Him Home, Fined

Lancaster, Pa., April 21—(AP) — A $50 fine was meted out Thursday to Paul Hoover, 40-year-old farmer who pleaded guilty to shackling his 11-year-old son, Ivan, to a tree, the farmer said he handcuffed a steel dog chain cable to Ivan's ankle and to a tree outside the farm in order to keep the child home.

FLOOD-BATTLE WHEELS MOVE AS RED RIVER RISES

All Precautions Taken To Ward Off Threat

Southern Manitobans in the Red River Valley Thursday night prepared to move; dynamite crews blasted ice jams; barricades and dikes were being raised, and the reserve army stood by for emergency duty.

At Winnipeg, the Red River rose 1.8 feet in less than fifteen hours. The river was 8 1-2 inches from the 18-foot flood level.

Meanwhile the crest of the Red and its swollen tributaries, which have hit northeastern North Dakota with its worst flood in 53 years, continued moving toward Grand Forks, leaving hundreds of flooded-out families in its wake. Grand Forks is 150 miles south.

Provincial government engineers say that if the crest holds off in Manitoba for about eight hours, the worst of the threatening ebb will be drained off.

Meanwhile, in the province's southern Red River Valley towns were improving and in some areas evacuated families began to return to their homes.

At Ste. Agathe a large ice jam was reported a quarter — mile north. Large areas to the west were flooded by surface water but floods were not expected to reach the town.

Gretna, a border town hit hard by the overflow of the Pembina River, a tributary of the Red, was still one-third flooded.

Near Selkirk a motor launch moved in a ferry over a three-quarter-mile stretch of road under four feet of water.

At Grand Forks, the Red River hit a 42.88 level Thursday night, 12.88 feet above flood stage. A 44.5 crest is predicted for the weekend.

After an aerial survey, officials estimated at least 100 highway and railroad bridges have been carried away by the flood waters in northeastern Dakota counties. An estimated total of more than 3,000 are already homeless.

Army engineers moved to deliver milk and other supplies to flood-isolated farms.

H. H. PONTON, FRUIT INSPECTOR, WILL RETIRE IN MAY

Hamilton, Apr. 21 (CP)—H. H. Ponton, District Fruit and Vegetable Inspector for Ontario for the last fifteen years is retiring from service at the end of May. He will be succeeded by E. A. Eardley, senior inspector at Toronto since 1943.

Mr. Ponton was appointed a fruit and vegetable inspector in Ottawa in 1926, and acted as such until 1928 when he was appointed a seasonal inspector at Niagara. He was appointed permanent senior inspector and, in 1935, took his present position in charge of the Inspection Services in Western Ontario.

U.S.S.R. Asserts Demands Absurd, Without Basis

Refuses Guarantee Against Any Recurrence of Incident

London, April 21 — (AP) — Russia today rejected a United States demand for compensation for the loss of an American plane fired at by Soviet fighter planes in the Baltic area April 8.

The U.S.S.R. also insisted the plane was a B-29 bomber, not an unarmed navy Privateer, and that it fired at the fighters first.

In a note handed to U. S. Ambassador Alann G. Kirk at Moscow, Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky declared the plane was trying to "photograph Soviet defence installations."

The note said the Soviet government cannot accept for examination the U. S. demands for compensation and a guarantee against any recurrence of the incident.

It asserted these demands "are clearly absurd and without any basis."

The Privateer, missing with its crew of 10 since the day fixed by the Russians as the day of the exchange of fire, has been given up for lost.

The Soviet note today, broadcast by Moscow radio and picked up by the Soviet monitor in London, replied to the U.S. protest note of April 8.

Text of Note By Russia

Text of the Soviet reply:

"In reply to the United States government's note of April 14, 1950, the U.S.S.R. government considers it necessary to state the following:

"As already reported in the note of the Soviet government of April 11, the American aircraft which violated south of Leepaya, Latvia, the Soviet frontier, according to verified data was a four engined military aircraft B-29 Flying Fortress, which not only failed to obey the demand of the Soviet fighter planes to follow them and land at an aerodrome but opened fire on the Soviet planes.

"After the leading Soviet fighter aircraft had been compelled to fire in reply, the American aircraft turned off in the direction of the sea and disappeared.

Nature Thwarts Rainmaker's Plan To Coax Rain

New York, April 21 (AP) — Mother Nature apparently has thwarted New York City's official rainmaker who hopes to wheedle more rain from reluctant clouds.

The $100-a-day rainmaker, Dr. Wallace E. Howell, took off Thursday on a cloud-seeding flight over the watershed area, but turned back in less than an hour. The chief reason: He found that the police department airplane bearing Howell and his 150 pounds of dry ice couldn't climb over the clouds.

It was Howell's fourth aerial attempt to seed the clouds with dry ice. Previous flights netted moisture to help fill the city's reservoirs.

Incidentally, it has rained anyway on all four occasions.

Mystery Writers' Clambake is Held In Setting of Corpses and Daggers

By ED CREAGH

New York, Apr. 21 (AP)—The Mystery Writers of America held their annual clambake Thursday night in an atmosphere of dancing bats' wings, corpses in the brown coast and a dagger in every chest.

Fun? There hasn't been so much since the last meeting of the Mad Bluebeard started using his wives' necks for meat-skewer practice. Bluebeard, of course, wasn't kidding. These whodunit authors were, as they said, anyway.

Take the menu, for instance. It started with a witches' brew soup (hemlock being a deadly poison), got down to business with a soup called "witches' broth", came through with bared breast of duck cutlasnala for the main course.

After the dessert (creme de la grimes) the awards were made and presented. "Edgars", they're called—in honor of Edgar Allan Poe, a fair hand at the horror business himself. Then came the stage show in which the entire membership kidded the goose-pimples off their individual authors.

These mystery writers, who supply gore and suspense to the magazines, book publishers, movies, radio and television, revel in the macabre, as you might so they said, anyway.

Take the dance number spine-chiller, was on hand as guest of honor—only the program called him "ghost of honor".

Wife Gets Divorce, Says Husband Kissed Dog, Patted Her Head

Detroit, April 21. (AP)—After three years of marriage Mrs. Patricia J. Stephens came to divorce court Thursday.

A decree, uncontested, was granted after she testified that her husband Robert "used to think it was very funny to kiss the dog, give me a pat on the head, and walk out the door."

BOLT STRIKES C-54 PLANE

Washington, April 21—(AP)—Lightning struck an air force C-54 transport plane carrying 29 persons late Thursday, but the crippled ship flew on for 100 miles and landed safely at Bolling Field here. The pilot disabled one of four engines and ripped a two-foot hole in the tail assembly.

PRIME MINISTER TO SPEAK AT SARNIA

Hamilton, April 21 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent passed through this city today on his way to Chatham and Sarnia, when his train made a five-minute stop at the C. N. R. station about 2.30 a. m. The Prime Minister was accompanied by Health Minister Martin.

COMING EVENTS

Greeley at Johnston Trial Admits Responsibility For Writing, Passing Bad Cheques

Called to the stand as a Crown witness to testify in the trial of Kenneth Johnston, 47, of Foxboro who faces approximately 75 charges of uttering bogus cheques, 31-year-old Frank Greeley today admitted full responsibility for writing the cheques and also for passing them.

Greeley freely admitted that the cheque writing machine found in their car at the time of their arrest at Stayner belonged to him, and also swore it was he who had written the cheques and cashed them. Greeley is charged on two counts, numerous forgery counts.

The two-men were arrested at Stayner some weeks ago following an alleged attempt to cash a cheque at a Stayner piece of business.

At the conclusion of Greeley's direct testimony at noon today proceedings were adjourned and both men were remanded until May 4th.

Yesterday the above articles were produced as evidence in a charge of uttering against Johnston, and four witnesses identified Johnston as the man for whom they had cashed cheques which lately turned out to be bogus.

Greeley On Stand

On the witness stand Greeley claimed it must have been a case of mistaken identity. In each case, he said, it had been he (Greeley) who had cashed the cheques. Although he had been using Johnston's car, Greeley said that in each case Johnston had not accompanied him.

Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan called upon the witness for signature specimens of the fictitious names used in singning of the bogus cheques. With a shaking hand Greeley complied. Then in each case Crown Attorney Donnan asked the witness to point out the similarity between the specimen signature and that on the several bogus cheques.

Greeley said with the exception of about five years he had served in the army he had lived in Picton all his life. He met Johnston Johnston for the past three years and had worked as Johnston's employee at the Johnston Machine Shop in Picton.

He said he had purchased the cheque writing machine in Toronto for $45.

"What did you buy a cheque writing machine for?" asked the Crown.

"I thought I would pass out a few cheques," was the reply.

Cheque is Produced

The Crown produced a cheque made out in the name of E. Hicks which had been cashed at Shannonville, Greeley said the name used had been fictitious. He admitted using the cheque.

"How did the cheque get into the hands of Johnston?" asked the Crown.

"It was a case of mistaken identity. I passed the cheque," was the reply.

"Then you say it was you and not Johnston who cashed the cheque at Shannonville?" "I passed one at Shannonville," Greeley answered.

Despite the fact that yesterday four witnesses had identified Johnston as the man for whom they had cashed cheques, Greeley insisted that in each case he (Greeley) had cashed them.

Greeley said during those older men in the community who in the past have indulged in the pastime of barbershop singing, and also to provide younger men who wish to become proficient at the singing of good old fashioned barbershop singing.

The Board was considering a request from the Native Sons of Canada that married women be dismissed when they are not working from necessity.

Dr. Clementis Said Held Prisoner In Czech Castle

London, April 21. (Reuters)—Dr. Vladimir Clementis, former Czechoslovakian Foreign Minister, is imprisoned in the castle of Jarovina, in the high Tatra mountains of Slovakia near the Polish frontier, unconfirmed reports reaching London today indicated.

Dr. Clementis, for many years a prominent member of the Czech communist party, resigned his appointment as Foreign Minister March 14.

It was generally believed at the time that he had been disgraced, but the cause of his eclipse has never been fully known.

It was officially announced in Prague March 14 that Clementis has resigned, and that the Prime Minister Antonin Zapotocky had recommended President Klement Gottwald to appoint Vilem Siroky, one of the deputy-premiers, as new Foreign minister.

Clementis, as undersecretary for Foreign Affairs in the exiled Benes government in London during the war, had become suspect in a regime where all contacts with the west were said to be incriminating, it was believed here.

Readjustment of the 47-year-old Clementis followed rumors of his downfall which had been more or less widespread for several months.

POLICE COURT

Two Shannonville brothers, Jack and Garnet Hill, were given two years' suspended sentence by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in county magistrate's court today following pleas of guilty with respect to the theft of 17 muskrat skins, valued at $200.

Jack, the elder brother was charged with breaking and entering and theft, while Garnet pleaded guilty to being an accessory after the fact. Jack Hill also pleaded guilty to being in possession of liquor and was assessed $13 fine and costs.

Police Inspector J. C. Hayes told the court that the two brothers had gone to Mrs. H. Yanover for purpose of borrowing some money. He said the brothers had been drinking and while Garnet engaged Mrs. Yanover in conversation the elder brother had taken the rats skins. The skins, later recovered by police had been sold for $27.30, it was stated.

Twenty-seven cases were listed on the morning court docket, including seven drunk charges, and eight traffic cases, including three charged for speeding, four for illegal parking and one for making an improper left turn. All traffic cases were settled out of court.

William Watson, 16, of Kenora District appearing on a charge of being in possession of housebreaking equipment was ordered returned to the Bowmanville Boys' Training School.

Ernest Dunlay, Wallbridge Rd., was remanded till Tuesday for sentence after pleading guilty to two charges involving theft of articles from parked cars.

Two Murderers See Selves on Television, Later are Executed

Chicago, April 21. (AP)—Two condemned murderers saw themselves on television Thursday night and a few hours later died in the electric chair for the $18 holdup killing of a cab driver.

The doomed men, Alfonso Nejera, 27, and Fred Varela, 28, were filmed in death row on Thursday afternoon. The film was then put on a 7 p.m. newsreel TV show and viewed by the men on a set lent them by Warden Chester Fordney.

Varela entered the death chamber at 12:01 a.m., today and was pronounced dead at 12:06. Nejera followed at 12:14 and was pronounced dead at 12:20.

They were convicted a murdering a cab driver.

'Red Falsehoods' Not Bothering Sen. J. McCarthy

Washington, April 21 — (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy — (Rep.-Wis.) declared Thursday night that Soviet Russia is "challenging the communists and their agents in the United States" to "contamination and a revolving S. O. B."

(As defined in an old joke, a "revolving S. O. B." is "an S.O.B any way you look at him.")

In a speech prepared for delivery to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, McCarthy said:

"I knew it would be thus — that vilification, smear and falsehoods would follow, peddled by the red, their minions and those sucking phoney liberals who litter Washington with their persons and clutter American thinking with their simple - minded arguments."

McCarthy told the editors that some of those of whom he spoke "write columns for your newspapers," and he said:

"It is your privilege to buy them; mine to ignore them."

TYRANNY IN RUSSIA

Victoria, B. C., April 21 (CP) — Canada's Adjutant General said Thursday there has risen in Soviet Russia a "tyranny just as monstrous as that of the Nazis and Japanese." "I have never been able to distinguish the smallest significant difference between a fascist or Nazi dictatorship and a communist dictatorship," Maj. - Gen. W. H. S. Macklin, C. B. E., told a largegathering.

Ladies Business Bowling League Holds Annual

On Tuesday evening, April 18th at members of the Ladies' Business Bowling League gathered at the Golden Gate for their annual banquet. After a delicious dinner, during which Mrs. Lillian Ashley supplied piano music, the president, Mrs. Pearl Legault, addressed the gathering. She expressed her thanks to the executive and to the girls for their fine co-operation during the past term and extended the good wishes of the Ladies' Business League to Mrs. Ruth Hinkley who is leaving for Ottawa. The secretary, Marian Brennan, presented the individual averages, after which the treasurer, Mrs. Mary Pope presented gifts to the respective teams.

The teams' final standing: Gang Busters; Pirates; Do-Nots; Flying Pets; Shamrocks and Strikers(tied); Co-Defendants and Lawn Bowlers.

Ingersoll Votes Wet After 35 Years

Ingersoll, April 21—(CP)—This Oxford county town voted wet this week after 35 years without legal liquor or beer outlets.

Vote for government liquor store was 2,081 for and 1,356 against and for a brewers' warehouse, 2,079 to 1,361. A 60-per-cent majority was required.

Both issues were defeated during the last plebiscite in 1945. Still undecided is the question of hotel beverage rooms.

FINED FOR FAILURE TO DESTROY POTATOES

Barrie, April 21. (CP)—C. F. Coutts of Bradford, Thursday, was fined $46 or 15 days on a charge of failing to destroy potatoes infected with bacterial ring rot disease. The charge was laid under Ontario's Plant Disease Act.

The other Simcoe County farmers were convicted and fined on Thursday on similar charges at Penetanguishene and there was another recent case at Alliston.

ST. LAURENT

British Columbia before crossing into the United States.

Mr. St. Laurent said that if the "talking out" tactics had not been used on the pipe-line bills there would have been plenty of time for discussion of all private members' legislation on the order paper. There would be opportunities on Mondays after next Monday to discuss private members' business.

This did not satisfy Mr. Coldwell and he moved an amendment so that government business would be given preference only next Monday and next Wednesday. The amendment was defeated 128 to 50.

Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) promptly moved a second amendment, which was defeated 138 to 36. It would have given the government business precedence on all Mondays and Wednesdays hereafter. He said that having failed to eliminate discrimination through the first amendment, the CCF was trying it another way through his amendment.

There was no reason, he said, why the government should keep Mondays open solely to pass the pipe-line bills.

Final Division

The final division was on the main motion itself as originally sponsored. It was carried by a vote of 128 to 50.

In returning to the debate on the pipe-line bills, Mr. St. Laurent said the government was anxious that parliament express its views and that it not be prevented from doing so by "talking out tactics."

"Why," interjected Mr. Green "don't you put the pipe line through Canada?"

"Because," replied Mr. St. Laurent, "in the pipe-line bill this parliament decided that when a company was incorporated to build a pipe line it might exercise its powers either within or without Canada, provided it did so in the manner determined by the Transport Board set up by this parliament to examine and consider where the line pass.

"That is evading the question," interjected Mr. St. Laurent.

"Yes it is," Mr. Green persisted.

Mr. St. Laurent's color darkened and he shouted:

'I Resent Any Charge'

"I resent any charge of evading any question. The honorable member will never be able to put me in the position where I have to evade any suggestion of his. I will always be prepared to meet him head on here or anywhere else."

An opposition member suggested that Mr. St. Laurent not get excited.

"It is rather exciting for one of my age and to one who has always been careful of his reputation in Canada, to hear any honorable member in this House charge him with evasion, and I want my fellow members in the House to realize that I resent any such charge."

As Liberal members thumped their desks, Mr. Graydon interjected:

"You don't have to lose your temper over it."

"I would rather," snapped Mr. St. Laurent, "lose my temper than lose my reputation."

When the appalause subsided he added:

"I rejoice in what has happened here as evidence that at least with some honorable members I am not losing my reputation."

Mr. Green interjected: "Only with the rubber stamps."

The Prime Minister concluded by waving at the first C.C.F. amendment and saying there was "nothing" in it that would make not even a division on the C.C.F. amendment.

FIRE ENGULFS HOUSE WITHIN MINUTES

Raceland, La., April 21—(AP) —A fire Thursday engulfed a five-room, frame farm house within minutes, and burned a 28-year-old mother and three children to death. Mrs. Simon Thibodeaux and her three children, Betty Ann, 9; Rosemary, 8; and Marie Claire, 18 months, died before the father could run to their rescue. He was standing about 75 to 100 feet away when the blaze began.

GRASS FIRE TIME

Time has come for spring fires. Often fire brigades run into a rush of fiery outbreaks in the dry or drying grass.

Such fires may prove dangerous to property and everyone should use care to see that there is nothing careless done that might set the dry heather afire and danger approach houses and sheds, barns and garages.

In other cities there have been numerous fires, all of which require the attention of the fire brigades of the communities.

Starting of fires from the burning of rubbish is a possible source and sometimes children in delight to see the performance of a blaze start a fire.

Grass fires are not very pleasant experiences to have especially if one lives near patches of dry grass which might lead flames right up to porches or sheds, and garages and possibly some of the older homes.

CANADA'S GROWTH

In the course of a lifetime Canadians have the opportunity to witness manifestations on every hand of the spirit of progress and development. Nowhere is a form of growth which is easily observed. One has but to walk through the streets of a village, a town or a city, well known to the pedestrian, to see the proofs of this steady development.

Especially has this been marked in the days since the last war. Canada has welcomed many thousands of newcomers. These lovers of freedom and opportunity for many reasons, are of them of course being the spirit of freedom and democracy. For such many people give up their ancestral homes in old lands to come to this new land and to take part in the immeasurable development which undoubtedly lies before.

This spirit of expansiveness must of course come from the spirit that is engendered in a new country. Canada is not only new in the world sense, but new in that it has a position of uniqueness among nations. Her territory stretches from ocean to ocean and touches the north pole while to the south is a rich and fertile neighboring country, always with kindliest relations. Vast acres, immeasurable wealth in the rocks and in the waters and streams, forests and fields is the very signpost of development and opportunity.

Canada is favored land with a friendship for the various peoples cannot but draw the hardiest of the sons and daughters of older countries where opportunities may not be as great as in a new world.

It is in use a phrase of a former poet laureate of England, Alfred Lord Tennyson, who spoke of Britain as "a land of settled government." As Britain is, so is Canada, a land of free people who have their ideas settled and founded on rocks of truth which have been proven all through history.

Turning from the wider vision of the Dominion, attention is drawn to a part of Canada, the part Ontario folks like best, namely their own Province. The Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, sees a greater future for this Province, its population doubled within the lifetime of many young people of today. How true that may be can be seen in the indication the past offers. Certainly in the lifetime of many residents has doubled or trebled in the number of the people and in the lifetime of the oldest it has perhaps not four times what its population was in their earliest years.

The era of the-two World Wars and the years since the Second War ended have witnessed remarkable migrations from many lands of people who have come into this country, the opportunity of growing up with a new country with their families and sharing in and contributing to the growth of the whole of Canada.

NEW CITIZENS

From that little land, stout champion of liberty and democracy, The Netherlands, have come to Canada large numbers of the type which have made the people of Holland famed throughout the world as a land of liberty. Canada welcomes them and sees for them a fine opportunity here. They have come on account of the growth of the population of Netherlands and have chosen Canada as the land they wish to make their new home and raise their families under the influence of Canadian ideals. Their progress in the Western World is assured, the past of their race gives them the incentive to industry and the high ideals which have been inculcated in these people assure their future.

Recently 1,000 immigrants from Holland came to Canada in one week. That large influx shows what the Hollanders think of Canada and her ways. It can be safely felt that Canada is already richer and will in the future be immeasurably richer for the contribution the Hollanders make to our national life.

WINTER	ABOUT MEN
Winter, lingering in the lap of spring, Must hope that it can stay To look at every lovely thing That decks the earth in May.	I'd say of men, the best and worst Of every creed and caste, The idler seeks his comfort first, The good man seeks it last.
FREEDOM	RARE MALADY
If freedom were to us denied, And only I joy we share, We'd cherish it with deeper pride And deeper thought and care.	In the books the doctors own, Of diseases many, Over'e the rarest Known; Few it kills, if any.

EXAMINE WITH CARE

We live in the most progressive age the world has known since the beginning of time. We are standing on the whole idea of progress which always means going ahead into a better era—that movement or development is constant. The truth is that in every experiment there must be some failure encountered before the right method is discovered. Science, which is the laboratory frequently makes thousands of mistakes before he makes the discovery which helps us. In the social and political matters, we have to make a lot of mistakes by the trial and error method before we find something satisfactory and beneficial.

Few things are not necessarily better things. The arrogance of the liberal-minded type of folk leads them to rather hate the take. With complete condescension they look down upon everyone who does not favor their new schemes, but many of these new schemes lead into the wilderness or down the drain.

Nothing needs to be examined with more care than a new proposition. Many times it is a mere theory about life or a new political platform. There may be progress in any or all of these things, but there may be a lot more besides. Examine carefully before using.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

A street car line on which I am a regular passenger crosses, at one end of its course, a bridge that spans the main railway lines into the city. You can often see trains: passenger trains rushing along yet under you like freights with double-headers throwing spectacular plumes of steam and smoke high in the air.

The other day, as we sped across the bridge, the motorman applied the brakes and slowed the tram to a crawl.

Turning, he called back into the car:

"See the choo-choos?"

There were, as a matter of fact, three or four small children on a small boy who had come aboard among the passengers, one of them in his dad's arms.

Everybody was astonished; and quite a few were pleased, especially the little kids and their parents, as they eagerly viewed the train rushing below. The motorman, we observed, was a young fellow. He grinned back into the car, taking quick glances at the road ahead, and then put on speed and away we went in style.

"A fool thing to do," said the man beside me, shaking out his newspaper indignantly. "Suppose there was some official of the street railway on his car. That bird would lose his job!"

I cleared my throat non-committally. The motorman should confine themselves to reporting, not to arguing.

"You can't do tricks like that," pursued my seat-mate, firmly. "Not in modern times. Choo-choo, for Pete's sake!"

He gave his newspaper another irascible shake. He was reading the sport page, poor chap.

The weirdness of the car was the sign: "Please leave car by rear door."

But everybody seemed to want to leave by the front door this morning, especially the people with the small kids. And everybody was on the motorman a smile. With a couple of exceptions, of course.

TV OR NOT TV

Mrs. J. W. Birney
1915 West Second
Spokane, Washington

Dear Mrs. Birney:

This is in reply to your letter about your son, Jimmie, and I'm answering in my column because it's a briar-pipe cinch there are plenty of Jimmies with the same problem as yours, and not to mention an equal number of Jennies.

As I get the picture, Jim is 17 years old, and due to graduate from high school this June. Instead of going to college, however, he wants to come to New York and take a crack at show business. You feel this would be a big mistake and want me to write him, pointing out that teenage sleepless usually wind up flat on their backs.

Well, Mrs. Birney, I'll be glad to oblige, for before I get through I ought to tell you something about the future of the business that pertains to Jimmies like.

Two weeks ago, as you may have read, Frigidaire paid a skid-nosed funnyman named Bob Hope $40,000 for a 90-minute stint on a television show which plugged its iceboxes — almost three times as much as a U.S. Senator makes in a year at present-day purchasing. And if that doesn't dazzle you, may I point out that Bob was a three-a-day stooge in Variety last week that the National Biscuit Company paid $350,000 for a single telecasting of "South Pacific."

Television is young, Mrs. Yes, but this is only the bumptious beginning—unless my crystal ball is leaking, there's a great day coming for which theatrical talCroesus.

As of this Friday, there are fewer than 6,000,000 TV sets in the 48 states, and a large part of the days when any of these stuff is printed may let the title stand as I write it — Doctors Disagree About Smoking—let us begin by conceding it is too long in the first place. Like the placard put up by the restaurateur—Only Fresh Eggs Served Here. So we may as well shorten the title to Doctors Disagree and let it go at that, at least till some one comes up with a question on which we do not.

For instance that ponderous 22-volume work, The Cyclopedia of Medicine, Surgery and Specialties, a than-whichere of the publishing field if I ever saw one, cites no clinical study made by Dr. W. M. Johnson, who concluded that:

3. It is doubtful whether tobacco plays a major part in the etiology (medical term for cause or causation) of angina pectoris.
4. The act of smoking, if it affects the circulation at all, reduces it temporarily.
5. The effect of tobacco smoking is chiefly local, exerted principally in the mouth and throat. It is only fair to mention here that these conclusions of Dr. Johnson were not accepted by others. Since that time newer investigments and tests have been made and have been introduced and tests made with the result that conclusions have led to different conclusions. Anyway, Dr. Johnson's study of the problem was "statistical" only—that is, a study of patients the doctor saw in his office day—and not a scientific or laboratory investigation.

Drs. Maddock and Colter, using some of these newer instruments, observed a consistent increase in blood pressure and pulse rate and a decrease in peripheral circulation in the fingers and toes of young men with thrombo-angiitis obliterans (Buerger's disease) when they smoked one or two cigarettes. These effects were more pronounced when the smokers inhaled than when they merely

MacKenzie's Column:
Battle of Hainan Strategically Of Importance

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The battle for possession of Hainan Island, between the defending Chinese Nationalists and the invading Chinese Communists from the neighboring mainland, is being fought at a furious and bloody pitch.

The loss of this great island, with its fine anchorages, would be a heavy blow to Nationalist prestige and would give a corresponding boost to Red stock, especially abroad. It is the Red aim to seize it.

The Communists are working on the old strategy of "divide and conquer" against the Nationalist forces as a whole. Chiang Kai-shek's main stronghold, since his withdrawal from the continent, have been the island of Formosa, Hainan and the islands of Chusan which dominates the huge bay of Hangchow and the route to Shanghai on the north.

In order to defend any one of these island strongholds, the Generalissimo must weaken the defenses of the other two. The defence of Hainan entails extra hazards.

When this scheme of divide-and-conquer has been carried fat enough, the Reds could fit as their offensive expands in southward.

Hainan has been a Chinese possession since they took it by conquest in 111 B.C.

Hainan is potentially a treasure island. Its chief asset is its high-grade iron ore, and there are other minerals as well as timber.

NO 'MISS AMERICA' FOR ATLANTIC CITY

Atlantic City, N.J., April 21— (AP)— There will be no Miss America, 1951, this decision was announced Thursday by the board of directors of the Miss America pageant. It said instead it would dub the beauty winner September 11 as "Miss America, 1951." The current beauty, Jacques Mercer of Phoenix, Ariz., is Miss America 1949.

Gall-Stone Care May Affect Healthy Tissues

Toronto, April 21—(CP)— A University of Toronto professor suggested today in an interview that high-frequency sound devices capable of gallstones might have a delayed-action effect on surrounding body tissue.

Dr. J. L. Henderson of the Department of Applied Physics, commented in an interview on reports from Atlantic City that ultrasonic waves, inaudible to the human ear, might be used to smash gallstones, permitting them to be removed painlessly from the human body.

Notable experiments had been tried only on animals, Prof. Henderson said.

The undesirable effect would be nil but what the long-term effect might be is still unknown.

Some harm might be done to tissues surrounding the gallstones throughout the years. Few vitamins now might not be known for 30 days or 20 years.

Dr. Henderson said breaking gallstones by high-frequency sound waves is similar to the trick of breaking glass by playing a high-pitched note nearby.

DOCTORS DISAGREE ABOUT SMOKING

These effects were more pronounced when the smokers inhaled than when they merely puffed; likewise when they smoked fast, in the way I "never" do, than when they smoked slowly and leisurely.

Dr. T. C. Minshaw, writing in Rev. med. del Rosario, Aug. '37, found by experimental and clinical observation that smoking increases blood pressure and rapidity of heart action and produces constriction of the smallest arteries (arterioles). He concluded that smoking may cause angina pectoris or inflammation of the lining of the smallest arteries following by obstruction of the circulation.

Most physicians insist that patients with thrombo-angiitis or with symptoms indicating a tendency thereto—early or premonitory symptoms of Buerger's disease, that is—must not smoke at all. Yet some physicians feel that excessive smoking is not only cause of thrombo-angiitis but is very, they contend, far more young persons would suffer amputation because of this disease as a consequence of this degeneration of the blood vessels. Middle-aged persons, both sexes, smoke too much. It may be that there is some hereditary sensitivity to the toxic or damaging effects of smoking, as there is to other toxic agents of toes, foot or leg which certain persons suffer as a consequence of their excessive smoking.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Radium Emanation for Ob structed Eustachian Tube

Can any doctor give the radium ions used in treating the lymphoid (adenoid) obstruction of Eustachian tube which prevents hearing? (W.)

Answer. No, usually a nose, throat and ear specialist gives the treatment.

Emphysema

Two years ago I had chest X-ray, and doctor said I had something like emphysema. Please tell me what this is and how. (L. R. D.)

Answer—Probably the doctor said emphysema — which means air or gas in the tissue, or in your case probably overdistended air-cells of the lungs. Your doctor should tell you what he meant by it. Many persons with chronic bronchitis, recurring colds, coughs and spells of hay emphysema which makes them wheeze on exertion.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

REVALUATIONS

It is a mark of progress and maturity so long as we can keep revaluating the values of life so that have given to us our delights throughout the years. New values are forever confronting us, the older ones receding and retaining their former fascination in our memory.

We note this progress, for example, in the books that we read after having read them many years ago. We often discover a new freshness that we never gained from the first reading long ago. The qualities of our friends, also, are often revaluated as we see them in a new light after long separation.

Our viewpoints keep changing as we mature. Many of us, our most cherished delights of former years become tasteless. Our interests, later lose their glow, as we take up new interests. The merchant, to keep abreast of the times, has to keep changing his goods to meet the current demands. He has to keep revaluating his public.

It is in our personal character, however, that revaluation counts the most. Here, as we grow, we learn that life's finest values do not lie "heaping treasures together on earth" but in great wealth, but in the happiness that we find in the simple things. There always comes a time when the spiritual values of life are more to be desired than possession of wealth or fame.

We are attracted to by our tastes, but these are forever changing with the years. We are not the mad golfers, bridge or specialty adherents that former years may have made us. If our revaluating process is continual, though we may only slightly take note of the change, there is a broadening of mind does a deal of equalizing. And that is what is needed. Otherwise we would stand still, with the procession passing us by.

Many of the values that seemed vital and important in former years take on new significance as we grow more mature and experienced much. We begin to see how much we may have missed, and so turn about and revaluate those things. Often it is not too late to do this. There is a sign of progress. Benjamin Franklin kept a book, in his later years, in which he noted the improvement of character from day to day. We would be new into such a useful world character.

Car Backs Into Street Light

Trenton (Special) — Damage to the amount of $18 was the result of an accident which occurred yesterday morning when a car driven by Murray Wagman, 82 Beverly Street, Toronto, Ont., backed into a street-light by the alleyway beside Lamprey's butcher shop on Front Street. According to police, Wagman backed up too far and struck the street light breaking the globe. The Hydro Company was immediately notified and repairs are being made today.

New Sidewalk For Frankford Bridge

Trenton — A special sidewalk, extending the full length of the swing bridge in Frankford has been built to provide a less dangerous means of crossing the bridge, than by the previous method. Prior to the new sidewalk pedestrians were forced to share the walking space with the passing traffic.

The new sidewalk is constructed of all-metal handrailings with and oak plank footing and is completely separated from the path of traffic.

Announce Winners Of Essay Contest

Trenton, —(Special)—The winners of the essay contest sponsored by the Canadian Legion Branch 110 were announced today. Prize money amounting to $36 will be distributed to the lucky winners Saturday morning, April 22nd.

The judges for the contest were: Miss Hazel Walker, Rev. Father O'Donnell and Rev. A. S. McConnell.

Winners of the two first prizes, amounting to $10 each, were Rita Bennett, 3 Coulter Crescent, and Ronald Davis, 60 Murphy St. Winners of the two second prizes amounting to $5 each were Margaret McHenry, 158 King Street, and Enid Bennett, 3 Coulter Crescent. Winners of the two third prizes amounting to $3 each were, Marilyn Terry, Air Station and Jack Boyes also of the Air Station.

As co-sponsors of "Educational Week" across Canada, the Canadian Legion, Trenton Branch 110 has offered prizes in the Provincial Grand Contest of which these winners will be eligible to compete.

Mayor Kenneth Couch has consented to present the prizes on Saturday morning. Mr. A. A. Vandewater, president of the Trenton Branch of the Legion will introduce the winners to Mayor Couch. Mr. Martin, manager of the Trent Theatre in Trenton has donated the time and facilities of his theatre to make the presentation.

Deadlock Still Possible Over Leopold's Return

Brussels, April 21. (AP)—Only one point was reported today to stand in the way of agreement by Belgium's three major parties on bringing King Leopold back from exile. But political observers said that dispute may still cause a deadlock which would leave the country's stormy royal question unsolved.

The disputed issue is whether Leopold is to be permitted to reside in Belgium or must return to virtual exile once the delegates his royal powers to his 19-year-old son, Prince Baudouin.

All parties agreed Thursday night on a compromise solution calling for Leopold to return and to turn the throne over to his son temporarily. This compromise was suggested by Leopold in a speech recorded from his exile in Switzerland and broadcast to the Belgians last week.

But the strongly-pro-Leopold Social Christian Party of Premier-designate Paul Van Zeeland hopes that Baudouin's tenure will be strictly temporary and will lead to full restoration of power to Leopold. Apparently they would prefer that Leopold stay in Belgium while his son rules.

The Socialists, bitterly opposed to the King who surrendered his country to Germany in 1940, want the delegation of the powers to Baudouin eventually to be permanent. They are, therefore, opposed to the King's residence in this country after he turns the throne over.

RECOVER POLICE HEAD-SET BEFORE REPORTED STOLEN

Kirkland Lake, April 21—Recovery of a stolen police radio headset before it was reported missing resulted in lumberjack Paul Brunet receiving a six-month term yesterday.

Brunet acted suspicious when he fled from an apartment building hall where police were making a routine call. When police searched him, a radio headset was discovered — the headset which was later found to be missing from the police cruiser.

BACKING TRAIN FLOWS INTO LOCAL IN STORM

Boston, April 21 (AP)— A slow-moving eight-car train packed with 500 passengers plowed into the rear of a standing local carrying as many more in the driving rainstorm Thursday night, but no one was injured seriously. Nineteen persons were treated for cuts and bruises at hospitals. None was held.

April 30 Deadline Daylight Saving In Many Sections

By The Canadian Press

Mark April 30 well, brother, if you're the punctual type — or sleepy. That's the daylight-time deadline in many sections.

All 10 provinces are in on the change this year. Alberta, long a standard-time province — by law — has decided to join the others in moving clocks and watches ahead one hour for the summer.

In most areas the switch is subject to local decision. But Alberta has gone whole hog: a new law makes the change to daylight time mandatory.

Most popular hour for the switch is 2 a.m. Sunday, April 30 in Montreal, Quebec, Windsor, Ont., and Winnipeg are among the few with a deadline of one minute after midnight that same night. This is generally one week earlier than in 1949.

Opposition to "fast time" this year was not marked, a Canadian Press survey showed.

In Ontario, the Provincial Association of Mayors and Reeves likes neither the staggered changeover nor the lack in uniformity in the length of the daylight-time period. It asked the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities to urge a standard system across the country.

Most cities and towns will stay on daylight until sometime in September, Ontario, which clung to daylight time until late November last year because of a hydro shortage, plans to go back to Standard time in September, too.

Major cities making the change April 30:

St. John's, Nfld., Halifax, Sydney, N.S., Montreal, Quebec, Toronto, Windsor, London, Ont., Hamilton, Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton, Calgary and Vancouver.

One Maritime city, Kentville, N.S., embraces the change three weeks later and some Nova Scotia counties, one week earlier.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

AT HOME

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. (Joe) Shortt will celebrate their 50th (Golden) Wedding Anniversary on Saturday next, April 22nd., and will be at home to friends and acquaintances from three to six and eight to ten p.m.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Ferguson, R.R. 8, Belleville, Ontario, wish to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Doreen Eleanor, to George Stolliker, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stolliker, R.R. 6, Belleville, Ont., marriage to take place on Friday, May 19, 1950.

Mrs. B. G. Jenkins, Victoria Avenue, who underwent a serious operation at the Kingston General Hospital, still in critical condition, and will remain a patient there for some time.

Mrs. K. M. Ridgeway, daughter of Mrs. R. Dereviln and the late Rev. A. B. Carson, arrived today in Vancouver on the S.S. "Orangie", from Australia. After visiting with relatives in Seattle, Mrs. Ridgeway will also be the guest of her mother and sister, Mrs. A. C. Stratton here, in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Alderson, en route from Winter Haven, Fla., to their home at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., were guests this week with Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Harron, John Street North.

Those from Peterborough who were in Belleville last Saturday for the wedding of Miss Betty Munroe to Mr. Alan Vickers were Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Deemert, Misses Marion and Dorothy Munroe and Bernadette Cranley and Mr. Victor Rogers.

Miss Jean Scott, of Queens University, Kingston, will be spending her vacation at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scott, Trent Road.

Mr. Barney Parsons was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Swartz, Shannonville.

WEDDINGS

VICKERS—MUNROE

At the Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, Saturday afternoon, April 15, the marriage was solemnized of Miss Betty Doreen Munroe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Munroe, Bennett Street, Peterborough, and Mr. Alan Frederick Vickers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Vickers of Belleville. The Rev. C. A. Perkins officiated.

Tulips, snapdragon and narcissus decorated the church for the occasion. Mrs. Jean Sligo played wedding music and Mr. H. Meredith sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by Mr. Deemert, the bride was gowned in white brocaded taffeta styled with sweetheart neckline and long sleeves pointed over the hands. Her veil of tulle illusion was gathered to a beaded tiara and she carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

Bridesmaids were her two sisters, Miss Marion and Dorothy Munroe of Peterborough, and they were frocked alike in dresses made of net in shades of pastel green and yellow. They wore picture hats of matching lace and carried nosegays of tulips and snapdragon.

Groomsman was Mr. Arnold Ross and the ushers were Arthur Empey and Victor Rogers.

At the reception held in the church parlors the bride's mother was receiving reception in navy crepe with navy picture hat and corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Vickers will live at 33 Geddes Street, Belleville.

About 40 Peterborough friends of Miss Betty Munroe honored her before her wedding Saturday at a shower held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hickey, 144 Street, Peterborough. A trousseau tea was held at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Vickers, Church Street, Belleville.

Friendship Group Presents Comedy

A comedy of wit and mirth was presented by the Friendship Group of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, last evening, when the play "Aunt Susie Shoots the Works", was given on the stage of the auditorium.

The plot concerns a legacy of a vinegar works, as part of an estate left to Aunt Susie, but the terms of the will provide much amusement and complications. There is a romantic sub-plot concerning Aunt Susie's niece, and her fiance; a mystery further enhances the story.

The characterizations were well done, and the play runs smoothly to its dramatic ending.

Edna Jaques Charms Audience With Poems, Personality

Last evening in Tabernacle United Church, Edna Jaques, well-known Canadian poet, took the large audience out of themselves into the heart and spirit of Canada by her homey and realistic poems and retellings that more as she told of her travels throughout the length and width of Canada, and some of the border.

As a delightful musical prelude to the evening, Mrs. Morley Davison rendered four lovely solos, one being a "Folk-Song," the words of which were composed by Sir Gilbert Parker, and the latter two "I Love My Love" and "How Do You Do, Miss Springtime," accompanied by Mrs. Duff at the piano. The latter two solos were preceded by two much enjoyed grand organ selection by Mrs. Duff on the console of the organ. Following the musical prelude, the president of the Women's Association of the church, introduced the artist of the evening, Mrs. Edna Jaques, stating that the Comrades Club had indeed been fortunate in persuading Mrs. Jaques to come to Belleville and bring to its people the spirit of Canada by song. Mrs. Jaques replied that she was very happy to come, but after the glowing introduction she had received, she considered the safest thing to do would be to sing.

Life in West

Mrs. Jaques, who is petite and winsome, with silvery hair, was born at Collingwood, in Ontario, on the shore of Georgian Bay. Her father, Captain Charles Jaques, sailed with the old Northern Navigation Company for years, but she announced in his astonished family, that he was leaving the water and taking to the land. Accordingly, he purchased three mules and drove them many miles beyond the last habitation, and took up homesteading in Saskatchewan, at a place southeast of Moose Jaw, where he proceeded to farm, learning by the mistakes he made. Here they remained for 25 years, isolated in winter by mountainous snow drifts, lonely and anxious for company, and also shocked by fierce winds in the summer. "But," added the speaker, "it doesn't freeze us to death, nor blow us away."

Her first poem dedicated to "A Mother's Clothes Line," where the different garments fluttered in the wind became old pennants. Another poem, the outcome of lonely winter days, was "To a Seed Merchant" brought into being by the arrival of the seed catalogue with its pages of lovely flowers, which was so well received by the seedsmen that on every page Brandon for a meeting, she found her heiel room pressed with every flower imaginable.

Mrs. Jaques told of the black years in Saskatchewan, 1937, when nothing grew; everything was weary dried, of, even gladly the carload of provisions from Ontario had been received by the needy ones, each family getting a proper portion to their requirements; and of how, one family with 15 children, had joyfully received the 60 pound pail of honey. "This," said Mrs. Jaques, "was the only time they ever envied that family."

Travelled Extensively

Every year Edna Jaques has travelled from 10,000 to 20,000 miles for the past 20 years, covering Canada and recrossing it. She spent seven months along the Alaska Highway covering over 10,000 miles lecturing and visiting churches, schools and halls, bringing into them the breath of Canada, and its living spirit. Many were the humorous incident connected with her travels: In one place where she was lecturing, she noticed a man in the audience, accosting him, said "Are you the new minister?" and received the reply, "No, I have a wife!" Another time the leading men of the church was delegated to meet him at the train, so gaily did his best suit and set out.

At the station he saw a man alight from the train whom he took to be the new minister, so accosting him, said "Are you the new minister?" and received the reply, "No, I'm a Presbyterian; that's what makes me look like a preacher."

All through Edna Jaques poetry runs a "choking realism that makes the phrase glow and burn and thrill all her work, there shines like a thread of purest gold, her love of beauty, her hunger and thirst for everything that is sweet and honest and kindly." An example of this beauty is found in the poem, "To a Woman Knitting," written in thanks for the carload of food sent to them during the drought.

"Although our tables stand so far apart,
Still they are one, guests in a far-off place,
Who sit with you and eat your bread and cheese,
Repeating after you your whispered grace,
Blessing the food that multiplies and feeds
The heartache and the wounds of barren fields."

Mr. Harbeck extended, on behalf of the audience, appreciative thanks to Edna Jaques for her delightful visit and to Canadian life, with all its sorrows, joys, and sunshine.

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

There aren't many people who can eat and without sweating! The most delicious fish of spring contains so many cunning bones that eating it is a combination of pleasure and somewhat refined torture. But the meat of the shad, as George Washington was one of the first to testify, is the sweetest and tenderest of any river fish. Although shad are considered a fresh water fish, they spend most of their time in salt water, only returning from the sea to spawn and to provide a baked fish dinner for shad fanciers.

There are some fish dealers who, for a small fee, will bone the shad. Not all fish dealers can provide this kind of surgical service, but it always wards the cost.

The flesh of shad is light and usually fatty. It can be broiled or dipped in flour and pan fried or baked with a bread stuffing.

The stuffing should be moist but not too strongly flavored with herbs. If you bake the whole fish in a large roasting pan you'll need a wide spatulas to remove the fish whole.

Bake it, if possible, in a large casserole that can be brought to the table directly from the oven.

Baked Stuffed Shad—Serves 6

Order a 4-pound shad. Have the fish cleaned, split and boned or if boning is not possible, have it split and the backbone removed. If the fish contains roe, have it also removed. Broil or pan fry the roe. Shad without the roe, mashed back, is usually the cheaper of the two.

Sprinkle fish inside and outside with salt.

Prepare a stuffing as follows: Combine 2 cups fine white bread crumbs (stale white bread put through food chopper), 1-2 cup finely chopped onion, 1-4 teaspoon powdered sage, 2 tablespoon finely chopped parsley, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper and 1-2 cup finely chopped boiled celery. Add 1-3 cup melted butter or margarine and 1-4 cup hot water or milk. Mix all ingredients thoroughly.

Place stuffing between two halves of fish. Sew together or fasten with toothpicks. Brush top of fish with oil or bacon fat.

Place fish in a greased baking pan. Bake uncovered in a hot oven 500 degrees, for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 40 minutes more.

Club Activities

DAISY MISSION BAND

West Huntingdon.—The April meeting of West Huntingdon Daisy Mission Band was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wilson.

Mrs. Floyd Sheffield led in prayer and all enjoyed learning a new chorus "In the Sweet Bye and Bye".

Reg. McCurdy read the Scripture lesson and Sharon Wilson and Patsie Woodcock sang "Jesus Loves Me". The roll call was answered by each member giving a verse of scripture about the resurrection. Thirty-five were present.

Miss Lois Emmerson gave a splendid reading about a little boy who was given an old black penny, after cleaning and shining it learned it was a $2 gold piece.

At first he was tempted to keep it but he was a Christian boy and knew that would be wrong, so he gave it back. After a few days an old lady who was nearly blind learned that she had given it in mistake for a penny. Paul was very glad he had been honest.

Mrs. Fargey gave the study book about children in the land of Horneo, Pauline McCurdy and Carol Fargey sang "Sunbeams for Jesus".

Helen Ashley gave a reading about a boy who is gradly known as "Don't Blame Me". He was known as the D.B.M. boy.

Mrs. Hammond told the Easter story of the loveliness of Christ. Who died that we will who believed on Him might live lovely lives free from the sins of the world.

Friends, Neighbors Shower Bride-to-be With Cups, Saucers

Roslin.—On Friday afternoon, about 35 friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. E. Shilton, for a cup and saucer shower in honor of her approaching marriage.

A delightful afternoon was spent. Games and contests forming the entertainment. An address was read and refreshments served by Mrs. R. Copeland, Mrs J. Cross, Mrs. J. Skelly and Miss Doreen Cross.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Alford poured tea.

Mrs. Wagan thanked her friends for the lovely cups and saucers and invited all to come to her home for a cup of tea.

Argyll Chapter Entertains at Daffodil Tea

Yesterday afternoon the spacious rooms of the Officers Mess, Armouries, glowed with bright Spring sunshine and the vivacious conviviality of the members and friends of the Argyll Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire who gathered to partake of the delightful daffodil tea, and to carry away with them trinket souvenirs from the White Zelephant table, as well as the dainty confections on display.

Receiving at the door were the lovely hostesses, Mrs. W. D. Wilson and Mrs. E. S. Fairman; who, after courteously welcoming the guests, permitted them to saunter at will to make their various purchases, and then to be welcomed into the charming atmosphere of the tea room, by the receptionist, Mrs. E. O. Keeler.

Here, in the centre of the softly subdued interior, with its gracefully drapes and indirect lighting, was the prettily appointed tea table with its lace cloth, centred by daffodils, white snapdragons, and fragrant stock. Chrysanthemums were tri-branched silver candelabra with ivory tapers, and presiding at the silver services from 3 to 4:30 were Mrs. R. A. Ceen and Mrs. G. McGregor, while Mrs. T. Y. Wills and Mrs. R. B. Chadwick assumed the duties from 4:30 to 6.

Around the wall, and in concolores were the easeful chesterfields and large, commodious chairs, and at the far end of the room, a coppery-bronze statuette of Queen Victoria on a mahogany pedestal, kindly presented to the Chapter and bearing a plaque on which were inscribed the following words:

Made by Princess Louise

"This statuette of Queen Victoria was presented to the 15th Argyll Light Infantry by her Royal Highness, Princess Louise, a daughter of Queen Victoria, as a token of the appreciation of the appointment of her husband, the Right Honorable Sir John D.o.ll.as Sutherland, Marquis of Lorne, 9the Duke of Argyll, Governor General of Canada from 1878 to 1883 as honorary colonel of the 15th A.L.I. by General Order, dated February 1, 1888. The Marquis of Lorne died August 6th., 1900, and was succeeded as Duke of Argyll by his nephew, who also accepted the appointment as honorary colonel of the 15th Argyll Light Infantry from the last mentioned date.

This statuette is one of two replicas made by the Princess Louise the original of which is at Kensington Palace; the 2nd replica in the Mess of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders Scotland, of which unit the Princess was the honorary colonel."

In the receiving room was situated the White Elephant table with its array of costume jewellery, earrings, brooches, pin plans, leads, ash trays fashioned in the form of open seashells, china pitcher, cigaret case in green leather, and an ocean conk shell, this was removed by Mrs. J. W. Howard and Mrs. A. L. Weirmeyer.

Tempting Delicacies

Directly across from this table was that of the home cooking, laden with all manner of tempting cookies, tea biscuits, lemon pies, pumpkin pies, cakes with generous cocoanut toppings date loaves, moist and luscious; taffy tarts, nut snacks, chocolate devil cake, apple pies, and chocolate Indians, dripping goodness. Over these delicacies presided Mrs. J. Porritt, Mrs. It. Keel and Mrs. M. Davison. Sitting at the receipt of custom was Mrs. Fred Sprague, the treasurer, while Mrs. Fred Lazier convened the tea.

In an adjoining room, adding to the attractiveness of the tea, was an exhibit of oil paintings by a local artist, Mr. Sebastair, Picton. The scenes were of beauty spots near and far. One particularly nice painting was of the "Sandbanks" with white-crested waves breaking on the shore.

"I've given him four years to straighten out, and things have only gone from bad to worse. If this keeps up, I'll go out of my mind."

Now no woman of character wants to abandon her husband and break up her marriage if there is any chance at all of working out a situation of this kind. But, on the other hand, a woman should let her conscience, or even her devotion, force her to stay in a desperate tangle of circumstances past the point where it is threatening her physical and emotional health. If this unhappy young woman has done everything possibly, then she is not only justified in leaving her husband but, both for her own sake, and the sake of her small child, would be wise to do so. The point here is whether or not there is anything else she might try before taking such a drastic step.

She says she has tried to get her husband to go to Alcoholics Anonymous for help, and that he has refused to do so. I wonder if she herself has gone to see anyone connected with this remarkable organization and talked the problem over.

If she has not, I think that should be her next step. All she would have to do is to look in the telephone book of the town in which she lives and get the address of the local A.A. group. If there is none in her own town, there definitely is one in the large city close by. A letter or a telephone call will enable her to make an appointment to see someone who can give her practical advice on what she should do in her present emergency.

The people connected with Alcoholics Anonymous are fully aware of every angle of the drinking problem. They are familiar with the pattern followed by all obsessive drinkers, for they have at some time followed the same pattern themselves. They know all the excuses and the protestations the drinker makes to his wife and family, and they know all the answers. In addition to their complete familiarity with everything involved in such a situation, they hold themselves ready to give every possible help when a family is sincerely trying to solve the problem.

I hope this frantic young wife will get in touch with the A.A. immediately and let them do what they can to help her. If, when she has done this, she would like to write me further, I would be very glad to, bear from her and to make any other suggestions that might be of use.

Hostess Gown

By VERA WINSTON

NAVY blue sheer crepe is used for the body of a gracious, graceful hostess gown. An entire panel of navy and white striped sheer lends color contrast and animation to an otherwise rather severe design. There are self buttons at the bodice and skirt, the latter with pannier pockets. The bloused sleeves are caught into striped cuffs. The striped fabric is gathered in front, and there are gathers in the centre back of the skirt above the bloused bodice back.

Giving a white Bible to first bride in new church

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have heard of the custom of giving a white Bible to the first bride in a new church. Would you please tell us if this is presented as a gift from the pastor or from the parish? Also is it presented before the ceremony, or at the conclusion of the ceremony?

D. O.

This is a wonderful-idea . . . and I have known several brides who have the great good fortune to own such a deeply-cherished Holy Book. If the pastor is a close friend of the bride and family he may give her this Bible . . . but more often the members of the parish plan to contribute to the fund for this memorable gift. But should it always be presented to the bride-to-be quite a time before the wedding, so that she may if she wishes (and this is often the choice) make her plans to carry this white Bible, perhaps with a few flower markers in it) instead of a bouquet.

All prejudice . . . or some lack of backbone?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I need some advice . . . but fast, for I am in a terrible situation, caused by prejudice. How stupid prejudice is, and what it have been going steady with a Russian fellow for two years. I am of Italian descent. I am sure he loves me, and I am sure I love him. He is twenty-one years old, I am twenty and I am positive we know our own minds. We would have become engaged several times, but his mother disapproves because of my nationality. For the past week he has not been speaking to his family, and in this time I have not seen him, only spoken to him on the telephone. He wants me to come down to see me, but his family won't let him out of the house. Please give me some advice.

E. P.

I wish I could, I wish I could . . . but prejudice such as you say is a sad one. It is adamant ignorance (they are closely related) and as difficult to control or destroy. Only you yourself, if you could ever be given the opportunity, could destroy the prejudice of this family against you and your fine and splendid nationality . . . by your goodness and sweetness and gentle understanding, by your deep and abiding love of their son and your wish to bring only happiness to him and to them. This may sound impossible, too idealistic . . . but it has been done and it can be done.

I am wondering if prejudice is really the only obstacle in your romance. May it also be that the young man's family consider you and also their son too young or too immature for marriage? Has he a position so that he can support you . . . if not, what, I wonder, because of his work when his family wouldn't let him out of the house"? And if they created such barriers, how come he was able to talk with you on the telephone? Your problem is, I think, apparent; you must not only try to conquer their prejudice, but the young man's lack of decision and backbone, his lack of bravery-to-win-in-love.

Correct form of name for name-plate

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Kindly advise us which form of our name is correct for a name-plate for our house:

The Beaches Live Here

or

The Beach's Live Here

Thank you

The Beaches Live Here is correct. The plural is indicated by the addition of -es. (Incorrect is "s which is the possessive case, not the plural.)

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Superfluous hair

Facial fuzzers are no minor good-looks grief. Since it is possible to remove these unsightly growths, one seldom sees a woman so afflicted. In the old days, when beautifying was looked upon as sinful, there was nothing to do but to grin and bear it. If the Lord had seen fit to place an incipient moustache on the lip of Mary Jane, there it remained, with the result that she was an unhappy creature. A lot of water has run under the beauty bridge since then, and the world is a better place for the female of the species.

In every pore of the body, except the palms of the hands and the soles of the feet, there is a hair. It is only when these shafts develop into elongated threads or stiff bristles that they should be regarded as blemishes. If there is a soft down on the cheeks, it should not be tampered with. Developed hairs can be removed by means of an electric needle that has been used successfully for this purpose for many years.

This treatment is not suitable for the extermination of fuzzers on the arms and legs, since each individual hair must be treated and the process of elimination is slow.

A soft pliable needle, usually of gold one, is inserted in the pore beside the shaft. An experienced operator with nimble fingers so trained and sensitive that the needle will follow any turns, twists or slants in the pore and go directly to its objective, the papilla, from which the shaft emerges.

The electric current is turned on, the papilla is destroyed, and no little understudy can appear to carry on. The current is so regulated that skin tissues are not burned, so scars will result. In past years when heavy steel needle was used, and methods had not been developed, scars did appear. That need never happen now. Also, with multiple needles, the treatment progresses faster.

The shaft is removed with the tweezers. If it comes away without resistance the operator knows that the papilla has been put out of business. If it does resist, the needle is inserted again and the current used.

A fine, dark growth—not gristly, but still an annoyance to the victim—can be bleached so that it will not be conspicuous. Peroxide is used for the purpose, and the solution must be freshly opened if the contents are to be effective. Two one hundredths of peroxide to a single drop of ammonia is added —no more! The lotion is applied with cotton, allowed to dry on. Several applications, a day apart, may be necessary.

For hair on the arms and legs, depilatories can be used. They come in various forms, can be obtained at any cosmetic counter. There is a fine hair in almost every pore in the body

TYENDINAGA New Officers Elected at Women's Institute

Tyendinaga — The April meeting of the Tyendinaga East W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Bell on Friday afternoon last with a good attendance. president, Mrs. C. Russel opened the meeting. The roll call was answered by "Items of last year's program" was well responded to.

The minutes and correspondence were read by the secretary Miss Irene Mowers. The reports of the standing committees were given by the convenors. The auditor's report was given by Mrs. B. Stafford and the treasurer's report presented by Mrs. F. Kimmerly.

Mrs. G. Provins then took charge of the election of officers which resulted as follows:

President — Mrs. P. Kimmerly; 1st vice president — Miss Geraldine Mowers; 2nd vice president — Mrs. G. Kimmerley; secretary — Miss Irene Mowers; treasurer — Mrs. F. Hutchinson; district director — Mrs. C. Russell; pianist — Mrs. T. Waddingham; directors — Mrs. R. Tucker, Mrs. H. D. Sweetman and Mrs. F. Following the close of the meeting dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, and her committee.

Fashion Flashes

THE TREND to the shirtwaist dress is firm and appears in almost every collection developed for Summer. White dimity, with its tiny satin stripe in red and blue, makes a real shirtwaist dress with full, three-quarter sleeves, and a collar that curves up softly in back but that has pointed revers in front. Vertical stripe on bodice; chevrons on skirt.

LOVELY LINEN dresses are ready for late Spring and Summer wear. An impressive dress, feminine yet tailored, is of lime green linen with self-material flowers forming deep pockets and also a draped plastron on the bodice.

THE EVENING SCENE during the late Spring should see some handsome dinner hats. Black latticed horsehair makes a dramatic hat that has a single pink rose potted at the front. Black lace is drawn over the crown to tie beneath the chin.

USEFUL and youthful is the little cape jacket of fur lined with fabric, making it a reversible affair. One flaring little model, made with softly curved high collar, is navy-dyed moleskin on one side, with a navy and beige tweed mixture for the other side.

GETTING LESS all the time is the sleeve, especially for the coat and dress ensemble. Pale gray sheer wool jersey makes a handsome ensemble. The coat which has high closing, has elbow length, full sleeves. The dress has a fitted, almost sleeveless top with deep V neckline flanged by tiny revers. Skirt is full.

Butter - - The Best of Fats

The flavor of butter appeals to nearly everyone. The name "butterscotch", "butterflake" and "buttercrisp" are used to describe products because the name of butter brings to mind mouth-watering suggestions. Fruit butters and nut butters are so-called because of the smooth spreading consistency which somewhat resembles butter.

Rationing of butter during the war years taught us to spread the bread a little more thinly and to do without that delicious little pat of butter in the baked potato or on other cooked vegetables. Habits are easily formed, whether good or bad, but many of us are still foregoing a flavor treat as well as a good nutritional investment by continuing the habit of "going easy on the butter."

Uniform Product

In Canada, the making of butter in the home was a necessary part of pioneer life. The commercial manufacture of butter has been established for many years and produces a more uniform product. Today we have more than a thousand creameries producing about three hundred million pounds of butter each year.

No matter how good butter may be when purchased, care must be taken to retain its sweet flavor. Butter should always be stored in a cool, dry place, away from all foods which have a distinct odor or flavor, as it readily absorbs foreign flavors. It should be kept in a covered container or well wrapped in the parchment paper in which it is purchased.

Nothing beats a topping of crunchy buttered crumbs on a casserole dish. Often such a topping makes the family forget that they are eating leftovers.

These recipes are recommended by the home economists of the Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. They are all exceptionally good.

Butterscotch Sponge Custard
3 tablespoons butter
2-3 cups brown sugar
3 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons vinegar
2 egg yolks
1-8 teaspoon salt
1 1-2 cups milk
2 egg whites

Cream butter and sugar. Add flour, vinegar, beaten egg yolks and salt. Stir in milk and blend well. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into buttered custard cups and set in pan of water. Oven-poach in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F. until set, about 35 to 40 minutes. Cool and unmould. Yield: six servings.

BUTTER TARTS
1-2 cup butter
1-2 cups brown sugar
1 teaspoon cornstarch
2 eggs
1 cup raisins or currants
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons lemon juice

pastry.

Cream the butter and sugar. Add cornstarch and cream well together. Add well beaten egg, fruit and flavoring. Line muffin or tart tins with pastry and fill almost to top with mixture. Bake in a very hot oven, 450 degrees F., for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees F., and continue baking until done, about 20 minutes. Yield 24 small or 12 large tarts.

BUTTER WAFERS

1 cup melted butter
3-4 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
1 3-4 cups sifted pastry flour or 1 1-2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1-2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1-2 teaspoon baking soda.

Add butter to brown sugar, mixing well. Add vanilla and unbeaten egg and beat well. Mix and sift flour, cream of tartar and soda and add to creamed mixture. Drop by half teaspoonfuls well apart on an unbuttered baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees F., for five minutes. Yield: eight dozen small wafers.

ST. PAUL'S L.G.

Marmora—The April meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild was held in the rectory on Friday evening. The president, Mrs. D. Robertson, occupied the chair, and there was a fair turn out of members. Mrs. D. McInroy gave the monthly financial statement in course of which it was disclosed that over $60 had been netted from the recent supper.

The decoration of a section of the interior of the rectory was decided upon and a sum allotted for that purpose. Preparations for the forthcoming minstrel show on April 27th and 28th were extended.

The meeting was closed by Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie.

Refreshments were served. Mrs. J. R. Reynolds offered her home for the May meeting.

ST. PAUL'S L.G.

Marmora — The april meeting of St. Paul's Ladies Guild was held in the rectory on Friday evening. The president, Mrs. D. Robertson, occupied the chair and there was a fair turn out of members. Mrs. D. McInroy gave the monthly financial statement in course of which it was disclosed that over $80 had been netted from the recent progressive supper.

HALLOWAY W.M.S.-W.A.

Halloway—Mrs. G. H .Rose and Mrs. Donald Rose were hostesses to the W.M.S. and W.A., on Wednesday last with 19 ladies and a number of children in attendance. Mrs. Ed. Emerson opened the W.M.S. meeting following the Easter worship service as outlined in the Missionary Monthly.

Mrs. G. Stone, Mrs. J. Reid, Mrs. H. Smith, Mrs. R. McMullen, Miss B. McMullen and Mrs. E. Snider assisted with the worship service. Miss Bessie McMullen read the minutes of the last meeting and roll call was answered. Mrs. D. Roth gave a full and interesting report on the Presbyterial held in Napanee. It was decided that the expenses of the delegates be paid.

During Easter-week, members of the W.M.S., W.A., C.W.L., P.S., and Sunday School presented a beautiful Easter pageant before a large audience. It was also decided that the collection received that night, amounting to $10.84 be used toward the purchasing of choir books, also during the business session it was agreed to send for greeting cards for the members to sell.

The Easter thank-offering was received which amounted to $9.50 and was given to Mrs. Ed. Emerson which brought the meeting to a close.

W.A.

Mrs. E. Snider called the W.A. meeting to order, with Mrs. Blake McMullen reading the minutes of the last meeting and roll call was answered. Mrs. Snider appointed various conveners for the bazaar which is to be held in the Fall. Tickets have also been sold on a quilt top, donated by Miss Rosie Reid. The money received to be used for the new basement of the church.

Plans were then discussed for the dinner at Mr. Scott's auction sale on Tuesday 18th, as the Halloway W.A. is serving dinner. It was decided to send Miss Laird from Rawdon circuit in the near future to arrange a program and at the same time to have the "Parcel Post Sale". After the meeting was brought to a close the hostesses served delicious refreshments, a social half hour was spent.

Club Activities

HEALTHY HUSTLERS CLUB

Ivanhoe — The Healthy Hustlers Girls' Club held their 6th meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Stevenson, Crookston, on last Thursday afternoon, with six members and two guests present.

Plans were discussed for Achievement Day to be held in Madoc May 6th. A meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Keeble Saturday evening April 22nd, to complete the record books and charts.

After the business meeting the leaders led the discussion on "Planning Low Cost Meals" and "Judging Menus."

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Stevenson, and Shirley Douglas.

Women's Institute

QUINTE W.I.

The April meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Greatrix, Front Road. Mrs. Harry Grills, 1st vice president, opened the meeting. Letters and cards of thanks for fruit and flowers received were read. This being the business meeting, Mrs. Grills asked Mrs. Arnold Mitchell if she would conduct the election of officers. After the secretary gave her report for the year's work and financial report, Miss Annabelle Docter gave her report for the year. Mrs. Noble Brown moved all officers be returned to their same offices which motion was adopted unanimously.

Mrs. Greatrix thanked all for the splendid co-operation and hoped it would continue. Mrs. Arnold Mitchell had charge of the program. It being Eastertide, all joined in singing the beautiful hymn, entitled, "In The Garden." Mrs. Ken Faul gave a splendid talk on her trip to California, followed with an instrumental selection, "The Robins Return", by Mrs. Jack Parrott. Reading "The First Automobile in this district" was given by Mrs. Bert Bush, followed with an Easter message by Mrs. Noble Brown. A solo, "The Old Rugged Cross" was sung by Mrs. Insley of Point Anne.

In closing the program, Mrs. Mitchell quoted from Rev. J. Grant Sparling's "pep talk", "prepayer, this is a necessity if the officers were to fulfill their task; "P" — Efficiency which is planning ahead and "P"—interpreting it as meaning push, enthusiasm was the chief factor in order to obtain results.

Mrs. Mitchell thanked all the ladies who have taken part in the program. Refreshments were served by the hostess and the lunch committee.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. J. Parrott early in May, one week earlier than usual.

Bay of Quinte Women's Institute Elects Officers

The Bay of Quinte Women's Institute held their annual meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Reid with the president, Mrs. Fred Reading. Thirteen members answered the roll call with an item for a program.

It was decided to invite the Ladies from Johnstown to the next Institute meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Casey Ketcheson. Reports for the year were given by secretary-treasurer, auditors, and convener. Mrs. Fred Wilson presided over the election of officers:

President, Mrs. Cecil Jeffery; 1st. vice president — Mrs. Ross Sickle; 2nd vice president — Mrs. Glen Meyers; secretary treasurer —Mrs. Casey Ketcheson; district director— Mrs. Clayton Sickle; directors — Mrs. Frank Sandercock, Mrs. E. Curtis; pianist — Mrs. William Jefferey; press reporter — Mrs. George B. Clapp; Flower committee — Mrs. P. Boulton, Mrs. A. Jones, Mrs. Ritchie, Ketcheson; auditors — Mrs. B. Bonisteel, Mrs. E. Curtis.

The retiring president thanked the ladies for their co-operation, during her term of office.

Mrs. C. Jeffrey closed the meeting and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and her helpers.

New Pattern of Equalitarian Democracy Seen

Hamilton, April 20 (CP):— The president of Ontario's provincial chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, yesterday predicted a new pattern of an equalitarian democracy" will emerge from what she called Britain's present "grey and grim experiment."

Mrs. Cecil L. Brown of Hamilton, told the opening sessions of the chapter's three-day annual convention that "Britain will still remain the laboratory of democracy and that she will share the trail for a new type of communal capitalism."

Mrs. Brown struck out at what she called "a designed attempt by some leaders in our government" to eliminate every vestige of British symbolism from references to the Commonwealth.

She said "even the word British" is being eliminated from references not only to the Commonwealth, but also to our Dominion, to the flag and in parliamentary nomenclature. She added:

"This idea seems to be contagious. Now eggs are given to understand that it is the intention to delete that most unique artistic, symbolic touch from our Ontario licence plates."

Speaking of communism, the president said she deplored the fact that "our Canadian freedom is so broad" as to admit into legislative assemblies persons with allegiance to a foreign power "intent on the destruction of our British way of life an Canadian freedom."

She urged I.O.D.E. members to "bend every effort" to form chapters and to strengthen lasting ones to enforce the aims of the order "in upholding ideals and meet the crisis now facing freedom."

Charge London Dock Strike Is Red-Inspired

London, April 20. (AP)—Nearly 7,000 dock workers were out today in a growing walkout strike which Labor Minister George Isaacs branded as "clearly communist inspired." Strike leaders denied communist influence.

Isaacs hinted the Labor government might use troops to end the unofficial walkout.

The strike, called to demand the reinstatement of three expelled union men, began Wednesday with a walkout of nearly 2,000 dockers. By today it had immobilized at least 41 ships carrying food for Britain's skimpy larders.

Reporting to the House of Commons on the situation, Isaacs said:

"The present stoppage is clearly communist inspired and is nothing else than an attack on the democratic and constitutional rules of the Transport and General Workers Union."

The three expelled dockers belong to the T.G.W.U. which expelled them on charges that they led a communist-supported walkout last year in support of the Canadian Seamen's Union dispute.

Besides the ships immobilized, about 10 were undermanned when, by afternoon, the number of workers on strike rose to 6,737, the National Dock Labor Board said.

Isaacs, who had called the 1949 dock strike a "cold and deliberate" communist plot, told Commons today:

"This stoppage, in no way connected with pay, has come with employers regarding rates and conditions of employment, shows once again the lengths to which the communists are prepared to go in their losing attempt to gain control of the trade union movement.

The T.G.W.U. issued a statement tonight insisting that the expulsions will stand, and demanding that members involved in the strike return to work "immediately".

School Teacher Sent to Jail For Six Months

Kirkland Lake, April 20. (CP) —A 25-year-old school teacher from the nearby community of Bourkes today was sentenced to reformatory after being found guilty of contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Magistrate S. Atkinson sentenced Robert Roseware to six months definite and 12 months indefinite for making improper advances to elementary students of both sexes who were in his charge.

Magistrate Atkinson told Roseware that although it had been shown that the advances made were not of a vicious nature, the position of trust which he had held made suitable punishment mandatory.

The magistrate said he hoped that Roseware would ask for suitable treatment in the reformatory so that upon his dismissal he could fill a useful place in society.

Teen-Agers Fined For Supplying Liquor to Minors

Toronto, April 20 — (CP) — Three teen-age students convicted of supplying liquor to 30 minors at a Sunday morning drinking party today were fined $100 each or 30 days.

Convicted were: William Adams 17; James Moxam, 19, and Keery Murphy, 19.

Police said the party was held at Moxam's home while his parents were away. Evidence was that 30 boys and girls between 16 and 19 years old "were or had been drinking."

Seized were 40 pint bottles of beer, 96 empty bottles, three empty whisky bottles and one empty gin bottle.

Police said Adams and Murphy collected money from the group to supply the drinks after a Saturday night dance.

A vote of thanks was moved to Mrs. Mitz for opening her home.

Since the Rally in Belleville falls on the regular meeting day, the May meeting will be cancelled

WILL PROBE CHARGE OF RACIAL DISCRIMINATION

Toronto, April 19 — (CP) — Civic officials decided Wednesday they will investigate a charge of racial discrimination against an east-central barber shop. The barber is alleged to have refused to cut a person's hair because of the color of his skin.

"What would happen if the milkman refused to deliver milk to your door because you were colored?" asked one alderman.

"We should make it clear the granting of licenses will depend upon being no discrimination," said another.

Mun Picks Locks, Cop Picks Man

Toronto, April 20 — (CP) — A cat-footed Toronto policeman netted a rare haul on Wednesday night while nabbing a man in the act of picking a lock on a Yonge Street store.

The Body in the Ravine

By Lloyd Carr

"I should think we ought to call the sheriff, Tim," Greg said thoughtfully, his gray eyes darkening with concern. "Bill Sinnons isn't too smart, but at least he'll have authority. And if there are coldblooded killers around here, it's a poor place for amateur detectives."

Tim got up and walked the length of the porch and back puffing on a cigarette, his brows knit and his fingers grinding themselves into nervous fists. "I don't know, Greg," he said, stopping in front of him and Diane. "I've an idea the thing can be handled more quickly and probably a lot more effectively by us, because as soon as the sheriff arrives the murderer is going to be completely on guard. Right now he may not even know that the murder has been discovered. At any rate, he doesn't know about it, or how much they do know."

"What do you suppose Bruce's car being wrecked has to do with the case?" Diane asked abruptly.

"That's one of many things, I don't know," Tim replied. "But the first one I'm going to question about it is Sid, who smelled pretty badly of stale liquor when I talked to him this morning. By the way, remember what you first told me that Mr. Thurman had drowned last summer? Didn't you say something then about the Taylor crowd not speaking to him after that?"

Diane turned to Greg and nodded. "That's true, isn't it Greg?"

"Um-hmm. But that was because he went away for about three days on an awful drunk and left Grace to shoulder the blow all by herself. She was prostrated and, of course, needed him then more than any other time."

"Even for a habitual drunkard," Tim said "that seems like a mighty peculiar reaction to one's own father's death. Did they make a search for Thurman's body right away?"

"Yes," Greg said, "but they didn't have any good equipment and the only clue they had to the approximate location was the boat he'd been fishing in when he drowned. They found the boat way up at the far end of the lake with his fishing rod gone and his leather jacket on the rear seat. Obviously he'd been casting —that was the way he always fished—and he must have lost his balance and fallen in. Funny thing was that they didn't find the boat until the morning after. Grace didn't know where he was and neither did Bruce or anyone else. In fact, no one even started to ask about him or worry about it at all until well along after supper. Then they noticed that Sid was gone, too, and decided he and Emery had gone into town. But Sid came back about nine o'clock, as I recall, with some lumber and things he said Emery'd sent him after. Must have been 10 or 11 that night before they discovered Emery's boat was missing."

Tim considered those facts for a while and then summarized them: "Sid was away Grace was not missed until it was too late to make an effective search and Bruce reacted to his father's death by going and getting drunk. This gets screwier all the time."

"Their privacy was invaded then by the opening of the door from the lounge. Mort Taylor Carson, Jake and Jean Radcliffe emerged, walking with Claire coming along behind. As they stepped from the porch onto to the lawn outside, Jake moved up to walk on the other side of his wife and Jean, left for a moment hugging behind, stopped and retraced her steps and joined Tim Greg and Diane.

Her deep blue eyes were smoldering with suppressed anger and her smooth little chin quivered as she addressed Tim.

"Do I know you well enough to ask you to drive me into town this evening to the train?" she asked.

Beneath her tan cashmere sweater Tim could see her shoulders rise and fall in rapid breathing. In one small hand she held a cigarette; the other, pressed close to her thigh, was clenched into an angry little fist.

"You certainly do, Jean," Tim replied, "But I hate to see you go. Do you have to?" His effort to sound casual was pretty effective; an easy grin helped.

"I'm afraid so," Jean said—quietly, but with an air about her that indicated she'd rather have shouted "I've had all I can stand of this nonsense."

She started to go, and Tim, with a flick of his fingers toward Greg and Diane, followed. She took her arm when they reached the foot of the porch stairs and together they started across the lawn.

"Am I right in guessing it's your friends' unpleasantness that's making you run off so soon Jean? Tim asked, steering her without much difficulty toward the boathouse.

"You're exactly right," Jean said flatly. "And I'm beginning to think this is no place for anyone who wishes to be peaceful and relaxed. Where are we going?"

"Thought we'd get in a boat and drift around off shore. It's restful," Tim grinned. "Any of you're my assistant in the detective business and I need your help."

Jean didn't say any more until they were about 50 yards off shore, Tim at the oars in the center seat and she in the rear facing him. Then she said "I've got some fairly good, or at least surprising news for you, Tim. Grace Thurman knows that Bruce was not driving his car when it was wrecked. She says she smelled liquor on the hired man's breath this morning and she doesn't allow him to have any here at the lodge. He's also not supposed to take the cars out without permission, and she thinks that's why he used the shortcut so he wouldn't be seen."

"Swell," Tim said. "That just about settles the fact, I'd kind of suspected it, anyway."

"You had? Why?" Jean appeared skeptical.

"Well—I'd smelled liquor on him, too. And Sid was very anxious to clear away certain evidence that might have proved Bruce wasn't driving his car."

Tim rested the oars on the gunwales and leaned forward, elbows on knees, so he could talk softly and be easily heard by Jean without having his voice carry to other boats. "I wish you'd tell me why you're running away, Jean. What's happened among your friends?"

Jean didn't answer at first. She trailed her fingertips in the water and stared, frowning at the little ripples they made. And then she looked up at Tim and folded her hands in her lap and said: "I've found out why Jake was so insistent on my staying here after we left, and probably why she had a fight with Mort He's making a great play for Claire Carson, acting like a schoolboy, squeezing her hand under the dining-room table and the like. Jake seemed to realize it for the first time today and I could tell he was mad."

The small boat was drifting slowly as the water currently in front of the lodge, and glancing toward shore Tim saw figures moving around near the Taylor cottage. He frowned as he watched them; then he turned to Jean.

"Jake and Claire seem to be carrying things out to their car," Jean nodded, "I imagine they'll leave immediately. That's why I want to go home on the evening train. I'm not going to be stuck here with Mort Taylor—that rotter!"

Tim put the oars back in the water and started pulling toward shore. "This won't do," he said solemnly. "Nobody's leaving here before a few things are straightened out."

Jean's brows lifted a bit as she looked at Tim, studying him. "Jake isn't a very pleasant fellow to tangle with, Tim," she said "If he wants to go, I'd guess that he will regardless of anything you say."

"We'll see." Tim leaned heavily on the oars and the little boat shot ahead toward the boathouse and pier.

Greg and Diane were waiting for them when they came ashore and Tim immediately took Greg aside. "Go and find Sid, will you Greg?" he said. "Get him to the lounge in about five minutes. Grace Thurman, too, and the Enrights. I'm going up to talk to Taylor and the Carsons, and I'll see that they're down there, too. This thing's going to pop any minute and we can't give anyone time to get a story prepared."

Greg was obviously uneasy. "This is murder" he said. "You're dealing with someone who won't stop at anything and I think you are crazy to try to handle the thing yourself. You haven't any authority."

"There's no time to figure that one out now," Tim replied. "If either of us gets a chance to call the sheriff without being overheard okay, but meanwhile I think we can do it ourselves very effectively. Facing them with facts that they don't know we have will be disturbing enough, and I look for a very nice breakdown on somebody's part."

"All right. I'll get 'em," Greg said, and he went off toward the lodge.

With Diana and Jean, Tim went up to the Taylor cottage. Jake was just coming out with another suitcase. He nodded when he saw them, and his lean face was dark with restrained anger. He didn't seem to trust himself to speak; he kept right on, turning the corner of the cottage and going back toward the shed where his car was parked.

"Just a minute, Mr. Carson!" Tim called. Jake stopped and turned around, his brows drawn together in a scowl.

"What's that?" he snapped. Tim approached him, walking easily, "We're bringing Sid, the hired man, down to the lodge to put the heat on him," he said confidentially. "We'd like to have all the men there—he's liable to get pretty tough. He's in an ugly temper."

"Who's we?" Jake asked sharply.

"Grace Thurman and Greg Lasswell and myself," Tim replied. "It shouldn't take long and I think we might find out something about Bruce's car being wrecked."

Jake Carson hesitated only an instant. Then he dropped his suitcase on the grass and said, "sure glad to."

"How about Taylor?" Tim said. "He's in the cottage. Call him will you Jean?"

Jean and Diane went to the door and called Mort and after a moment he appeared with Claire. The six of them walked down to the lodge together.

Your Continental Casualty man reports on 1949!

1949 was a year of achievement for Continental . . . a year in which the Company for the first time offered Canadians protection against the medical expenses of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis), one of mankind's most feared diseases.

Public reaction to this new protection was overwhelming. Thousands of families are now covered by the Continental Polio Protection Plan, and thousands more will take advantage of its benefits in 1950. We urge you not to wait until headlines are telling the tragic stories of polio victims. Mail the coupon below TODAY! It will bring you details of how a $5 premium for an individual . . . a $10 premium for a family provides up to $5000 protection against polio-stricken expenses for a full two-year period.

The Polio Protection Plan, of course, is only one example of Continental's Benner Health Insurance. The Company's reputation for prompt settlement of claims and unexcelled service to policyholders is based on the sound financial structure depicted in the accompanying annual statement.

Better Treatment of Canada's Veterans of World Conflicts Urged in House of Commons

FIND MAN SLAIN IN SCHOOLYARD

Ottawa, April 21—(CP)—Better treatment of Canada's veterans of the First World War and other conflicts was urged in the Commons Thursday when the government moved to implement a plan to pay war veterans allowances to some 3,000 Imperial veterans in this country.

Members, most of them veterans of either the First or Second World Wars, urged that the allowances—pensions paid to out-of-soldiers—be increased to at least $50 a month for single men and to $85 for married men. The allowances paid only to needy veterans, now amount to $40 and $70 a month for single and married men, respectively.

They also urged that the Veterans Affairs Committee, which last met in 1948, be made a standing committee so that annually it could study the needs and requests of veterans of all wars.

The debate was on a resolution to a bill extending the War Veterans Allowance Act to cover veterans of Commonwealth and allied forces who fought in the First World War, came to Canada later and have lived here not less than 20 years. They also apply as well to those who fought in the South African War.

Veterans Minister Gregg, a Victoria, Ont., veteran of the First World War, said the extension will apply mainly to veterans who came to Canada in the 1920's, retroactive to April 1 this year. It was expected that approximately 3,000 of these would be added in the next year. The annual cost of the allowance would go up $2,000,000.

Members Welcome Provisions

Another 1,500 such veterans may become eligible within the next 15 years.

The bill also provides for decentralization of administration of the Allowances Act. A number of district war veterans allowance authorities will be appointed across the country and given power to increase, decrease or grant allowances.

Most members welcomed this provision, but said care would have to be taken to see there was uniform interpretation of the allowances legislation in all parts of Canada.

Mal.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes (PC—Nanaimo), another V.C. winner of the First World War, expressed regret that the allowances were not being increased. Percy Wright (CCF—Medicine Hat) said they should be increased and made retroactive for a year or five years.

Howard Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadra) said the allowances should be paid at least equivalent to old-age pensions. In the case of Imperial veterans they should be made retroactive to at least Dec. 10 when U.-sage indicated that the Commonwealth veterans in Canada were to receive the allowances.

Mr. Gregg assured Stanley Knowles (CC—Winnipeg North Centre) that the widows of eligible Imperial veterans will be treated in the same way as widows of eligible Canadian veterans.

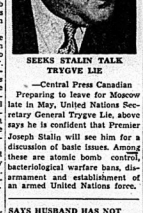
Says US Has Solved '49 A-Blast In Russia as Caused by A-Bomb And Knows Its Ingredients

By G. MILTON KELLY

Washington, April 21 — (AP) —Representative Charles Elston (Rep. Ohio) says the United States has solved the case of the atomic explosion in Russia last year.

"We know definitely it was caused by an atomic bomb," the Congressman told a reporter, "and we know what the ingredients of that bomb were."

Elston is a member of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee which deals with A-bomb and other related matters and has inquired closely into the Russian atomic blast.



He declined to disclose how the United States got information about the Russian explosion, or to discuss the Russian bomb further.

There has been much speculation over whether the Russians had a true bomb, or whether the blast might even have been caused by some disastrous accidental explosion of Russian atomic experimental plant. When President Truman told of it last Sept. 23 he used the words "atomic explosion."

"Definitely the Russians don't have the hydrogen bomb yet, any more than we do," Elston added. "Neither of us even knows definitely how to explode an H-bomb."

He added:

"Russian strategy is pretty clear. If a war should come, they will hope to fill the sky with swarms of attack planes in the hope that even a couple of them might get through to their targets. That is the obvious explanation for their program of developing an immense air force in recent years."

Angry Mothers Rally to Defence Of Kissing Cop

Eastcote, Middlesex, April 21 —(AP)—Angry mothers rallied to the defence of the "kissing cop" who was fired on the complaint he was to affectionate.

Safety patrolman "Uncle" Arthur Sabine, 65, had guided school children across a dangerous intersection for two years.

Then he was kissed their lady protector. He used to kiss them on the cheeks as they set off for home.

Then two parents complained.

"I do not like the idea of strangers kissing my children," said one, Sidney Pantry.

"Uncle" Arthur lost his job. Now 92 mothers have demanded his reinstatement.

"The kisses were asked for by the children," they said.

But patrolman Sabine, father of four and grandfather of three, won't return to his post.

"I am grateful to the mothers, but I won't go back," he said, "much as I love the children."

Relations Board Says Union Used Fraud Measures

Toronto, April 21 (CP)— The Ontario Labor Relations Board Thursday accused the United Steelworkers of America (CCL-CIO) of seeking "to obtain certification by fraud" and turned down the union's application to be named bargaining agent for Hahn Brass Company of New Hamburg.

The board's judgment criticized the manner in which the steelworkers applied for certification.

It singled out the union's provision of receipts indicating that employees of the company had each paid the $1 initiation fee.

"Shorn of its inconsistencies, the organizer's version of the facts was that he had found the employees willing to sign application for membership cards, but unwilling to make any payment in application and had therefore decided to put forward $1 of his own money for each card he obtained. . . ."

Says Canada Greatly Divided Whether Governor-General Should be Native Canadian

BLOOD BANK

London, April 21 (CP)— A columnist in the London Evening News today writes that Canada is "sharply divided" on whether the next Governor-General should be a native-born Canadian.

The columnist, John Carpenter, says the problem is to find a Canadian of necessary prestige who is, and always has been, completely independent of politics.

"The number of Canadians possessing this qualification is very small," Carpenter adds, mentioning that Mackenzie King, former Prime Minister, is "ruled out by political service and advancing age" while Vincent Massey, former Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom, also mentioned for the job, once held political office.

The term of office of the present Governor-General is five. Dominion, Viscount Alexander, is due to expire this year.

Russian General, High Official, Dies at Age 45

Moscow, April 21, (AP)—Lt.-Gen. Viktor Grigorievich Nasedkin, a high official in Russia's ministry of Internal Affairs, died Thursday. He was 45.

The death announcement said he had been in "operative work" in the Interior Ministry from 1921 until his death after a lengthy illness.

Nasedkin's death adds one more name to a long list of high Soviet military and civilian leaders who have died in the last half-year—a total of 13 generals and admirals and a number of high-ranking civilian officials.

The frequency of such death notices from Moscow, along with unconfirmed reports from outside the iron curtain, have aroused some speculation in the West that Moscow might be undergoing a quiet purge.

PUPPIES FED ON SQUIRREL AND RABBIT

St. Thomas, April 21—(CP)— Nine well-fed puppies, found in a hollow log near here, apparently were fed on squirrel and rabbit by their mother, Game Overseer Daniel Purcell said. Lloyd Parker, owner of the mother, said the dog had often disappeared lately.

FIND STRIKE MEETINGS "TAPPED"

Reg. Wannamaker, Mary Gray and Microphone

Future important meetings in connection with the 15-week-old Trenton, Ont., textile workers' strike will be held outside Trenton, union officials declared Tuesday night, following the discovery at a meeting of two concealed microphones with wires leading into the police station next door. The meeting was held, by order of police, in a room directly adjoining station. Police have escorted strike-breakers through picket lines the past three mornings and the meeting had been called to discuss future aid for strikers by other unions. — Central Press Canadian.

FORMER NAZI OFFICER OFFERS TO BUILD "FLYING TOP"

Rudolph Schriever, former Luftwaffe captain and engineer, and now a driver for the U.S. Army in Bremerhaven, claims that, given facilities, he can again produce a prototype "Flying Saucer" which he calls the "Flying Top." The 40-year-old graduate of the Prague University said that he made blueprints for such a machine before the collapse of Germany in World War II, but they were stolen from his laboratory, and that duplicates of the blueprints were given to colleagues in Prague for safe keeping and he presumes that these are now in the hands of the Russians, enabling them or another nation to make a "Saucer." He said that his "Flying Top" would consist of three co-axially mounted sections able to rotate independently. The control cabin would be in the upper section of the main gondola section. Beneath the lower gondola section would be a rotating cartwheel-like affair forming a hub 14 yards in diameter with three-yard long paddles in place of spokes. Three starting jets would be slung beneath this "cartwheel" to set off the rotation. The hot gases given off by the jets would give the impression of "balls of fire" in flight. He estimated that his "Flying Top" would weigh about three tons and its gondola would be nearly 12 feet wide and just under 11 feet in height. Schriever said that the ship would be able to ascend at a little better than 300 feet per second and that the "paddles" would revolve at a rate of 1,850 revolutions per minute giving the ship top speed of 2,600 miles an hour and a radius of 4,000 miles.—Central Press Canadian.

TO INVADE HAINAN

According to reports from Communist China, General Lin Piao, the Red's top field general, above, has been ordered to capture Hainan, 10 miles off the south China coast. A full scale invasion of that big Nationalist island is reportedly only a few days off. Hainan has resisted a series of small invasion attempts, the one on April 1 bringing claims by Nationalists of 5,000 Reds killed, General Chu Yeh, Red commander-in-chief, is said to have assigned Piao eight armies, or about 80,000 men. — Central Press Canadian.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

No Time for Revelry

By ROY L. SMITH

Never, perhaps, in all the history of mankind has there been more universal anxiety concerning the future of the race than at this moment. Precisely at the time when the race is in possession of more power over the forces of nature, and more knowledge, it is in its most precarious period.

Tinsel and Terror

It was in such a time of tinsel and terror for the little kingdom of Ancient Israel that the prophet Amos preached.

Life in the capital of Samaria was fashionable and glittering. Large numbers of land barons, the merchants, and the bankers owned luxurious summer houses up in the mountains where they could go to escape the summer's heat. Their homes were furnished elaborately with ornate furnishings, rich tapestries, and precious woods. Their tables were laden with delicacies imported at lavish cost from the ends of the earth.

The Sunday School lessons for April 23: "Amos Attacks Social Injustice" (Temperance), Amos (4:1-2; 5:1-6; 6:4-7.

There was an air of prosperity about the city itself. Public works were extensive. It was impressive. If there was something gaudy about the lawn that could have been excused on the grounds that the king and his court had not yet become accustomed to their wealth. The riotous living in which the nation's leaders indulged was called "glamour" and "sophistication." If it had to be admitted that the smart set was alcoholic that could be laughed off, for was it not also clever?

In the meantime a discerning observer could not fail to see the signs of decay within, and the evidences of danger without. The young Assyrian Empire is gathering its forces to strike a death blow at Egypt, and Israel lay directly across the path down over which the legions from the north must march. Only the incredible stupidity of the nation's leaders, their intelligence befogged by the fumes of alcohol, can explain the national indifference to the threat which Amos saw so clearly.

Extravagance and Eroticism

Something holy and beautiful had gone out of the women of Samaria—and of the women of the smart set.

Their days were spent in feasting and their nights in folly. Their whole lives were an uninterrupted round of extravagances. Rare perfumes were imported from the East, rich textiles were drained off from everywhere. Day after day they drove their husbands to new excesses of ruthlessness as they demanded more and more of luxury and leisure.

Addressing the crowd that had gathered for the religious revel at Bethel, Amos had been struck by the resemblance between the women of Samaria and the fat cattle of Bashan, the time is coming when you will be led out of this land with rings through your noses." It was a rude and impolitic speech, but it was tragically true.

Morality and Mortality

The Hebrews came out of the wilderness and Egypt the most chaste and wholesome people of ancient times. Their family life was the brightest spot in all that world.

Under the influence of the pagan religions prostitution had been sanctified to such an extent that "holy women" were attached to all the heathen shrines, their loathsome earnings providing a large part of the expenses of the plague spots.

The use of alcoholic liquors was almost unknown among the Hebrews when they came out of the wilderness for the very good reason that there could not be found around the desert oases and grapes were unknown. But paganism had introduced the use of wines and the little nation of Israel had become soddden and drunken.

The net result of these two factors which always go together (alcoholism and immorality), the nation's health was being depleted, its political health was being sapped, and the national character was disintegrating. It has always, and will always be so.

The Government Was Responsible

It is highly significant that the prophet Amos charged the nation's sins directly up to its political leaders. He made the government responsible, and demanded reforms.

He enunciated a basic principle—that the God of all the earth is not interested in being flattered by a nation that is debauched as a result of injustice and intemperance. Reforms, not ceremonies, are the cure.

Govt. May Open New Front In War Against Drug Menace

By MEL SUFRIN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 21 (CP)— The Federal Government soon may open a new front in the full-scale war against drug addiction.

Currently being considered is a program designed to strike a blow at the heart of the problem by setting up a pilot plant which would attempt to perfect methods of curing dope addicts.

Just what the government is up against is illustrated by the story of a man who was recently released from penitentiary after five years. He had been a confirmed addict when arrested on a charge of possession of narcotics.

The day after he was let out of jail, he was re-arrested. He was in possession of dope at the time and had taken a dose of heroin not long before.

"It was all I ever thought about for five years," he told police as he added back to jail.

The fact that even withdrawal of a drug is not sufficient to cure addiction is recognized in Canada where the problem is already being attacked on two fronts.

Police are continuously rounding up addicts and the more dangerous, self-confessed dope peddlars. On the international front, the health department is attempting to find a means of identifying the original source of a drug by the minute trace-up. If successful, this would enable chemists to trace illicit narcotics back to the country of their origin and thus help stem the flow from there.

Subject of Consideration

The cure question has been subject of consideration by a technical advisory committee on narcotic drug addiction set up by the Federal Government in 1947. It has cited evidence that treatment can result in successful cures in an appreciable number of cases, with consequent reduction of crime and economic loss.

There are some 200 criminal addicts in federal penitentiaries. The committee recommended that the health and justice departments jointly set up a treatment centre. Main purpose would be to provide facilities for mental and therapeutic treatment of those of the 200 addicts behind bars who are willing and have any hope of permanent cure.

The government is currently considering the committee's suggestion that a 50 to 75-bed clinic be set up for this treatment.

The whole task would be to try to change the mental habits of the prisoners so they would not turn to narcotics again when faced with unpleasant situations after their release.

This alteration in mental outlook might be accomplished by discussion with a psychiatrist, by building up the patients physically, by giving them vocational and avocational training, equipping them with a decent means of support and by showing them how to make use of their leisure time so that, after release, they would not from sheer boredom revert to their old habits and frequent the haunts of addicts and others who prey upon their weaknesses.

A program of this kind has been undertaken in the United States. Health Minister Martin has reported that in that country 55.7 per cent were fully cured.

Majority of prisoners paroled after treatment were found to have continued to abstain from narcotics over periods from six months to six years.

"Drug addicts can be reclaimed," said Mr. Martin. "It is an undertaking worth trying, even if it rescues only a few from bondage to drugs and saves some of the economic loss resulting from anti-social use of narcotics.

Police Arrest Former Boxer On Theft Charge

Toronto, April 21 — (CP) — Acting on a Montreal tip, R.C.M.P. and Toronto police raided a west-end house Thursday and arrested Frank Battaglia, a former professional boxer.

The gun-point arrest ended a three-month hunt for Battaglia and cleared the way for further investigation of the possibility that he was mixed up with a group suspected counterfeit money in Montreal.

The R.C.M.P. said Thursday its Montreal detachment is investigating circumstances there and will decide today whether counterfeiting charges will be laid against Battaglia.

Meanwhile, he is being held on a charge of breaking, entering and theft. The theft occured in Port Hope, about 65 miles east of Toronto, Last Dec. 14.

SAY HUSBAND ADMITS KILLING OF WIFE

Tacoma, Wash., April 21 (AP) —A youthful Tacoma husband admitted in a signed statement to police Thursday that he killed his wife rather than get up early and look for a job. But first he smashed the alarm clock she had been winding to be certain he got up early. Police said that Thomas E. Spahr, 20, admitted firing the fatal shot. His victim was 17year-old Margaret Spahr.

FOIL ATTEMPTED BREAK

Vancouver, April 20 — (CP)— Five convicts attempted a break from suburban Oakalla Prison farm Wednesday but, foiled by the work of a former naval officer, were back in custody only 30 minutes later. Mervin Millman, son of Warden Charles Millman, apprehended three of the escapees singlehanded and helped his father and a guard surround the others.

Warwick Deeping, Novelist, Dies

Weybridge, Surrey, England, April 21—(AP)—Warwick Deeping died Thursday at his home here. He was 73.

The English-born author wrote many novels, among which the best known are "Sorrell and Son", "Roper's Row" and "Old Wine and Newt."

Deeping, son of a country physician, studied to follow in his fathers steps but abandoned his medical career, after only a year's practice, for literature.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

We never knew until the last couple of days that there were so many "Mr. Chameleons" residing in the city and district. And it's amazing how with a change of neck-change blouse can transform characters into a different character.

Some don blue caps and coats, sport a black bow tie, cover their faces with masks and their sometimes retund bellies with inflated pads, and pose as baseball umpires. Others wear uniforms and kid themselves but not the public, that they are players.

The same applies in winter time in hockey. A Mr. Chameleon will don his serge or worsted, enclose his torso in a white sweater and armed with a whistle immediately change into a referee or linesman. The same with the boys of the pretty sweaters, pads and skates, who admit they are players.

The only chameleonic character who is bona fide is Santa Claus, and that cherubic old duke pulls a beset occasionally according to the family young hopeful who defined Old Kris as the "fella who filled the stockings, ate the sandwich I left for him and then went into Mom's boudoir instead of hiking back up the chimney."

But there's another type of the genus who can change their physical colors and general appearance mentally within a few minutes.

Take down Shannonville way, where the scions of the noble Mohawks dwell, and pursue the peaceful tenor of their ways. It seems that there is the area of the mighty Mohawk where the noble red man certain privileges which his paleface brother does not get, until a certain period of time rolls around.

We understand that our friends the Mohawks have been, or are permitted to take two pipefuls of tobacco per person from the streams and rivers at any time whereas his palepigmented counterpart must wait until the official green light is given.

And here's where the Royal Antediluvian Order of Chameleons call an unusual meeting and decide to hold a series of dress rehearsals. It's amazing, blooming well amazing, how suddenly the RAOC members dig up startling facts pertaining to their ancestry. It seems the "bull kit and kaboodle" is descended from or can trace antecedents to the tribe where the tufted feather and tomahawk of the noble red man when he was monarch of all he surveyed, and roamed unmolested over the 48 states, and all Canada, virgin timberlands and along fish-glutted streams.

Near the end of the pow-wow, a courier-de-bois (circa 1950) arrives astride an old muzzle-loader, tears breathlessly into the wooden wigwam. He rushes to the head blanket and whispers in the Chief Chameleon's ear.

"They're coming!"

And he doesn't mean the Kings Plate, the Kentucky Derby, the Grand National, or his kiddies' nose.

He's right. Up the Salmon River, or is it down, teeming female pickerel, bellies heavy with spawn, labouring in the stream looking for a level bottom maternity ward to bring forth their young.

The Chief Chammy looks over the excited faces of the faithful. Their hands twitch. Their jaws slaver. The C. C. utters a few magic words and the loyal followers immediately realize that nothing to what they think is the counterpart of sweet nectar to the bees, plus of course his privileges.

They rush to the doors and grab their trusty spears. (Yuh hafta park yuh weapons before enterin', pedner) and away to the hunt.

Within the next few hours, so authoritative reports reveal, these suddenly-transformed whites go into action. And there are others with them.

Then occurs, so we are informed, acts bf wanton fish slaughter that would cause a decent fisherman to relch. Spawn-laden pickerel are ruthlessly speared and tossed up on the riverbank after the nocturnal massacrers have filled their personal wants, plus a big surplus for what is probably a market.

One report stated, and it came from an unimpeachable source, that some parts of the riverbank are slippery with the spawn of the fish.

Another report stated that a non-fisherman purchased a barful of the fish for not a cent more than a dollar.

You can sympathize with a fish-hungry human for purchasing a fresh pickerel, legal or otherwise. You can imagine the feelings of a fisherman when he first spots a stream fairly teeming with pickerel-in-waiting.

But something should be done to minimize, at least, the annual slaughter of spawn-pickled fish. And that can be done by those who are elected to the seats of government. We understand some approaches are being made, and we sincerely hope they are successful.

If not, within the not-too-distant future we may have to satisfy our fish appetites with the canned variety, and indulge our angling yens in faraway places where fish conservation has been carried out with the co-operation of all concerned.

SEE THE GOON

According to Jim "Goon" Henry, who will oppose Yukon Eric in the feature wrestling match at Memorial Arena tonight, the Alaskan lumberjack's mat career will get a sudden and severe jolt when Henry hooks up with the north woodsman here.

The Irish Henry figures he's big enough, strong enough and has too much ring experience for Yukon. It is true that Henry is big, strong and new for even the most rugg-wise veterans of the mat. However, there is a strong possibility that it might be Henry himself who gets the big surprise when he collides with that bear that walks like a man, Yukon Eric.

Lord Albert Mills, the grappling, tilted Englishman, will have his hands full with burz-saw Ray Villmer, of St. Louis, in the semi-final. Talented Bobby Nelson, of California, will test Al "Krusher" Korman in the first bout.

Then there's the one about the lovestruck worm that came up after a rainstorm. Looking around, he spotted another worm, a cutie-pie, also coming up after the storm. "Say," exclaimed the first worm, "you're pretty. I could go for you . . . "Don't be silly," was the reply. "I'm your other end—"

Dickson, Pirate Hurler, Proves Joker in Deck When Opposing Cards Put the Chips on Table

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Consequently, St. Louis Cardinals may find the road to the 1950 National League championship a rocky one, indeed.

Dickson did not exactly jump for joy when he learned a year ago before the 1949 season that Bob Hannegan, former Cardinal owner, had sold him to the Pirates for a load of cash. Nobody likes to leave a perennial pennant contender for a second division club.

The little righthander showed his resentment the best way he knew how. He simply pitched his heart out every time he faced his former mates. The result? Dickson defeated the Cards five times in eight tries last year—more than any other pitcher.

Dickson made his first start of the season Thursday. And as can be guessed, Murry clipped the Redbirds' wings again, pitching the Pirates to an easy 8-4 triumph.

That was the first game played in the National League. The rest were postponed because of rain and cold weather. The inclement weather also cut the American League's activities to one game. In that one, Detroit again nipped the Indians in Cleveland, this time by a 5-4 score.

The triumph left the Tigers and the surprising St. Louis Browns as the only undefeated teams in the circuit. Each has won two. All victories have come on the road.

Dickson tamed his former mates with six hits including Stan Musial's second home run of the season.

Helps Himself

Dickson helped his own cause at the plate. He drove in two runs, one on a single in the four-run fourth inning. Rookie outfielder Ted Beard paved the way for Howie Pollet's loss by blasting the southpaw's first pitch in the first inning for a home run. First baseman Jack Phillips also homared for the Bucs.

Ted Gray went the route for the Tigers, limiting the Indians to six hits for Detroit's second straight one-run margin victory over Cleveland.

Manager Lou Boudreau of the Indians, clipped on the left elbow in the sixth inning, was forced to leave the game. The extent of the injury was not determined immediately.

Early Tynan started for the tribe and allowed all Detroit runs. Phil Mullin's two-run double highlighted a three-run first inning.

Georgetown Wins Intermediate B Hockey Title

Bracebridge, April 21—(CP)—Topping off a spectacular playoff winning streak of 20 games, Georgetown Raiders Thursday night won the Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate B crown by defeating Bucko McDonald's Sundridge Beavers 6-3.

It was the fourth straight win over the Raiders in the best-of-seven series. McDonald, Liberal hockey pilot candidate for Parry Sound-Muskoka and playing coach of the Beavers, had paced his club to the title for the last two years.

Backed up by the superb netminding of Freddy Lawrence, the Raiders went ahead with a 5-1 lead by the end of the first period. They were outscored 2-1 in the second and then saw Beavers get the goal of the night last frame.

Mickey Ferri paced the winners with three markers while Janice Beaumont got two and Harvey Chapman one. Glen Lang, Sundridge and Sedore tallied for the Beavers.

Ferri started the scoring in the first period but Lang drove back and got the equalizer minutes later. Then Ferri rapped in two and Beaumont got the other to give Raiders a commanding lead.

Beaumont made it 6-1 at 7:00 of the second period before Christie drove back at 14:44 to make it 6-2.

Sedore scored the only goal of the third session.

Barrie Defeats Guelph Jr. B's In Rough Game

Guelph, April 21. (CP)—Barrie Flyers took a one-game lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Junior B finals, Thursday night, by defeating Guelph Biltmores 4-2 in a riotous series opener.

Immediately after the final whistle, a wild free-for-all broke out and several private battles were waged before the referees could break it up.

Danny Poland led the Barrie attack with two goals. Bill Sexton and Bill Fralick got singles. Ken Laufman scored both Guelph goals.

Broda Admits He's Good for Another Season

By The Canadian Press

Walter (Turk) Broda, 35, said in Toronto Thursday he figures he's good for at least one more season as goalie for Toronto Maple Leafs.

"I'd like to play another year," he told an interviewer. "But I don't know what the boss (Conn Smythe, managing director of the National Hockey League club) has in mind for me."

That led straight to questions about Broda's weight. One of the liveliest hockey situations this season revolved around Broda's ultimatum to Broda to trim his poundage to 190—or else.

By last month, said his present weight is 188.

"It's too much, though. I'd have to be around 185. If I'm going to play I'll have to start working out with basketball, lacrosse and so on as early as July. I started too late last year.

At Kingston, Herbert Ditchburn, well-known speedboat builder died Thursday in the General Hospital. He was 69.

Born at Rousseau, Ont., Mr. Ditchburn designed the famous Delta speedboats and speedboats used in contests for the Harmsworth trophy. During the second World War he was engaged in building steel boats at Trenton.

Surviving are his widow and a daughter, Mrs. E. R. Hopkins, wife of the deputy clerk of the House of Commons, Ottawa.

Winnipeg Stellars Thursday night trounced Windsor A.K.O.'s 46-30 to win the E. B. Bowering Trophy, emblematic of Canadian Junior Men's Basketball supremacy.

Stellars won the first two games 47-41 and 43-41, while Windsor took the third 50-45, in the best-of-five series.

Parks Commissioner Walter Love indicated Thursday that Sunday baseball officials said they will be making a report on the matter.

Australia's star woman sprinter, Marjorie Jackson, reached Sydney Wednesday to begin a month's training for a proposed race in the Los Angeles Coliseum relays May 19 against the Netherlands' olympic champion, Mrs. Fanny Blankersoon.

The shy 18-year-old typist from Lithgow yesterday equalled the world record of 10.8 by sprinting the distance in 100 seconds. This was at a meet in Sydney.

Toronto Parks Board Favors Sunday Sport

Toronto, April 21. (CP)— The City Parks Committee Thursday approved in principle Sunday baseball, softball, soccer, rugby and cricket in a list of 14 city parks. Recommendations go before City Council which previously approved Sunday professional baseball. In the municipal elections Jan. 1 voters approved Sunday sport and provincial legislation subsequently ratified Sunday sport in municipalities which approve by local votes.

Only one point was debated from the list of 15 submitted to the committee Thursday; east-end Kew Gardens, where a poll will be taken of neighborhood residents on the question.

The committee further approved major women's softball at the Sunnyside Stadium on Sundays but postponed action on requests for Sunday roller skating at the downtown street arena, outdoor five-pine bowling on Centre Island and 10-pin bowling at a Danforth Avenue alley.

Dr. George Webber, secretary for the Lord's Day Alliance, and R. C. Chalmers, secretary for evangelism of the United Church of Canada, told the committee they had no objection to passing the hat, or free-will offerings, at the Sunday games but they did oppose compulsory admission.

Don't Look Now but Rangers Are Up in the Driver's Seat In This Stanley Cup Business

Detroit, April 21—(CP)— The courageous New York Rangers now are within one game of pulling one of the year's major sports upsets—a Stanley Cup victory over Detroit Red Wings.

The outplayed New Yorkers took the Wings 2-1 in overtime Thursday night to move out in front, three games to two, in the best-of-seven series.

The Rangers will have a chance to grab the championship Saturday night in game No. 6, and if they fail then will have another try Sunday night in the seventh and wind-up game of the series. The games will be played here since a circus is occupying the Rangers' home rink.

Pete Babando, Raleigh, a 155-pound centre, shared hero honors with Ranger goalie Chuck Rayner Thursday night as the New Yorkers stunned the Wings and 12,610 wistful fans.

The script resembled Tuesday night's game, with Raleigh again banging in the deciding goal in an action-packed overtime period. It came Tuesday it took him until 8:34 of the sudden-death overtime period to sink the goal that gave the Rangers a 4-3 decision.

He did it much faster Thursday night, blasting Detroit's hopes with a beautiful 10-footer after just 1:38 of overtime play.

It was a sweet victory for the Rangers, who finished fourth in the National Hockey League season, trailing first-place Detroit by nearly 10 games. The Rangers eliminated Montreal while Detroit knocked out Toronto in the semi-finals.

Almost A Shutout

The Rangers grabbed a 1-0 lead Thursday night at 7:44 of the second period on a 25-foot backhand shot by Dunc Fisher, and added another two minutes of scoring a shutout.

Ted Lindsay, leading scorer in the N.H.L. this season, spoiled that as he poked in a four-footer at 18:10 of the final period to send the game into overtime.

The crowd's smallest turnout of the playoff series, gave the Wings an ovation after the goal. But it was the last chance of the night to cheer as Raleigh took charge of things in the overtime period.

The Rangers were a happy bunch after the hair-raising finish and expressed confidence that they can wind up the series Saturday.

"Let's win this next one so we can tuck away the championship and wind up this long hockey season," said Rayner.

Toronto Leafs Edge Syracuse By 7-6 Score

(By The Associated Press)

Rochester Red Wings, favored in many quarters to win the 1950 International Baseball League pennant, are off to a good start.

Manager Johnny Keane's Wings helped open the League's 67th season Thursday night by downing Baltimore Orioles 5-3 in a night game at Baltimore.

Two scheduled openers were postponed because of rain, while in another, Toronto Maple Leafs turned back Syracuse Chiefs 7-6. Games rained out were Montreal at Jersey City and Buffalo at Springfield.

The Leafs jumped on Syracuse starter Bud Byerly for a 7-1 lead in the first four innings, but almost blew the game when the Chiefs rallied for five runs in the sixth to chase starter Lou Possehl. Righthander Max Peterson relieved Possehl and stopped the Chiefs on one hit the rest of the way to preserve the triumph.

Rochester righthander Johnny Vuhas allowed the Orioles seven hits in outdoing four Baltimore pitchers. The Wings also collected seven hits, but two of the blows were two -run homers by rookie Don Bollweg and Hal Ashby.

Bollweg, up from Houston of the Texas League, connected in the first and Rice unloaded in the third to clinch the game. The game was called in the eighth because of Baltimore's 11 pm. curfew.

Bilts Shut Out Canadiens 2-0 In Dull Game

By VIC MORRIS, Jr.
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, April 21. (CP)—A third-period goal by defenceman Walter Clune in the dying minutes of Thursday night's Eastern Canada Junior Hockey final series kept Guelph Biltmores' Memorial Cup hopes alive as they turned back the Montreal Canadiens 2-0.

A crowd of 11,529 saw a listless affair until midway through the third period when Clune fired a blistering shot from centre ice that deflected off the skate of a Montreal player and found its way into the goal.

The best-of-seven series for the right to enter the Memorial Cup final against the western champions now moves back to Toronto next Tuesday.

Guelph's second goal came with less than a half-minute remaining in the game. Canadiens, for the first time, pulled their goalie and sent out six forwards. This strategy backfired when Ronnie Mumb soared a loose puck at his own blue line and coasted in alone on the empty Montreal cage to score.

Guelph outshot the Canadiens 29-26.

Until the third period the crowd constantly called upon the teams for more action. The request was answered in the third period after Guelph broke into the scoring. Canadiens sent out their crack line of Dickie Moore, Art Rose and Bill Goold to get the goal back, but Biltmores threw up an impassable barrier with Steve Brklacich and Bill Ashley on the defence.

Goalie Les Hicks earned a well-reserved shutout as he turned in his best performance of the series.

Guelph was on the receiving end of seven minor banishments while Canadiens had four.

Pres. John Bennett Re-elected At Major 'A' Bowling League's Prize-Giving, Festive Pow-wow

By Geo. H. Carver

Topflight bowlers in the city's keglers circuit, the Major 'A' Bowling League climaxed a highly successful season at their annual banquet at the Club Cedars last night.

Keen competitors, in the halves of their schedule, and in ordinary competition, the "Major A" boys let their hair down last night and "Joe was Joe."

President Jack Bennett and his bowlers put on a brief, but-to-the-point banquet. It was one of those get-togethers, where league and team rivalry was forgotten and everybody from the four times champion Belleville Golf to those grand sportsmen of the Lawn Bowlers who finished at the top of the league had it been turned upside down, had a good time.

There were presentations of prizes and election of officers. There was a grand supper and much good-natured camaraderie tossed between representatives of the teams.

Prexy Back

Jack Bennett, popular president last year was put back in office. Four-year secretary Evan Barlow kicked over the traces but how! but did a canny job in seeing that his newspaper colleague Cec. Hardwick was selected to take over the thankless job of secretary plus honorariums. The popular Barlow was given a fine ovation on his retirement, but he did accept the job but Cec. Hardwick insists that to keep his hand in, so to speak.

That old standard Les Lennox, clutching a couple of mugs, prizes that is, was re-elected to the vice-presidency. Tom Orton, the keeper of the privy purse, was again elected to take care of the league's shekels.

Presents Labatt Trophy

The feature of the evening was the presentation of the Labatt Trophy, emblematic of the league championship by Harvey Parsons company representative to the Belleville Golf team captain, Joe Legault. Mr. Parsons also presented miniature trophies, the gift of his company to the individual members of the championship team. These included Mr. Legault, Les and Ray Lennox, Evan Barlow, Joe Kirkwood and Harry Bastedo. Tribute was paid later to the Labatt Company for its generosity and interest in the furtherance of clean wholesome sport.

Individual presentations saw that grand old veteran of the alleys, Joe Legault win for the second year in succession the ikon for highest average, i.e. 231, Les Lennox copped the honors for the high three string with a 937 and Jim White gathered in Bastedo for the best single, 376.

Tabe's Tops

In the playoffs (Dave Tabe told me this) Tabe's County Gardens grabbed the top cash honors with a neat 3400. Al Miller's Northern Electric came next with 3355. Jack Callaghan's Ice patrol finished third with 3319, and listen to this, Joe Legault's champion Belleville Golf team finished in fourth slot with 3318. Walter Moore's Chiselers, Don Grziepy's Central Service Station; L. Lacroix (we hope that's spelled right) Electronics and that grand Rotarian Ab Wonnacott who greens the Lawn Bowlers, finished in the ruck with naught.

And as a fitting climax to a grand party, Art Coull paid tribute to the fine job done by the 1949 executive and Evan Barlow moved a vote of thanks to Harvey Parsons and the Labatt Company for its generous gifts of the main trophy and prizes.

Bruins-Regina Square off For Fifth Game

Regina, April 21 — (CP)—It's do or die tonight for Port Arthur Bruins in the western junior hockey final against Regina Pats when the clubs clash in the fifth game of a best-of-seven series.

Pats got off to a flying start to post a 3-1 advantage in games and need only one victory to become the first Western Canada junior championship club from Regina since 1933.

"We're behind the eight ball now," said Port Arthur coach Leo Barbibi, "but I think the boys will have some power left in them."

Coach Murray Armstrong of the Pats said "We hope to finish it off tonight but Port Arthur can't be underestimated."

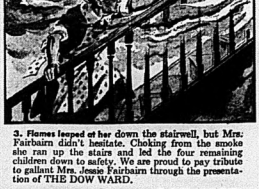
GRANDMOTHER RESCUES 7 CHILDREN FROM FARM BLAZE



Mrs. Jessie Fairbairn, 72, of Barrie, Ont., performs gallant feat despite broken wrist

1. In the 6-room frame farm-house, in Vespra Township, Mrs. Fairbairn was bathing the baby. Suddenly one of the other children — there were seven all told in the house — rushed in and breathlessly announced that the upstairs floor was on fire!

2. Finding out that the child's story was true, Mrs. Fairbairn took the baby and a 1-year-old girl in her arms and ordered them outside. Then, in spite of her 72 years, and the fact that she had recently broken her wrist, the courageous grandmother re-entered the burning building.

3. Flames leaped at her down the stairwell, but Mrs. Fairbairn didn't hesitate. Choking from the smoke she ran up the stairs and led the four remaining children down to safety. We are proud to pay tribute to gallant Mrs. Jessie Fairbairn through the presentation of THE DOW WARD.

Sports Roundup

New York, April 21 — (AP)— When the Brooklyn Baseball Writers' dinner, president Lou Perini immediately lined up appointments with all the magnates who might have talent to sell . . . he wanted only first class players at first class prices. Several hours later Lou returned to confess defeat to the other steam shovelers, whew added: "Just wait. In a few years they'll be making appointments with us". That prediction, say enthusiastic Bostonians, has spoken fulfilled. The days of the "Cape Cod Cardinals" are over and last winter's trade with the Giants (The Braves insist they got all the better of it) may have been their last big deal in a long time. "We have four second basemen and Coon E. Ryan had to beat some good men for the job one Bridesman explained the other day. "Some clubs already are after the others and they'll keep on shopping after some of the kids we have on the farms."

I honestly believe the Braves, Phillies and the Dodgers are the clubs of the future. They have good young players coming up 1950 Model.

Gorman Expects Barbara Ann Back This Fall

Moncton, N.B., April 21 (CP) —Thomas P. Gormin, promotor of the "Skating Sensations of 1950" with which Barbara Ann Scott is touring Canada, said today the skating star's contract runs out April 30 when she will go to Los Angeles to join the Ice Capades.

However, Gorman added, he expects the 21-year-old skater back with is troupe when he reopens his show Sept. 5.

He had no other comment on the announcement Wednesday night by Ice Capades president John Harris that Barbara Ann will appear in the 1951 Ice Capades opening at Los Angeles May 4.

Could Have Been His Twin Brother

Toronto, April 20 — (CP) — It was all a mistake, Bernard J. Reddit, 33, fretted Wednesday when charged with theft and passing stolen cheques.

Detective Cyril Cole said nine persons picked Reddit from a 12-man police lineup as the man who cashed cheques at their store. Seven identified Reddit in court.

"I had no connection with it in any way, shape or form," Reddit said. "I have been accused of being the identical double of a Provincial Police constable, likened to an ex-prizefighter and a football player.

"I am a type of redhead, stocky, who could look like every other redhead in captivity."

Judge Robert Forsyth sentenced him to 18 months determinate and six months indeterminate

Historians say the first contest to be held in the ancient Olympic games in Greece consisted of a foot race of approximately 200 yards.

GRANDMOTHER RESCUES 7 CHILDREN FROM FARM BLAZE

1. In the 6-room frame farm-house, in Vespra Township, Mrs. Fairbairn was bathing the baby. Suddenly one of the other children — there are seven all told in the house — rushed in and breathlessly announced that the upstairs floor was on fire!

2. Finding out that the child's story was true, Mrs. Fairbairn took the baby and a 1-year-old girl in her arms and carried them outside. Then, in spite of her 72 years, and the fact that she had recently broken her wrist, the courageous grandmother re-entered the burning building.

3. Flames leaped at her down the stairwell, but Mrs. Fairbairn didn't hesitate. Choking from the smoke she ran up the stairs and led the four remaining children down to safety. We are proud to pay tribute to gallant Mrs. Jessie Fairbairn through the presentation of THE DOW WARD.

THE Dow AWARD

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers, selects Award winners from recommendations made by a nationally known news organization.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Mnemonics starts spelling with "m" like in many and starts pronouncing with an "n" like in nothing. It means guide to easy remembering. For this word I am indebted to a doctor friend of mine.

Wartime found the doctor stationed in the South Pacific. Bridge was the main diversion during off hours. But the different systems used by players were complicated and hit-or-miss in results.

Then someone from home sent him my booklet of Horse Sense Bidding and he passed it around. There was an immediate change, as he says, in certain bridge beliefs understandable and adaptable to all!

I asked what impressed him most about my system. He answered with the one word mnemonics. And it is a fact that one word or one sentence helps to remember every rule needed in bridge.

There are four opening bids that follow an order of preference. The name is true of the four defensive bids. The same is true of the three possible types of responding bids.

An opening bid of one needs three. An opening bid of two needs two items. An opening bid of three needs three items. An opening bid of three needs three items.

Count high cards only for no-trump tricks. Count only high cards and short cards for suit tricks. The first bid by any player shows his expected minimum. Each raise in number shows another trick.

An opening bid of two, I repeat, needs two items. What are they? Nine tricks with a biddable suit. In a suit bid how do you count the tricks? One for each high card and one for each short card.

Open with two hearts when you have this hand:

♠A K Q
♥A Q J 9 7 4
♦ 8 6 3
♣K Q 6

Count nine tricks and you will have enough for everything you need in a two bid. Worry not about high cards and sure tricks. Some people keep looking for something to worry about.

BLUE FOX SEEN

GUN-TOTING EAST SECTOR POLICE ARRESTED IN WEST

These eight members of the East German People's police from the Soviet zone of Berlin, are shown after they were arrested in the U. S. sector of Berlin for carrying weapons, including automatic machine pistols, in violation of the Allied agreements. They will come up for trial before a U. S. military court. The U. S. prosecutor said he will make the case "an indictment" of Russian and German Red policies. He will attempt to prove that the youths are "not police but soldiers who get infantry training with weapons outlawed by four-power agreement."

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 21 (AP) — Salvatore Baccaloni is "making his American debut into light opera. The rotund debutant has for many seasons been a leading basso and foremost comedian of the Metropolitan Opera House. He opens here next Monday-in the "Chocolate Soldier."

"I have done light opera before," he said, "but that was long ago when I was in Italy. I have only a week of rehearsal for this show but I studied the part in New York. I do not find it difficult because the stage is the stage, whether it is opera, light opera or straight drama."

New Field

He agreed that the engagement might open a whole new field for him in the same manner that Ezio Pinza hit by moving from the Met to Broadway.

"But I would not want to be tied up, as Pinza is to 'South Pacific,'" said Baccalioni. "Even after he comes out here to do a picture, he has to go back to the play." The basso added that he also is interested in movies and may do a color version of "Barber of Seville" in Italy this summer.

Baccalioni said he would return to the Met next year. I sought his opinion of the controversial action of the opera manager, Rudolph Bing.

"He is a capable man and he has a tremendous job on his shoulders," was the answer. "As to how he succeeds, that will be determined after he has had his first season."

THREE DELIVERED TO RUSSIA

Helsinki, Finland, April 21—(AP)— Finland delivered three accused Russian war criminals to Russia this week, it was reliably learned.

As well-informed source said two of the Soviet citizens delivered to the Russians were among the 56 "Grave war criminals" whose surrender was demanded in a Soviet note handed to Findland New Year's Eve.

The third person surrendered, this source said, was an Esthonian who had collaborated with the Germans during the war.

AT THE BELLE "TENSION" and "THE SECRET GARDEN"

Richard Basehart, who has built up a wide following as the result of his scoring performances in "Roseanna McCoy"; "Reign of Terror" and "They Walked by Night", plays his most dramatic role to date as Audrey Totter's jealous husband in "Tension," M.G.M.'s new suspenseful drama showing today for the last time at the Belle Theatre.

Basehart appears as a drab pharmacist whose life is distorted by his obsession for the unfaithful Miss Totter. When she deserts him for a flashier arrival, the pharmacist plots an ingenious murder of the man. However, after he has set the stage, he falls in love with another girl and decides to abandon the idea. Then, when his rival is murdered all clues point to the innocent pharmacist as the killer.

"Tension," based on a story by John Klorer, is set against a background of Los Angeles and Malibu Beach. In addition to Basehart and Miss Totter, the cast features Cyd Charisse and Barry Sullivan.

"The Secret Garden" Beloved Classic

"The Secret Garden," one of the world's most beloved classics and a story read by fifty million readers since its publication forty years ago, is the 2nd New M.G.M. feature attraction on the same program, featuring Margaret O'Brien, Dean Stockwell, Herbert Marshall, Gladys Cooper, Elsa Lanchester and Reginald Owen.

"The Secret Garden" is fused with atmospheric suspense sharpened by the vibrant contrast afforded to the scenes which take place in the secret garden. These scenes deliberately filmed in Technicolor have to give control to the brooding mystery 'of the earlier episodes, are fascinatingly effective. But there, so is the whole picture. It is one of the year's artistic triumphs.

The latest Warner-Pathe Newsreel completes the program.

AT THE McCARTHY — Jolson Sings Again, with Larry Parks starring, is playing the second week of a new Columbia Technicolor hit now on the screen of Odeon's McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL — George Montgomery, centre, arrives at a tense moment when his freedom is in jeopardy in the 20th. Century-Fox release of Alson's production, "Dakota Lil," filmed in Cinecolor at the Capitol Theatre today and Saturday for its first city showing. Marie Windsor and Rod Cameron co-star with Montgomery in this action-crammed western. On the same program, a colored cartoon, colored sports, musical comedy and the second chapter of "The James Brothers of Missouri." Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

POLICE THEORY IN DEATH

Prince Rupert, B.C., April 21—(CP)—Police Wednesday night worked on a theory of phenol poisoning following an abortion in the death of Mrs. Betty Young, 20. The scantily-clad body of the woman, the white wife of a Queen Charlotte Island Indian, was found Wednesday in a downtown hotel. The woman was the wife of Harry Young of Masset, B.C., a patient in military hospital here.

That reminds me of something pop, I said. I know you still like the circus and everything, but Pud's father offered to take me when he takes Puds, I said, and pop said, Oh he did, heh?

Yes sir, I said, as long as you're too busy or anything, you can stay home comfortable, I said, and pop said, That's nice of Mr. Simkins, no doubt, but still it's not very fair to you. I always had an idea that the best part of a circus is missing if you dont go with our own father, although of course I may be mistaken. If I am, you can correct me, he said

G, pop, gosh, I'd rather take you than anybody. I mean I'd rather have you take me, I said, and pop said, I heard you the ferst time, and I appriciate your sentiments. Will you take me to the circus this year as usual? he said, and I said, Sure pop, jimminies, that's just what I'll injcy.

Which I will.

Canada's North Praised by Anglican Bishop

Winnipeg, April 21 (CP)—Most Rev. John Lyons of Kingston, Anglican Bishop of Ontario, Wednesday drew attention to the importance of Canada's northland. At the opening service of the 26th session of the Synod of Rupert's Land, Archbishop Lyons said Canada's north has "come into the spotlight of history" and is of great importance to the ecclesiastical province.

"It may play a decisive part in the future not only of Canada, but in the whole of democracy, he said.

There is a need to recapture the pioneer spirit of the missionaries and to "rediscover the fellowship which has characterized the Church at its best," Bishop Lyons said.

"The Church is faced with a dual task of persuading a skeptical and secular age and that of revitalizing itself."

JAPANESE RESORT GUTTED BY FIRE

Reminiscent of the pictures of Hiroshima after the atomic bombing is this view of Atami City, famed Japanese Sea resort, 65 miles south of Tokyo, after the disastrous fire that destroyed some 1,500 buildings last week. No deaths were reported, but 217 persons were injured and 5,655 left without homes. Damage is estimated at $8,300,000. Two men are held by police on suspicion of criminal negligence in connection with the fire, which originated in the construction company where they worked.

Praises Canadian Training in Metal Mining Methods

Toronto, April 21 (CP)— Canada is recognized as one of the top nations in the world in relation to training in metal mining methods, the annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy was told Wednesday.

Santosh Kumar Bhattacharyee, 28-year-old Indian mining engineer and geologist, said he hopes to study mining operations in this country from top to bottom and take his knowledge home to India.

"We give a very high place to Canadian metal mining," he said, "both in the colleges and in the practical field. Our mining industry in India is growing rapidly,

Truman Plans Great Campaign Of Truth to Convince World US Purpose Freedom Defence

Washington, April 21 — (CP) — President Truman disclosed plans for a "great campaign of truth" to convince the world the United States has "no purpose of going to war except in defence of freedom."

He told the American Society of Newspaper Editors he has directed State Secretary Dean Acheson to develop a strengthened national information program to overcome Russian "deceit, distortion and lies."

"We must make ourselves known as we really are—not as Communist propaganda pictures us," Truman said. "We must pool our efforts with those of the other free peoples in a sustained intensified program to promote the cause of freedom against the propaganda of slavery.

"We must make ourselves heard round the world in a great campaign of truth."

The President's address stressed the vital role newspapers can play in this phase of the cold war.

"Foreign policy is not a matter for partisan presentation. The facts about Europe or Asia should not be twisted to conform to one side or the other of a political dispute. Twisting the facts might change the course of an election at home; but it would certainly damage our country's program abroad."

He termed the cold war propaganda fight a struggle for "the minds of men."

"Propaganda is one of the most powerful weapons the Communists have in their struggle. Deceit, destortion and lies are systematically used by them as a matter of deliberate policy."

In the far east, millions are trying to move up from poverty and misery are hearing "glittering promises about the benefits of Communism."

"Unless we get the real story across to the people of other countries, we will lose the battle for men's minds by default."

CZECHS WANT HIM TO LEAVE PRAGUE

—Central Press Canadian

The U. S. state department has been informed by their embassy in Prague, Czechoslovakia, that the Communist government of that country has demanded the closing of U. S. information service libraries in Prague and Bratislava and the recall of Joseph C. Kolarek, above, embassy press attache. The Czech government claims that two former employees of the U. S. embassy have "confessed" that Kolarek induced them to indulge in espionage activities. In Washington, on Wednesday, it was said that the U. S. might ban Czech publications in retaliation against the Czech move in Prague.

MANITOBA AWAITS BLOW AS RED RIVER IS DUE TO STRIKE

Citizens of Emerson Prepare for Flood

Winnipeg, April 22 (CP)— The preliminaries apparently over, Manitobans today prepared for the main event in the annual spring flood-fight card.

Water from the southern hills and the tributaries to the main drainage system in Southern Manitoba continued to recede; towns and villages reeling from its comparatively-gentle incursion were cleaning up the mess.

Now comes the main eventer— the savage Red River.

The Red was due to hit flood stage at Pembina, N.D., early today. Three miles away is the border town of Emerson, Man.

Emerson is the hardest hit of all the southern towns when the run-off from the Pembina Hills and various creeks earlier this week surged through the border country, 60 miles south of here.

Mopping-up operations were just under control, when the Red rose three feet to send water coursing down the main streets. Depth there: 10 feet, officials said.

At Winnipeg and Selkirk, 25 miles north, the Red River level also flexed its muscles The gauge here read 19.4 feet at 10 p.m. Friday night—1.4 feet above flood stage and a half foot above the receding crest predicted.

Farming Lands Flooded

Nine miles north of Selkirk the rich farming land of Breezy point were under water as far as the eye could reach. At Selkirk, the river, threatening to cause a backup that might reach here.

The Winnipeg area got its first taste of what when the normally-placid Seine, a tributary which joins the Red at St. Boniface, drove 30 families from their homes and left another 100 houses surrounded by water,

No Third World War is View Of Truman if U.S. Maintains Program of Preparedness

Elgin Air Base, Fla., April 22—(CP)— Steadily worsening relations with Russia added their own significance today to President Truman's weekend inspection of a spectacular display of United States ground and air power which also is being witnessed by Defence Minister Brooke Claxton of Canada.

In the face of developments, including Moscow's rejection of a State Department protest against the shooting down of an unarmed American plane over the Baltic region, top U.S. policy advisers sought to minimize the importance of the current demonstrations.

These advisors emphasized that arrangements for Truman's visit to Fort Benning, Ga., and the Elgin air force base here were made several weeks ago, long before the latest exchange of notes with the Russians over the plane incident.

War Games Regarded Seriously

There was little doubt, however, of the seriousness with which Truman regarded the war games Friday at Fort Benning, dropped by a co-ordinated artillery-infantry-armor attack supported by air support from perhaps 100 planes.

Truman was moved to say he believes there will be no Third World War as the United States does not relax in its preparedness program.

The president spoke informally at a luncheon before most of the top military and civilian brass of the U.S. armed forces.

The President told the officers he believes in preparedness to prevent a world conflict.

He added: It took us two wars and 30 years to find out that our place in the world was one to help keep the peace and the welfare of the world as a whole, unless we want to do as we did after the First World War and bring on a third one.

"I don't think," Truman continued, "we are going to bring on that third one. I am an optimist and always have been. I proved that in 1946, I think."

Claxton, who also witnessed the thundering display of firepower, said: "The demonstration of fire-power, weapons, equipment and personnel that we were privileged to see — — was impressive evidence of the immense strength of the United States.

"The fact that this strength will be used to assist in maintaining the peace is itself the greatest assurance of peace in the world today.

"It has been a great privilege for me to have had interviews with the President, Secretary of Defence Johnson of the Cabinet and the Chiefs of Staff

"The fact that a Canadian should be invited to attend is another demonstration of the way our two countries work together."

DOOM TWO CZECHS ON CHARGES OF TREASON, SPYING

Prague Courts Sentence Three Others to Prison

Prague, April 22 — (Reuters)— Two Czechs were sentenced to death today by a state court on charges of high treason and spying for the United States.

Death sentences were passed on Maj. Jaromir Nechansky, 34-year-old British-trained parachutist, and Vlastislav Wahl, 30-year-old law student. They were the main defendants. Both had pleaded guilty to being co-leaders of a spy ring.

Another defendant, Miloš Spyrl, 29-year-old bookkeeper, was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor

Three other defendants received terms ranging from 15 years to 25 years.

Hrdlichanek, 43-year-old doctor of law, dismissed from the Foreign Affairs Ministry after February, 1948, when the Communists took power, received 20 years hard labor.

Miss Zdenka Vackova, 25-year-old office clerk who had pleaded only partly guilty, was given 18 years hard labor.

Karel Jarik, 51-year-old manager of a glass factory who had also partly guilty, received 25 years hard labor.

During the trial four former officials of the U.S. embassy were charged with directing the alleged spy ring.

U.S. Weighs Course Of Action to Take In Baltic Crisis

Several Steps are Seen Open to State Department

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

Washington, Apr. 22 (AP) State Department officials today weighed several courses of action to meet a serious new crisis created in Soviet-American relations by the Russian fighter attack on an American plane.

The Baltic incident which cost 10 United States airmen their lives appeared likely to touch off fresh action from Congress—possibly including a break in diplomatic relations.

While administration leaders shied away from any such extreme step, several other lines of action remain open.

Possible Steps To Take

These include sending a strong new note to Russia, denouncing the Soviet version of the Baltic incident; recalling Ambassador Alan G. Kirk for consultation, and carrying the case either into the United Nations or to the International Court at The Hague.

Russia's latest note, bluntly rejecting the United States position on the Baltic affair, evidently foreclosed the possibility of working out any kind of a settlement through normal diplomacy between Washington and Moscow.

The note brought prompt reaction from State Secretary Dean Acheson at a press conference on Friday, while in Congress there were immediate demands for severe action by the American government.

The Russian note restated the Kremlin's claim that on April 8 an American B-29 flew over Soviet Latvia, opened fire on Russian fighter planes and was in turn fired on—after which it disappeared. That was precisely the position which the Kremlin has taken in a previous protest to Washington last week.

Between the two Russian communications, the United States had sent a note declaring that there were no military aircraft in the Baltic April 8 other than an unarmed navy Privateer, that it was this plane which the Soviet fighters had attacked, and that the plane was lost as a result.

Russia refused to let it vanish even oinsider the indemnity demand of the U.S. that the lives of American lives and property, be made the subject to the U.N.

The U.S. note could appeal to the United Nations on the ground that world peace had been endangered by Russian action or to the International Court, charging violation of international law.

However, some of Acheson's advisers feel that either course probably would be useless.

Russia contends that the State Department thinking it was learned, is to try to avoid actions which might increase the tenseness over the prospect of war.

In line with this thinking — and also a desire to offend nobody the United States would have to gain from such action, it is said the idea of disrupting all official contact with Russia is generally ruled out by the Truman administration policy makers.

Chance A-Bomb Being Dropped On London 'Nil'

London, Ont., April 22 — (CP) —Dr. O. M. Solandt, Director of Defence Research Board, Ottawa, said here today that the "chances of an atom bomb being dropped on London are nil."

From the point of view of safety from an A-bomb attack, he would, he said in an interview be "very happy to live here."

While carrying London from the map of possible A-bomb targets, Dr. Solandt said that one of the greatest needs was for Canadians to acquaint themselves with as many facts about the A-bomb as possible.

"An A-bomb war, said Dr. Solandt, will be largely a psychological war and unless the Canadian people are psychologically prepared in advance, such a war is bound to be lost.

He said that if Canadians are not psychologically prepared to accept casualties in an A-bomb attack their resistance might tie up essential industry and heavy wartime production.

If man's hysteria set in among the Canadian public an enemy could do the work of 200 A-bomb with two, he said.

More Than 1,000 Students Stage Demonstration

Toronto, April 22. — (CP) — A mob of more than 1,000 high school students, peeved at their principal for putting a crimp in a school election campaign, staged a near-riotous demonstration outside west-end Bloor Collegiate today.

Police were sent to maintain order as the students overflowed the street in what they said was an effort to hold a "free, democratic meeting."

By mid-afternoon teachers were attempting to continue classes, but they had only a 50-per-cent attendance.

Chief gripe of the students was the action of Principal W. T. Graham in halting speeches at an election campaign meeting on Thursday night. He stopped the speeches when the campaign threatened to develop into a full-fledged vaudeville show.

Two youths were halted when they began injecting jokes they had heard at a Toronto burlesque show, and a 16-year-old girl got the gang hall way through a parody on the "Oklahoma" song, "I'm Just a Girl Who Can't Say No."

The demonstration Friday, punctuated by demands for the principal's resignation, was followed by an unscheduled assembly in the school at which Principal Graham told the students their outdoor meeting was "illegal".

Blair Lamb, chairman of the Toronto Board of Education, said he strongly supported the principal in refusing the meeting.

A students' grievance committee was named to air student complaints against Principal Graham at a meeting to be held next Tuesday night. In the meantime the annual elections for the students council went on as scheduled after things quietened down.

FOUR FINGERS SEVERED

Meaford, April 22 — (CP) — A buzz saw severed four fingers on the right hand of Wilbourne Loucks, 15, Friday. The thumb and half the palm were later removed in an emergency operation at Owen Sound.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, April 22—Synopsis: — The skies are clear over southern and central Ontario and unsettled today will raise temperatures this afternoon about 10 degrees above Friday's reading.

A disturbance centred northwest of Lake Superior is moving southeastward, and will bring light snow in White River region by this afternoon, and intermittent light snow in central regions tonight. Showers will likely spread to southern sections early Sunday morning.

Wood Memorial Featured at Jamaica Today

New York, April 22 — (AP)— Top-ranking among the Derby candidates in the Kentucky United States, clash today in the $40,000 added Wood Memorial at Jamaica. The race, a mile and added importance with the defeat of Oil Capitol, winter book favorite in the Scarlet Gate purse in the Grand Rapids.

An even dozen three-year-olds all but three eligible for the May 6 Derby at Churchill Downs, were entered in Jamaica's 1 1/16 mile test. Only Oil Capitol from Middleground was expected to rule a slight favorite over C. T. Chenery's Big Spruce Spray. That was the top Derby candidates in this section and never have met.

Should all 12 start, the race would pay $40,000 gross, with the winner $34,750 — high in the history of the stake. However, should the scratches mount, the victor would receive $250 less (that is $500 sterling fee) and drop the first money below the $34,600, which My Request won two seasons ago.

U.S.A.F. Plane Crashes in Storm Near Tokyo

(By RUSSEL BRINES)

Tokyo, April 22 — (AP) — A United States Air Force transport plane lost in a violent spring day night in mountains southwest of Tokyo with 35 persons aboard.

The fate of the 27 passengers, including one of Gen. MacArthur's key officials, and crew of eight was undetermined hours after the accident. The four-engined C-54 plane was returning to Japan from the Philippines.

Bad weather cancelled an aerial hunt by six planes and two helicopters. More than 200 ground searchers began plans today to find the wreckage this afternoon.

The search centred around one of Japan's most famed beauty spots—Lake Ashi nestled in the beach town of Odawarai, 52 miles southwest of Tokyo on Sagami Bay.

The plane last was heard from at 11:38 p.m. Thursday when it radioed then it was over Ohima, an island at the entrance of Sagami Bay. It was flying over Sagami Bay.

The air force gave the C-54 clearance to land at Tachikawa air base 20 miles west of Tokyo. That was the last heard from it.

An intense search was immediately organized. Two flying fortresses, four small observation planes and two helicopters took to the air. Then the weather closed in. The planes were called off and the job was left to ground hunters.

Thirteen air force search teams of four men each, all interpreted each, 90 soldiers divided in two groups, and Japanese police and police and villagers, were in the search.

Out of Country Solution to 'Douk' Menace

Ottawa, April 22 (CP)— Attorney-General Gordon Wismer of British Columbia said today he will do his best to put a halt to Doukhobor terrorism if he can get them to emigrate to another country.

But while these and other solutions are being considered, "the law must be enforced and obeyed by the laws of Canada must be obeyed."

Mr. Wismer issued a 1,200-word statement after discussions with Justice Minister Garson on the best means of solving the Doukhobor problem. He said action taken on new importance with reference to Doukhobor terrorism" in British Columbia.

The Attorney-General said that in the past there are three sects, numbering 12,000 Doukhobors, he said only one, the Sons of Freedom, for the first sod destruction that has ravaged some British Columbia communities.

There were only about 2,000 Sons of Freedom, compared with about 10,000 members of the Spiritual Community and the Independent Doukhobors. Both of the latter groups merited respect.

Because an adequate solution to the Doukhobor problem must be deeper than mere punishment, Mr. Wismer said he felt the government has approached the University of B.C. and other organizations "with a view to getting the best scientific investigation made into the psychological causes of three outbursts of violence."

Colored Roads May Halt Complaints

Toronto, April 22 — (CP)— Colored roads could help reduce the motorists stop complaining that nothing is done to alleviate bad road conditions after snowstorms, Deputy Ontario Highway Minister A. R. Miller jokingly said Friday at the annual convention of the Ontario Safety League.

"Although we spread 400,000 tons of sand and 50,000 tons of salt on the highways last winter we still got complaints," the minister said. "We are seriously thinking of coloring the salt next year so that when the department is on its toes most of the time."

SAUCER STORY

Medicine, Hat, Alta. — (CP) — The "flying saucers" reported seen over the city recently have turned out to be nothing more than gas-filled balloons. A garage attendant has admitted that he sent balloons filled with natural gas, compared notes with a sales-woman who had seen "saucers" and proved her story wrong.

DOUKHOBOR TOT REFUSES TO STRIP, MOTHER MAKES HER

Krestova, B.C., April 22 — (CP) — A four-year-old Doukhobor tot did part of the protesting Freedom Sons of Freedom fire raiders burned another four dwellings.

The child's work is diabolic.

The little girl struggled to keep hold of her clothes, police reported, as her mother, nude mother attempted to remove them,

It Will Cost Him $1,000 if He Whips Partner With Snake

Chicago, April 22—(AP)—From the Wild West comes Hoyt Hilsman his dancing partner with a six-foot bull snake it will cost him $1,000.

Van Horn, 43, and Miss Carol Lee Hilsman, 23, dancers in a night spot.

Van Horn charged with disorderly conduct after she complained she chased him into her hotel room April 12 and beat her with a wriggling snake as long as a man is tall.

She told the judge snakes scare her to death, even when they aren't used to whip her.

Van Horn said he was only trying to show Miss Borgia how they could use the snake in their act.

ACTRESS IS ORDERED TO PAY MOTHER

Los Angeles, April 22—(AP)— Veronica Lake Friday was ordered by a court to pay $200 to her mother, Mrs. Constance V. Keane of New York. Mrs. Keane had alleged the actress failed to keep 1943 agreement to pay $200 weekly support. The actress' earnings were estimated at $4,500 a week by her mother.

Beating Housing Shortage in U.K., Build Own Home, Jigsaw Style

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 22 — (CP) — How to beat the housing shortage: build your own home, jigsaw style.

It could be as simple as making a toy airplane, says Henry Osborne, Conservative member of Parliament for the Yardley Division of Birmingham.

Convinced that any handy man can do his own building, Osborne gave the House of Commons this blueprint for the beating — or help termed an "appalling" shortage of accommodation:

1. Local authorities must provide site and foundations.

2. Small factories should manufacture "parts" of houses designed for easy assembly. These would be stored in depots across the country.

3. When the site is ready, "all the parts of the jigsaw" should be delivered there by truck, along with full instructions.

"Then," said Osborne, "the individual pays for the parts, and sets out to build his own home." Osborne said that this procedure need 100,000 houses. Given adequate materials, sets of standardized materials and the will to do it, almost any enterprising and intelligent person knows how to use his hands can build his own house, he declared.

"Why can't they build houses, too?"

If amateur builders needed coaching, local authorities should provide schools where the fundamentals of house construction could be studied.

The speech, coming from a Labor back-bencher, caused surprise. In the absence of Health Minister Aneurin Bevan, who is responsible for housing, there was no reply from a government spokesman.

US Should Seize Hold 10 Russians Says Donovan

Philadelphia, April 22 — (AP) — The United States should seize and hold 10 Russian soldiers and sailors now in the U.S. as "hostages" for the 10 Americans in a navy plane shot down by the Soviets in the Baltic, Col. William J. Donovan, Donovan, wartime head of the U. S. Office of Strategic Service, said in an interview today at a press conference.

"The 10 Russians should be held until indemnity which the United States has asked is paid," Donovan said. "Or until the Americans are returned safe and sound and the possibility that they are prisoners of the Russians should not be excluded."

Donovan made his remarks at a press conference.

If Siamese Twin Girls Separated Operation First of Kind in Canada

Tofield, Alta., April 22 — (CP) —Brenda and Beverley Townsend, Canada's first Siamese twins, in two weeks may be separated by the first operation of its kind performed in Canada. Doctors are hopeful the operation will give the girls a chance for a normal childhood.

Born Nov. 17 in this village 35 miles southeast of Edmonton, the twins are joined together from the third upper rib down to the naval. They are held together by a fleshy band.

Although their blue eyes follow any activity in their tiny hospital nursery they wriggle, gurgle and squall as would any five-month-old baby, medical men agree that they do not feel any happiness for them the separation operation must be performed.

The two-month parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. (Bud) Townend, want the twins separated if there is a chance. They want the babies parted.

So in the first week in May, Brenda and Beverley — their joined existence a rarity that occurs once in millions of births — will be moved to the Royal Alexander Hospital in Edmonton. A team of specialists will work on the operation. Dr. Wilder Penfield for Ontario, Wednesday, April 26, 8 p.m., Complete Auditorium. Reserved seats.

THIEF PINCHES MOWER, TOOLS

At least there is one person in the city who is not afraid of work and apparently even willing to commit theft in order to get himself a job.

In any event a Highland Ave. resident yesterday complained to the police department that a new lawn mower, shovel and rake were from her front lawn, together with a number of other garden tools.

Citizens Invited To Hear Views On Curriculum

A discussion on curriculum revision will take place on Wednesday, April 26, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Collegiate.

Mr. L. S. Beattie, director of Vocational Education for Ontario, assisted by Mr. Dadson, inspector, who has been working on curriculum revision also, will conduct the discussion period. Mr. Beattie will introduce the period with a brief address and then answer questions from the audience.

The Belleville Teachers' Council hopes that all citizens interested in education will avail themselves of this opportunity to attend and learn more about the "New Curriculum."

Hugh Murray Co. Opens New Concrete Business

With the increasing demand for concrete and concrete services, Belleville this week witnessed the opening of a new firm, The Hugh Murray Company, specializing in this field. Mr. Murray, vice-president of the firm many years of experience in new construction and a knowledge of waterproofing and repairs to existing structures. His office at 15 Geddes street is centrally located in the east end industrial section of Belleville.

Mr. Murray joined the Royal Canadian Engineers early in 1942 and before his discharge overseas from the Canadian Army, Major Murray was posted at Quebec City as Area Engineer Officer where his experience in concrete was of great value. He initiated the program and commenced operation on the restoration of the ancient cement and masonry fortifications of the Quebec Citadel including the famous city walls. Prior to his army career, Mr. Murray spent 10 years with the Ontario Department of Highways where his appointments included resident engineer in charge of concrete structures, overhead and underpass bridges, built by the Department on the Queen Elizabeth highway at Oshawa. In addition to this he maintained the same position in the construction of a number of concrete bridges highways and cloverleafs built in the province.

Mr. Murray has resided in Belleville for the past 18 months and has displayed a keen interest in the welfare of the city. A Kiwanian and a member of St. Thomas' Church, he is actively engaged in work with young people. He is an enthusiastic sportsman and an ardent golfer.

Prior to the formation of his firm, Mr. Murray was employed as construction engineer for Wills Lumber and Construction Company. Mr. and Mrs. Murray reside at 15 Reynolds Crescent and have a young son and daughter.

Twins Born To Dutch Pair

The first Dutch twin girls in this part of Canada were born in Belleville General Hospital yesterday morning.

The parents of the twins, Mr. and Mrs. Willem Brak are Dutch immigrants who reside in Stirling where Mr. Brak is employed as a farm laborer.

The girls, two and four pounds respectively, are in an incubator. They are the Brake' first children. The mother is reported well.

Dr. E. A. Carleton of Stirling delivered the children.

Sales, Ad Club Awards Prizes To Speakers

Prizes were awarded last evening to outstanding members in the effective speech class sponsored by the Sales and Advertising Club of Belleville during the monthly meeting of the club at the Quinte Hotel.

Prior to presenting the prizes to the two top speakers, Mr. William Ryan of Toronto, the guest speaker for the evening and in charge of the course in effective speaking, addressed members and guests of the club.

He declared that language is worthless unless it represents the thoughts of the speaker.

"Words are vehicles of ideas and are used to put ideas over effectively," he said. "The art of effective speaking gives power to persons using it. In reporting, in persuading during elections and advertising campaigns, words, even statements are needed to sell a bill of goods.

"Rhetoric is the art of ruling the minds of men," he said, "quoted from Plato.

Mr. Ryan, an associate of William Hyslop in the teaching of courses in effective speech, is an accomplished student of rhetoric himself.

Prizes Presented.

Upon the conclusion of his talk, he presented prizes to William Stewart and Stan Safe, the two members of the class who had been judged the best speakers of their fellow class-mates.

The two prizewinners thanked those persons who had cast their ballots in their favor, and commended the Sales and Advertising Club for making the course possible.

Mr. Ben Yanover, chairman of the speech class, Jim Bateman and Henry Beckett who were chosen the two most outstanding speakers.

In responding to the awards, Mr. Stewart and Mr. Safe expressed their indebtedness to Mr. Yanover, Mr. Ryan and Bateman for their kindness and helpfulness.

Harold Whitfield Bentley, another member of the speech class, then presented Mr. Ryan with a pipe as a token of appreciation of the class.

Mrs. May Blackburn and Mr. Peter Peterson spoke on the benefits derived from the class and thanked the Sales & Advertising Club for making the course possible.

President A. J. K. Griffiths then presented Mr. Ben Yanover with an award for his work as chairman of the speech class throughout the year.

The guest speaker was introduced by Mr. Charles Phillips and Reginald Mr. Bran. Humphreys who presented him with a black diamond cheese.

The election of the new Board of Directors for the Sales and Advertising Club was held during the meeting.

The new directors are: E. K Atwell, W. E. Jones, C. D. Lundy, T. E. Schwab, J. L. Smith, W. H. Stevin, R. Yanover.

New Chain Letter on Rounds, Whole Thing is Ridiculous Citizen Proves by Figures

Our old friend the "good luck" letter chain is back with us again with a vengeance, residents in the city recently reporting having received letters through the mails.

Directions are as usual: The chain was started by a French military officer and is going around the world for the first time. Recipients of the letters are urged not to break the chain but "5 copy and send out 12 letters within 72 hours. Failure to do so will surely bring bad luck.

Instances of good luck received by persons complying with directions are listed. Against this is the fate of an army man who died at the stake in the Belgian Congo in December, 1948, after failing to pass on the letter.

Preposterous Claims

But just how ridiculous the whole thing is has been figured out by a mathematically minded local resident who received one of the chain letters recently.

This man claims if a person started a chain on the first day of the month and each person receiving a letter were to mail 12 letters within 72 hours, before the end of the month, each man, woman and, child in the world would have received 40 letters. If the chain were continued for the second month every person in the world would be receiving billions of letters every day.

With two persons in our informant asserts if this were the case, "soon the governments of the world would have nothing as revenue all the money in the world would be owned by everyone as civil servants. There would be no need to try and make a living as the world would be occupation."

Who Buys the Stamps?

He claims that Utopia then would have arrived and the cold war would be over. The only one thing remained to be considered "Who pays for the postage stamps?"

Oh yes, our friend cited figures to prove his point. He drew up a list with the first mailing 12 letters would go out, the second mailing would show an accumulation total of 136 letters, the third 1,884, the fourth 22,620 and the fifth

The sixth mailing would produce an accumulated total 2,257,436 and the seventh a total of 810,354,616,194.

The total world population is out two and a half billion.

Quinte Mixed Bowling League Holds Annual

The Quinte Mixed Bowling League completed their season with the Zombies finishing in first place. Their team is composed of Captain Cecil Hardwick, Catherine Hardwick, Frank Post, Gerald Bell, Madeline James, Jim Barrage and Margaret Falvabrin.

The teams finished as follows:

Zombies 154 points, Yardettes 145, Fearnots 108, Bells 106, Rovers 104, Pirates 70. Rinky Dinks 68 and Busy Bees 34.

The high singles were won by Anna Foley with 360 and Walter Moore 326. High triples were won by Jim Barriage with 908 and Madeline James with 777. Jim Barriage also won the high average for the men with 219 so the next high triple went to C. Hinkley with 858. For the ladies E. Moore had 210 for high average, playing 24 games while M. Falabarn had 216 but played only 30 games.

The league wound up the season with a banquet and social evening at Tobe's County Gardens Thursday evening, April 20th.

Pat Hardwick was elected to the office of president for the coming season, while Mrs. S. Moore was re-elected president and Mrs. D. Diamond will be the treasurer.

IN MEMORIAM

ROLLINS — In loving memory of our dear mother, Charlotte Rollins, who passed away April 22, 1949.
Only a year has passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away,
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still
Lovingly remembered by the family A22

WILLIAMSON — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Harry A. Williamson, who passed away April 22, 1946.
The hour was sweet, the shock severe,
We little thought his death so near.
Only those that have lost can tell
The sorrow of parting without farewell
A22
Lovingly remembered by daughter Mary, son-in-law Clare and grandchildren.

COONEY — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Pte. Harold Arthur Cooney, who lost his life in Germany, April 22nd, 1945.
"Till memory fades and life departs
You live forever in our hearts"
Ever remembered by mother and brothers Gerald and Stuart Cooney. A22

WILLIAMSON — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Harry A. Williamson, who passed away April 22, 1946.
Always a beautiful memory
Of the one I loved so dear
God gave me the strength to fight it
And courage to bear it here
But what it meant to love one
No one will ever know
A happy home we once enjoyed
How sad the memory still
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill
Sadly missed by wife and family.

To see Canada-- go through this door!

IT'S A VIRTUE to this country set out to find true Canadian atmosphere, certainly one of the first places he should go is the nearest drug store. For Canada's pharmacies — from Newfoundland to British Columbia — have a character all their own.
It's really a blend of many things: The prescription departments, stocked with the latest products of medical science. The shelves of bright, attractive merchandise. The friendly surroundings . . . often with the familiar soda fountain inviting you to refreshment. The ever-present spirit of community service.
And the pharmacist himself is essentially a product of North America — where one finds a larger number of skilled professional men than in any other part of the world. The scientific career he selected is a typical Canadian opportunity. And he, in return, has contributed a proud service which has helped to make this country one of the healthiest on earth.
Get better acquainted with your pharmacist. Trade with him — he's a man you can rely on.

Monsters of Ocean Old Stuff

This sea-serpent business began 200 years ago, when Hans Egede, a Norwegian pastor, claimed to have seen a "terrible sea-monster" while on a voyage to Greenland, William McDowell writes in London Calling. He said its head reached as high as the main-top, and its body was as long as the ship. He added that it had a long snout and blew like a whale — in fact, quite a nasty creature. Hans was a serious man of good character, and his account attracted a lot of attention and thoroughly frightened the sailors of those seas.

Norway Specimen

A few years later, a story came from Trondhjem about a sea-serpent with a head like a horse and a long, white mane. It had a snake-like body, of which seven or eight coils were visible, each a fathom apart, which made it 50 feet long, at least. This was solemnly affirmed on oath by Captain and Pilot-General Lorenz von Ferry and his crew of 10.

Nothing was heard of this or any other sea-monster for over 70 years. Then, in August, 1817, a strange, massive animal was seen lo-kfter Gloucester Harbor, Massachusetts. One Amos Story testified to this, adding that he saw some 10 or 12 feet of the beast, which had a head like a turtle. Only two days later, a fisherman called Solomon Allen said he had seen the creature on three successive days.

The story must have gone round, because Amos Story immediately claimed to have seen it again. Perhaps he feared that Solomon was trying to steal his thunder, for he said he saw full 50 of it.

Seen on Surface

On the same day, a youth of 17, John Johnson, while fishing, saw it lying on the surface. Cross-examined, he admitted that the shape was indistinct and the light bad. But on the following day a ship sighted the monster and prudently clapped on all sail and made off.

Then several other people saw it, including a woman, who said that it came half out of water and rested on the shore. Every day brought fresh news of the strange creature, and almost everybody in Gloucester began to see it. Captain Elkanah Finney even went better than the rest by stating that its head was eight feet long and its body 120 feet.

So the fishermen of Gloucester put their heads together and prepared a surprise for the monster. They rigged extra wire and big nets, armed with shark-hooks, and went fishing for it. The creature must have got wind of their plans, for it just disappeared.

Sighted by Many

It turned up later in Long Island Sound, and was seen by many people who agreed that its movement through the water was more like that of a snake than a fish.

For two years, nothing was seen or heard of the sea-serpent — as it was now generally called — until the ship Concord sighted it. The master, Hawkins Wheeler, and one of his men made an affidavit, and their description of the beast tallied exactly with those of the two years earlier. Altogether, in the two-and-a-half years from its first appearance at Gloucester, it was seen by hundreds of people, always in the same area off the coast of Massachusetts.

Do not forget that a great number of those who saw it were fishermen, and so not likely to be impressed by any strange sea creature. They could not all have imagined it, so we must accept the fact that a large, marine animal of hitherto unknown species actually existed. During the next 20-odd years this thing, or others like it, was seen several times in the North Atlantic.

Strange Creature

Then, in 1848, the British corvette Daedalus arrived at Plymouth with a strange story to tell. Somewhere between the Cape of Good Hope and St. Helena her captain, and some of his officers and crew, saw a creature with its head out of water and some 60 feet of its body on the surface. It passed the ship very closely at a speed of about 15 knots. The incident was solemnly reported to the Admiralty.

It is a pity that cameras were not in use at that date, but a drawing exists which was carefully made from eyewitness descriptions. It shows a creature with a head like a seal's and a long body with a mane. This drawing, with a full account, was published in London papers, and created wide interest and not a little alarm.

Between 1848 and 1917, a strange creature was sighted several times in the Atlantic, and once in 1917, fired on and hit by an armed merchant-cruiser. It made a great commotion in the water, disappeared, and has not been seen since.

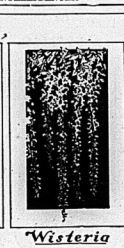
BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WINIFRED E. WILSON

BULLETINS FROM BIRDland COLORED MOUTHS

We smile our prettiest when we want to make a good impression. If, instead, we opened our mouths wide, the result would be anything but satisfactory. However, in Birdland, a suitor very frequently tries this on his lady love with great success. Nature lends aid, by often giving the lining of the mouth an unusual color, or one that shows up well against the gums. We seldom have a chance to look inside birds' mouths, except, perhaps, robin nestlings, and so we expect them all to be pinkish — like our own, dogs', cats', and horses'. But there is a great variety of coloring, especially in the case of warblers.



When the big, white gannet gapes, a large expanse of black is seen; the white and pale grey kittiwake shows off an orange mouth. Some fulmars have plumage much like a kittiwake's, while others are entirely dark grey; but in either phase the mouth interior is yellow, imaging the impression Mr. Merganser makes on his would-be mate. His head is a lovely green, changing abruptly at the neck; below this the feathers are white; and when he opens his bill she sees down a red throat. Bonaparte's gull also has a red lining to its mouth; quite necessary if it is to be noticed at all, because this gull's white underparts are rose tinted, the eyelids are carmine, the feet coral, and the webs between the toes vermilion.

Very unusual in coloring is the blue gape of the double-crested cormorant, a bird that is nearly three feet long and whose plumage resembles greenish-black armor. Blue eyelids, green eyes, an orange spot between eye and bill, and an orange throat combine to make the Cormorant's breeding costume unique. However, for something really spectacular, the puffin in its full dress mating attire deserves the prize. It stands vertically, manikin, in black above, white below, with a white face. Conical shaped projections near the eyes are grey-lish-blue, the eyelids vermilion. All this seems exceptional enough but the large, extraordinary, gaudy beak, shed in winter, is covered with geometrical patterns in grey—blue, yellow, and vermilion, and two orange rosettes decorate the mouth. Even a bright yellow mouth lining cannot compete with such attractions.

Land birds' mouths are unexciting in comparison with those of water birds, though it is interesting to find that the golden song of a thrush pours from a golden throat.

Clematis

Wisteria

Till each man finds his own in all men's good,
And all men work in noble brotherhood,
Breaking their mailed fleets and armed towers,
And ruling by obeying Nature's powers,
And gathering all the fruits of peace and crowned with all her flowers.
—Tennyson

Vine

Honeysuckle

Morning Glory

Every home can be enhanced in appearance by the judicious use of vines. Their lovely foliage makes a tracery of colour against walls. A vine over an open pergola makes it a place of beauty to relax on a hot day and provides cool shelter. All vines need a form of support, except the Boston Ivy. Lattice is preferred and if this is against a frame wall it can be hinged at the bottom so that the foliage will not interfere when painting is done.

Large flowered Clematis is very showy. They grow to a height of ten feet and come in azure blue, red, purple and white.

Wisterias are the "Queen of the Vines". Consult your nurseryman as to varieties most suitable. They come in shades of rose, violet, lavender, blue and white.

Trumpet vines are strong growers attaining a height of 30' or more. The flowers are bright orange and yellow.

Honeysuckle. These have remarkable climbing qualities and are very hardy. They all have a delightful fragrance and come in shades of flame pink, white, yellow and coral pink. They deserve a place in every garden.

Morning Glory. This is a well known annual vine which grows and flowers luxuriantly They do best in full sun protected from north and west winds.

Climbing Hydrangeas are very showy. The flowers are white and bloom in June.

ENGLISHMEN HONOR BELOVED SAINT

English in war-scarred London churches, missionaries in Tanganyika, soldiers in far-flung military chapels wherever they worship — all men of English blood, under the memory of their patron saint on April 23.

Of all days, St. George's stands apart for Englishmen, for only is it the feast of their saint, but also the date of the birth and death of William Shakespeare, and the anniversary of the Royal Navy's daring attack on Zeebrugge in 18, Jim Tannian of Canadian Press says in a tribute to e anniversary and Englishmen.

From days of antiquity, St. George's name has been revered in many lands — Spain, Portugal, Czarist Russia, ance — even among Mohammedans of the Middle East— has been the symbol of chivalry and courage.

Born a Greek Christian at Cappadocia in the year 270, George rose to high military rank under the Roman emperor Diocletian. His association with England began when he went there on an imperial mission.

The young officer vigorously opposed his emperor's persecution of Christians and eventually resigned his commission in protest. He was arrested, tortured and put to death on April 23, 303.

Reverence for the memory of his gallantry spread. churches were built in his honor and, centuries later, the crusaders believed in his power to lead them against the infidels and adopted him as their soldier saint.

English soldiers began wearing the blood red cross of George on a white background — now an integral part the Union Jack — as a prominent part of their uniform.

"St. George for Merrie England!" became the battle cry of English armies at Crecy and Agincourt in the 1416 ntury.

Admiral Sir Roger Keyes put teeth into the rallying at the Zeebrugge battle when he signalled: "St. George Merrie England and let's go and get the old lady twist." Although the action was only partially successful no fewer than nine V.C.'s were awarded to valorous fighting men.

The memory of the patron, the Council of Oxford decided in 1222 that St. George's Day should be a national liday. The sea separating England from Ireland became George's Channel, and in 1350 Edward III declared George patron saint of the Order of the Garter.

PHOTOGRAPH MANUSCRIPTS

The Sinai Peninsula juts out into the Red Sea between the Gulf of Suez and Arabia, and high up in the mountains of St. Catherine's Monastery, whose inhabitants see very few visitors. Life there in the high valley near the 9,000 foot above sea level is remote, lonely and exceedingly cold. The hills are wild and stony and nearby towers the vast mass of Mount Mousa, where Moses received the ten commandments.

Most strangers who go there usually come on camels, a very soon a party of American and Egyptian scholars ill arrive in cars and trucks from Cairo every. The purse of their visit there was explained in a broadcast from iro by Richard Williams, BBC correspondent in the ddle East. The scholars are going to the monastery, here they will live for the next few months, to see the tree thousand ancient manuscripts which are stored here.

These manuscripts are very old, ranging from the fifth ntury to the early 19th century. They have rich and laborate bindings and are most exquisitely illustrated in d, gold, green and blue. Many of them are Biblical manscripts in Greek, Coptic, Armenian, Syrian and other nguages. Some are copies of the early Christian fathers ut a large number are documents which throw light on e social life and administration of fifteen hundred years go. Many similar documents were lost in a great fire in iro in the last century, and it is feared that those surviving in St. Catherine's Monastery will be of great use in interpreting early Egyptian history. The expedition will photograph each manuscript on micro-film and two copies of the negatives will be filed, one in Egypt and one in America.

The party has made elaborate preparations for the survey. Two scholars will travel in four cars that have been specially built for them and their equipment. These include the very latest photographic apparatus and electric enerators to provide sufficient light for their cameras. The Greek Orthodox monks live in seclusion in the monstery and have therefore allotted special rooms to the nembers of the expedition. These number amongst them a dining room and a kitchen where they can cook their own od as they wish.

Good breeding is the result of much good sense, some good nature, and a little self-denial for the sake of others, and with a view to obtain the same indulgence from them. —Chesterfield.

QUESTIONS

For what purpose come we here?	Have the gifts of heart and mind
Season after season,	On circumstance depended?
Day by day and year by year,	Do men choose the posts they find
Men have sought the reason.	Or were they intended?
Is it just by chance or whim	Strength for some, for others skill,
Man selects his labor,	Toiler, painter, dancer,
And the task that falls to him	Question why the difference? Still
Doesn't suit his neighbor?	Only God could answer.

WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

One hundred years ago tomorrow the great English poet William Wordsworth died. Wordsworth was a real benefactor of mankind. He opened the eyes of his readers to beauty and all generations since to the healing and refreshing effect of nature and mind. His stated purpose was the highest a man can have: to make men happier and better.

Wordsworth was deeply moved by the forces of nature.

A presence that disturbs me with the joy
Of elevated thoughts; a sense of sublime
Of something far more deeply interfused,
Whose dwelling is the light of setting suns,
And the round ocean and the living air,
And the blue sky, and in the mind of man.

Matthew Arnold writes of him: "Wordsworth's poetry is a great because of the extraordinary power which Wordsworth feels that joy offered to us in nature, the joy offered to us in the simple primary affections and duties; and because of the extraordinary power, with which, working as after case, he shows us this joy, and renders it to us as we share it. This joy is the source of joy from which he thus draws is the truest and most unfailing source of joy accessible to man.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BEST SELLERS

I wonder how many of the so-called "First Sellers" of today's books will be read and treasured two hundred years hence? I do not find many of them in my library, though I might be regarded as rather discriminating in my book tastes.

The large majority of good great books, however, rarely entered the first seller class in their day, as I well know, on account of the fact that I have for years been a modest collector of such books, and so have had to search often and long to gain such treasures. I refer, of course, to their first editions. It took fifty years before America woke up to the fact that a secluded girl in Amherst, Mass., wrote poems, that today are her sure as a genius. I refer to Emily Dickinson. R. B. Cunninghame Graham, in his unique essay on "Success," made a statement well to bear in mind. Said he: "Quick triumphs make short public memories. Triumph itself only endures the time the triumphant car sways through the street." How quickly the big advertising space and the monetary expenditure fade away the moment that such efforts in behalf of a touted book, fail to get results!

How many of these books, that often sell into the hundreds of thousands, are actually read or treasured by those who buy them? You can't tell by the fact, seller lists to get the really best books. I dare say that in every month there are very worthy books, some of them great, that sleep on bookshop shelves, often for years before they are awakened to fame!

Popularity is always a fading flower. Theocrus's first book, "Week on the Concord," had sold less than three hundred copies when his publishers asked him to send for the balance of some seven hundred as they were taking up too much valuable space! Imagine his cynical smile, could he be alive to-day, in this condition! And how he would gasp at the endless printings of that classic, to say nothing of the numerous other writers about this one and his others.

A book is like the one who wrote it. If it has substance and character, it will live — honored and sung into immortality.

(An Editorial in The Milwaukee Journal)

Rightist politicians, says M. Jules, official barber of the French National Assembly, have much more prone to baldness than Leftists.

This bit of expert information, for all it may be said to be scientific, is usable political ammunition. Conservatives can claim that their superior baldness indicates comes from persistent scratching of the head in perplexity over the economic unsoundness shown by Liberals. Liberals, on the other hand, can copy the hair lotion ads with something like: "Will you be bald at 50? Be smart. Save your hair. Vote the Liberal or Democratic ticket!"

Some people will probably give great credence to M. Jules' discovery of a cause for baldness. Traditionally, men seem to believe that baldness is "caused" by something that could have been prevented. They are answerable by the indifference or neglect of their wives.

Wives of bald or balding men are usually certain that their spouses would still have flowing locks if they had not doused their heads with the wrong lotion, removing, they always say, the natural oils. They are sure that a constant and supervised schedule of brushing, proper use of hair massage, electrical vibrator treatments or some other magical or semi-magical method or preparation could save the hairs remaining to the harassed victim.

In the face of M. Jules and wives and others with theories on baldness, the New York Academy of Medicine has issued a report of the bald. At a recent meeting of the academy a committee of the balding men become so inevitably and baldly that there is nothing — short of wearing a toupee — to be done about it.

The scientists say, first, that baldness is caused by genetic inheritance, that is, by the hereditary supply of male hormones. Water, lack of brushing or indifference to hair lotions have little to do with it, they say.

The academy's report, which the Cost Accountants Hear Address By Prof. Cameron

The regular monthly meeting of the Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants was held in the banquet hall of the Belleville Shrine Club where the chapter was host to distinguished guests from industrial and commercial industries of Batawa, Belleville and Corbyville.

The following guests were present:

Gilbert Scott, America Optical Company; Louis Watson, American Optical Company; Neil McKibbon, American Optical Co; E. K. Axwell, Northern Electric Company; W. Breach, Belleville Lock Company; A. D. Godfrey, Tweart-Warner Alemite Corp.; C. R. Herts, Bata Shoe Company; E. Mulligan, Bata Shoe Co.; pany; W. Sallsbury, Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Company; R. Button, Corby Distilleries; D. Doolittle, Corby Distilleries; D. McLean, Corby Distilleries; A. F. Daw, VanDusen Bros.; A. Mazer, Avon Jewellery Ltd., H. W. Hanton, Corbin Lock Company; H. N. Becker, Bank of Montreal; Mel Richards, Houston Lumber Company.

Chairman Les Lennox opened the meeting with hearty welcome to the guests. Frank Lang introduced the speaker of the evening, Prof. J. C. Cameron, director Industrial Relations Department, Queen's University.

Prof. Cameron emphasized increasing control trade unions have over business enterprise today, to such an extent that the current amendments to the labor act now on the agenda in the Provincial Government include a statement entitling unions to the right to bargain concerning the rights, privileges and duties of the employer.

He was of earnest opinion that management should resist union invasion of employers rights, to discipline, maintain order, encourage efficiency, hire and discharge, transfer and promote. Trade unions on the other hand should have the right to bring up grievances, but, he added, not to the extent that it invades the rights and privileges of the owners to meet competition and to operate efficiently to keep costs down to the ultimate protection of the consumer.

He explained too that the increased trends in Company Welfare Benefits has the same effect on a company's economy as wage increases current welfare benefit average from 12 cents to 25 per hour of work and, as is the general practice, the cost of these benefits are passed on to the consumer especially where opposition is weak. One of the answers to this situation is increased labor efficiency. However, here again it has been the policy of labor unions to resist stepped-up production schedules necessary to spread costs on a volume basis hence the consumer pays

Prof. Cameron provided his listeners with many more provocative situations resulting from the current labor management agreements and was questioned thoroughly in the "question and answer" period. Ray Lennox thanked the speaker.

General discussion of the location for the May meeting which resulted in a motion by Art Lockley, seconded by Frank Lang that Les Lennox complete arrangements with Latimer's Town Room for the May meeting. It was further suggested that 25 cents would be added to the dinner cost of $1.25 for special refreshments. The subject of a meeting place for the coming year was set aside until the new executive takes over at the May election.

Secretary Bob Taylor advised the members of the proposed elections for the new directorate at the May meeting.

Ray Lennox stressed the postage regulations in regard to the return addressed attendance cards. He objected strenuously to paying double the underpaid postage.

Sergeant at Arms, Bill Cronin, enhanced the treasury by collecting $2.45 in fines during the evening.

GIANT IS TOPPLED

Port Rowan, Ont. — (CP) — A giant elm tree, about 150 years old, was cut down here recently — and none too soon. The tree, 23 feet in circumference and 12 feet thick, was hollow. Only five inches of wood held it at one point.

WOMAN'S PRAYER IS ANSWERED

Plattsburgh, N.Y., April 22 — (AP)— Mrs. Harold T. Healey had prayed in St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church every day for 55 days that the body of her five-year-old son would be recovered. Harold Healey slipped off a retaining wall into the Saranac River in the centre of this northern New York state city last Feb. 26. As Mrs. Healey knelt in church Friday, she was informed that "your son has been found."

WEDDINGS

GRAHAM—RUTTER

Tweed.—A pretty wedding was solemnized in Tweed on April 14, at 2:30 p.m. at the home of the bride's parents, when Ruth Audrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rutter, of Bogart, Ont., became the bride of Richard Earl Graham, of Tweed, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Graham. The Rev. A. L. Ince, minister of Tweed United Church, officiated.

Mr. Ronald Dunnett, of Kingston, and cousin of the bridegroom, rendered the wedding music.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a charming bridal gown of white nylon sheer over satin, fashioned with sweetheart neckline and short, full sleeves. The bouffant skirt was banded with double material at the hem, and appliqued with sprays of lily-of-the-valley. Her fingertip veil of embroidered net was caught by a cornnet of orange blossoms. Matching full length gloves of white nylon completed the costume. She carried a shower bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and flowers of love.

Miss Ruby Rutter, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, gowned in pale pink nylon sheer over taffeta, made on similar lines to that of the bride's. She wore a matching shoulder-length veil of tulle and pink taffeta mitts, and carried a shower bouquet of Butterfly roses and pale pink sweetpeas tied with matching satin bow.

Mr. Bob Maynes, of Tweed, was groomsman.

The reception was held at the home of the bride where a buffet luncheon was served to the assembled guests. The bride's mother, received, wearing a navy blue two piece suit of crepe, and corsage of Butterfly roses and sweetpeas. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a navy crepe and taffeta ensemble with white accessories, and corsage of Butterfly roses and sweetpeas.

Following the luncheon, the bride and bridegroom left for the honeymoon trip, the bride travelling in a navy sheer dress with scarlet shortie coat.

Guests present were: Mrs. Harendeen, grandmother of the bride, from Buffalo, N.Y., and Mr. and Mrs. James Duncan, and Ronald, of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham will reside in Tweed.

TOUGH OLD SILO

Courtenay, B. C. — (CP) — A 50-year-old silo on R. U. Horford's farm here is believed to be one of the oldest such structures in British Columbia. Made from cedar planking three inches thick, it is still in use.

Delightful Anniversary Tea Held By Ladies Society of B of LF and E

Yesterday afternoon the many friends of the Ladies Society of the B. of L. F. and E. gathered at the Anniversary Tea in the Oddfellows Hall.

The president, Mrs. W. Fairborn and vice president, Mrs. T. May, greeted the guests as they entered the tea room which was gaily adorned in spring colors.

The colorful booths were dominated by the tastefully arranged tea table with its silver services, candelabra with rose candles and centre piece of roses and white carnations, the flower emblematic of the lodge.

Those who presided were Mrs. A. Cooper and Mrs. W. Adams, members of 25 years standing; Mrs. W. Hammett and Mrs. J. Gallagher, past presidents and Mrs. I. Clark, president of the G. I. A. and Mrs. W. Smith, vice president of the L. S. of the "Forget-Me-Not Quartet Tables

The little quartet tables were arranged at the end of the room with snowy cloths and centred with paper roses holding pale blue candles. The many colored serviettes and tally cards arranged trays brought a touch of spring to all.

The members serving were: — Mrs. B. Salsbury, S. White, W. Gray, H. Taylor, D. Day, D. Foster, C. Burley, and L. Brisbin, while Mrs. A. Brown and her kitchen staff replenished and made the delicious cups of tea.

All who had a merry time gathered around Mrs. J. Laney with her table of home - made candy.

The first booth was that of the homecooking. Here were sugary tea towels, fishy tails, lemon pies, layer and loaf cakes in their party frosting, macaroons, cup cakes and the many assorted cookies.

Presiding over these delectables were Mrs. J. Kingston and Mrs. W. Gray.

Dainty Aprons

Across from this booth were the gaily assorted aprons in gingham, plastic, print and broadcloth, for all ages. Among those hanging up was a red gingham apron with white organdy insertions decorated with hand embroidery.

A pretty blue print was scalloped with dainty lace. In addition to the aprons were gifts for baby, guest towels in pastel colors, and a miniature ambonnett to hang in the kitchen for the housewife's string.

Presiding over these attractions were Mrs. J. Milligan and Mrs. R. Trapnell.

In charge of the special sponge cake booth with fluffy pink frosting with a carnation peeping from the centre was Mrs. R. Fitzgerald. Mrs. T. Hay held the lucky ticket for this.

The anniversary will be remembered with pleasure by all who attended due to the well-organized committees of Mrs. D. Brown, and Mrs. E. Nolan.

Mr., Mrs. G. Pollard Honored on 40th Wedding Anniversary

On Friday evening about 50 friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. George Pollard of Stirling, tendered them a surprise party in honor of their 40th wedding anniversary. Mr. Warren Haggerty of Trenton, was master of ceremonies, and on behalf of the assembled guests, extended best wishes to the bride and bridegroom of 40 years ago.

A fine program, consisting of community singing, led by Margin Haggerty and Mrs. Bill Donnan was enjoyed, as well as readings by Mrs. Tom Burtett, of Frankford, Ruth Clancy, of Harold; Mrs. Mac Sharp, of Mount Pleasant; Mrs. Bill Donnan, of West Huntingdon; Mrs. Clifford Clancy of Harold; Mrs. Tom Hay, of Stirling, and a solo by John Haggerty.

Mrs. John Wallace, of West Huntingdon, read the address of appreciation which included Edgar Guest's poem, "Friendship," extended to Mr. and Mrs. Pollard the sincere wishes of the community for many more years of health and happiness together. They were then presented with a purse of money for which the bride and groom graciously expressed their thanks.

Following the address and presentation a tastefully decorated wedding cake was brought in by Miss Jean McCurdy, of West Huntingdon, which was cut by the bride and bridegroom of years gone past, and served to the guests with other dainty refreshments.

After all had partaken bountifully, the hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," was sung, bringing to a close a pleasant evening.

Venture Club Donates Scholarship To Deserving Student

The Venture Club of Belleville held their bi-monthly meeting at the Kiwanis Centre last evening with the president, Miss Violet Nokes, presiding. A large attendance of members was present.

The meeting took the form of a combined business and study session. Mr. J. Musgrove, vocational guidance director, was guest speaker and gave a most interesting talk on educational scholarship for deserving students which scholarship the Venture Club decided to donate for girl students.

One hundred dollars was donated to the Children's Aid Society for child welfare.

Two members, Miss Violet Nokes, and Miss Betty Monteith, were appointed delegates to the Windsor conference which is to be held at the end of the month.

During the past year the club has participated in other welfare work.

A vote of thanks was extended to the guest speaker, on behalf of the club, by Miss Marion Bremner for his splendid talk.

MINER'S RECORD

Presto Music Club Presents Delightful Program

On Monday evening last the Presto Music Club met in the Bridge Street Church parlor for their monthly meeting with members of the Bridge Street Young People's Union as their guests.

Those in charge of refreshments were Mesdames E. M. Hubbs, H. C. Burgoyne, Miss E. Lazelle Brown and Mr. S. Alec Gordon.

The program, in charge of Mrs. F. E. Houston, was decidedly varied, running the gamut from the very humorous to classical with performers going into unfrequented fields to provide a most enjoyable time for all. Following are the numbers contributed:

Vocal — "None But the Lonely Heart," by Tchaikovsky; and "Believe Me" . . . Loretta McDougall; banjo solo — "Memories of the South," arranged for banjo by Roy Sneck, and "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses," by Openshaw . . . Wilma Houston; vocal duet — "Entrance of Mikado and Katisha," Trio: "The Criminal Cried As He Dropped Him Down," Duet: "The Flowers that Bloom in the Spring" from "The Mikado" . . . S. Alec Gordon; Violin — "Berceuse" from "Jocelyn" by Godard, . . . W. Donald La France; Vocal — "I Love Thee," Greig, "Homing," Del Riego . . . Margaret Potter; Vocal — "Rain" Curran, and recitation, "No Complaints, . . . Ann Davidson; Piano—"Rakoczy March," Liszt," . . . William Conner; Violin—"In a Monastery Garden" by Ketelbey . . . W. Donald La France.

Halloway W.A. Holds Meeting

A large number attended the April meeting of the Holloway Street United Church Women's Association held in the church parlor on Thursday afternoon.

During the business period plans were made for the annual bazaar to be held in November.

Mrs. E. Fox and her group took charge of the devotional. The theme chosen was "A Garden."

Mrs. L. Hopkins gave a reading on Gardens. Mrs. C. A. Perkins read the scripture. Mrs. H. Quinsey read a poem and Mrs. Ketchenson sang "In the Garden" and Mrs. E. Hubbs played a piano solo.

Mrs. E. Fox introduced the guest Speaker, Mr. Fred Wilson, who gave an enlightening address on "Citizenship," stating "We are citizens of the greatest country in the world and to be a good one we should do the things we know are right."

Mr. Wilson spoke on Immigration, saying it went back to the Biblical days, stressing that today "we should help and welcome people from other countries to become Canadian citizens." One lady showed his appreciation for being allowed the privilege by donating a large sum of money to educate others to become citizens.

Mrs. Wilson closed his address by saying the church should take a large part in the welcoming of new people.

On behalf of the W.A. Mrs. M. B. W see thanked Mr. Wilson for his splendid address.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. E. Fox and her group.

Christ Church Contact Club Holds Social Evening

Thursday eve the Contact Club of Christ Church held a social get-together at the home of Mrs. Ray Lenkos, William Street, with a good representation of members present.

The evening was spent in a sing-song led by Mrs. L. Blaker, accompanied at the piano by Mr. Ray Lennox. Games and contests was also enjoyed with the winners being, Mrs. T. Follwell, Mrs. F. Symons, Mrs. L. Blaker, Mrs. W. Wilkins, Mrs. D. Stewart, Mrs. A. Matthews, Mrs. M. Scott, Mrs M. Shappee, and Mrs. H. Smith.

Later refreshments and a birthday cake were served by the hostess, Mrs. R. Lennox, and the co-hostesses, Mrs. T. Follwell, Mrs. L. A. Kells, and Mrs. T. H. Clarke.

Girl Guide Activities

"Chips from Company T1 Log"

The pheasant April weather reminds us that hiking and camping time is almost here. The Guides are working very hard on indoor test work so there will be nothing to hinder them when they are ready to lay the woodcraft trail that leads to the wonderful world of stalking games and campfires. A number of the girls have passed the second test, and will soon have completed their public service test. If you want to know where the box terminal is, a doctor called in an emergency or a message delivered accurately, just ask a Girl Guide.

At the meeting on April 3rd., the Captain was pleased to present a number of badges to Company Leaders Barbara Dix and Helen Weston. These badges mean a tremendous amount of work and the girls are to be greatly commended on their efforts. One of the badges "Handy woman" requires you to do such things as oil a sewing machine, sharpen a knife on a grindstone, clean and paint an article of furniture, paper a room, with assistance, change a washer on a tap etc. For another "World Knowledge" badge you must tell a folk story or teach a folk song to the Company, learn to cook a dish of another country, be able to mark on the map the 23 countries where there are Girl Guides or Girl Scouts, etc.

During the Easter holidays the Trillium patrol had a hike. The girls found it rather cold and muddy, but in true Guide spirit they made up a song about their difficulties and sang it at the next Company meeting.

There has been plenty of news about Cookie Day already, but it must be added that in Company T's effort the Rose was the leading patrol. The girls deserve the more so as they turned out in full force and worked very hard.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Boosts his ego by running other people down

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am engaged to a fellow whom I love very much, but whenever we are together, all he talks about is his work and how clever he is and how dumb the other people are that he works with. If I say anything about this, it always ends in an argument.

If I married him, would I have to put up with this all my life?

R. S.

Dear R. S.:

If, as seems apparent, this young man is the type who likes to boost his ego by running other people down, you undoubtedly would have to put up with it all your life if you married him. This kind of personality trait has its root in a basic feeling of inferiority, and unless the young man comes to realize this himself, and wants to correct it, it would certainly persist. If it irritates you now, I can assure you it would irritate you a very great deal more when, as his wife, you couldn't get away from it.

Better think this whole thing over very carefully before you commit yourself.

A gift for the boy friend

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going steady with a boy for a year and a half, and we care a great deal about each other. We are both in high school. He is graduating in June and I would like to give him something special. The reason I would like to know now is so that I can save my money. I do not have any kind of job, although I intend to work this summer.

Do you think a wrist watch would be too much to give him? My girl friend suggested a large colored picture of me in a frame that he could take with him to college.

The gifts that I have given him before have never cost over $15.

R. A.

Dear R. A.:

If previous gifts you have given this boy have cost as much as $15, then I think you have been spending entirely too much. High school boys and girls, even if they have after-school or Saturday jobs do not usually have that much money available for gifts, and it hardly seems fair that parents should be asked to put up quite so much for such a purpose. Moreover, it is not in the best of taste for teen-agers to make each other expensive presents.

From all of this you no doubt gather that I think a watch would be too much for you to give this boy, even for a graduation present. This is the sort of thing his parents would probably like to give him to mark this occasion.

You could get him a very nice tie pin for around $5 or a little more, or a good fountain pen or wallet with his initials on it, any one of which would be an appropriate memento and not out of line from the financial standpoint. It would make the gift much more your own ,too, if you earned the money for it yourself instead of just saving it out of an allowance given you by your parents.

As for the framed picture of yourself that your girl friend suggests, don't you think it would be a little more graceful to wait until the boy asks you for one?

"Cheating" is too big a word for this

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For over a year I have been going with a boy 17. I am 18.

Just lately I found out that he has been cheating on me by going out with other girls. When I tell him about it, he says he's sorry and won't do it again. He says he loves me very much and couldn't get along without me. Then a couple of weeks later, he does it again.

I have been thinking of breaking up with him, but I can't bring myself to do it, so will you please advise me what to do?

M. G.

Dear M. G.:

What I would advise you to do is not to expect too much of this boy and to let him know that if he wants to go out with other girls, it's all right with you. I realize that all you young people feel that you have to "go steady" with one person or else not go out at all, but that always seems too bad to me. It's a mistake, I think, to try and tie some one up so tight that you call it "cheating" if he goes out with some one else for a change.

If you girls would have the good sense to make it clear to all the boys that you think both they and the girls should be free to go out with anyone they like, I'm sure you'd have a lot more fun and fewer heartaches.

Why not try it out and see if I'm not right?

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Developing the bust

It would seem, these days, as if every woman and girl would be busty. If it were not for falsies, the poor little skinnies, unable to put up a good front, wouldn't feel as if they were privileged to even tag at the end of the beauty-and-fashion parade. For them, this advice is offered.

Raise the elbows as high as you can.

A well-developed bust depends to a certain extent, upon the foundations of the chest. The breasts are differently placed on different women, the low or high setting being determined by the bony framework. Matured breasts point inward, toward each other.

By FRUNELLA WOOD

LITTLE FRY can get a well fitted maillot for their swims, too, with this bra-type halter made of satin lastex and trimmed with a cherub applique.

The waist is held in place to a comfortable fit by a halter which is adjustable; any one who buys anything for any growing child to wear, will appreciate this.

in immature girls they point outward. The classic figures represent them as high, round and firm. A comically formed breast, set high, is usually fairly solid, whereas the bust that is low is soft, in need of support if it is not to sag.

Undeveloped breasts are usually lacking in glandular growth and can be stimulated in various ways, especially by exercises and daily periods of deep breathing. Deep inhalations cause the breasts to lift, thereby strengthening the muscles and tissues.

Stand before an open window, hands on the hips. Take a deep breath through the nostrils, hold it while you count three, then exhale through the lips, forcing the stale air out of the lungs. Ten minutes of this and your flesh will glow all over your body.

Do this the first thing when you arise in the morning. Then turn cold water on your chest. Use a bath spray for the purpose. Just a dash of cold water is sufficient. Dry the flesh gently—one must be ever so careful not to injure the delicate glands—then friction lightly with eau de cologne, the alcoholic content of which will be stimulating to the blood streams.

Before going to bed anoint the breasts with lanoline or cocoa-butter; one is as good as the other. Rub round and round with flattened fingers and slight upward pressure. Pause now and then and take several long, deep breaths. Now is the time for deep inhalations.

Fold your arms over your chest, raise the elbows to shoulder level and clench fists. Then pull the arms apart and straight out, very slowly, pulling as hard as you can on the muscles; keep them tense all the time.

Stand erect, upper arms at shoulder level, elbows bent, hands touching the shoulders. Keeping the hands in position, raise the elbows as high as you can. Back to first position. This is excellent for chest and bust development.

To remove egg stains from rayon clothes, first, scrape off as much as you can with a dull knife. Do not use hot water, as it will set the stain. For washable rayons, sponge or soak in cold water, then wash in lukewarm suds. For non-washable garments, sponge with cold water, and if a grease spot remains, sponge with a carbon tetrachloride cleaning fluid.

GOOD MANNERS

Never necessary to have wedding reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle an argument in our family, will you please answer this question: Is it absolutely necessary to have a wedding reception after the ceremony . . . even if the church wedding is a large, formal, one?

Althea M.

No . . . it is not necessary to have a reception after any type of wedding, large or small, formal or informal. It depends entirely on the wishes of the bride and her family. As a matter of fact, very often a bride chooses to have only the spiritual occasion of a church ceremony . . . with no social occasion whatever.

The joint shower . . . for bride-to-be and groom-to-be

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to give a bridal shower for a friend of mine . . . a miscellaneous shower. Would it be correct for me to invite six couples to this shower, or would it be in better taste to invite the girls only?

E. M.

Although . . . the 'joint shower' is not often given, and is definitely frowned on in some communities, there is really no reason to consider it incorrect. Indeed it can be a very gay and festive occasion! Usually, however, instead of a miscellaneous shower, the girls are asked to bring a definite kind of gift to the bride-to-be (stockings, for example, or kitchen utensils) and the men are asked to bring a definite kind of gift to the groom-to-be (socks, for example, if the girls are asked to bring stockings to the bride-to-be, or tools, if the girls are to bring kitchen utensils to the bride-to-be). These are simply suggestions . . . there are many varieties of gifts of course; but usually in a joint shower, the gifts to each of the guests of honor are of a similar or somewhat similar nature.

Engagement announcement sent to newspapers in fiance's city

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am not having an engagement announcement party . . . just telling or writing to my close friends and relatives, and my parents are making the formal announcement in our local newspapers. I met my fiance on a cruise several months ago; he and his family live several hundred miles from here, and I should think some announcement should be made to his friends and relatives. How is this done?

Miss Mims

At the time you are telling your relatives and friends and writing to those at a distance, your fiance should be telling his relatives and friends. (You both should ask each one not to tell the secret until the date you mention . . . the date the announcement will be published in the newspapers.) Then your parents send to the newspapers in your fiance's home city the same announcement they send to the local newspapers.

Godparent's responsibilities moral and spiritual, not financial

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please help us. We have asked a very dear friend of ours to be godfather to our new son. We are Methodist, and are in doubt as to the duties (if any call them that) of a godfather. Our friend is very enthusiastic about being the godfather to our son, says "we must discuss it soon," and we would like to be informed when we talk to him.

M. C. W.

The responsibility a godparent assumes is a moral and spiritual one: to take special interest in the child's life and welfare, in his religious training in his education and career; and if ever advice and help are needed, to give this according to his or her ability. The child's godfather and godmother must stand in the position of "substitute parents", guardians to the child should it be left alone in the world. The godparent is sponsor at the christening. It is customary for a godparent to give the child a christening gift. And usually, too, the godparent makes a point of "remembering" important events in the child's life—birthdays, graduation, school or business or professional promotions, engagement and marriage, and other milestones.

The double-ring ceremony

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) Must a double-ring ceremony take place only in a church wedding? (2) Is it proper for the mother of the bride and the mother of the groom to go to the parsonage with the bride and groom and their attendants? (3) Is it proper to ask someone before the reception to propose the toast to the bride and groom, or just let whoever wishes to do it? (4) What is a suitable reply to this toast to the bride and groom to give the bride and bridesmaid a gift, if he wishes to? What about the best man?

Blue Eyes

(1) No. The double-ring ceremony may take place wherever the ceremony is performed. (2) Yes. (3). It's wiser to have this arranged beforehand, with the proposer-of-the-toast. Generally it's the best man who proposes this first, and most important, toast. (4) It is the groom who rises and expresses thanks for this toast, his bride's appreciation and his own. He may say something like this: "Rose and I thank you most heartily for your good wishes," or "My bride and I are deeply touched by your devoted wishes . . . it is wonderful to have all you dear friends with us today, this grand day, and you have all helped to make it a memorable occasion. We hope we'll greet you all on our Golden Wedding Day!" (5) Usually the groom gives his bride a wedding present; usually something she wears on her wedding day, a pearl necklace, brooch, bracelet, for example. It is the bride who gives a present to her bridesmaid or bridesmaids; and the groom gives a present to his best man and each usher.

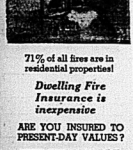
Notable Speakers

Over one hundred delegates will be in Belleville next week April 26th, 26th and 27th for the annual meeting of the Toronto and Kingston Synodical Society of the Women's Missionary Society, Western Division, of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. From the twelve Presbyterials of Central and Northern Ontario, they come to consider reports of the year's work, plan for the coming year, and hear addresses on the larger missionary work of the Church.

Of special interest to the public will be the two evening sessions. On Tuesday evening the delegates will be welcomed to the city by the Mayor and to St. Andrew's Church by the Rev. J. Goforth Hornsby. The principal speaker will be Rev. Allan Beech, B.A. who recently returned from China. He will have an interesting story to tell. A missionary in Manchuria from 1926, when he joined Dr. Goforth in beginning work there for the Presbyterian Church, he returned to Canada in 1941 because of war conditions. After doing special work under the Canadian government, he served as chaplain in Canada, Britain and Holland. Returning to China, he rendered notable service with the Canadian Aid to China committee, and, later, in the China Reliief work of the Church World Service. He was in Peking at the time of its "liberation" by the communists.

On Wednesday evening the address will be given by the Rev. J. Alan Munro, M.C., Associate Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Missions. For years a minister in the west, Mr. Munro, after serving with distinction as a chaplain during the war, was appointed superintendent of Western Missions. Last year for the Board, he visited the church's work in Japan, China, Formosa and India. Now, as associate secretary, he has supervision of the Home Mission work of the church.



On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. A. E. Toombs, who, with her husband, was a missionary on the Bhil field in India, will speak.

All sessions are open to those who are interested.

DEHYDRATED TUMORS

Tumor Library Being Set up To Help End Cancer Scourge

Ottawa, April 22. (CP)—Like the fingerprint files of those who fight human killers, a section of the National Health Department here is building up a tumor library it hopes will help end the scourge of cancer.

This is the Canadian Tumor Registry where scientists collect, catalog and preserve specimens of tumor and like growths removed from humans in surgical and post-mortem operations.

The specimens and the information gained from their examination will form a central registry of data open to study by pathologists working toward a cure for cancer and associated afflictions.

So microscopic that 5,000 of them could be stacked in an inch-high pile, the specimens look like ink-smeared slivers of glass. Yet they speak volumes to the initiated.

Building up this rogues' gallery of "growth gone wrong" is only part of the operation of the Canadian Tumor Registry, established at the laboratory of hygiene of the Health Department to assist in a general program of the National Cancer Institute of Canada by providing a library of tumor types and records, with facilities for assembling and organizing pathological data relating to malignant tumors.

Recommended by Canada's advisory committee of laboratory directors under chairmanship of James Gilchard, chief of the laboratory of hygiene, the registry is a joint project of the National Cancer Institute of Canada and the Federal Health Department. The laboratory provides quarters, equipment and technical staff and the institute nominates outstanding pathologists to guide the development.

Unusual specimens are referred for opinion to a panel of consultant pathologists but, in the mail, primary diagnosis and grouping continues to be carried out by the practicing pathologists.

All shapes and sizes of tumors, or parts of them, are sent in to the registry by pathologists. They go into labelled bottles about the size of small jam jars. Selected portions of the specimens undergo dehydration treatment for from 24 to 48 hours in an auto-technicon apparatus.

They are then imbedded in paraffin blocks which, when set, are sliced into skin-thin wafers. These are stained red or black and are mounted on glass slides, labelled with reference numbers, source and, if known, the type of tumor they represent.

In addition to studying the tissue itself, the registry plans to make sets of representative types of tumors available to pathologists in the field, shipping the fragile glass slides in lots of 25 in shallow containers which resemble jewelery cases. The rare specimens go out to members of the advisory panel, in small cartons looking like boxes of pills.

FRANKFORD

Frankford — The regular meeting of Branch 387 was held in the Club Room last Wednesday night, with a fine turnout. The president called the meeting to order, as a period of silence was observed in tribute to the fallen comrades of the two great wars.

Comrade Secretary Gene Lohnes read the minutes of the last meeting, and of the last executive meeting. Both were adopted as read. Comrade Earl Rogers gave the treasurer's report.

Among the business items was the possibility of a banquet to be put on jointly by the Ladies Auxiliary and the men of the Legion. The banquet would be open to all, with proceeds to be shared equally by the two branches of the Legion. Further details will appear later in this paper.

A short break was taken in the business discussion, and Herman Shard was the winner of two packs of cigarets in a contest.

It was decided that a Church parade would be held this summer, with Comrade Arthur Southworth, and his committee to make arrangements. It was also decided that the annual memorial day parade would be held, and if possible, the Peterborough Salvation Army Band would be obtained again. This band has been asked for by the citizens of Frankford repeatedly, and it is hopeful that they will be able to come to Frankford again this year.

Further plans for the new club room were discussed, and it is expected that work for this year will begin in the immediate future.

The possibility of the Legion forming a softball team this year was also discussed, but action was left until the next meeting.

Leo Woo arrived in Frankford this past weekend, after a two-year, four month absence, during which time he visited his wife and family in China. Leo is popular in Frankford, and everyone bids him a hearty welcome back. Lions Club

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Frankford Lions Club was held in the Community-Memorial Hall on Wednesday evening, with a good attendance. A bountiful banquet was greatly enjoyed. Several business items were brought up. It is hoped that a number of Frankford Lions will attend a special Zone meeting in Kingston on May 15.

In the absence of Lion Tamer Bert Carter, Lion Floyd Ketcheson capably led in a sing-song with Lion Holt Madill presiding at the piano. Lion Oscar Farrar gave a report of the meeting in Bancroft, attended by himself, Lion Holt Madill, and Lion Rev. Roy MacEachern, on Monday night. Later in the meeting, Lion Oscar gave some statistical information in regard to hydro power development in Ontario.

The first Frankford Cub Pack held their weekly meeting in the Community - Memorial Hall on Thursday night this week, since the hall was to be occupied on Friday night, their regular meeting night. The boys are progressing well, and it is hoped to hold investiture service in a few weeks' time.

Globe and Mail Awards Bicycle to Weston Boy

Mindful of the lessons of 1948 —when widespread damage mounted to millions of dollars — citizens of Emerson have prepared for the battle. Emergency air service has been arranged if road stocks dwindle. Furniture has been moved out of low-lying homes to the town hall.

Red Cross officials in Winnipeg have prepared five railway sleeping cars outfitted with stoves, utensils and bedding for emergency use. Nine bunk cars, a cook car and four box cars (for storing evacuated furniture) have been sent to Emerson.

Tanks of fresh water have been moved to points where well water is polluted, and others are ready to roll. Here, as elsewhere, anti-typhoid vaccinations were administered.

More Rivers Rise

Bismarck, N. D., April 22 — (AP) — More rivers surged from their channels today, throwing miles new, sudden punches at midwest areas already swamped under their worst floods in 25 years.

The first fatality attributed to the rampaging waters was reported Friday. Howard Bjorgaard, 27, farmer near Argyle, Minn., was electrocuted by a power line, cut when a torrent uprooted poles carrying it.

The Mississippi River overflowed its banks in north central Minnesota. Farmers between Aitkin and Fort Ripley, a 30-mile stretch, were moving out and taking their livestock with them.

In Minneapolis, flood warnings were posted by the United States Weather Bureau for industries located on low lands along the Mississippi.

W. M. Littlefield of the U. S. Geological Survey said the Missouri hit an 18.44-foot .level in Pierre, S. D. Friday night, 3.44 feet above flood stage. He predicted, however, that it would start going down today.

In North Dakota, where the Red Cross estimated 7,000 were homeless, attention continued to centre on the Red and James Rivers.

Eastern North Dakota and Western Minnesota got the brunt of the rampaging Red, whose 45.5-foot crest, 18.5 more than flood stage at Grand Forks, is expected tomorrow. At midnight it stood at 43.05 and was still inching up.

Downstream at Oslo, Minn — 30 miles northeast of Grand Forks — the river was seven

A Penetrating Sealer and Paint Mix

Tim-Ber-Lox is a clear liquid made from the finest, toughest resins and water-repellent oils and is used as a thinner for oil based paints or as a clear primer before painting or varnishing.

You will be proud of your paint job when you use TIM-BER-LOX because:

1. Tim-Ber-Lox helps prevent paint from "Peeling and Blistering" by affording protection against moisture.
2. The use of Tim-Ber-Lox with paint actually saves YOU money because each quart of Tim-Ber-Lox you use replaces a quart of paint.
3. Paint mixed with Tim-Ber-Lox flows on more evenly, more smoothly, allowing an inexperienced painter to do a smooth professional looking paint job.
4. Paint mixed with Tim-Ber-Lox penetrates and sealing qualities which provide a reinforced foundation against moisture and helps prevent the peeling and blistering of succeeding coats of paint.

OUTSIDE PAINTING

In order to secure a good paint job it is first necessary to secure a good ground or primer coat. It is in this prime coat that the addition of Tim-Ber-Lox to paint is highly recommended. Paint with Tim-Ber-Lox added, has superior penetrating and sealing qualities which provide a reinforced foundation against moisture and helps prevent the peeling and blistering of succeeding coats of paint.

PLYWOOD

A single application of Tim-Ber-Lox will prevent separating, will greatly reduce warping, buckling, surface checks, etc., and will eliminate "Grain Raise," leaving the surface smooth and uniform for subsequent coats of varnish or other finishes. It costs little to use Tim-Ber-Lox — as Tim-Ber-Lox replaces the prime coat of paint or acts as a varnish undercoat where plywood is later to be varnished.

HARDWOOD FLOORS

Tim-Ber-Lox gives a beautiful, soft, natural floor that is water, dirt and stain resisting. Tim-Ber-Loxed floors are sealed beneath the surface and therefore easier to keep clean, and retain the wax much longer.

MILLWORK

Tim-Ber-Lox treatment of all millwork — sash, doors, window frames, etc., will help prevent moisture "pick up" which is the reason for paint pealing and blistering, will also greatly reduce warping, shrinking and checking. Millwork can be treated just as economically with Tim-Ber-Lox as it can be with ordinary paint.

Mrs. D.B. Sinclair Guest Speaker At CAS Annual

Executive assistant to the deputy minister and National field officer for the past four years, Mrs. D. B. Sinclair, O.B.E., LL.D., will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting and dinner of the Children's Aid Society to be held at the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday evening, April 26th.

political science at Toronto University. Mrs. Sinclair went into welfare work in Toronto where she was vice chairman of the Toronto Welfare Council and was actively engaged in the work of the Infants' Home and the York County C.A.S. In 1942 she went to Ottawa as economist with the Wartime Prices and Trades Board, and the next year became the first Canadian director of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Reserve.

In addition to her present departmental duties she was Canadian delegate to the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, for the past three years has been re-elected chairman of the Fund's program committee.

Hillcrest Home Damaged by Fire

Fire of undetermined origin Friday evening completey gutted a bedroom in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kellar, Centre Street, Hillcrest.

The fire occurred shortly after eight o'clock in the absence of the family, the father reported to have been away fishing and the mother and two children at a bingo at the Hillcrest school.

Neighbors and other volunteers succeeded in getting the living room and bedroom furniture from the burning four roomed structure.

Belleville firemen responded to the alarm with two pumpers and were successful in confining the blaze to the bedroom of the residence. Mrs. Kellar was quoted as saying there had been no fire in the stove at the time she had left the dwelling.

Batawa Sokol, Glee Clubs Present Fine Program at BCI

A glimpse of Eurocan culture was brought to the Belleville Collegiate on Friday evening when the Slovenian Glee Club and Sokol of Batawa presented a program that was refreshingly novel in character, under the auspices of the Home and School Association of the Collegiate.

Mr. Arthur Duncan, of Batawa, introduced each number explaining the purpose and nature of the different acts. "There are many loyal Czechs who will be willing to come to live in a country of democratic freedom and I urge you through the agencies that are trying to assist these people to do what you can to help them," Mr. Duncan told the audience.

Under the direction of Mr. Lozar, the Slovenian Glee Club, a choral group of twelve male voices and a supporting chorus group of four songs in their native tongue. Although the words were unknown to most of the listeners much was conveyed in spite of the yearning nostalgic melodies filled the hall. There was a fine blending of voices and each utterance for some interesting tonal effects. In their final numbers the group was augmented by a girls' choir which gave added volume in the upper registers.

Fine Gymnastic Display

A gymnastic display by the Sokol Club was a fine exhibition of agility and control. The women's team was led by Mrs. V. Janek on the parallel bars, while Mr. J. Janocka was the leader for the members of the men's team. Mr. F. Grmek led the performers on the horizontal bar.

Musical selections were given by Mr. J. Vachuska on the violin accompanied by Mr. M. Kravacek at the piano, a number of folk songs with two violins and an accordian by Messrs. A. Viklicky, J. Vachuska and J. Urgas; and a vocal duet by Mr. J. Tlamas and Mrs. J. Repatek with the latter playing a guitar accompaniment.

The most picturesque number on the program was a Czech folk dance with Mr. B. Cecha directing and Miss D. Cecha at the piano. This was a colorful and charming presentation with the four couples who participated in native dress. Mr. Duncan explained that on their national holiday thousands of such groups gathered in one field and then at the stadium where they made a picture like a great flower garden. Distinctive patterns are made with great care and much needlework goes into the costumes which are elaborately embroidered. Each province has a design of its own. Dozens of petticoats are worn under the short skirts which are richly decorated. The boys wore fancy vests which were lassilled and beribboned, tight breeches and high leather boots. The formation starts much like our square dances with the four couples forming a square, and the gay dance was performed faultlessly through its many intricate movements.

Appreciative Audience

Mr. W. J. Musgrove, president of the Home and School Association spoke briefly expressing his thanks to the performers and the many people who had helped to make the evening a success, particularly Mr. Alonzo who headed the committees assisted by members of the executive; the ladies who had charge of the tickets; and Mr. Churchill who performed the duties of liaison officer between the Collegiate and Sokol. In commenting on the performance Mr. Musgrove said that this presentation was the type of thing they are doing everyday at Batawa. These young people are doing a selling job of the youth movement so popular in their native land whether they be conscious of it or not. In June the Sokol clubs from all over will meet in Cleveland for a huge decentration.

The attractive programs which were distributed at the door were designed by Miss A. Golobic.

Although the weather was not entertainment it is now more than that and proved to be educational as well.

TRENTON

Milk and Butter Strew Street After Crash

Trenton — (Special)—Broken milk bottles and butter were scattered over the pavement on Dundas Street, West, here this morning when a motor car crashed into the rear of a milk wagon owned by the Riverside Dairy.

The milk wagon was parked at the side of the street when the driver of the car coming up behind turned to ask directions of a passerger. He apparently turned the wheel as he turned his head and the vehicle crashed into the rear of the milk wagon completely smashing the undercarriage and the rear of the wagon.

Contents of the wagon, including 50 pounds of butter and 25 cases of milk were a complete loss.

FIRE DAMAGES GEORGE ST. HOUSE

Trenton—Fire broke out Thursday night about 9.30 in the home of Roy McDonald, 107 George St. The fire started in the kitchen, but was extinguished before serious damage was done.

Fire Chief Harry Fillon said that the cause of the blaze was not known but that damage amounted to about $75.

Asphalt Aprons to be Placed At Four School Entrances Board of Education Decides

To provide for a proposed change in the Intermediate school curriculum which will provide for the teaching of physical education for Grade 7 pupils and up to and including Grade 10, asphalt platforms or aprons will be laid in front of the entrances of the four local public schools.

This was decided by members of the local Board of Education at their regular monthly meeting held at the Board rooms, Friday night when they approved of an expenditure of not exceeding $5,-000 for the work.

The asphalt aprons would supply a mud and dust free surface on which pupils would be able to do their physical "jerks" as well as other phases of the proposed program. It is planned that the P.T. classes would be held out of doors whenever the weather permitted.

Recommended size of the aprons is 90 by 60 feet with two such aprons to be eventually constructed outside of each public school. For the present, school principals are to decide whether one full size apron, or two half size aprons will be laid. Tenders will be called for the job, it was decided.

Board members went over in detail a long list of repairs, improvements and adjustments to elementary and secondary school buildings, some of which have already been completed. In view of pared estimates for this type of work this year, it was decided to lay over most of the planned work for another year.

Repairs Big Item

Possibly the biggest item of expenditure under the above heading is repairs to the stone-capped parapet atop the walls at the collegiate. The stone has seeped between the joints in the stone with moisture and condensation gradually deteriorating the parapet. Repair of this parapet was asked for by Campbell and chairman of property and supply, Mr. A. Mumby.

Also the southwest corner of the collegiate was said to have settled, due possibly to a bed of cinders on which the foundation was laid. However, expert opinion obtained by the board was such that possibly the foundation had finished settling and would cause no more trouble.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Campbell for the amount of personal work he had done with respect to certain repair jobs at the collegiate.

New School Completed

Chairman of the sites and accommodation committee, H. C. Seldon, reported that the new Prince Charles School was virtually completed. Exterior painting of trim still remained to be done. Two used pianos will be purchased for the school, one for the auditorium, and one for the kindergarten.

Classes will commence at the new school on Monday, it was stated. Principal for the school will be J. E. Bateman with Mr. Henry Lloyd as vice-principal. Head mistress of the primary department will be Miss Winnifred Leslie and staff members are Miss Norma Arkles and Miss Mary Rutherford, Thomas Coxton present member of the schools maintenance staff, will be janitor at the new school.

Board members discussed briefly the need of a janitress being washed at the Collegiate, there being some feeling among members that caretakers at the building should be prepared to do most of the work. It was pointed out that caretakers at the four public schools washed the school windows when necessary, and there was feeling among the caretakers that discrimination was being shown in that men at the collegiate were not called upon to do this work.

It was agreed that public school children be permitted to participate in the Kinsmen Swimming Roll campaign to the extent of carrying the message home to parents. No collection among the pupils is to be permitted, however.

A request of the local Parks Board that students at the collegiate be requested to write essays or briefs on the need of development for Zwick's Island, was left to the administrator and to Principal G. E. Currie of the collegiate.

Tenders Resignation

Miss Stewart Masson tendered her resignation as the Board of Education representative on the Public Library Board. Mrs. J. Grant Sparling was named to take Miss Masson's place on the board.

A communication from R. Vanderwater, clerk of Sidney township, was read, indicating that the township council wished further time for consider participation in the proposed Quinte district high school area. It was stated that this was the first indication from Sidney that this township was interested in the area.

The Board concurred in a recommendation by collegiate principal G. E. Currie than transportation of six students to the camp counsellor training course at Lake Couchiching be paid. Transportation will be paid for three boys and three girls.

No immediate action was taken by the Board to a request of Mr. Alf. Cooper, band instructor, for appointment to the regular staff of the Board of Education. At present Mr. Cooper is acting only in a part-time capacity.

Resignations were accepted from Miss May McKinney and from Miss Thora Allen, who have secured positions elsewhere. Added to the public schools staff was Mrs. Wanda Sine, of Foxboro.

Inspector A. E. Kells reported that public school attendance hit a low efficiency for the month of March, but still was reasonable in consideration of the season and of the amount of minor illness prevalent. Total public school enrolment stood at 2,071 with an attendance efficiency of 91.16 per cent.

Attendance at the collegiate totalled 565 during March, the total enrolment remaining unchanged for the month, according to Principal Currie. Attendance at the vocational school was 414, or 42.3 per cent of the total composite school enrolment.

Evening classes held throughout the winter season had an enrolment of 298, it was stated.

May 12th at 10:00 a.m., has been set as the date and time for the annual cadet inspection. it was reported. Arrangements are also being made to hold the annual field and track meet on the afternoon of May 17th.

Rangers Not Kidding, Ivan Better Revamp That Line-up If He Wants Stanley Cup

Detroit, Apr 22 (CP) — The puzzled Detroit Red Wings rearranged their line-up as they hoped to turn back the New York Rangers' bid for the Stanley Cup hockey championship tonight.

New York sports a 3-2 lead in the series and can wrap up the championship by winning game No. 6 tonight. If Detroit triumphs and ties the series, a seventh and deciding game will be played here Sunday night.

The Reading brain trust made no secret of the fact that it is amazed at the play of the Rangers who had been figured in pre-series dope as a soft touch for Detroit.

Veterans Clare Martin and Pete Babando, both of whom have seen practically no action while on the bench, were called on for active service again as the Wings struggled their manpower. The return of the two experienced men means that a couple of rookies will be benched tonight, but no final decision will be made on them until game time.

Reserve Jesse the Ranger camp indicated that New York was confident of posting its third straight victory over the Red Wings.

The Rangers won a 4-3 overtime decision Tuesday night and added a 2-1 overtime verdict on Thursday night.

Those decisions jarred the National Hockey League champion Detroiters, who finished nearly 10 games ahead of the Rangers in regulation league play.

Coach Lynn Patrick gives the Rangers the day off and the entire squad attended the Detroit-Chicago baseball game. It was the first time many of the young Rangers had seen a major-league game.

When Don Raleigh scored his second straight overtime goal on Thursday night to give the Rangers a 2-1 victory and their present edge in the series, the Rangers all acted as if they were "it".

"That may be our trouble," Patrick said.

There's no doubt that we're in the driver's seat now. I'm fairly certain we're going to win. But we're going to have to fight for it. The Rangers aren't a team that can coast. We've just got to battle for all we're worth. That's how we've gone this far.

Sports Shorts From Britain

"London — (CP) — Who's the most clairvoyant sportsman in Britain? George Swindin, goalkeeper for Arsenal's starry soccer team.

"Before this year's Football Association Cup competition began, George told his colleagues that they would be playing at home in four consecutive ties. He was right.

He said Leeds United would be their sixth-round opponents. He was right.

He said they would meet Liverpool in the semi-final at Wembley April 29. He was right.

"The world's largest and most informative cricket scoreboard is being installed at Trent Bridge, Nottingham County Cricket Club ground.

Electrically operated, it incorporates features which will make antiquated scoreboards a memory board in this country and—Notts spokesmen say — will be even better than the massive boards which grace the famous cricket grounds of Johannesburg and Sydney, Australia.

The board will keep track of each bowler's analysis, ball by ball, show every batsman's score and indicate by lights the name of each fielder who handles the ball.

The cost, name of designer and name of donor have not been made known.

Alfred Cooper's Limestone Cottage, which fell in the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, March 25, was later found to have suffered internal injuries and was destroyed.

The 10-year-old came to grief at Valentine's Brook, ninth fence in the first circuit of the treacherous 30-jump course.

Mount Hardy, owned by T. Goodall and third in last year's renewal, broke a leg at the 11th fence and was destroyed immediately.

Only seven of the 49 starters completed the course.

C. Van Horne London Majors Coach Resigns

(By The Canadian Press

Clare Van Horne, manager of the London Major Ball Club since its formation in 1944, resigned Friday. The announcement of his retirement came on the eve of the club's first practice of the season.

Bill Farquharson, business manager of the local senior intercounty league club, said that Jack Fairs, popular catcher of last year's team, would be appointed acting-manager of the squad. Fairs is assistant football and baseball coach at the University of Western Ontario, a native of Tillsonburg and a former Welland baseball star.

Van has been mixed up in baseball in London for more than 20 years. He first rose to fame as a junior pitcher.

Van Horne has built up an impressive record in senior intercounty ball. His teams won the championship four times during their six-year history. They also have won the Canadian Sandlot Congress title twice and in 1947 gained a spot in the finals for the Sandlot "World Series".

Philadelphia honored Connie Mack Friday as the baseball patriarch showed the home folks his 50th edition of the Philadelphia Athletics—the team he hopes will bring him that long sought "one more pennant."

By official proclamation of Mayor Bernard Samuel, it was "Connie Mack Day" and everybody co-operated, but the weather didn't. It was cold, raw, "fit" to cloudy and cold day kept the opening day attendance down to 8,184. The Bostonians whipped the A's 8-2.

Manager-coach Lew Hayman of Montreal Alouettes said Friday that Tom Casey would be a welcome addition to the Alouette football team but he has no knowledge of Casey's plans.

Casey has left it be known in Hamilton that he won't be with the Wildcats of the Big Four next season because he wants to attend medical school and can't do it in Hamilton.

The speedy Negro backfielder is reported to have had an offer of $5,000 from the Toronto Argonauts, in which he could attend University of Manitoba.

Seeking relief from Ontario's 15-per-cent amusement tax on all "professional" sport, officials of the Argonaut Football Club were in Toronto Friday and Friday of Toronto that they would receive a rebate of the tax on all ticket proceeds for the game for charitable purposes.

However, other revenue of the club will be subject to the tax, it was learned.

Other position is that the club comes within the scope of a professional club and that the club is subject to tax," Premier Frost said. "Our ruling is that all such clubs are subject to tax. However, if any of the funds are used for charitable purposes or for the furtherance of amateur sport, the club will receive a rebate of the tax for such expenditures."

Regina Pats Qualify For Junior Finals

Regina, April 22 — (CP) —Regina's amazing Pats Friday night won the western berth in the Canadian Memorial Cup final.

The scrappy youngsters defeated Port Arthur Bruins 5-4 to take the best-of-seven series 4-1. Today they'll meet the team that lost to the winners of the Guelph Biltmores-Montreal Canadiens eastern final.

Murray Armstrong charges a seven still of juvenile age —dropped the first game 8-5 on Port Arthur ice and went on to take two convincing victories before moving to their home sheet. They bucked the first home game under tight belts with a handy 4-1 win, and polished off the series by giving goalie Bob Tyler his second shutout of the series.

Paul Masnick, high-scoring pivot, got the games only goal tak-ing Jim McGowan's pass in the second period, he snapped a 12-foot streamer into the Paul Mar-ty's legs.

The triumph climaxed a series of upset wins since Pats finished the Western Canada Junior League season. Finishing third, they took Moose Jaw Canucks 3 to 1 in the league semi-finals, then upset the league-leading Lethbridge Native Sons in the fifth game of the best-of-five final.

Prince Albert Minton, winners of the northern Saskatchewan Junior League, toppled four straight to advance Pats to the series with Bruins.

Springfield Cubs Find Loop Debut A Rough One

(By The Associated Press)

Manager Stan Hack and his Springfield Cubs were roughly treated in their International Baseball League debut Friday night.

Springfield, which replaced Newark, made its first appearance in 50 years in the International circuit but Buffalo Bisons spoiled things by beating the Cubs, 8-4.

The Cubs drew first blood, scoring twice in the third inning to drive rookie Hal Griffith from the box in favor of Al Carrasquel.

Buffalo scored once in the fifth and drove starter Gene Costello out in the sixth with a three-run barrage. The Cubs came back and tied the score at 4-4 with a run in the last of the sixth but Jerry Scala doubled home the tie-breaking run in the eighth. The Bisons iced the decision with 3 more in the ninth. Two runs came on Jack Hussey's home run.

Montreal Royals also spoiled Jersey City's opener by crushing the Giants 13-6 before 5,567 fans. The Royals pounded five Giant pitchers for 11 hits including home runs by Charley Thompson and George Schmees.

A scheduled game between Rochester and Baltimore was postponed because of cold weather. Toronto and Syracuse were not scheduled.

MARSHALL AID TO WEST GERMANY

Washington, April 22 (CP) — Western Germany has been granted $5,651,000 in Marshall-plan aid to buy copper and other metals and naval stores from the United States and Canada, the Economic Co-operation Administration announced today. The new grants totalled $11,416,000 in aid for Western European countries.

Petes Legion Ties Brantford, Still in Series

Peterborough, April 22 — (CP) Peterborough Legionnaires kept the running for the Ontario Hockey Association Senior B title Thursday night by tying Brantford Nationals 3-3 in overtime. Holders of a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series before the tussle, the Nats will now battle the Petes on a point basis.

Holota was high scorer for the Petes with a hat-trick effort while Pigeon clicked for a single. Stewart, Coombs and Hill were the locals' marksmen.

Brantford took a 2-0 lead in the opening frame when Pigeon and Holota scored in the first 7 minutes of the period. Stewart's second frame goal, the only one of the period, made it 3-0.

Peterborough came to life in the final session and whacked in three goals, Hill's counter at 19:24 sending the game into the scoreless overtime period.

Line-ups:

Brantford — Goal, McGrattan; defence, Smith, Smith; centre, Stephen; wings, Watson, Innatiuk; subs, Pigeon, Holota, Stewart, Leconte, Linn, Campbell, Mezner, Jamieson.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Fish Finders Produce Good Results

I was fishing in N. Y. State's Beaverkill one May day when I encountered another angler. That, or itself, is not uncommon. You are apt to encounter far too many along the Beaverkill these days.

But this fellow was not of the ordinary run of anglers. He had something new in trout fishing as I soon learned from watching him from my vantage point on the bank.

When I first saw him, he was fighting a fairly large brown trout. When he had landed and slipped the fish in his landing net and was wading ashore, I walked over to admire his catch. I saw that the fish had been taken on a No. 14 Quill Gordon, dry.

After appropriate congratulations had been offered, I retired once more to my vantage point on the bank. It is always a pleasure for me to watch a good angler in action.

Locates His Trout

Instead of tying on a fresh Quill Gordon, this man tied on a large wet fly, about size 6 or 8. This he proceeded to cast up and across, allowing it to drift "dead" until it had passed him.

I watched the progress of the fly several times until under it, perhaps a foot or more, was the fish. At a large trout, the man nodded his head and reeled in his line.

Standing in the same spot, he tied on another No. 14 Quill Gordon, dry. He settled over the spot where the trout had been taken and let the fly float drift the fish rose and took the fly solidly.

My curiosity could stand the strain no longer, so I walked down to the bank and asked him about the use of the big wet fly.

"Oh, that," he replied with a smile; "that's my fish finder, my decoy. Helps me to locate my fish so I'm not fishing over barren water."

Saltwater fishermen have been using a similar idea for years. They troll oversize plugs, not equipped with hooks, and it seems to be something about an outsize lure that will attract fish.

Fish rarely strike the big lure. Usually they are content to come up for a closer look. If they are active enough to come up to a teaser or fish decoy, usually they will strike an orthodox bait or artificial lure.

Used Quoted Plug

In March, 1949, Earl Gresh of St. Petersburg, Florida, took me fishing on Tampa Bay. Earl fishes there all the time and he wasn't particularly interested in catching fish. Mainly he wanted to find some sport for me.

When we reached the shoal he calls Gresh's Flats, instead of using orthodox casting gear, he snapped on a monstrous casting plug not equipped with hooks.

This he would cast down-wind, out off the edge of the shoal. The fish proved to be fascinated by this big lure and they would follow it in fairly close to the boat.

This gave me ample opportunity to play a bass big over them and I took fish after fish that I am sure would not have come up through the deep water to inspect my smaller lure unless the big plug had been there to attract them.

Since that day on the Beaverkill, we have done considerable refinement work on fish finders for those times. These have gradually taken the forms of spiders, varlants and palmers.

Spiders are oversize cartweel affairs, tied with large hackles, short tails and small hooks. Varlants are pretty much the same except that variants have a pair of small wings set among the long hackles. Palmers are those flies which have spiral windings of hackle over the bodies.

All of these patters are useful flies in that they serve a double purpose. Most of the fish that rise to them will come back but now and then the fly will be taken solidly. In any event, they usually will serve to locate trout regardless of how quiet the stream happens to be at the time.

Good for Base, Too

Fish finders can be used for bass also. As with other fish, the fish finder "decoy" should be oversize, be it a plug, a streamer or a bass bug.

We use them with hooks attached at once in a while the fish will actually take the large lure. Mostly, however, the big lures do for us what their name implies — locate fish for us. This done, a smaller lure usually will turn the trick for us.

For many years we have known that game fish seem to prefer surface lures during the Solunar Periods. Thus, we find that fish finders are most effective at those times. They, together with the smaller orthodox surface lures, are active fish have been located, and the combination rarely fails to bring home the bacon — one more balance of how it pays to keep track of the daily Solunar Periods.

Tillsonburg Nips Port Colborne 3-2

Tillsonburg, April 22 — (CP) — Tillsonburg defeated Port Colborne 3-2 Friday night to even their best-of-seven intermediate A O.H.A. championship series one-all.

The teams were tied 2-2 at the end of the first period. They battled on even terms through a scoreless second with Joe of Tillsonburg breaking the deadlock in the third when he took a pass from Cooper, rifled the shot past Gruhl who played a stand-out game in the Port Colborne net.

Gee led the Tillsonburg attack, notching two goals and earning an assist. Hynds scored once. Cochrane scored both Port Colborne markers.

Port Colborne pulled out their goalie and two fix forwards in the dying minutes of the game in an effort to even the equalizer. The third game will be played in Fort Erie Monday and the 4th game in Tillsonburg Wednesday.

THE YELLOW-BELLIED SAP-SUCKER is a very handsome woodpecker, black and white, red and yellow colors in their distinctive pattern are unmistakable. Despite the name he does not live only on sap, but eats fruit and nuts as well. He should always be protected.

HANDLING OF FISH IN HOT WEATHER.

The best way to handle fish as they are caught in hot weather is to break the neck and bleed it. Then slit the belly skin and remove the entrails. Do not wash in water but wipe the fish with a cloth or paper. Wipe out the thick blood along the spine as this and the gills are the first points were decay sets in.

If the fish is to retain its head, remove the gills and eyes. Place fish in the sun and permit to dry off inside and out. When dried, wrap the fish in a number of thicknesses of newspaper, folding the paper ends over so the air is shut out. Wrap only one fish by itself, never two together in contact. This is important. Tie each wrapping with string and place in a basket or dry sack. See that it is kept dry. If fairly large fish —up to several pounds, are to be wrapped, cut the rib bones in two long slits along the spine, one on either side of the backbone. Into these slits pour salt. Wrapped as stated this salted fish can be sent clear across the country. Wipe dry but do not wash. Water destroys the protective film. If the fish is dry when wrapped and no air gets to it, your fish is safe.

Fireman Page Still Leads In Yankees Winning Book, Is Answer to Stengel's Prayer

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

"Yah, but I got Joe Page!"

This has been Stengel's stock reply in nearly every discussion concerning the relative merits of his New York Yankees and the power-laden Boston Red Sox.

More than once during the spring training grind the Yankee manager was reminded that the Red Sox edged the greatest hitters in Ted Williams and Vern Stephens and the best pitchers in Mel Parnell and Ellis Kinder. To all this Stengel would reply:

"Yeah, but I got Joe Page!"

This statement becomes more significant as the American League pennant race nears the close of the opening week.

To date, the Yankees have played four games. They've won three and lost one. Page, the brilliant relief artist, has been summoned to relieve faltering mates in three of them. The Yankees won all three. Page saved two for other hurlers and received credit for the other.

Bucky Harris, veteran pilot of Washington Senators, sweated and fretted Friday as Firemen Joe and back eight of the nine men to face him to help the Yankees defeat the Senators 14-7. It was New York's home opener of the season with 27,877 fans turning out in the chilly weather.

Three Yank Homers

Joe DiMaggio, Yogi Berra and Byrne homered for the Yankees who blasted five Washington pitchers for 18 hits. Eddie Robinson accounted for three of the Senators' runs with a homer and a single.

A home crowd of 44,642 watched the unbeaten Detroit Tigers register their third straight victory by defeating Chicago White Sox 4-1. The only other unbeaten team is St. Louis, winner of its first two games. The Browns and Cleveland were idle Friday.

Vic Wertz was the hero of the Tigers' triumph. His homer with two on in the eighth broke up a 1-1 deadlock. Until then, right-hander Virgil Trucks of the Tigers and rookpaw Mickey Haefner of the White Sox had dueled on even terms.

Manager McDermott pitched the Red Sox to an easy 8-2 triumph over Philadelphia Athletics. He hurled seven-hit ball to spoil the home start of Connie Mack's 50th season as manager of the Athletics.

With Williams home in Boston because of an attack of the grippe, Vern Stephens and Al Zarilla undertook the batting leadership for Boston. Stephens smashed a bases-loaded home run in the ninth off relief pitcher Harry Byrd to sew up the victory.

A grand-slam home run by catcher Roy Campanella and superb pitching by Preacher Roe helped Brooklyn whip New York Giants 8-1 in the Dodgers' home opener before 24,023 fans.

Chicago turned the tables on an old nemesis when Bob Bush outpitched Harry Brecheen to give the Cubs a 2-0 triumph over St. Louis Cardinals. Brecheen allowed only three hits.

Ralph Kiner hit his first home run for Pittsburgh, but the home run king had to play second fiddle to teammate Wally Westlake who hammered two homers and a single to drive in six runs and lead the Pirates to a 7-5 victory over Cincinnati Reds.

A thunderstorm ended the Philadelphia-Boston game in a 2-2 tie after the Phillies had failed to score in the top of the eighth inning.

FOOTBALL COMMISSIONER

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Batting— Wally Westlake, Pirates, drove in six runs on a pair of homers and a single to lead Pittsburgh to a 7-5 victory over Cincinnati.

Pitching—Bob Bush, Cubs, turned in the first shutout of the Major League season in pitching Chicago to a 2-0 four-hit triumph over St. Louis.

Yukon Eric Bone-Crushes Way To Victory Over 'Goon' Henry

It was a Goonover.

That may sound like a man from Mars but that is what happened before 1,300 fans in Memorial Arena last night.

A barrel that walked like a woman, a huge torso his main bill of fare, a cool calculating mind, and the strength of six native polar bears.

That me' fans, la Yukon Eric.

In case you were not one of the faithful that attended the inaugural bouts last night in Memorial Arena, we might add that this dungareed power plant from the igloos of Alaska, took full advantage of the opportunity to strut his stuff before a well-experienced clientele from this city, any one noticeably that former old plug-ugly Bunny Dunlop who took on the job of being third man in the ring. "Bunny" officiated all right, but he was dwarfed when in the shadow of the "Yukon" and Dunlop is no stripling when it comes to a svelte-ipods.

However, it was the nonchalant cocky manner in which the Yukonese disported himself. He carelessly tossed out that massive chest which can accomodate three trucks, two jeeps and a bangtail with room to spare and to h— with the world.

The "Goon", a laddybuck that fritters the scales at 258, bounced off the Alaskan torso like a ball off a wall and was more or less disgusted at his apparent inability to make an impression on the dungareed timber wolf.

And the Yukon has a nasty habit and it's not funny, mes amis of clutching the opposition in a vice-like grip, taking two or three deep breaths and lo, brother, you've had it. He put the Alaskan bone-crusher on Henry in the first fall last night and enough air swished out of the Goonian tonall to inflate all the tires in General Motors. The "Goon" was "limper" than a wet dish rag after the big Alaskan increased his muscles.

But Jimmy had his moments. They weren't all to his liking but occasionally he got in some punishing licks that caused the Yukon to stroke a huge chin and wonder what the Oklahoman might have up his hairy sleeve.

Chesty Bloke

But it didn't worry him too much. Little Mr. Five-by-Five, and actually Eric's torso would make a half-decent track for minors if they could cut their way through the hairy jungle, assumed, as was said before, a nonchalant air, that at times bespoke boredom, and even the ferocious countenance of the honorable "Bunny" could not evoke a return scowl from the stalking man-mountain.

But don't kid yourselves, men, and ladies, about this kid from the shadow of the North Pole. He's harder than a landlord's heart and as tough as a loan shark two minutes after the debt is due. He doesn't fool. He's in the business for keeps and no ornery scruff like a 200-pounder from Erie is going to keep him from his goal.

In any event the Yukon put the quietus on Le Henry after a rough on "goonover" and that was all the Oklahoman wanted, unless it's a return bout.

In the semi-final Lord Albert Mills, a bloke from over 'ome, proved to be a nastie toughie. He slammed and bammed Ray Vilmer slammed and bammed Ray Vilmer and Referee Cliff Fox around the ring in a fast semi-final and his over anxiety when he chased Vilmer out of the ropes, and incidentally got on the worst of the melee, cost him the victory. In fact Vilmer didn't do any better for his Nibs counted both out and called the business off.

Ray Robinson
Biffs Beckett
In 3rd Round

Columbus, O., April 22 — (AP) —Sugar Ray Robinson, world's welterweight champion, lowered the boom on Cliff Beckett of Sudbury in 45 seconds of the third round of their scheduled 10-round fight in Columbus Memorial Hall before a crowd of 2,231 Friday night.

The knockout came in a flurry of lefts and a savage overhand right. Robinson weighed 156, Beckett 157½ for the non-title scrap.

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, April 22—(AP)— When the pro football Green Bay Packers started their publicized $200,000 stock selling drive the other day, 476 thusiasts set out at 8 a.m. to ring doorbells. . . The first checkup at 5 p.m. that day showed a "tale of $3,000—leaving only $197,000 to go . . Hockey news tabs goalie Chuck Rayner of the Rangers, coach Mud Brunetteau of Omaha and Jim Hendy, Cleveland general manager, as hockey's men of year. . . One more overtime goal in the playoffs will make the Rangers "Bones Raleigh an added starter. . . Fred Montsdeoa, University of Florida baseball captain ribs his teammates by talking to them in Seminole Indian language . . that should come in handy for use to umpires.

Ten Furlongs, Breezing

Ralph Kercheval, one-time Kentucky and pro footballer who looked after derby candidate Bed O' Roses all winter, figures managing Al Vanderbilt's Sagamore farm is a cinch compared to playing football for the old Dodgers. Instead of talking about the filly's trainer Bill Winfrey's domain, chance, which comes under Ralph likes to tell about the Dodger days when Herman Hickman spent half his time on his hands and knees giving bet foots . . "We didn't have the platoon system then," Kercheval explains. I played the full 60 minutes in the first 10 games, then got off easy with only 55 minutes in the last."

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop took me to the circus today and on the way home he said W.L.? how did you like it?

Swell, it was the best circus I was ever at. I said. That's the best thing about circuses. Each one is the swellest yet, I said, and pop said, If you can preserve that attitude of mind all through life, I mean in regard to other intrists as well as circuses, you'll live to a ripe and happy old age, and all your wrinkles will be becoming to you.

Anyways, pop, I'll never get tired of circuses, ever, if I live to be 200 in the shade, I said, and pop said, A circus is a remarkable form of life, that's fact. Of all the wonders you saw today, which one do you think will live longest in your memory? Or is it possible to single out one highlite from so many marvellous feats of skill and daring, he said

No sir, I know which one, all rite, pop, I said, See if you can guess, I said, and pop said, Was it the bewitiul and graceful lady with all her clothes on fire, who was shot from the mouth of a cannon into a distant tank - of water?

No sir, I said, and pop said Then it must of been the Cortelini aerial family, who spent 7 brethless minutes terning like pinwheels in mid air while they ecched successfully for one another's hands and ankles.

No sir, nowheres near it, I said It was the little fat kid in front of us that got so excited he would of fell cleer down the space between the benches if his father hadn't of grabbed him just in time, I said, and pop said, Yes sirs, let's drop the subject before ou tell me the next high life was the hot dog sanwitch you ate while 30 or 40 elefants were doing a balley dance number.

Which it pritty neer was.

Premier Unveils Plaque Honoring Press War Dead

Toronto, April 22 — (CP) —

A plaque honoring the 175 employees of Canadian Daily Newspapers who died in the Second World War was unveiled Thursday by Premier Frost of Ontario.

The plaque listing the 175 names is in the Canadian Press Building, (at 55 University Ave.) headquarters of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association and CP, National News-Gatherling Association.

Premier Frost was assisted in the unveiling by Rev. N. A. Ballard, D.S.O., chaplain at H.M.C.S. York.

Representing the newspapers were A. F. Mercier, president, and R. H. Thomson, first vice-president, of the C.D.N.A., and Herve Major, president of the Canadian Press; Victor Sifton past president, and F. I. Ker, Honorary president.

The services were represented by Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, Capt. F. R. Bare and Lt.-Cmdr. L. D. M. Saunders of the Navy and Cmdr. Lde. R. J. Morris of the R.C.A.F.

Quake, Explosion Or Weather, What Shook Drayton?

Dayton, O., April 22 (AP) — Was it an earthquake, explosion, or weather disturbance that shook Dayton and the area within a 25-mile radius Thursday.

No one in an official capacity knows.

The tremor was felt at 11:30 a.m. from then until late Thursday night newspapers, radio stations and the police were besieged with inquiries.

Wright-Patterson air force base said nothing happened at the field which could be attributed with an explosion in any way.

Officials of the Monsanto Company's laboratory for atomic research at nearby Miamisburg were just as emphatic in saying their lab had nothing to do with the tremor.

A weather bureau spokesman offered this possibility:

"Very turbulent" air thousands of feet over the city could have caused an "explosion."

But everyone was still as much in the air as the weather bureau.

Scotsman is Guest At St. George's Dinner

Toronto, Apr. 22 (CP):—A Scotsman was guest of honor at the St. George's Society 111th annual dinner here Thursday night. Admiral Sir Frederick H. G. Dalrymple-Hamilton, R.N., admitted his Scottish descent but said he was proud of "that British island" as well.

"The fact I'm a Scotsman doesn't detract in any way from my pleasure in proposing a toast to St. George and Merrie England," he said. The title of first lord of defence has passed from the Navy to the Air Force, he added, but the Navy still has a significant role to play.

Sir Frederick, now with the British Joint Services Mission at Washington, was in command of the battleship Rodney when she hunted down the German battleship Bismarck.

NEW EXTRA EARLY HYBRID SUGAR PRINCE SWEET CORN

Of supreme value in short season districts. Extra early ears of large size and fine quality. Tremendous tonnage and heliminent, growing resistance to all other varieties of sweet corn. Of special interest not for other areas but fine packing, either home or market. Can be planted early and is not injured by frost or present fluctuations and reasonable cool weather. Deliciously tender for table use and holds on days or more after a proper period for canning. Ears, about 8 inches long, well filled to the tips, deep kernel, beautifully high-sugar content, usually 16½% and has been recorded as high as 22%. Rated a heavy cropper for the early class. Supply limited. Packet 25c; 3 packets (value 75c) for 50c; (½ lb. 50c; 1 lb. $1.50) postpaid. (3 lbs. or more at 70c per lb. by express not prepaid.)

SAY COMMUNISTS WILL INVADE FORMOSA SOON

Communist invasion of Formosa is believed being rushed by Chinese Communists with the United Nations, with the Chinese Reds' best field general, Lin Piao, in command of picked Manchurian troops. First phase will be a raid for air supremacy. Invasion of Tibet under Red commander-in-chief Chu Teh is reportedly being covered by diversionary efforts. It is to come on pretext the U. S. and British are scheming with Dalai Lama against Chinese "People's Republic."

U.S. Crop of Songs Enormous

America is being set to music. It goes on all the time. It may not always be good music. Some of it will never be heard, but it comes pouring forth in one continuous roundelay of sentiment in song, Josephine Ripley writes in the Christian Science Monitor.

For American love of poetry and rhyme is a deep-seated one. Many writers. They write songs about everything from atomic energy to baby sitting, from moonlight and roses to their housing problems, from the United Nations to the Barkley romance, and from elections to love.

Endless Flood

They write and copyright at the rate of more than 1,000 tunes a week. These compositions come flooding into the Copyright Office of the Library of Congress in one endless human symphony.

Sometimes it's a silly symphony. Light and trivial, again it is mood is serious or sad. But whatever the theme, it's as topical as a newsreel. For if copyright recipients at the library were to be cut off from all newspapers, shut off from all radios, and sealed off from the outside world, they would still be kept up to date on current events by the musical compositions passing over their desks.

Practically everything of importance that happens is recorded in song. Right now there is a rash on atomic subjects. More than 50 songs about atomic energy have been copyrighted in recent months. Most of them are in the lighter vein, such as the "Atom Boogie," the "Atom Bounce," and "Up and at 'Em With Our Atom."

"Atomic Lullaby"

One composer took a satirical slant in an "Atomic Lullaby," which tells how while one baby sleeps for atomic control, dreams tired in music by a full measure of silence to signify an Atomic explosion.

Even baby sitting has inspired the muse with tunes like the "Baby-Sitter Blues," and other compositions reflecting the comprise of this occupation to a more professional status.

Politics and elections always touch off a burst of song. During the campaign days preceding the last presidential election, song writers flooded the Copyright Office with compositions about all the candidates — with General Douglas MacArthur leading right up to the election eve! Well, Dr. Gallup was wrong, too.

The economic ups and downs of the nation find their ways into music in plaintive tunes such as "I've Got No Place to Live" — a lament on the housing shortage. "Inflation Blues" and similar musical reflections mirror the consumer's sentiments on prices, although each composer gets out with a bit of wishful thinking in a song which he entitled "Inflation'll Soon Be Over."

Inspiration of U.N.

The cause of the United Nations has inspired many a musical plea for peace, and no matter how agitated the state of world affairs, Americans will always go on rhyming moon and June.

More songs are written about love than anything else, and more song titles begin with the word "I" — "I Love You," "I Need You," "I Miss You," etc., than any other. The romance of Vice-President Barkley, which furnished a heart flutter for the whole nation, touched off numerous compositions in honor of "Alben, the Veep."

Americans write a great many songs about places they "wanta go back to," most of them being the old homestead. Songs about states provide a continuing theme. Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, and many others are prominent among popular song titles. Tunes about Texas are particularly numerous.

Songs written for musical movies often find their "fame" in the copyright records, which are as studded with famous names as an all-star cast. Irving Berlin, of course, Cole Porter, Jerome Kern, Gene Autry with his cowboy songs.

Prolific Writer

But the most voluminous file belongs not to any of the famous name cast. Number one song producer of all is David Hall—rhyme unidentified. He, however, has nothing unintentional about the more than 400 song rhymes which Mr. Hall turned out during the first six months of last year—a production which took up 20 columns in the music catalogue of the library for that period.

But all is not sentimental sweetness and light in this daily musical outpouring. Through it runs a strain of religious music and serious works with their more lasting qualities and more enduring themes.

Song writers of many nations seek American copyright for their works. Music of foreign origin comes swelling in from England and France, the Scandinavian countries, South America, Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Italy, Greece, Hawaii, and the Philippines.

Churchill to Open Gasoline Tax Battle

London, April 22 — (AP) — Winston Churchill will plunge into Britain's gasoline tax battle Monday.

The 74-year-old Conservative leader still has given no hint whether he will try to overthrow the Labor government on the question of its 1950-51 budget.

But political observers said the Conservatives of may challenge Labor with from one to three life-or-death votes. Some anti-Labor papers said there was a strong possibility the government would be overthrown.

Churchill is scheduled as the first speaker in Commons Monday, the last day of the debate on the new budget.

One of the most controversial provisions is an increase of 9d (about 12 cents) a gallon in gasoline taxes. This raises the price of gasoline to 45 cents a gallon — highest since 1920.

The Labor government, with a slim overall majority of four votes, has issued severe instructions to all Labor M.P.'s to attend Monday's session.

A Conservative call for a vote Monday would be on the budget as a whole. If Prime Minister Attlee's government failed to win tradition would force him to resign.

Churchill and his advisers may decide, however, to refrain from asking a vote Monday, but call for balloting on the financial bills Wednesday which put the budget provisions into effect.

In this way, the Conservatives could bring under attack only those budget items it seeks to dislodge. It also could make such test equivalent to a vote of censure, making the balloting a matter of life and death for Attlee's government.

Some observers believe the Conservatives would more likely gain the support of the nine liberal M.P.s on specific issues than in a vote Monday on the budget as a whole.

NEW TOMATO DEVELOPED

Toronto, April 22 — (CP) — A new tomato, resistant to leaf mould, has been developed at an Ontario experimental station, Agriculture Minister Kennedy announced Thursday. Word of the new greenhouse tomato was received Thursday from Dr. E.P Palmer, of the Vineland Horticultural Station. The fruit is larger than some of the other varieties, is firm fleshed and will keep well.

The Body in the Ravine

By Lloyd Carr

Grace Thurman and Sid, and Mr. and Mrs. Enright and Greg were already in the lounge. The Enrights sat on the couch facing the fireplace; Grace was to their right, sitting rigidly in a deep leather armchair. Greg stood with his back to the fire, smoking a pipe. Sid hung over to one side, his cap in his hand and his little eyes darting from one face to another. He looked nervous, like a trapped and desperate animal.

Tim whispered something to Jean as he pulled up a chair for her and a moment later, as the others were seating themselves in or around the informal little circle, she in turn bent down and whispered something to Grace Thurman. Grace nodded, and her face, worried and lined with sleeplessness, flushed perceptibly. She seemed to try to mind looking at Sid but failed, and gave him a murderous glance.

When everyone was settled Grace spoke, addressing herself to the hired man. "If you know anything about Bruce, Sid, you'd better tell it," she said. "I know you smashed up his car last night and you needn't deny it. You took it without permission and you went and got drunk and wrecked the car. And you know where Bruce is, too!"

The air was tense for a moment as everyone looked from Grace, still trembling from her outburst to Sid whose face had gone a sullen gray. He started . . speak twice and the third time he said explosively, "you better be careful. You can't talk to me like that!"

"Oh, I can't, can't I!" Grace flared. "Who do you think you are, you little fool, you— you criminal!"

Grace Thurman's choice of words, in that instance, proved very unfortunate. If she'd called Sid anything else but "criminal" he might have stood by her; as it was he let go and the white story began to unfold. No doubt the reason she did use the word was subconsciously, whenever she saw the man, it's hard to keep a secret like Grace Thurman's, hard for anyone. For her, with all of the other troubles that kept piling upon her, it was impossible.

"You can't talk to me like that" Sid said again, but this time he spoke in a tremulous whisper. He glared at Grace Thurman and his fists were clenched, his sweed cap crumpled into a ball in one of them. "I ain't no criminal—you told me I wasn't no criminal. But Bruce is. He killed his pa—he killed Mr. Thurman. And you know it!"

"Oh, my God!" Grace gasped. She struggled to get up from her chair but fell back, pale and shaking. "Stop Sid—oh, my God—stop—" Her voice trailed off and she lay back, her eyes closed and tears running down her trembling cheeks.

Old John Enright was the first to reach her, and he patted one of her hands and squeezed it tightly. "Grace, my dear Grace" he said softly. "Pull yourself together. This thing— It's getting way out of hand. Well have the man arrested. He's out of his mind. Always knew he was a queer, moron, complete idiot. Chin up, Grace! Chin up!"

But Mr. Enright's words were not much consolation to Grace Thurman. She looked up at him pitiably, biting her lip to fight back the tears, and sadly she shook her head. She said nothing, but her meaning was clear. It was an admission that what Sid said was true and everyone there knew that was what Grace meant.

Mort Taylor was picking at a callous on the palm of his hand. His lips were pressed tight together and his fat white face was contorted into a scowl. Tim could not be sure whether he was more angry or merely trying to figure something out.

Claire Carson's hard — bolled Broadway sophistication was pretty thoroughly shattered. Her heavily mascaraed eyes flitted from one face to another, touching everyone but Mort Taylor's. She had been starting to light a cigaret, but now the little white cylinder was being nervously crushed out of shape in her tightly clenched fist.

Greg and Tim stood next to each other in front of the fireplace, keeping their eyes mostly on Sid, who was staring at Grace Thurman through narrowed eyes and seeming to take a deal of pleasure from her prostration. "So, I'm a criminal" he kept muttering butterly. "So I'm a criminal!"

Mrs. Enright was sharp-eyed and annoyed as she watched her husband ministering to Grace Thurman; otherwise she didn't seem much affected by the revelation of Bruce's having killed his father. Jean Radcliffe and Diane sat together, back to one side of Grace Thurman. They alternately watched her and the two in front of the fireplace.

Tim Carson was the man of action. He solemnly crushed a cigarette into an ash tray and strode across the room to confront Sid.

"All right Sid," he begin, his voice modulated and friendly, "let's have the story. How do you know Bruce killed his father?"

Sid was more willing to talk but in his excitement he was almost incoherent. His story, in brief, was that Bruce had gotten into an argument with his father (Sid didn't know what about and had, in a burst of anger, struck Mr. Thurman a terrific blow on the jaw. Mr. Thurman fell to the floor and Grace, who came running into the room with Sid at the sound of angry voices, fell to her knees beside her husband and heard him gasp a few last breaths and then die. His neck had been broken by the blow.

FERMATE for Apple Scab.
The only available fungicide which is compatible with oil-lead arsenate and oil-nicotine. Does not normally cause russeting, and usually improves size, colour and finish of the fruit. Excellent for the "change-over" spray. FERMATE is recommended in Government spray programmes.

C-I-L Wettable Sulphur
This is a jet-pulverized sulphur of micro-fine particle size, which penetrates the fuzz on leaves and very small apples and gives more thorough coverage of actual surfaces where scab protection is most needed. Compatible with most standard insecticides, including DDT. C-I-L Wettable Sulphur is completely wettable, stays in suspension, does not clog nozzles.

C-I-L PARATHION.
A 15% wettable powder which has given exceptional results in controlling European red mite, aphids, eye-spotted bud moth and many other hard-to-kill insects.

C-I-L 50% Wettable DDT.
The most widely used DDT orchard insecticide. Combined with C-I-L Parathion, it gives excellent control of BOTH codling moth and European red mite. Jet pulverized particles assure superior suspension and adhesion.

SIX PROVINCES SIGN HIGHWAY AGREEMENTS

Indian Settlement Disappears Under Red River Waters

New Brunswick Flood Loss Up to Million Dollars

Winnipeg, April 24. (CP)—The Southern Manitoba flood front stretched a full 100 miles by day with fear at one end and destruction at the other.

A tiny Indian settlement disappeared Sunday under the muddy, swirling waters of the Red River about 40 miles north of here.

Six to seven feet of water swelled up from the junction of the Red and Netley Creek, a winding stream which drains the huge Netley marsh area to the northwest. The 75-odd habitants left their houses to the torrent and fled.

Emerson Awards Worst of Floods

Almost 100 miles south, at the focal point of the Red's invasion of Canada, residents of Emerson expect the worst flood in the town's 80-year history.

With one to three feet of water already coursing down Main street, engineers predict Sunday night that the crest at Grand Forks, N.D., 75 miles south, is expected to climb two feet above the predicted high.

A dam break on the tributary Red Lake River near Crookston, Minn., is the reason for revision of the original 48.5-foot estimate.

If their fear is realized, lowlying portions of the semi-isolated town will be under six feet of water before the peak arrives next week.

Late Sunday night flood waters spread through the deserted main street and started creeping up fleet Emerson streets. Large-scale evacuation has been carried out of the flood-wise population of 1,000. Furniture has been stored in emergency warehouses and families from the low areas have been moved to higher ground.

River Level at 42.5 Feet

The river level early today stood at 42.5 feet below the 1943 level. There, engineers was caught unprepared and untold damage was done.

Water-purifying trucks manned by army personnel filter even ditch to make up the condemnation of half the town's 12 wells.

Railway tank cars of fresh water are expected on the spur line.

The rails provide the only transportation link with the rest of the province. The last highway link was cut Sunday. Telephone and telegraph links were intact.

At Winnipeg, the Red reached crest late Sunday night. Flood stage is 31 feet and the level in 1946 was 32.6 feet.

Worst-hit areas along the wandering river were the area west of Elm Park in St. Vital and West Kildonan.

On Koldonan's Scotia street water swirling across sidewalks Sunday night.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, April 24 — (CP) — Synopsis: Polar air covers Canada from the Atlantic to the Rockies and temperatures are generally below normal. Quite warm tropical air covering the Mississippi valley has reached Illinois and Ohio. Temperatures in this area on air Sunday were 85 to 90.

However, there is little chance that any part of Ontario other than the Windsor area will enjoy this warmer weather, for the cold air over Ontario is retreating very slowly. Along the boundary between warm and cooler air there is a band of showers and thunderstorms, the northeastern edge of which extends into extreme southwestern Ontario this morning. Part of showers, possibly mixed with some wet snow, will spread slowly eastward over southern Ontario today and in central regions of Ogdaris Tuesday. As the cold air moves eastward over the lower Tuesday winds will shift from east into the north.

. Saint John, N.B., April 24. (CP)—Flood waters which ravaged New Brunswick during the weekend, causing an estimated damage of $1,000,000 or more, were receding today, leaving a trail of unserviceable bridges, railway lines and roads.

Most roads remained hazardous, with the Saint John Valleys flooded and secondary roads impassable. Heavy rains which prevailed Thursday and Friday joined with ice breakups to create the worst freshet conditions in years.

Scores of Railway Washouts

The toll included two bridges over the Tobique River at Plaster Rock and north west Arthurette, one across the Nictaouette River near Fredericton spanning the Bonaventure River in the Gaspe area of Quebec. Scores of washouts were reported along railway lines and highways.

Sunday night a ferry at Bath was reported to have broken away from moorings at the town, breaking in two and floating down the St. John River.

The Canadian Pacific railway which suffered heavy damage, expected all services to be restored today except the Gibson sub-division at Zealand, 21 miles west of Fredericton.

Canadian National Railways officials reported from Johns, Fredericton and Woodstock was operating again.

The flooding Tobique River was subsiding after the raging waters rushed at a 30-mile-an-hour clip, carrying along ice two feet thick. Water covered the railway yards at plaster rock to three feet, but did not reach the station.

The St. John River at Fredericton stopped its steady rise Sunday after reaching 20.7 feet, the highest April mark in five years.

FREIGHT CARS HAULED IN

Helmstedt, Germany, April 24 (AP)—Seventeen British freight cars passed into Russian zone west Germany early today after Russian officials had detained them for more than 24 hours. British authorities said the Russians detached the cars at Marienborn, inside the Russian zone. British officials refused to say what cargo was in the cars.

HEARSE RENTAL RAISED FROM $10 TO $15 A FUNERAL

Toronto, April 24 — (CP)—It costs more to die these days. A company renting hearses for funeral homes here was granted permission by the Ontario Transport Commission to hike its hearse rental from $10 a funeral to $15. They had been no increase since 1939, an official said.

Ontario Looks to Guides, Trappers For Best Management of Wild Life

Toronto, April 24 — (CP) — Ways and means of furthering the conservation of fish and wildlife, in the interests of the rising of licensed guides' standards highlighted the conference between officers of the Department of Lands and Forests and Guides representing every region of the province at the Forests Rangers School at Dorset.

W. J. Harkness, Chief of the Department's division of fish and wildlife, in charge of the conference meetings, said in an address that the department felt that any sound move should come from the guides themselves and this has been one of the motivating factors in calling the conference.

"We must look to the guides and trappers for good management of our fur-bearing animals' resources and the future," he said the best system of fish and wildlife management was to "take off the crop" and stimulate the increase.

"We must be careful to keep a balance and not pare down to the danger point," he added. "We must see that we do not take too heavy a crop from our fish and game resources and that is the reason why the department is interested in getting the best guides in Ontario."

Regulations pertaining to guides should be conservative and yet cover the field of operation with a little red tape as possible, Dr. Harkness said.

Among the many suggestions put forth by guides was the setting up of a council of three, in each district, to consist of the district's Fish and Wildlife specialist, a resort owner's or tourist outfitters' representative and a senior guide, to be selected by the association of guides and trappers, to act as judge on the qualifications of an applicant before he receives a guiding license.

CHIANG ORDERS EVACUATION OF HAINAN ISLAND

Decision is Not Yet Officially Announced

By STANLEY RICH

Yulin, Hainan Island, April 24 — (AP) — All Hainan was the Chiang Kai-shekists' cue for the using today — handed over by order of Chiang Kai-Shek.

The Generalissimo's order for "total evacuation" of the big island gives the reds nearly half the remnants of his once vast political ambitions.

The decision to give up the 13,500 - square-mile stronghold off South China had not been announced officially here. My information came from a general, one of the top officers charged with Hainan's defense.

General Accuses Chiang

This general accused Chiang of "sacrificing" Hainan to his own political ambitions.

He said Chiang refused to send reinforcements because he feared the growing strength and popularity of two of Hainan's defending chiefs, Gen. Li Hsien-nien, military Commander - in - Chief, and Marshal Chen Chi-Tang, the governor.

The island still could be held if the Nationalists had "only one more army" at their disposal, said the man whose name cannot be used for obvious reasons.

Nationalist military and civil chiefs pulled out of Haichow on Hainan's capital, Saturday. New defense headquarters was set up at Yulin, southern port 130 air miles away.

Five Nationalist armies totalling about 125,000 men will be evacuated to the two ports a last-minute way can be devised to evacuate them.

Red Strength on Hainan

The reds have probably 70,000 to 75,000 troops on Hainan. Some 10,000 to 15,000 regulars of famed red Gen. Lin Piao's army across 10 - mile - wide Hainan Strait and stormed ashore on the north coast in the invasion begun last Monday. In addition there are an estimated 30,000 Red guerrillas on the island.

The reported order to abandon Hainan follows the customary Nationalist pattern set by Chiang in the Civil War. His strategy on the mainland was to pull out units which felt the attack space for time until his space ran out. Then the Nationalists would move from island to island onto Formosa, Hainan and some small islands off the Indochina outposts they have carried on.)

PICKED UP AT SEA

Hamilton, Bermuda, April 24 — (AP) — Nine United States sailors from the Civil Aviation were reported picked up today and taken to Hamilton. The nine seas in a 32-foot fishing boat. First reports did not tell how or when the nine were located, but said all were safe.

Red Move to Oust Western Powers Out of Berlin Expected by U.S. Officials

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, April 24. (AP)—The United States officials believe the Russians will try again next month to drive the Western Occupation powers out of Berlin.

They say this expected effort, in the form of an invasion of the city's western zones by 500,000 German communist youths, will be restricted to the limit by the Western Allies, including the use of machine gun fire if necessary.

Preparations to resist the threatened invasion May 27-28 are being made by American, British and French authorities in Germany. A high government source here said the West—will not yield an inch if the young communists stick to the marching plans. They have made some conflicting statements as to their intentions.

President Truman and U.S. State Secretary Dean Acheson look on the prospective Berlin incident, May 27-29, responsible officials said today, as the focal point of the present Russian cold offensive in the cold war.

They regard the Russian menace as a Soviet-communist effort to capture the city by intimidation—by frightening the West Germans with a massive, Hitler-like show of force and hoping that the Western powers are unable to protect them.

In Acheson's view, the Soviet's Berlin plan apparently is part of a broad pattern of Kremlin-directed moves to create new tensions and fears of war in the West and thus force the Western countries into further retreats and new concessions to Russia.

That the United States has 'no intention of yielding to Russian pressure was made clear by Acheson in a speech here Saturday night to the American Society of newspaper editors. There cannot even be an approach to an East-West agreement, he said, "unless one likes it or not, we deal with what that is the idea of aggression."

He defended aggression as meaning "not only military attack but propaganda warfare and the secret undermining of free countries from within."

Acheson said "we are faced with a challenge and a threat to the very basis of our civilization and to the very safety of the free world, the only kind of world in which the civilization can exist."

In trying to wreck western civilization the Russians have several objectives, Acheson said. One is to "confuse and divide" the American people so that they can resist neither communist threats or fiber plots and the spread of communist infiltration in the United States.

Then in the Kremlin have another clear objective," Acheson continued, "and that is to change the balance of productive power in the world. At present, that balance is overwhelmingly in their favor, but that would not be so if they could get control in Western Europe and in Japan."

St. Lawrence Seaway Power Project to Make Great Lakes 'Arm of Atlantic Ocean'

Washington, April 24 — (AP) — Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer said today "compelling considerations" call for the construction of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

Sawyer told the House of Representatives public works committee the $803,000,000 project is "essential."

The undertaking would be joint one by Canada and the United States.

The committee will hear non-proponents of the long-debated seaway and power project beginning next two weeks. Opponents will have a chance to testify after that.

Backers scheduled to be heard include State Secretary Dean Acheson, Averell Harriman, Gordon Pace, Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman, and Maj.-Gen. Philip B. Fleming, chairman of the United States Maritime Commission.

Sawyer, in his prepared testimony, said the basic purpose of the seaway was to break through the barrier of a few score miles which prevents the Great Lakes, from becoming an arm of the Atlantic Ocean" as has been envisioned for a half century.

"It is to bring to the industrial heart of the country, . . . all the advantages of low-cost water transportation which have made our industrial efficiency this would mean," he said. "The similar purpose of the associated power projects — to harness the energies of this mighty river for the benefit of the people — has received widespread support over the past generation.

GUNMEN GRAB $134

Carterville, Que., April 24 — (CP) — Three gunmen early today held up stationmaster Stephen Dubrovin at the Canadian National Railways station here and escaped with $134 in cash. Carterville is a suburban town on the northwestern outskirts of Montreal.

3 WOMEN KILLED AS TRAIN HITS WELLAND TRUCK

(By The Canadian Press)

The deaths of three women in a level-crossing accident at Welland have among eight fatalities reported in Ontario during the weekend.

Mrs. Alex Shepetuneko, 35, Mrs. Raymond Molotkoski, 31, and Mrs. Harry Koroway, 50, were killed instantly when a New York Central-Detroit and Western train in which they were riding, Harry Shepetuneko, 37, the husband's vehicle, escaped with face lacerations and a broken arm.

Immediately following the accident, Edwin Yaeger, 23-year-old German youth, at the crossing, was arrested and charged with manslaughter. Witnesses said the gate was not closed at the time of the accident.

Returning From Choir Practice

Mrs. Shepetuneko's neck was broken. The other women suffered fractured skulls. All residents of the Welland district, their bodies were found on the tracks at the crossing.

Witnesses said the truck had travelled only 200 yards when hit. The three women had been at a choir practice of the Russian Canadian Federated, where they have participated in a concert at Stoney Thursday night.

Yaeger, a relief gateman since last fall, was arraigned in court and released on $2,000 bail.

In two fires, Victor Blodgett, 63, and his wife, Annie, 60, died in their rocky were burned to death under circumstances which led Coroner Ham, Plodgett attempted to pour gasoline into a running milking machine that was in use and thereby burned him. Wowrocky, playing near a wrecked truck at Hamilton, was killed when the gas tank exploded.

A drowning and traffic mishap accounted for the two other deaths in the province. At Swastika, near Kirkland Lake, Patrick Gallien, 56 was drowned in a mine shaft pool. At Toronto 74-year-old Edwin Miller and 81-year-old Evelyn Jowett were killed in the traffic accidents.

BRITAIN ASKS U.S. BEAR BIG SHARE BURDEN IN EAST

Aim to Help Nations Ward off Communism

Washington, April 24 — (AP) — The British government has proposed the United States take a big share of Britain's economic burden in India, Pakistan and Southeast Asia.

Officials disclosed today the British Embassy here has put forward this idea in an "exploration" proposal now under consideration by high administration officials.

The British plan would call for the United States to pay off in dollars to such countries as India and Pakistan part of Britain's $5,000,000,000 wartime debt to sterling-bloc countries.

Ease Huge Debt

The main idea behind the suggested program is to help nonsterling countries in Asia fight off communism while at the same time ease the huge debt which is jeopardizing Britain's economic comeback.

The British memorandum stems from last fall's Canadian - Australia - New Zealand conference. At that time, it was decided to examine the sterling debt and Commonwealth problem, to determine what steps could be taken.

The United States long has been urged by Britain to get its creditors to agree to scale down these debts. But such countries as India want hard, financial aid have resisted this.

U.S. A-Energy Commission Bldg. Is Destroyed

Berkeley, Calif., April 24 (AP) — Fire, accompanied by a series of minor explosions, destroyed the United States Atomic Energy Commission's biological administration building here Sunday night.

A.E.C. officials declined to answer such questions as (1) what, after any irreplaceable scientific data was lost, (2) what the building contined, or (3) how great was the loss in dollar values.

Brilliant flames shot high from the two-storey frame building, which housed thousand — including scientists intent on saving notes or experiments.

Security guards prevented anyone entering the cyclotron area, which is housed by a high, and fortified fence. The University of California's giant $9,000,000 cyclotron, in a separate building 100 yards away, was not damaged.

17 PERSONS INJURED

Florence, April 24 — (AP) — At least 12 persons were injured — most of them slightly — when the crack Chicago-to-Los Angeles Santa Fe's Grand Canyon Limited here Sunday night. The passenger train had taken a siding in the yards to allow another train to pass.

Royal Prerogative, Rarely Used, May be Exercised if Government Falls

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 24 — (CP) — The King's own decision may shape Britain's political future this week.

A royal prerogative, rarely used may be exercised if Winston Churchill's challenging Conservatives topple Prime Minister Attlee's Labor government in a parliamentary vote expected Wednesday. The government has held office by a precarious majority since the February general election.

If defeated, Attlee could advise the King to dissolve parliament and call an election immediately. Alternately, the Prime Minister could advise the sovereign to ask Churchill to try to form a government.

Or the King could make up his own mind, either way.

Viscount Simon, one of Britain's foremost constitutional lawyers, emphasized this possibility today. He expressed the opinion that what could happen would be "one of the most surprising acts in which the sovereign exercised his personal discretion in deciding upon his public action."

The authoritative vote Wednesday in the House of Commons will be on government proposals, outlined in last Thursday's budget, to increase gasoline tax by nine pence (about 13 cents) and to impose a new purchase tax of 33 1-3 per cent on commercial road trucks.

Labor has managed to be a close one. Labor's effective majority over all other parties in the 625-seat House of Commons at the moment is seven. This takes into account three members who have not yet taken their seats, and the government expects 10 of its supporters will be on the sick list Wednesday. But the Conservatives say they can muster gunners aboard through illness.

Trans-Canada Highway Will By-Pass Toronto

Starts Long Sweep Toward North From Peterborough

Ottawa, April 24 — (CP)—Six of the 10 provinces today signed agreements with the Federal government to co-operate on the construction of a 5,000-mile hard-surfaced, two-lane highway across Canada.

The agreements were signed by Ontario, Manitoba, British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island. Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland abstained, all giving different reasons for their decision not to sign at this time.

Roads Minister Talbot of Quebec said his province could not sign because the draft agreement did not give sufficient protection to the rights of his province. Public Works Minister Anderson said New Brunswick was anxious to sign, but felt it should not do so until a better estimate of the costs involved is available.

Nova Scotia indicated it will sign, as soon as enabling legislation is passed by the legislature. Newfoundland explained that because of special problems prevailing in the new province it could not sign an agreement now.

Although the federal government had stated previously that it would not contribute to the highway unless all provinces would co-operate on the project, Resources Minister Winters indicated that week would go ahead anyway this spring in the hope that agreement with the remaining provinces will be reached later.

As each province signed the agreement, the route the highway will follow in that province was described. But an over-all picture of the Trans-Canada route will not be available until all provinces have entered agreements.

1,500,000 Free

Bacteria Tests

Made in 60 Years

Toronto, April 24—(CP)—Bacteria tests by the Provincial Health Department laboratories will be free to residents of this province in their fight against disease. The research organization, which this year celebrates the 60th anniversay, last year completed 1,500,000 tests. Fratically all were free.

Besides its central laboratories here, the department also has branches in Fort William, Haileybury, Kirkland Lake, London, Ottawa, North Bay, Timmins, Sault Ste. Marie, Windsor, Belleville, Kingston, Peterborough, Brantford, St. Catharines and Woodstock.

Most practising physicians use this service. Hospitals which have their own laboratories of own, also call on its 250 workers to solve their problems.

Detour Dundas St. East From John St. To William St.

Through traffic using Dundas Street East, will be forced to use the detour between John and William Street for another four or five days, it was reported today by the city engineering department.

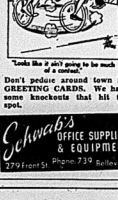
For better than two weeks traffic using the above artery has been forced to detour while repairs were being made to the sanitary sewer in that particular area. Parts of the sewer pipes were found to be broken and cracked and when the sewer was dug up other sections were in danger of giving trouble. As result the sewer was replaced for a distance of approximately 250 feet.

It was expected the repairs would be completed and that traffic would again be using the street during the latter part of the week.

Chas. Kennedy Becomes Grader At Toronto Branch

Dairy inspector with the Belleville branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture for the past 14 years, Mr. Charles Kennedy, Isobel Street, has been transferred to the Toronto branch and promoted to the position of dairy grader. Promotion has been merited. He assumed his new duties on April 17th.

Mr. Kennedy came to Belleville from the Kingston area beginning his service with the department in the Belleville district. As yet his successor on official replacement for Mr. Kennedy at Belleville. Although Mr. Kennedy reported to Toronto last week, his wife and family will remain at Belleville for the time being.



POLICE BLOTTER

Theft of a new electric razor from the Hitchon Radio Store on Bridge Street, was reported to the local police on Saturday. The razor was said to have been taken from its box during store hours.

A John Deere accident complained of a quilt and robe having been taken from the rear seat of his auto. The owner said the car had not been used for several days and did not know exactly when the articles were taken.

A motorist using the Dundas Street detour had the misfortune to have his vehicle side off the roadway necessitating a tow truck to get the car back onto the road. Police said the driver of the car had been drinking.

Geo. A. Reid Ex-Mayor and Former Hydro Commissioner Dies Suddenly

George A. Reid, ex-mayor of this city and also a former member of the Belleville Hydro Commission, passed away suddenly in his office in the East Robertson Block Saturday evening at the result of a heart seizure. The news of his death came as a great shock to his many friends and acquaintances here.

The late George Adams Reid, who was in his 76th year, was born at Centreville, Camden township, Lennox and Addington County, and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reid. For some years he resided at Tamworth, where he was engaged in the building trade. Later he entered the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway construction department and came here 37 years ago in the employ of the company when the C.P.R. line was passing through Belleville. Thirty-four years ago he became associated with the agency branch of the Dent Life Assurance Company and served with distinction on district manager of the company with office in this city. He was recognized as one of the most outstanding leaders in the service of the company and enjoyed the confidence of his colleagues and the public in general. Up to the time of his death he was the valued member of the Great West Life agency staff.

George Reid was strongly attached to his adopted city and took a keen interest in municipal affairs. He served the city well as an alderman during the years 1928 and 1929 and filled the office of mayor with distinction during the years 1930 and 1931. He also had his term of office as mayor that the new upper and lower bridges were constructed.

In Hydro matters Mr. Reid was much interested and following his association with the city council he was appointed a member of City Hydro Commission in 1933 and served with marked ability during the years from 1933 to 1938. He was chairman of the Commission during 1934 and 1935. After being off the Commission during 1939 and 1940 he was again elected a member in 1941 and served for that year, 1942 and 1943. He was chairman in 1942.

George Reid was a good citizen and served well the city of his adoption. He held a high place in the esteem of many friends and acquaintances here and elsewhere. He was a faithful and valued member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and for many years and up to the time of his death he was a member of the Board of Managers. Fraternally he was a member of Eureka Lodge No. 283 A.F. & A.M., and the Orange Order he was widely known in the Province and held high offices. He was a member of Loyal Orange Lodge No. 174, Belleville, and also of Grand Black Preceptory. He served as Master of the lodge. He was also a past Master of District No. 1, South Hastings, and also held the office of County Master for South Hastings.

Surviving him, and to whom the sympathy of many friends will be extended, are his wife, the former Adeline Cozall; one sister, Mrs. Sarah Stinson, Tamworth, and one brother, Robert S. Reid, Nanaimo.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Mr. and Mrs. J.E. (Joe) Shortt Honored by Family, Friends At 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. (Joe) Shortt were "at home" on Saturday to their many relatives, friends and acquaintances as they observed the 50th golden anniversary of their wedding. Throughout the day the happy couple were showered with cards, telegrams and beautiful floral bouquets bearing messages of congratulation, love and friendship.

Members of the family were more intimate friends at the evening lovely gifts.

The prettily decorated table with large four-storey wedding cake surrounded by bowls of golden yellow roses and daffodils was very attractive. Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Annie Roberts, sisters of Mrs. Shortt, supervised the pouring of tea and coffee. Mrs. Donald Foster of Detroit and Mrs. Albert Roberts of Hamilton served the guests while Mrs. Norman Shortt and Mrs. Donald Foster of Detroit and Mrs. Ed. Shortt, of Sherbrooke, Que. were in charge of the kitchen and supplies.

Mrs. (Dr.) Charles Shortt of Montreal assisted in receiving the guests.

Attend Church Service

On Sunday morning twenty-four members of the family attended the anniversary service at Bridge St. United Church.

During the service Sarah Ann Foster, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shortt was baptized by the Rev. Alan Hepburn who was in charge of the special Sunday School Service. The family then had dinner at Golden Acres.

At the home bouquets from many societies, organizations and individual friends filled every nook and corner of the house. It was a day long to be remembered and very greatly appreciated by Joe and his good wife Florence.

Many Present

Members of the family present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Shortt and daughters Betsy Ann and Peggy Low from Sherbrooke, Que., Mr. and Mrs. Carey Shortt, Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Shortt, Detroit, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Shortt and sons Billie and Jimmie, Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chilcs and sons Frank and Robbie, Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Armstrong and baby daughter Sarah Ann, Detroit, Mrs. Annie Roberts, Belleville, Mrs. Emma Lewis, Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Roberts, Hamilton, Miss Ada I. Shortt, Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shortt, Toronto.

Oratorical Contest Features Wellington Teachers' Meeting

An enjoyable evening was spent at Wellington Consolidated School recently when the teachers of the Wellington Unit of the Teachers' Associations entertained their executives and secretaries and wives.

The guests were welcomed by Mr. Douglas Taylor, chairman of the Wellington School Board, who spoke a few briefly on matters of interest.

One of the highlights of the evening was an oratorical contest sponsored by the Teachers' Association. There were three speakers, Eleanor Anderson, a pupil of Mr. Warren Chase, of Bloomfield, who spoke on Pioneer Settlements in Prince Edward County; Beatrice Gassiss, a pupil of Mr. Snider of Wellington, whose subject was Lord Alfred Percy Cecil; Elsie Roblin, a pupil of Mrs. McKay from Jericho School, speaking on Pioneer Settlements in Prince Edward County and Allan Marvin from Wellington, who spoke on Archery.

Difficult Task

The pupils all spoke well and it was quite a task for the judges to make a decision. After due deliberation they decided Allan Mar-

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., April 24 — A 17-year-old Thessalon youth, Donald Webb, is in hospital here in serious condition as the result of a shooting accident near his home Sunday.

The discharge of a 12-gauge shotgun blew the boy's shoulder from a distance of one foot was being investigated by provincial police. It was not immediately established who was carrying the shotgun.

Webb underwent an operation on his shoulder and left arm Sunday night and was reported by hospital authorities as likely to suffer permanent injuries to his arm.

CREATES SENSATION

Vienna, April 24. (AP)—Magr. Franz Jachym created a sensation Sunday when he refused in front of the altar of Vienna's famous St. Stephen's Cathedral to be ordained as a Roman Catholic bishop. Already dressed in a bishop's robe, Magr. Jachym abruptly declined to take the oath, telling Theodor Cardinal Innitzer, first in Latin and then in German, that he felt himself "unworthy" of the office. He then left the church.

Rake Your Lawn! City Will Take Debris Away

City householders will have two more weekends on which to get the spring cleaning fever and rake their front lawns, it was noted today by officials of the city public works department. The first of the month the public works truck will call around to pick up piles of raked leaves and other debris. Householders are requested to have their lawns raked and the leaves piled ready for taking away to the dump.

IN MEMORIAM

THOMPSON — In loving and cherished memory of a dear husband and father, George Andrew Thompson, who passed away April 24, 1949.
Many a silent tear is shed
Always a beautiful memory
For one we loved so dear.
God gave me the strength to fight it
And courage to bear the blow
But what it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.
A happy home he left behind
A flower in the memory still
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed and sweet remembered by wife Mabel and family. A34

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 24.—(CP)— A mild-seizure wave of selling reversed price trends on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Opening prices pointed slightly higher in a narrow market but pressures at the half-way mark sent market leaders sliding downwards.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,202,000 shares.

Leading industrial stocks showed losses ranging from fractions to more than a full point. Canada Steamship Lines moved against the trend for a gain of 1¼ at 20½.

Mining stocks showed moderate gains early in the day but these were also wiped out or reduced as the session progressed.

Queenston Mines, with property in the East Kirkland Lake district, Northern Ontario, featured golds, adding eight cents at $1.64 in heavy trading. Senlors were down fractions and other juniors showed losses ranging up to 10 cents. Quemont, International Nickel and Consolidated Smelters slipped fractions in base metals.

Pacific Petroleum was a lone gainer in a weaker western oil list, up 10 cents at $5.80.

PRODUCE MARKET

Churnings: No. 1, 60 cents fob, 64 cents delivered.

No Shortage Seen Of Canning Corn In Ontario

Toronto, April 24. (CP)— Ontario farmers are not going to heavily for canning corn this year but housewives need not worry—there will be no shortage.

Officials of the department of Agriculture said today that limited production was more or less by "mutual consent" between the canner and the grower. An exceptionally heavy crop of last year, which resulted in a record pack, has resulted in a large carry-over of corn. This, coupled with reduced prices over last year, as influenced many farmers to turn to other crops this spring.

Last year the canners paid $22 a ton for corn and provided free seed. This year's price is quoted at $18.75 with a charge for seed.

Contracts for peas show an overall reduction in the growers' of $3 a ton this year although the price is somewhat higher this year than last.

Last year canners paid $60 a ton for peas and charged $2.50 a bushel for seed. This year's contract price is $75 a ton with a $7 charge for seed.

"At four bushels of seed to the acre it cost the farmer $10 to plant one acre last year as against $28 this year which makes for an overall reduction in spite of the increased price, said G. F. Perkin, commissioner of co-operation and markets of department.

Tomato contracts show a reduction of 75 cents a bushel at the cannery while beans, green and waxed, are down $2.50 from $2.50 a bushel last year to an $80. Contract price for this season.

Plan to Annex Arab Palestine Constitutionally

Amman, Jordan, April 24 — (Reuters) — King Abdullah of Jordan announced today that his government had decided to annex Arab Palestine. He told the new parliament which met for the first time here this morning that the annexation measure would be presented to them for approval in a constitutional manner.

Zeller Co. to Grade Area Council Says

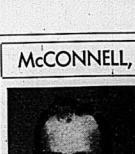
The Zeller Contracting Company which constructed the 100 veterans' rental homes on the former county home property south of Dundas Street, East, will also do the necessary grading in the area.

This was decided by members of city council in committee when it was recommended the Zeller Contracting Company do the grading work at a cost not to exceed $4,500. The work must be done to the satisfaction of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for which organization the houses were constructed.

City Engineer Charles Mott was authorized to forward details of the proposed re-surfacing of certain city streets to the Ontario Highways department. It is planned to re-surface Bridge St., West, from Coleman to Highland Ave., and Dundas, West, from Parker to the city limits, and also Front Street from Dundas to the Upper Bridge.

A special committee will be appointed to investigate the possibility of constructing a children's playground in the Parkwood Heights area on land originally set out for this purpose. The local Parks Board will be requested to act with the special committee.

Also sufficient lights were recommended placed in all newly annexed areas of the city. The number and location of the lights will be left to the discretion of the Chairman of Lights and the Utilities Commission.



Salary increase of $220 for the city engineer and of $110 for the assistant city engineer, was recommended the increases to be retroactive to January 1.

Mayor H. J. Allin was authorized to proclaim May 1-8 as National Tourist Week in Belleville. Following a petition of residents in the area a sidewalk will be constructed on Everett Street from Henry Street to Moira.

FRANKFORD

Watercourse Opened In Frankford

Frankford — A watercourse has been opened along the village line across the property adjacent to North Trent Street. The new waterway runs along the south end of George Nicolson's property, and across Wilmott Carter's property to the railway from whence it is drained away to the river. For years now, lack of adequate drainage in this part of the village has caused considerable damage and grief to citizens of Frankford, as the flood waters of the spring filled cellars and washed away lawn and driveway fills. Each year, the county has tried to spend a great deal of money in building up the road on North Trent Street, as it was washed away when the road became a regular river. Next spring will be the real test as to the success of the new watercourse.

SURGE OF SPRING

Spring is the time of the most thrilling agitation in nature, the flowing of the maple sap, the rising of juices from the roots to the branches of bushes and trees and grasses, the rush of turbulent waters as the release of spring's shackles frees them to the universal flow, namely the repetitions of captains of ships in many parts of the northern world who race to receive the harbormaster's hurrah" and a silk hat. Winter's inert mass is full of ingressive, active, and wholesome moving in the way that tends to the rivers and to the sea.

It is because it is life and it is this spirit in man and the world about which makes this world the most enchanting and attractive of places. We go on mighty conflicts of the natural world and among men of which the rest of the universe undoubtedly knows nothing. Here on this globe great events in nature and in civilization find their climax and the greatest concern man, who is more important than any atomic or hydrogen bomb, which he has been able to plan and make because he is greater than the atom.

Man, who has mastered so much and yet finds himself at war with nature as shown in his struggle against floods in which he uses the knowledge of science and engineering to overcome the possibility of havoc, likes to wrestle with the natural forces. His life in civilization from childhood of days is a record of magnificent performance in blessing at the mystery of nature and in overcoming his natural weakness as compared with the unharnessed might of nature whose mysteries he has been steadily driving down the ages.

Every new spring inspires him. He can study the laws of nature, he can ride on the air more swiftly than any bird except the fastest forms of the species, he can use blowtires, lightning and atomic energy. In this age he has been brought face to face with a strange power in nature that he is not fazed by what he sees. He has been learning to control the laws of the material world and is wrestling with the mysterious forces underlying the outer appearance of things. He has been proving himself conqueror over forces he has been discovering throughout time. He has always a wholesome respect for those mysterious elemental agencies so new to him. No other season strikes in his heart more sympathetically than the life of the earth in springtime and the living things with which he has been associated for all time, the flowers and the animals.

A COMPLEX CREATURE

It is little to be wondered at if the mind of young people are perplexed by the world around them in this troubled world today. Ideals are constantly being held up for their acceptance and guidance, yet they seem to be little prized by the generality of mankind. So many apparently are swayed by a policy of self-interest. It is an axiom that the bad in any system is in danger of crowding out the good; but it is to be hoped that young people will not gain the impression that moral deterioration is an inevitable condition of existence on this imperfect planet. In spite of appearances, serious study of history will bring the conviction that conditions, bas as they are, show considerable improvement as compared with past centuries, and there is the prospect that they will continue to improve, if each new generation will only hold fast to the basic principles which have been the inspiration of our ethical and material progress throughout the ages.

Mankind is a mixture of good and bad. There's no denying that, and we must make the best of it. The "divine spark" is inherent in every son and daughter of Adam and Eve, as also, unfortunately, the inheritance of our first parents, which, as the poet says, brought "all our woe" into what might otherwise have been an earthly paradise.—Hamilton Spectator.

CHILD DEATH RATE LOWEST EVER

Britain in 1949 had the lowest child death rate ever recorded. Details given in the Registrar-General's report for the final quarter of the year 1949 show that deaths of babies under one year old totalled 23,682, or 32 per 1,000. In 1941 the comparable figures were 26,766, or 34 per 1,000. Figures for the United States were 31 per 1,000, and for Italy 47 per 1,000, says London Daily Mail.

Live births registered in England and Wales last year numbered 731,568, a rate of 16.7 per 1,000 of the population. This was 1.2 below the 1948 ratio. Fifty of every 1,000 births were illegitimate, which was 18 per 1,000 below the average for the preceding five years.

Deaths in 1949 numbered 510,819, or 11.7 per 1,000. The rate in 1948 was 10.8. Births exceeded deaths by 220,749.

The tulips may too early grow
And poke their noses into snow.
The robins often northward wing
While winter still is lingering.
No proof of spring is it to me
The early golfers on the lea.

Like postmen, round the course they'll go
Through rain and mud and sleet and snow.
Though bird and man may be deceived,
The crocketing frogs can be believed.
When they turn loose their husky notes
We can forget our overcoats.

ISLANDS OR WHALES?

Writers of allegory in the middle ages used to illustrate the insidious power of evil by describing islands. Some whales, they said, grew as big as islands, and lay in wait for ships at twilight.

The habits of whales have evidently changed in these civilized times, but not the nature of evil. We all know how to recognize evil in the form of sin—drunkenness, blasphemy, theft, murder, adultery, treason, brutality, and so on. Most of us would be shocked at the idea of becoming entangled with any of these. But hidden forms of evil masquerading as delicate pleasures are not obviously as did ever the legendary whales.

We still destroy tons of food, to keep prices up, even with millions hungry throughout the world. We still carry out huge strikes, to demonstrate our strength and solidarity — despite the effect on national economy and workers' families. We still pin our faith on battleships and hydrogen bombs, to keep the peace — even though history shows the inevitable results.

Look again, sailor! Is it really an island?

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

REPORTERS BEGIN AT END

It's an odds-on-Christmas bet that De Maupassant, perhaps the greatest short-story writer of them all, wouldn't last a week as a reporter on a city daily newspaper. Let me try to tell you why.

News stories, with few exceptions, have little or no suspense because the reporter or rewrite man deliberately crams the important facts into the first sentence or, failing this, into the first paragraph. Succeeding paragraphs usually taper off in importance, and for a very good reason — if the story has to be shortened for reasons of space, it's easier to cut "from the bottom up."

This, of course, is the exact opposite of the keep-'em-guessing treatment used by the De Maupassants and O. Henrys, and to give you an idea of the difference in the two techniques, let me take a recent news story which appeared in a Midwestern paper and write it as if it were a piece of fiction —

One Saturday afternoon not long ago, a night watchman named Stan Mikalowsky was windowshopping with his five-year-old daughter, Wanda, and as they passed a toy shop the child pointed excitedly to a doll nearly as big as she was. It had real hair, eyes that moved and a soft rubber skin which looked almost human.

The figure on the price tag was only a dollar less than the watchman's only pay check, and his first impulse was to walk away, but when the youngster refused to budge he shrugged and led her into the store.

When Stan got home and unwrapped the doll, his wife was furious.

"We owe the butcher for three weeks and we're ten dollars short on the room rent," she said, "and you go to blow in a week's pay for a toy."

"What's the difference?" said the night watchman. "Doll or no doll, we're always behind. Once, at least, the kid will have something she wants."

One word led to many others and finally, while Wanda was in the bedroom playing with the doll, Stan put on his hat and stomped out of the house.

At Mikalowsky's fed the child and put her to bed with the doll next to her and then, worried about Stan, decided to go looking for him at the corner bar and make up with him. To keep his supper warm, she left the gas stove on, and in her haste threw her apron over the back of a chair in such a way that one of the strings landed close to a burner.

Fifteen minutes later when the Mikalowskys came rushing out of the bar, their home was enveloped in flames, and firemen had to forcibly restrain the father from dashing into the fire to rescue Wanda.

"You wouldn't be any use in there," a fireman told him. "Don't worry, they'll get her out."

Fireman Joe Miller, himself a father, dived through a door to the bedroom window, and the crowd hushed as he disappeared into the smoke. A few minutes later, coughing and blinking, he climbed out, with Wanda's unconscious die in his arms . . .

To illustrate the difference between the two techniques of telling: The local newspaper headline would be shrugged and led into the store.

When Stan got home and unwrapped the doll, his wife was furious.

Psychological Assault Phase Of Red Revolution

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

Moscow's war-or nerves against the western world is being speeded up as part of a fresh phase of the Red Revolution for the spread of Communism.

This is a considerable degree a psychological assault which is coming from numerous directions to make it confusing. It is aimed not only at the governments but at the general public of the democracies.

The purpose is to create nervousness, weariness and anxiety among the various populations. The resulting confusion will help accidents and belligerent statements, whatever the war, is calculated to break down morale.

This war of nerves is a studied part of Moscow's strategy, and it accounts for many of the otherwise inexplicable actions of the Soviet.

The Pattern

Among the latest developments in the Red onslaught was the alleged shooting down of the American plane by Russian fighter planes over the Baltic with the loss of 10 United States airmen. As was expected, Moscow has flatly and brusquely rejected Washington's protest that the American plane was unarmed, and has refused to pay compensation for the families of kin.

Hot on the heels of this dangerous incident Moscow has charged the United States, Britain and France with "grossly violating" the agreement for a Danube Peace Treaty which provided that the Danube and surrounding area be made a free territory.

The Satellites are dutifully playing their part in this war of nerves.

The Moscow-controlled Red government in Czechoslovakia has ordered the closing of the Liberty Service, the U.S. Information Service in Czechoslovakia, and the shutting of the American consulate in the city of Bratislava.

So runs the story of many incidents, all of which are calculated to worry Western authorities. And of course while Moscow is thus harassing the democracies, all also is increasing her satellites the might and daring of Russia.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LET'S GO!

When the elder Marshall Field died I read everything printed about him, as I was then living in Chicago, where he founded his great store and built the famous Field fortune. There was printed in the newspaper that I read a few of the things he held as basic principles that made for his success. I remember one statement made by the one who wrote up the story of his life. It said: "He was a man of few words."

Field started small, but kept growing. He hated waste. He kept improving his stock. He insisted upon courtesy and honest dealing, in all his plans he made them forever ones.

I met the late E. M. Statler, founder of the great string Statler hotels, many times. He was an aggressive human being, restless, but always forward looking. I listened to many of his talks and admired him. I recall how interesting it was to play golf with him. He would drive and then say: "Come on boys; let's go!" He didn't believe in arguing with a customer. He made famous the phrase — "the customer is always right."

Millions of hours, all over the country, could be put to profitable use, if less time were devoted to meaningless talk in conferences and long lunch hours and if there were more people who would just say—Let's go! When we keep moving, we keep learning. Columbus discovered that, as well as the New World!

How many a group of idle talkers has been put to action by the words, "Well, what are we waiting for? Let's go!" There is another two-word combination that has teeth in it, also. They are good partners, these: Let's go and Let's do. They leave a bit behind others can't get a lot ahead.

We cannot go very far, however, unless we have something to go for. We must have plans and a will to carry them through. And we can't go very far with a pack of burdens upon our backs or in our minds, like worries, disappointments and failures. There is plenty of space behind us all such. Leave them there!

TEA, COFFEE OR COCKTAILS

What this country needs today is a nation-wide adoption of the tea drinking custom which is so popular in England and the coffee drinking custom which is so popular in other countries, to replace the vicious cocktail habit and the cocktail joints which are far more demoralizing to young people than the saloons and barrooms of yesteryear.

Either tea or coffee gives one a real lift when one is weary or depressed by business or domestic cares or just tired or fatigued by hours of work. Unlike the numbing or deadening effect of alcohol on thought and the higher centers, the effect of tea or coffee is genuine stimulation, and it is not followed by any appreciable let-down or nervous jitter-effect as the brief, inane euphoria of alcoholism.

Some persons like tea or coffee without sugar, cream or cream. Others have to sweeten theirs. If the extra sugar used to sweeten tea or coffee is in the form of candies in the teaspoonful or small lump) seems undesirable in the everyday diet one may get the sweetening effect of a spoonful of sugar from a spoonful of saccharin tablet, which has no calories. Thus, a cup of plain tea or coffee, sweetened if desired, with a tablet or two of saccharin, gives real refreshment and enjoyment without altering the calorie intake at all.

It is now well established by experience and experimentation and by long years of experience that this chemical, benzosulfinimide, is entirely harmless, however, in the amount of less than five grains a day, and is entirely harmless to health.

People who are inclined to put on superfluous flesh or who have already achieved equatorial expansion should cut out all starches, that is, so far as food or diet is concerned.

In the carbohydrate naturally present in the cereals or grains and in such vegetables as potatoes, beets and beans. If our daily diet consists only of such carbohydrate items few of us would get that way. We owe most of our slender flesh to the enormous consumption of refined carbohydrates, particularly refined white sugar and refined white flour.

These refined carbohydrate foods and the many delectable delicacies and beverages in which they are ingredients, are so easy to eat or drink even when one is not hungry, so cheap, so readily available everywhere and upon all occasions, that it is nearly as difficult to avoid overindulgence as it is to avoid indulging in alcohol.

As for being easily and quickly assimilated and utilized to yield immediate energy (quick refreshment) the truth is that one carbohydrate is the same as another in this respect, be it laundry starch, cornstarch, candy, sugar in tea, the lactose in milk, or the levulose or fruit sugar in honey, oranges, bananas, berries, figs, dates, or the glucose or dextrose manufactured from corn syrup.

All of these carbohydrates have the same caloric value, the same nutritive value, the same fattening effect if you take more than you need.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Suppose we have a great international conference or convention that makes this proviso; that the atomic bomb of the war, on either side, shall be aimed at the headquarters of the old gentleman who declared the war!

Instead of sending ministers of foreign regimentals and boys, and fleets of teen age fighter planes against cities of teen age nations, Youth, with its increasing authority in the world, might do it its first act of peace and to fall should be those with the prior claim.

Two Passengers Slightly Injured In Car Crash

Trenton—(Special) — Damage was heavy in a two car accident which occurred about 11:30 Saturday night in front of the Post Office in downtown Trenton. A car driven by Wilfred Crawford, 50 Forin St., Belleville, struck another car driven by Clarence Tucker, R.R. No. 6, Lindsay, Ont., in a head-on collision, which resulted in broken glass scattered in all directions and slight injuries to the passengers of both cars.

According to police, Crawford's car veered suddenly to the south on Dundas Street and crashed into Tucker's car. Mrs. Clarence Tucker, who was riding with her husband, sustained cuts on the forehead and hands. A passenger in Crawford's car, Mr. John Wilson, R.R. No. 3, Belleville, received various cuts on the head and face.

Damage to the left front fender, tire and also three broken windows of Crawford's car amounted to $60. The damage to the headlights and grill of Tucker's car is estimated at $45.

Police Search Hit-Run Driver

Trenton—(Special) — Trenton police are conducting a district wide search for a hit and run driver who struck a car owned by Mr. E. Shackelton, 129 Victoria Ave., Saturday night.

According to police, Shackelton's car, which was parked on the right hand side of Victoria Ave. received considerable damage. The left rear fender was completely pushed in and the left front fender was dented.

Police stated that Shackelton's car showed several streaks of grey paint which are believed to have come off the hit and run car. An intensive search is being made for the car, which police say will have a damaged right front fender.

SMALL DOG KILLED BY CAR

Trenton—(Special) — A small spaniel dog was instantly killed when it was struck by a car on Byron Street Saturday night. The driver of the car stated that the dog ran out at the car and that he could not avoid hitting him. Seeing that the dog was dead, the driver immediately notified the owner, and the police.

Woman's Death Blamed on Thug's Abuse

Toronto, April 24. —(CP)— Elizabeth Calder, died of a heart attack, Saturday night after being shoved about by two thugs during a robbery attempt.

Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson said the excitement and stress was too much for her heart. He made the statement following the report of an autopsy by Dr. Arnold Gold.

"Had the robbers not gone in, shoved her around and probably hit her, she would still be alive," the coroner said. "It is my opinion that they are responsible for her death."

A police official said Sunday night that if the two robbers were apprended they probably would be held on a charge of robbery or attempted robbery. A more serious charge would have to be discussed with the Crown Attorney, he said.

Prince Edward County Native 100 Years Old

Kingston, April 24—Mrs. W. A. Caverly, Nelson St., marked her 100th birthday quietly at her home on Saturday. Mrs. Caverly, who is enjoying fairly good health, lives with her daughter, Mrs. Cleo Spence. She received a message of congratulation from King George and Queen Elizabeth.

She is of United Empire Loyalist stock and is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson of Prince Edward County. Five years ago she celebrated her 70th wedding anniversary by shooting the St. Lawrence rapids in a river steamer, as she did on her wedding day.

EMBARRASSING EVIDENCE

Newport, Monmouthshire (CP) —Councillor Percy Jones held up a pair of pink panties before Newport council recently. He showed them how smut, given off by "nationalized coal and oil" at a power station, was "ruining the washing."

Ganaraska Lodge 131 Gives Degree To Six New Rebekahs

Once again Quintena Lodge 133 has been honored by being hostess on Wednesday evening last to a galaxy of stars in the Rebekah firmament, when Sister Isabel Carr, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario, visited the Lodge, and on which the initiating team of Ganaraska Lodge 131, of Port Hope gave the initiating degree to six new members for Quintena.

Lodge was opened by the presiding officer, Sister Rhea Mitchell, N.G. Sister Dorothy Webber, the Lodges own soloist, sang, "Bless This House," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Guests were present from Cobourg, Madoc, Kingston, Picton, Parham, Stirling, Trenton, Thomasburg, Tweed and Toronto, and filled the hall to capacity.

The guard of honor was composed of Mrs. Phyllis Pope, Miss Mary Jordan, Miss Jean Kelver, Florence Johnston, Marion Brenton, Verna Oliphant carrying beautiful bouquets of roses, while Lena Belnap as marshal. Those who passed through the guard of honor were: Sister Carr escorted by acting P.G.M. Sister E. Sandercock, P.D.D.P; Sister Hilda McGowan, D.D.P. of Belleville district No. 4, by Sister G. Charlton, P.N.G.; Sister Eva Turvey, I.G.R. A.O. by Sister D. Harwood, P.N.G.; Sister Margaret Mullins, D.D.P. of Quinte District No. 5 by Sister J. Tweddy, P.N.G.; Sister Edith Hall, P.P., R.A.O., of Kingston by Sister A. Rose, P.D.D.P.; Sister Eva Burley, D.D.P. of Kingston district, by Sister E. Pollitt, P.N.G.; Brother G. Kerr, P.G.P. and D.D.G.M. by Sister M. Cooper, P.N.G.; Sister May Thomas, P.P., R.A.O. of Cobourg, by Sister R. Charlton, P. N.G. Also introduced by Sister G. McEwan, P.N.G. were Sister M. Broadbent, acting N.G. of Canaraska Lodge 131 and her Degree Staff Captain, Brother Thomas.

Sister Carr in a message of special significance for Rebekahs, and the response from the other guests were worthy of memory. One could not recall the evening without reminder on the spleudid work of Ganaraska Lodge, so ably directed by Brother Thomas and led by Sister Broadbent, whose singing greatly enhanced the performance and gave depth and meaning to the degree.

Quinteua's gifts to the distinguished guests were presented by the following: to Sister Carr by Sisters Sandercock and Large; Sister Thomas by Sisters P. Charlton and Belnap; Sister Hall by Sisters Redner and West; Sister McGowan by Sisters Andrews and Bird; Sister Mullins by Sisters Harwood and Webber; Sister Burley by Sisters Rose and Latchford; Sister Turvey by Sisters Ironside and Webb; and to Sister Broadbent for Ganaraska Lodge by Sisters McEwan and Jordan.

Lodge was dismissed by Sister Mitchell, with Sister Webber's lovely intonation of the "Evening Prayer."

In the upstairs hall dainty refreshments awaited everyone, and were served from the last-covered table, with its pink and green glowing tapers, gleaming silver, and lovely spring flowers. Sisters Brenton, Sherry and Darvell were the able captains of the kitchen, while Sister Webber marshalled her helpers in the tea room.

STEELHEAD TROUT

The steelhead trout has all the habits of the Pacific salmon except that it does not die when spawning has been completed but returns to the sea.

Hospital Auxiliary Shows Progress

The regular meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Nurses' Home.

In the absence of the president Miss Lyn Dickens, the chair was taken by Mrs. Gilbert Scott, immediate past president.

Mrs. F. Bisbee reported on the luncheon which was held at Golden Acres in honor of the ladies who modelled at the Fashion Show. This proved to be a delightful affair and the models were presented with gifts by Mr. Shulman of McNabb's. Easter Baskets were again distributed to about 65 patients in the Hospital and a few were given to the patients at the Nurses' Home. Mrs. R. Daniel and Mrs. R. Brettingham were the conveners, and appreciation of their work was expressed at the meeting.

In requesting the Opportunity Shop, Mrs. W. Dallas gave a statement of the financial standing of the Mrs. R. Sillins Hospital the meeting that men's trousers were always in demand and all types of oversize garments.

The following letter from the Chairman of the Hospital Board was read at the meeting:

"The Board of Governors is happy to acknowledge the cheque for $900.00 accounting for the donation by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary of an oxygen tent and four Tables' outfits. Will you please convey to the Auxiliary the Board's gratitude and its wholehearted assurance of the support the hospital is receiving from the work of the Ladies; to which I add my own personal thanks."

Mrs. F. Beeby had a sample ear phone and teaching to radio on display and a committee has been appointed to look into the matter of the proposed radio service for patients. Mrs. W. C. Mikel, of the House Committee was appointed to spend up to $500. for new hospital furniture furnishings.

A rummage sale will be held in the City Hall on a Saturday later in May and nursery was asked for.

A motion was passed to change the date of the next general meeting to May 9th. Second Tuesday in month Mr. C. D. McGuire, chairman of the Hospital Board of Governors, to address the Auxiliary members and friends.

The sum of $360. has been set aside this year as a Bursary to be allotted to a student nurse in training.

Tea was served by Miss D. Potts, the Hospital Superintendent, and nurses, Miss McGreer, Miss MacGregor and Mrs. J. Potts.

Liberal Association Holds Euchre

The Belleville Women's Liberal Association held a very successful euchre in the Liberal Club rooms at 224 Front Street.

The main attraction was the drawing of the prize winning tickets for the Benefit Fund, which resulted in first prize, an electric tea kettle, going to Mrs. P. R. Martin, 123 West Murray St., Trenton; second prize, an electric iron, won by Miss Barbara Bailey, 409 Bleecker Ave., Belleville. Third prize won by Mr. Clare Wood, R. R. No. 8 Belleville.

In a draw for two baskets of groceries, the winners were Mrs. Wilbur Graham and Mrs. T. Mallette.

In euchre, ladies' first prize was won by Mrs. Simpson; 2nd prize won by Mrs. Carley; consolation won by Mrs. A. Fitzgibbon.

Gents' first prize, Mr. D. Cray; 2nd prize, Mr. Geo. Wilson; consolation, Mr. S. Lennox. Lone hand prize won by Mrs. S. Lennox and Mrs. Conway. Refreshments were served.

Harmony Studio Club Holds Enjoyable Evening

The meeting of the Harmony Studio Club was held at the home of Mrs. C. Scott, on Monday last. The business part of the meeting was quickly dispatched and the "King" played by Lois Bradshaw. Membership cards were distributed and a special report was given by the Treasurer, Bruce Smith.

The evening's entertainment consisted of musical numbers and was the first of its kind to be held by the club. The duets were as follows:

Sisters and brothers, Marylu and Jimmie Jones; Mary Ann and Randall Cowels, Judy and Douglas Asselstine, Barbara and Donald Thrasher.

Sisters, Marie and Marylu Hollinger, Sandra and Diana Kemp and Louise and Joyce Harris.

Brothers, Edward and Ezri Milner.

Friends: Shirley MacDonald and Lorraine Bellew, Bruce Smith, and Robert Reid.

Teacher and pupils: Dayl Cranston and Mrs. R. Veley; Lois Bradshaw and Mrs. E. Veley.

Mother and daughter, Mrs. Gray and Anna Coreen Gray.

Mother and son, Mrs. Kilner and Earl Kilner.

Mothers, Mrs. Cornish and Mrs. Veley.

Request numbers, Mrs. Veley and Grace Veley.

This was followed by a lecture by Mr. Pamenter, a distinguished piano tuner from Toronto. Mr. Pamenter spoke on the construction of the piano and explained some of the common faults found in pianos. Mr. Pamenter was introduced by Mr. Kilner and Mrs. Veley made a vote of thanks.

Request numbers were given by Grace Veley, Lois Bradshaw, Beryl Pfaff and Bob Reid.

Refreshments served by the ladies concluded the evening.

V.O.N. NEWS

The regular monthly meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses was held in the Y.M.C.A. with Mr. Douglas Burr presiding. There was a large number of the board members present which was greatly appreciated.

The various officers and committee chairmen were called on to give their reports which were received with interest by the board. Many items of business were discussed and dealt with.

The board expressed their concern over the financial position of the local branch of the V.O.N. Hundreds of calls are made monthly on the sick and helpless in Belleville and district by the V.O.N. These calls are made on people both young and old, rich and poor, who are badly in need of a fully qualified nurse to care for them and advise them in their time of need. The service given by the V.O.N. is certainly invaluable to the community.

The V.O.N. board expressed their confidence that the citizens of Belleville and surrounding district would cherish the V.O.N. service and the fact that it is always available to themselves, and rally to support this organization financially.

The board made plans for the V.O.N. annual tag day which will be held this month. The board expressed the necessity of this tag day being most successful as the funds were desperately needed.

The meeting was closed by Mr. Burr who thanked the members for their attendance.

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

New England chefs will be on their mettle next summer. Most of them will compete in the contest sponsored by the New England Council for the best, typically American, menu. The object of the contest is to promote New England recipes as well as New England eating places.

It's safe to predict that there will be a lot of recipes with corn in the liners, but theatrical, sense of that term.

White settlers of New England used their knowledge of corn cookery to the Indians, who not only gave them roasting ears, but corn bread, pop corn and a version of the classical Indian pudding made of corn meal.

American Indians didn't serve their dessert with ice cream, although modern usage allows cold ice cream or whipped cream to be served with warm Indian pudding.

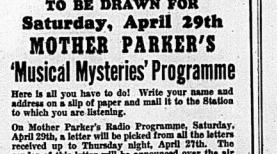
Indian pudding is a slow baked dessert requiring about 2 hours in the oven. If you don't have the time you can pressure cook it in 15 minutes.

Indian Pudding—Serves 4-6.

Heat 3 1-2 cups of milk over a slow flame until bubbles appear around edge of saucepan.

Mix 1-2 cup yellow corn meal with 1 cup of cold milk. Add corn meal mixture to hot milk. Cook in the top part of a double boiler over simmering water for 20 minutes or until mixture thickens.

Add 1-2 cup dark molasses, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon ginger, 1-2 teaspoon ground mace and 1-4 cup butter or margarine. Mix well until butter melts and seasonings are well blended.



Turn mixture into a greased baking dish or casserole. Bake uncovered in a slow oven 325 degrees for two hours without stirring.

2 cups of sliced apples and 1-4 cup sugar may be added to corn meal mixture before baking to make apple Indian pudding.

Indian pudding may be pressure cooked. Place in a heavy buttered bowl on a rack in pressure cooker. Cook 15 minutes at 15 pounds pressure.

MARMORA

Catholic Women's League Elects Officers For Ensuing Year

Marmora — The 18th annual meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in Sacred Heart School on Wednesday evening last and was largely attended. The meeting opened in the usual manner with the retiring president, Mrs. C. Cook, occupying the chair.

The Rev. J. A. O'Neill presented the league with a gavel for which Mrs. Cook graciously thanked him on behalf of the organization, Mrs. Cook addressed the meeting and after welcoming the large attendance of members extended her thanks to all for the fine co-operation and loyalty she had received during her two years of office.

Following the roll call, the minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved. The correspondence was then dealt with. Included among these were letters from members who sent received flowers and gifts at Easter.

Social Welfare Report

Mrs. Donaldson gave the Social Welfare report for Deloro district and Mrs. C. Crawford gave the same report for Marmora district. Mrs. Crawford's report showed that in a few hours after a family had lost all their possessions by fire, clothing, furniture etc. had been gathered and presented to them.

Mrs. Joseph O'Neill reported 13 study clubs held and Miss E. E. Maloney reported two held in her district.

Mrs. Rose Johnston reported four large boxes of clothing had been packed and sent to the Auxiliary or the Church Extension, and several knitted articles had been forwarded to the Canadian Missions, as well as a large amount of used postage stamps to the Redemptorist Fathers at Toronto.

Miss Mary Hughes, convener of the Sewing Circle, reported six quilts had been made during the year and 3 pot luck dinners had been held at the quiltings.

Miss Florence Auger reported 8 visits made by Mrs. Hugh Brady and herself to the sick and shutins during the past month.

Mrs. Mary Reid reported for the League magazine, having nine subscriptions.

The secretary's report was then given by Mrs. William Shannon, which disclosed a membership of 107 with nine meetings held during the past year with an average attendance of 39.

The treasurer's report followed by Mrs. Carl Heath, showing receipts for the year $611.32 with a balance on hand of $113.2.

Mrs. Donald Shannon reported for Education Scholarships and Study Clubs.

Mrs. P. Brawley's name was drawn as the winner of the prize given in connection with the travelling apron.

18th Annual Report

Mrs. Cook, the retiring president, then gave the 18th annual report of the activities of the League, which included the following:

Nine monthly meetings held at which the director was present and addressed the members. Readings, poems, vocal and piano selections, games, contests, quilting and refreshments helped to make the meetings interesting.

Diocesan and Provincial per capita taxes had been paid.

The June meeting had been held at the summer home of Mrs. Teresa Warren at Crowe Lake at which Miss Marie Curran, of Belleville was guest speaker.

The grandmothers had been entertained at a Valentine party and prized given.

Two children had been provided with clothing for first Communion.

Prizes were donated to pupils passing Christian Doctrine examinations, also to pupils passing Catechism examinations in Separate Schools.

$5 Awarded

Five dollars was awarded the pupil obtaining the highest marks in the Entrance examinations.

A motion was passed to set up a bursary of $25 for the pupil obtaining the highest standing in Senior Matriculation, confined to a two year period.

Three members are on the staff of the public library and children's reading is safeguarded by their vigilance.

Fifteen study clubs had been held.

A monthly Mass is offered for members and Mass cards sent for deceased parishioners.

Rosary was recited in bereaved homes and a guard of honor formed at the funerals of deceased members.

Holy Communion

Members receive Holy Communion in a body on the third Sunday of each month and a day of recollection was held on the feast of our Patron "Our Lady of Good Counsel."

Three members teach Catechism classes.

Sacred Heart Church was cleaned by members.

A quilt was donated by Miss Mary Hughes and presented to a needy family.

Thirty eight visits were made to the sick and shutins and 11 bingo parties were held and a refreshment booth was operated at Marmora Fair and $42 was realized.

A fancy work booth was held at the annual bazaar, Proceeds $237.41. The chicken dinners were prepared and served by the members and parishioners.

A scrap book is kept and the activities of the League are published in the local paper and neighboring papers and the Diocesan paper.

A gift was presented to the director, the Rev. H. J. Farrell, on his departure from the Parish and a regional meeting was held in the Town Hall on September 14th.

A Christmas party was held for the members.

Card parties were held in members' homes which increased the finances and added to the social life of the League.

Quilting and 3 pot luck dinners were held.

1950 Objective

The objective of the League for 1950 is to pay for dishes and cutlery for use at the bazaars and one hundred dollars was applied on this at the April meeting.

The following donations were made: Easter parish collection, 1949, $10; Christmas parish collection, 1949, $10; Easter parish collection, 1950, $10; Sisters of Service, $5; Holy Father's Relief Fund, $10; Magazine, $9; Entrance Scholarship $5; Catechetical prizes, $12; Illness in a family, $10; First Communion clothing, $10; Marmora Agricultural School, $5; Sacred Heart radio program $2.

A luncheon cloth, on which tickets had been sold, was won by Mrs. Jos. Hulman.

The Rev. J. A. O'Neill then addressed the meeting and congratulated the conveners on their splendid reports. He then spoke of the importance in electing the new president and executive and complimented the retiring president and executive on their success and hoped their successors would carry on in the same successful manner. He thanked all for their kindness and co-operation in all things undertaken.

A piano duet was given by Mrs. D. Shannon and Miss. Ernest Shannon, and also a piano solo by Mrs. J. A. Paquet, which were much enjoyed.

Mrs. William Shannon gave an interesting reading from the League magazine, "Ten Ways to Kill an Organization."

A vote of thanks was extended the retiring president and executive by Mrs. J. Black who expressed appreciation of all the members for the capable manner in which their duties had been carried out.

Officers Elected

The election of officers then took place and resulted as follows:

SHANNONVILLE

Home and School Association Holds Interesting Meeting

Shannonville — The Home and School Association held their regular monthly meeting in the senior room of the local school on Monday evening last.

The president, Mrs. A. Kilburn, presided. It being the occasion of "Founder's Day" the meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Helen Louis, secretary, reported on the meeting of the Sewing Club recently held at the home of Mrs. Stanley MacDonald. An apron and a pair of oven mitts had been sold. An afghan had also been worked on.

Mrs. Herbert Brant entertained the executive to a dinner last Friday evening for which thanks were extended.

A "Thank-You" card had also been received from Mrs. Martin in reply to one sent her while in hospital.

Sympathy Cards

Mrs. Margaret Hill, card convener, reported sympathy cards having been sent Mrs. Richard Burrowes and Mrs. Irene Phillips. "Get Well" cards had been recently sent to Mrs. Stanley MacDonald, Mrs. Cecil Casey, Mrs. Ernest Cripe, Mrs. Percy Howard, Mrs. Gordon Johnston, Mrs. Kenneth Vivian and Mr. Bert Brant.

The president expressed the hope that full attendance would be present at the next meeting, the third Monday in May, since the election of officers would take place at that time. It was suggested Mrs. Plumpton of Cannifton be invited to attend and officiate in the ceremony of installation of officers, as she had been present at the time of organization.

It was also decided not to have an "excursion trip" for the school aldson.

The Rev. Father F. Quinlan, O.M.I., a former resident of Marmora, was then introduced by the Rev. J. A. O'Neill and he gave a brief address, asking the prayers of the members in his work as Novice Master at the Seminary at Arnprior. He also asked their prayers for vocations to the priesthood as there is a crying need for priests in the Missions and also in this country.

The meeting then adjourned and delicious refreshments were served by the ladies of Group Nine.

Shanghai Like City in Siege, Buildings Heavily Sandbagged, Business is Changed to Evening

Hong Kong, April 24 (Reuters)

"The business and living routine of the 5,000,000 inhabitants of Shanghai is undergoing a transformation which has no previous parallel — not even during the most hectic days of the Japanese occupation.

Shanghai today resembles a city under siege say travellers who arrived here recently. Important office buildings and factories are heavily sandbagged and the windows of stores and business houses are thickly plastered with strips of blastproof paper.

The changes have been made necessary by repeated Nationalist air attacks.

Air Raid Warnings

Air raid warnings sound on an average of twice a day, bringing all activities to a standstill.

The city government, leading business houses and public utility undertakings have all changed their office hours to the late evening — most of them work from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. — to insure uninterrupted work.

Once the banks change their hours travellers say the commercial changeover will be complete.

If and when this switch becomes general, restaurants, movies and other entertainment places are expected to change their hours to suit the new leisure period of the masses — from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Meanwhile, the general public, but especially the foreign community of some 15,000, has suffered a drastic reduction in the amenities of life to which it has long been accustomed.

With every household restricted to one-fifth of its former electricity and power consumption, most foreign families have had to put refrigerators, electric cookers, heaters and irons in storage and replace their 100 or 75-watt lamps with five watt ones, and candles.

Wells are being dug throughout the city as a precaution in the event of failure of the water supply, and registration has been ordered of all flush toilets for a possible return to old methods of disposal — through "honey" carts.

Large factories and retail stores are probably the hardest hit by the power and electricity restrictions which seriously curtail production and working hours.

One result has been the accelerated movement of plants to the interior—in most cases complete with equipment and workers.

Thousands of retail stores are reported to have applied unsuccessfully for permission to close down following a prolonged spell of poor business as a result of the considerably reduced purchasing power of the public.

The over-all economic picture remains as grim as ever the travellers say. The authorities have prevented any wild price spurts so far through mass dumping of rice, flour and other essential commodities. But the question is: how long can they keep this up?

Foils Burglars, He's Too Shaky To Open Safe

Yonkers, N.Y., April 24 (AP) — Sometimes it pays to be nervous.

Samuel J. Colin, 63, entered his window cleaning company Friday and found two young bandits had taken over.

"Open your safe," ordered one of the burglars.

Colin, his hands shaking, tried several times but the safe wouldn't open.

"I'm too nervous," he told the intruders. "I'll give you the combination and you can open it yourselves."

They fiddled with the lock for a half hour. They accused Colin of giving them the wrong combination.

"Why don't you take the money in my pocket and call it quits?" Colin asked.

The bandits, unnerved themselves, took $287 from Collin's wallet and fled.

The unopened safe contained a $1,500 payroll.

Catches Trout And Royal Eagle On Same Rod

Chambery, France, April 24 (Reuters) — Jean Grosso, fishing in the Alpine torrent of Boya, Savoy, caught a trout and a Royal eagle on the same rod.

He was landing the trout when the eagle, which has a wingspread of 4½ feet, swooped down.

The fisherman swung the rod, stunned and captured the eagle.

Fort Frances To Build $250,000 Arena

Fort Francis, April 24 —(CP) — The Fort Frances Memorial Hockey Arena Committee will ask the Eastern Ontario contractors to submit final plans for the proposed arena. A quarter of a million dollars was set as a ceiling for total costs.

FIRE STRIKES THRICE

Minico, Ont., April 24 (CP)— Fire struck three times in a week at a home in this Toronto suburb. Friday night was the worst when a blaze of unknown origin drove Mrs. Kathleen Campbell and two children from their upstairs apartment. Firemen quelled flames after the kitchen and other furniture were extensively damaged. The other outbreaks included a burning mattress and burning rags in a pail.

RAWDON Musical Review Presented by Mt. Pleasant Choir

Rawdon — Mount Pleasant — Rawdon United church choir staged a musical revue at the church hall on Friday evening, with about 80 people in attendance. The proceeds of $35 will be used for choir music.

Those folks who enjoy a full program of music and singing were delighted with the presentation. About 20 visitors from other points were in attendance.

The stage of the hall has recently been painted by the pastor and the scenery made a nice setting. The stage curtain is now decorated with a life-like picture of the church and hall. The stage was also decorated with two lattice flower gardens blooming with crepe paper peonies. Mr. Kenneth Weaver manipulated the curtain throughout the evening.

Chorus Welcomed

Rev. H. C. Vaclavik, who trained the group, welcomed the guests on behalf of the choir and introduced Mrs. A. E. Baker, A.T.C.M., and Mr. Maurice Bell, of Stirling, musicians, and Mrs. Walter Warren, guest soloist, of Bethel.

The gowned choir of 21 voices rendered an anthem "With Heart and Voice," with Mrs. Kenneth Weaver at the organ.

Several pupils of the Allan School presented "Goldilocks," with Miss Ina Scott as narrator. The story was sung and acted according to the fairy tale, complete with the three bears.

Mrs. Marguerite McMullen delighted with a vocal number, "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody," with Miss Betty McConnell as accompanist.

A chorus "Volga Boatmen" was sung with Misses Ruth Linn, Lois Weaver, Betty McConnell, Mrs. Eric Summers and Messrs. Roy Sharp, Robert Hoard and Eric Summers giving a vivid imitation of pulling boat loads of freight by human power through the canals in Europe.

Neal Drill

A neat drill, "Anchors Aweigh" Negro melodies and they accompanied these numbers.

Rev. A. E. Baker of St. Paul's, Stirling, spoke briefly and commended the choir for their splendid efforts and congratulated the pastor on the scenic beauty of the church hall.

The program closed with two numbers by the choir, a Hawaiian selection "Alohaoe" and "Now Is the Hour."

A group from the "Two-by-Two" club served refreshments to the choir and the visiting guest artiste.

RUSSIANS BUY RUBBER

New York, April 24 (AP) — Russians are buying up large quantities of rubber in Singapore, according to an American business man who returned Friday from a trip to south Asia. Joseph A. Jackovicks said "Russians are making heavy purchases of rubber and are bidding the price up."

SAYS HUNGER STRIKER EXPECTS TO DIE

Quebec, April 24 —(CP) —Le Soliel said Sat. that Jules Sioui, 49-year-old Huron conducting a hunger strike for recognition of rights he claims for North American Indians, expects to starve to death in 50 days and has prepared a statement blaming Prime Minister St. Laurent.

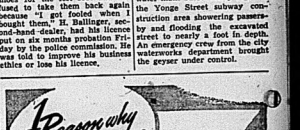
The newspaper said Sioui has been asked to move from his home at Loretteville Reservation to a Quebec hospital but has refused.

ASSIMILATION OF NEWCOMERS INTO CHURCHES

St. Catharines, April 24—(CP) Decision to support the citizenship rights of all new Canadians, and to make an active effort to assimilate them into the church, was made Friday at the annual meeting of the Hamilton conference of the Women's Association of the United Church.

More than 100 women attended the meeting and Mrs. V. W. Kinsman of Hamilton was elected president. The conference includes the presbyteries of Niagara, Hamilton, Brantford, Halton, Haldimand-Norfolk, Guelph, Sudbury and Bruce.

STUDENTS BUILD HOUSE



Medicine Hat, Alta. (CP) — A two-year, student house building project has been approved by the public school board. Technical students will complete the structure under the supervision of local contractors, plumbers, carpenters and electricians. The modern bungalow will be offered for sale when completed.

LICENCE ON PEDDLER

Toronto, April 24 — (CP) — Because he sold a customer two shoes for the left foot and refused to take them back again because "I got fooled when I bought them," H. Ballinger, second-hand-dealer, had his licence put on six months probation Friday by the police commission. He was told to improve his business ethics or lose his licence.

WATERMAIN BURSTS, PASSERSBY SHOWERED

Toronto, April 24 — (CP) — A water main burst Friday night in the Yonge Street subway construction area showering passersby and flooding the excavated street to nearly a foot in depth. An emergency crew from the city waterworks department brought the geyser under control.

Another Pitcher in Boston Wigwam Will Make Braves Real Threat For Flag Honors

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

Give the Boston Braves another reliable starting pitcher and you can start making World Series reservations at Braves' Field for next October.

Five games may not be a true standard, but they've given the following indications:

1. The rebuilt Braves boast one of the hardest - hitting clubs in the National League.

2. The outfield is the best since Manager Bill Southworth took over the club.

3. Pitcher Johnny Sain, ace of the 1948 championship squad, definitely is on the comeback road after a poor '49 season.

The Braves lost their first game of the infant season Sunday when they bowed to Philadelphia, 5-3 after winning the first game of a double-header, 4-3. The opening game triumph was their 4th of the campaign.

The split dropped the Braves into third place, Chicago's surprising Cubs, rained out of their game with St. Louis, remained on top with a 3-0 rating. Rain also washed out the Brooklyn-New York game. In the only other National League activity, Pittsburgh ran up its fifth straight triumph, vanquishing Cincinnati Reds 5-3.

Tigers' First Defeat

Chicago White Sox handed Detroit its first defeat of the season 5-4. It was the Sox' first victory in five starts. The Tigers had won four straight.

Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics divided a double-header. The A's won the opener 9-4, and the Sox came back to take the nightcap 12-2. The game was halted after six innings because of darkness.

Cleveland swept both ends of a twin bill from St. Louis Browns 9-6 and 7-5, with darkness ending the second game after seven innings. Rain washed out the scheduled Washington - Yankee game at New York.

The Braves lost the second game to Philadelphia because Johnny Antonelli, Southworth's hope for the fourth starting berth, failed to get by the first inning. Four hits produced two Philadelphia runs and brought in Norman Roy.

Sain gave Southworth plenty to enthuse over when he limited the Phils to six hits in the opener.

Gordon's four-bagger was his third of the campaign. He now has driven in eight runs.

Outfielder Wally Westlake's fourth homer of the season featured the Pirates' victory. However, the Bucs picked up their tie-breaking runs in the sixth without the aid of a hit. Five straight passes by Frank Smith and Ewell Blackwell gave them two runs.

Lemon Is Hero

Pitcher Bob Lemon was the hero of the Indians' two triumphs. He hurled a five-hitter to beat the Browns in the opener, then homered as a pinch hitter in the second game to put his mates ahead.

Billy Pierce turned in a brilliant relief pitching job to help the White Sox gain the first victory of the year. The former Tiger lefthander relieved starter Bob Kuzava with two out in the fifth and held his former mates scoreless the rest of the way.

Rookie Bob Hooper's sterling relief pitching was a contributing factor in the A's first - game triumph but the Red Sox Hooper replaced Bob Shantz in the seventh with the bases loaded and nobody out. He retired the side without a score. Ferris Fain and Sam Chapman collected three hits apiece for the A's.

The Sox closed three Philadelphia pitchers for 14 hits in the second game to enable Mel Parnell to register his first victory of the year.

Memorial, Allan Cups Dates Up in Air

Regina, April 24. (CP)—Opening dates of Memorial and Allan Cup Hockey finals are still up in the air as a result of Canadiennebrooke's upset victories over the best-of-seven series for Montreal Thursday night.

But the Memorial Cup opener between Regina Pats and Montreal Canadiens is set for Montreal Thursday.

If the two dates collided, Prickard said, the Junior game will be set back to Saturday. The second game will be in Toronto, Tuesday and the remainder of the best-of-seven series in Montreal.

If Sherbrooke is eliminated Tuesday, the Memorial Cup final will be played on dates previously announced, Prickard said. If the Eastern Senior title is not settled until Thursday, the Allan Cup playoff will be delayed. It was originally planned for Calgary Ice Jubilee Week, but Sherbrooke and Fort Frances Canadians are fighting for the western berth.

2 Senior Squads May Break Ties With OHA

At Kitchener during the weekend delegates from Owen Sound Mercurys and Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen said their clubs may not be represented in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series next season if the league is still a four-team loop.

Attending a hockey meeting organized by Lloyd Roubell of Kitchener, representatives of both teams said it was impossible to operate in the senior A series without a farm system. Charles Blackwell of Owen Sound said the Mercurys may drop to the senior B classification.

No positive move made in the formation of an independent league but it was decided to attend the OHA annual meetings next Saturday to try to remedy all existing situations.

Attending the meeting were representatives from Leaside, Markham, Woodstock, Owen Sound, Brantford, Hespeler, Kitchener and Waterloo.

The women's competition of the annual Canadian Bowling Association came to a close at Toronto Saturday with three records set.

Twila Kimberly, Toronto, clicked off the frames for a three games 969 count to set a singles record and Oshawa Cliffs rolled a 3,566 count, highest attained by an out-of-town team in the tournament. In the industrial section, General Steel Wares of Toronto broke the old mark with a 3,267 pin total.

Men's competitions resume today.

Gerry Priddy, Detroit Tiger second baseman, was fined by the ball club for violating curfew rules in a tour of taverns with a Detroit detective Saturday night.

Manager Red Rolfe called a special press conference before Sunday's Detroit-Chicago game to announce levying of the fine but he declined to disclose the amount. Best guesses were between $50 and $100.

Rolfe told reporters: Our investigation shows that Priddy broke only one rule, the midnight curfew. He was not drunk.'

Keith Spalth, starry quarterback for the last two seasons with Calgary Quebec football Stampeders, has signed for the 1950 season, publicity director Leo Murphy announced Sunday. Spalth brings to five the number of American stars already signed. Others are Woody Strode, Sugarfoot Anderson, Riley Mathison and Don Avery.

Sudbury Takes N.B.A. Championship

Kirkland Lake, April 24. (CP) —Sudbury Central Tab captured the Northern Basketball Association title Saturday night, trouncing Kirkland Lake All-Stars 57-43 to win the total-point, two-game series, 134-98. Central won the first game 77-56.

The powerful Sudbury crew now advance to the All-Ontario Intermediate B series against Brantford, Southern Ontario Champions.

Dick Trainor paced the winners with a 20-point effort while Jack Duyvestyn followed with 12 who posted a 42-point performance on the round. For Kirkland Lake Bob Hannah hooped 11 with Jim Hurst clicking for 10.

Sudbury ended the half with a 24-23 lead that bulged to 42-31 by the three-quarter mark.

Barrie Flyers Defeat Guelph In Junior 'B'

Barrie, April 24—(CP)—Barrie Flyers defeated Guelph Biltmores Bees 8-4 Saturday night to take Ontario Hockey Association Junior a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven B final series.

Barrie exploded with a four-goal third period after the visiting Bees rapped in three unanswered second-frame tallies to grab a 3-1 lead. The Flyers opened the scoring with the only marker of the opening frame.

Scotch Unions Strike Blow at Communism

Rothesay, Scotland, April 24 — (Reuters) — Delegates of Scotland's 720,000 trade unionists Friday struck a blow against communism by dopping their outgoing leader, Will Pearson, from the general council of the Scottish Trades Union Congress. Pearson, communist secretary of the Scottish area of the national union of mineworkers, failed to get a seat by 24 votes at the T.U.C. annual conference here.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Six teams have entered what is termed a "B" Section of the Commercial Softball League as President Don Lee informs us, and that will mean lots of softball for the fans and exercise for the muhlbull boys who aren't considered good enough for Commercial League squads.

The newly-formed "B" Section will be administered by the executive of the Commercial League with representation in the person of the section treasurer Lee Bradshaw of the Bateman Motors team.

Entered in the new loop are Bateman Motors, City Firemen, the Phalanx Club of the YMCA, Energetic Club of Holloway Street United Church, Bell Telephone and the 9th Anti Tank Regiment.

In the Commercial League are Brewers Warehouse, Point Anne, Stewart Warner Alemite, Howe and Hagerman, Stephens Adamson and McFarlane Woodenware. Both the Commercial Leagues and its "B"-Section will operate under OASA rules and regulations but will play as separate entities.

Right now, we are informed, there is a red hot scramble for playing positions on the Commercial League teams are by no means filled, various managers inform us, and there is plenty of room for topflight softball players. The perennial Cy Thompson will master-mind the Howe and Hagerman squad again and he has the old faithful faces back plus a flock of new ones. The Maestro Herbie Henn has a strong flock gathered under his managerial wing and promises to make things hot for the rest of the teams. Gordie Booth will control the destinies of the Stewart Warner team and he with the managers of the remaining teams are anxious for players. Practice dates will be outlined and the mashballers are requested to turn out with the team of their choice. All will be welcome.

* * *

The schedule will be released sometime around the first of May, Frecky Lee informs us. All games will be twilight affairs unless special arrangements are made, usually doubleinnings affairs. Double-headers are out, it is reported unless there is a shortage of time on the part of the players.

* * *

The formation of the "B" section of the Commercial League is a step in the right direction. It means that some 120 softball players who otherwise would not get the opportunity to display their summer speed, will be able to play. The operation of the alleged "weaker" teams which constitute the "B" section of the loop will create more terrible one-sided affairs that were prevalent, last year when the weaker teams met with the strong boys of the loop. On paper the Commercial League setsteie will have an equal division of strength, or nearly equal while the same applies to the lower section.

* * *

While there is nothing definite thus far, it is expected that a tournament will offer a fine trophy for the championship of the "B" Section. The Commercial League has two fine pewters for competition and the offer of the Gapgang's manager to supply a trophy for the "B"s is welcomed by all concerned.

ALL EVEN

George Earnshaw, former Athletic and Sox hurler now coaching for the Phillies, recalled an incident from that 1929 world series between the Cubs and A's.

George was engaged in a mound duel with Guy Bush. He recalls:

"I was at bat in the fourth with the score against us, 1 to 1, and runners on second and third. A base hit would tie the score and naturally I was bearing down.

"I missed Guy's first pitch, a fast ball, I also missed the second pitch. The third was an out-breaking curve and I decided to take it. When Umpire Bill Klem called "Str-r-r-ike three!" I naturally was sore. I thought the last one was wide. So I turned to Klem and said: 'Bill, you missed that one.' His reply always struck me as being the funniest thing I had happen to me in sports. Maybe it was because it relieved a bit of tension at the time. Bill said: 'Maybe I did miss it, but you just missed the first two, so that makes us even.'"

Pete Babando, Detroit Hero, Snipes Overtime Goal to Bring Wings Coveted Stanley Cup

Detroit, April 24—(CP)—Pete Babando's overtime goal won the Stanley Cup for Detroit Red Wings Sunday night. The 4-3 victory over New York Rangers gave Detroit its first cup triumph since 1943.

It was a fitting climax to one of the most surprising cup finals in years. Detroit, leaders of the National Hockey League all season, lost star winger Gordie Howe through injuries in the first game of the semi-final against Toronto Maple Leafs, but eliminated Leafs four games to three. New York, squeezing into the playoffs on a late spurt in league play, eliminated Montreal Canadiens four games to one in the other semi-final.

The lowly Rangers then threatened to pull the biggest surprise the Stanley Cup has seen in a long time. They led the series in the second game and again in the fourth, won the fifth in overtime and lost the sixth game Saturday night by a 5-4 count.

Starting all over, New York rammed in two goals for an early lead Sunday night, but Detroit got those two back, then each team scored again to make it 3-3 at the end of the second period.

The third period was scoreless and so was the first overtime period, when both teams had dangerous shots pulled off by Glenn (Chuck) Rayner, in the New York nets, fell while trying to stop a shot that hit the goalpost and needed first-aid treatment for a knee injury, but was back in the game.

That set the stage for the drive by Detroit that won the game. Rayner made three brilliant saves just before a long drive where George Gee passed to Babando, who backhanded a 15-footer that slipped in on the lefthand side of the net.

Hrubiak Hockey

Allan Stanley and Tony Leswick got the opening Ranger goals, and Stanley drew the penalty that box when Babando and Captain Ted Lindsay (Hockey O'Conor) nor sent New York into the lead, only to have Jim McFadden get the equalizer.

From that goal until Babando sank the big one, the teams went through 52 minutes and 24 seconds of brutising, fast hockey.

Detroit's goalie, Harry Lumley, said "boy, that was a long time coming," as the overtime broke up and the teams headed for the dressing rooms Coach Tommy Ivan congratulated each of his players and star forward Ted Lindsay yelled: "Wow, what a vacation this is going to be!"

The New York dressing room wasn't too downcast over the result. "For a team that wasn't even rated a chance of getting into the playoffs we did ourselves proud," said coach Lynn Patrick.

Before they broke up, newspaper men found Stanley and Lindsay in deep argument. Scenting the smouldering embers of one of the many feuds during the season, the writers gathered close. They found the New Yorker and the Detroit forward wondering how they could get a new motor-car for their vacations.

Last Man Up Robs Hurler Of No-Hitter

(By The Associated Press)

Who do you think feels the more miserable today, Jim Prendergast or Claude Corbitt?

Prendergast, veteran leftander of the Syracuse Chiefs, entered the ninth inning of Sunday's first game against the Buffalo Bisons with a no-hitter.

He fanned pinch-hitter Coaker Triplett and was two outs away from the treasured goal. Then Corbitt bested Spider Wilhelm at grounder for an error as the crowd looked on. But Prendergast got Hank Biasatti to ground out and he was one out from home.

Cy Block stepped up to bat for Jack Creel. He let the first pitch go by and then banged the second to centrefield to break up the no-hit bid.

The Chiefs also got a good pitching job from Bud Byerly in the nightcap to win 2-0, and sweep the doubleheader. Byerly yielded only three hits.

Phil Marchildon, making his first start since arriving from Philadelphia Athletics, and Lynn Lovenguth allowed the Chiefs only two safeties but Marchildon issued 11 walks which led to his downfall. Rochester won 5-3.

The veteran Penetangulshene right-hander walked Russ Burns on four pitches in the fifth and after throwing a ball to Al Rubeling he was lifted. Lovenguth completed the walk to Rubeling and then wild-pitched the runners up a base. Catcher Jerry Burmeister followed with a two run single.

Springfield Cubs and Toronto Maple Leafs divided a doubleheader, the Leafs taking the opener, 5-0 and the Cubs the second, 4-2.

Grover Bowers blanked the Cubs with six hits in the opener. He was hooked up in a scoreless duel with Al Porto until the ninth, when Ed Sandick drove in Heslet homered to break up the game.

The second game also was decided in the ninth on a home run. Ted Sepkowski parked one out of the left with one on off Max Peterson to win the game.

Jiggling' Jethroe Can't Hit, But What a Showman

By WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, April 24. (AP)—Using dumbbells, we'll exercise our privileges of changing our opinion as to the value of Sam Jethroe, the Flying Saucer, to Boston Braves.

When we saw Jethroe down south we thought he was the No. 1 flopperoo of the spring training season. We admitted he could run, but he seldom got on base to demonstrate his speed. He still looks like a one-man bucket brigade in the field, running back and forth, when he goes after a fly ball, but one game with the Giants last week he demonstrated he might prove quite a factor in the Braves' attack.

Jethroe, who burned up the International League base paths with Montreal the past year, got on base once and scored nine times.

He had help, of course, but the nine-run inning the Boston team enjoyed at the expense of the New Yorkers could be traced directly to the spindly-shanked Negro.

Sheldon Jones, the Giant pitcher, had been having a fairly pleasant afternoon until the sixth inning.

In the Braves' sixth, with Connie Ryan on first, Jethroe bunted. Jones fielded the ball and threw to Ryan at second, and Ryan made a mistake in doing that, instead of killing off Jethroe at first.

Jigglin Joe

With nobody in front of him clogging up the base, Jethroe went to work. He jiggled up and down the base path, baiting a provocative lead, and soon Jones began to get exasperated and became wilder and wilder.

Even at that, he forced Willard Marshall to foul out, and nine runs out of 10 would have been a home-run ball. The only trouble, was they didn't get any body out.

Bob Thomson fielded the ball neatly and threw toward second base. Nobody was over that base and Stanky took the ball with right feet down. That delayed it to first, but not in time to catch Marshall.

Then Joe began. Jethroe would take a tremendous lead off second base. The second baseman Stanky inched toward the bag. Jethroe would do likewise. As Stanky retreated, Jethroe increased his lead proportionately. It became something of a game, and the crowd was getting a tremendous kick out of it.

Not Jones, however. Jethroe's showboating got on his nerves more and more. He made one futile effort to nab him before throwing a fourth ball to Bob Elliott, batting for the batsie.

Then came Sid Gordon with a double down the left field line. I couldn't find the plate with a compass thereafter. He walked the next man and was yanked. The more runs followed before the inning ended, and they all can be traced to the antics of Jethroe.

So the Braves' speedboy may be pretty valuable after all. All they have to do is to figure out a way to get him to first base.

QUEBEC'S TITANIUM

If the huge deposits of titanium in the province of Quebec are successfully exploited, Canada may become the world's largest producer of this metal.

Memorial Cup Survivors

By The Canadian Press

The long playoff grind leading to the Memorial Cup and the Canadian Junior Hockey championships was over today for all but the two finalists—Montreal Canadiens in the east and Regina Pats in the west.

Montreal Canadiens won the eastern title by defeating Guelph Biltmores, and Regina Pats collaured the western championship in a final against Port Arthur Bruins.

Canadiens Oust Biltmores With 5-3 Victory

Toronto, April 24 — (CP) — It's Montreal Canadiens and Regina Pats in the best-of-seven Memorial Cup finals opening in Montreal Thursday.

The Quebec champions won the Eastern Canada Junior Hockey finals with a 5-3 victory here Saturday night over Guelph Biltmores that gave Canadiens the best-of-seven series four games to two.

A crowd of 11,704 saw the unpredictable Guelph team shunted to the sidelines Saturday night sending a series of upsets in which they have surprised the favorites since they finished the regular Ontario Hockey Association schedule in fourth place.

Guelph had no excuses. Biltmores played a typical game, driving hard at times but just as often floundering around against the steadier and fast-skating Canadiens.

Montreal scorers were Bill Sinnett, with two, Bill Sinnett, Dickie Moore and Kev Rochford. Guelph marksmen were Ron Plumb with two and Andy Bathgate.

All-Pike's Biltmores were always behind, trailing 1-0 at the end of the first period and 3-2 at the end of the second. Montreal gained a 4-2 margin before Guelph got its final tally and then Canadiens made it 5-3 just before the game ended.

Despite sloppy puck-handling, poor passing and loose defensive work the Biltmores were still trailing only 4-3 with 70 seconds to go. Goalie Cliff Hicks of Guelph was taken off in hopes six forwards might get the tying since they finished the regular shot into the open Guelph net and the series was over.

Sam Pollock's Canadiens always appeared to have the upper hand. They gave Guelph few good scoring chances against goalie Roger Marrissette but their offensive work was disorganized by Biltmores' scrambling type of hockey and fore-checking.

The game was comparatively clean with only eight penalties being called. The officials, Hap Shoaldice and Louis Le Compte, both of Ottawa, were always in control.

Second game of the Memorial Cup finals is scheduled for Montreal next Saturday with the third in Toronto May 1. The series continues in Montreal May 4, 6 and 9.

Gunners Favored Over Liverpool In Cup Final

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 24 — (CP) — When the "glamor boys" of British soccer fly to the continent on exhibition tours, they're insured for £400,000 ($1,240,000) and worth every penny of it, Arsenal Football Club supporters believe.

The red-rosetted faithful turn out 60,000 strong every time the Gunners play in London. And if Wembley Stadium — which holds 100,000 — were three times as big, there wouldn't be much trouble in filling it with Arsenal fans for the cup final April 29.

Arsenal will meet Liverpool in the North London bowl that day in what might be one of the great cup finals of all time. Both clubs are near the head of the league and both have packed supporters. We have hit their best form just in time for the big game.

A cup victory would be an old story for the Gunners. They captured it in 1930 and 1936 and in two other years — 1927 and 1933 — were runners up. Six times — in 1933-4-5-7 and 1948 — they have won league titles.

Just about every honor the game can bring has fallen in the path of the gunners during the 64-year history that began when the club rented a football ground adjoining a Woolwich public house. It gradually became one of the first big-time soccer clubs in Southern England.

The game grew in popularity and Arsenal grew with it. At length, in 1913, the Gunners moved from the old Woolwich stamping grounds into a magnificent new stadium at Highbury, where they still perform every other Saturday during the season.

Then came the club's golden age. In the period between 1923 and 1938 the club reached four cup finals and won five championships — a record all successes never equalled in England's soccer history.

ASKS HALT UNEMPLOYMENT

Washington, April 24 (AP) — The C.I.O. has urged Congress to take immediate emergency steps to halt the spread of unemployment in the United States which it said was "menacing" the national economy. C.I.O. President Philip Murray told a press conference Friday that in addition to the 4,250,000 now totally unemployed another 2,500,000 persons were working less than 35 hours a week.

CHILDREN UPSET TOMBSTONES

Frankfurt, April 24 — (Reutrs) — Vandals, who overturned 16 tombstones in a Jewish cemetery here last week, have been identified as three children between 6 and 15, Frankfurt police announced Sat. Though the fathers of two of the children were found to be former Nazis, "there is not a shred of evidence" that the desecration had any political motive, police said.

Sherbrooke's Twin Victories Boost Morale

Montreal, April 24 —(CP) — Sherbrooke Saints, their morale bolstered by two week-end victories, are confident of tying their Eastern Canada Senior hockey final series with Toronto Marlboros when they clash again Tuesday night in Toronto.

The Quebec Senior Hockey League champions surprised everyone by staging a last minute rally to take two decisions over the Marlies after dropping by wide margins the first three games of their best-of-seven Eastern Canada Allan Cup finals.

Saints edged out Toronto 6-5 Saturday night and trounced the Ontario champions 5-2 Sunday. They came up with a surprising change of form and practically skated and checked the hapless Marlboros off the ice.

Toronto Was Favored

Toronto was favored to clinch the series in one of the games and this was reflected by the number of fans who witnessed two contests—a total of 11,000. This is considered far below previous years in Eastern Canada finals here.

Saints played the optuer of the series at home, with rest scheduled for Toronto and Montreal because the Sherbrooke auditorium has a small seating capacity of 4,500 fans.

Should the series be knotted Tuesday, the teams will either have to return to Toronto or play their seventh game in Sherbrooke because Canadian Amateur Hockey Association rules—like the National Hockey League, say that a decisive game cannot be played on neutral ice.

After winning their first game Saturday night, the Saints came back stronger Sunday.

Looking at it from the angle of statistics, Saints were outshot 29-22 Saturday and managed to eke out Marlies, Play, seesawed all the way.

But their second victory was well deserved. They launched an all-out attack in the first period and never gave ground. When the final whistle sounded, Saints had piled 47 shots on goalie Pat Boehmer while Paul Leclerc had it easier in his nets, making 31 saves.

ACCIDENT - FREE

Montreal — (CP) — A safety record has been chalked up by employees of the paint and varnish plant here of Canadian Industries Limited. They have completed their 12th consecutive year without a single lost-time accident.

What has LOW TEMPERATURE Brazing to do with a BICYCLE?

RESILOBRAZING is the secret of C.C.M.'s Famous CUSHION-COMFORT RIDE with ★ GREATER STRENGTH ★ GREATER SAFETY ★ LONGER LIFE

Ordinary brazing, with its excessive heat, takes the life out of steel . . . crystallizes it, leaves it easy to fracture with sudden shock. That's why C.C.M. developed Resilobrazing . . . the exclusive C.C.M. process of brazing at low temperatures that do not affect the liveliness of the metal. The result of Resilobrazing is a lighter, stronger, springier frame . . . a resilient frame that gives you cushion-comfort riding over any surface.

Yes, Resilobrazing means a lot to the performance of your bicycle . . . and only a C.C.M. is Resilobrazed!

And Only C.C.M. Gives You All These Other EXTRA-QUALITY FEATURES

BONDERIZED Frame
Every C.C.M. frame is first treated with Bonderite . . . the quality corrosion-resistant base for enamel. Then high-grade gloss enamel is baked on by the famous C.C.M. "Synthetic" process. The result is a hard, glossy finish that will not rust even when chipped or scratched by accident. C.C.M. beauty is permanent.

PRECISION-CASTERED Front Wheel
The curve of C.C.M. front forks is a precision curve which, with the angle of the framehead, is designed to create perfect swivel-balance in the front wheel. This action assures you easier, safer, more sensitive steering . . . C.C.M.'s famous "Straight Line Drive".

C.C.M. "Herculas" COASTER BRAKE
Positive brake control plus friction-less free wheel assures easier, more enjoyable cycling with maximum safety. New 3-point bearing actually increases coasting distance by more than five times!

ONE-PIECE GIBSON PEDAL
Longer wearing. A smooth-spinning, perfect-fitting, light-weight pedal with non-slip rubbers held securely in one-piece aluminum frame. Exclusive on some models, optional on others at slight extra cost.

(Be sure this trade mark is on the bicycle you buy)

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By REUBEN CUPIN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Sydney, N.S., April 24 (CP) — One-sided results in Eastern Canadian Allan Cup playoffs make hockey writers and fans wonder if the present playoff set-up is a real test of senior hockey superiority.

Ed (Sydney Post-Record) Smith suggests that a "true test" would be a championship round-robin in the lines of the Canadian curling championship.

The championship would be played in one rink and teams representing each province would compete. The team with the highest standing would capture the Allan Cup and there would be a better assurance that the weakness and strength of teams would be found.

"The idea has its points," Ed explains. "It would save individual clubs the expense of travelling back and forth from series to series after their own league or provincial championship. There would be one rink-one local point and one big climax for all senior hockey supporters across the Dominion."

A Big "If"

What particularly made Ed. start thinking was the fact that Sherbrooke Saints, Quebec champions, had knocked off the high-priced Sydney Millionaires, Maritime titleholders, in four straight, and Toronto Marlboros, Ontario champions, were en route to a similar victory over Saints.

"And as the Marlies continue on the march, hockey gang-overs with some Cape Breton partisans seem to increase," Ed observes. "Most common: if Cape Breton critics is "if Sherbrooke can take Sydney and Toronto in four straight and Marlboros murder Sherbrooke as many and the western champions stop the Dukes —where does that leave our league?"

The Kibitzer

A sharp tongue is not needed for directions in Horse Sense players are aided in selecting their defensive bids. It is done with mnemonics, an easy guide for remembering.

There are four kinds of defensive bids (overcalls). In their order of preference they are: Overcall in opponent suit, jump overcall, double for takeout, simple overcall.

How to remember this order of choice? Employ a sentence that is quite appropriate for most defensive hands. It is: "Oh, Johnnie don't swear." This becomes the guide for choice of overcalls.

The first letter in each word of this phrase is the first letter of the four kinds or overcalls. The order in which they appear in the sentence is the order in which they are preferred.

Overcall in opponent suit starts with the letter "O," so does the word oh. It refers to the bid that shows a hand containing what tricks and guarantees no losers in the opponents suit.

Johnnie starts with the letter "J." So does jump overcall. It is a bid that promises eight tricks and a suit that is rebiddable. Such a hand is not as strong as an overcall in opponent suit.

Don't begin with "d." So does double for takeout. It is a call that promises a hand as good as opening one bid. Although it shows a good hand it is not as good a hand as shown by a jump overcall.

Simple overcall starts with the same letter as swear. It shows a hand with enough tricks for a bid but not as strong as an opening one bid. Therefore it is weaker than a double for takeout.

South opens with one heart when west holds this hand:

♠A Q 9 7 2
♥8
♦K J 10 7
♣K Q 4

West should say double. It is too good for a simple overcall. In a bridge game you do not keep partner in ignorance. It is bad enough that you usually find him that way.

Rescues Boy From Flooded Gananoque River

Gananoque, April 24 — (CP) — Benny Tackaberry, 20, reached into the flooded Gananoque River Saturday and rescued 13-year-old Michael Jackson after the boy fell from a railway bridge. The boy tripped while pushing a bicycle across the span.

Tackaberry was attracted by the screams of Mrs. Fred MacNamara who saw the boy plunge over the bridge. Rushing to the shore and down the steep rock embankment Tackaberry was able to snatch the youngster as the exhausted boy was carried into shore by an eddy, less than 50 feet from the upper dam, where the gates were open to carry away the surplus water caused by the spring freshet.

The youngster who was a good swimmer managed to keep himself afloat until grabbed by his rescuer.

Movie Column

(By BOB THOMAS)

Hollywood, April 24 (AP) — Gene Autry today explained why he is getting into movies.

"There are 2,000,000 kids in the country from the ages of 2 to 6. They're too young to go to movies, but they can watch television. I don't want them to grow up thinking there's only one cowboy — Hopalong Cassidy."

This is the second time in Autry's career that he has to shoot it out with a rival. When he returned from the war, he discovered that singing Roy Rodgers has been pushed into the No. 1 film cowboy spot. Gene worked hard to regain his market.

Now white-thatched Bill Boyd has galloped into the hearts of the kids in the U.S.—and some in Canada—astride a TV set. Gene is a good friend of Bill as well as Roy (the Autry-Rogers team was a publicity stunt, says Gene), but Autry indicated there is plenty of room in video for another cowboy.

"Anybody who says television isn't here to stay is plumb blind," Gene told me at his new $140,000 house. "It is a tremendous new field and it can't be ignored. I always say, 'if you can't whip 'em, join 'em.'"

He added: "I figure it this way—I was the first cowboy to put singing in westerns, I was the first singing cowboy to tour the country on rodeos, I was the first in comic books and the first to make commercial tie-up for clothes and toys. I might as well be the first singing cowboy to make new films for television."

"Annie Get Your Gun" (MGM) could hardly miss, considering its rousing theme and its score. The songs remain undimmed, and the story, about Annie Oakley and Wild West shows, has been staged lavishly. Betty Hutton plays Annie as the other sharpshooter Topnotch entertainment.

New York, April 24—(CP)—The Playwrights' Producing Company has a well-stocked portfolio from which to draw on for the 1950-51 theatre season in Manhattan.

As of now, the company has in the bag—or nearly in it — five major dramatic projects.

One is a musical based on three Mark Twain stories — his childhood classics, "Huckleberry Finn" and "Tom Sawyer," and "Life on the Mississippi." The project began as a joint undertaking, with Maxwell Anderson supplying the book and Composer Kurt Weill the lyrics. Weill had completed five songs for the production before his death recently. Another composer now is being sought to complete the musical end of the production. It will be called "Huckleberry Finn."

The playwrights group also plans to produce two plays by Elmer Rice, "Love Among the Ruins," on which the author is about to put the finishing touches, and "Not For Children."

The fourth project is a play by Robert Sherwood, as yet untitled. Sherwood now is in Britain working on it.

Lastly, the playwrights intend to send on tour the musical, "Lost in the Stars."

Names in Bright Lights

Reports from Hollywood say that Hume Cronyn and his wife, Jessica Tandy, would like to act in the new comedy by Wolcott Gibbs, "Season in the Sun," which is planned for Broadway. If so, it would be the first time Cronyn, born in London, Ont., and his wife have acted together in the same play here. Gibbs is the drama critic for New Yorker Magazine — Margaret Sullavan is expected to return to the Broadway stage in the fall in "Hilda Crane." The new play by Samuel Raphaelson is a project of the Theatre Guild. Miss Sullavan's last appearance in Manhattan was in "The Voice of the Turtle" — Margaret Phillips, able young Welsh-born actress, has been signed to succeed Irene Worth in the role of Celia Coblenstone in "The Cocktail Party." She takes over June 5. About the same time Henry Daniell will succeed Alec Guinness as the psychiatrist who dominates the action of the T. S. Eliot drama.

Change of Pace

Starting this Sunday, Ballet Theatre is moving in to Center Theatre for a three-week engagement with a company including Nora Kaye, Igor Youskevitch, Antony Tudor and Hugh Laing—Broadway's newest play, "With a Silk Thread," has Claire Luce as star but the drama by Elsa Shelley left the critics cold. They found the story of domestic and matrimonial problems dull and artificial, despite Miss Luce's able performance.

AT THE BELLE

'The Heiress'

A film that lives up to all the wonderful things that have been said about it, arrived Saturday at the Belle Theatre. It is William Wyler's Paramount production, "The Heiress" and it is a worthy successor to that outstanding producer's two Academy Award-winning pictures, "Mrs. Miniver" and "The Best Years of Our Lives."

From every standpoint "The Heiress" has been invested with greatness. Greatness of performance was assured — and achieved — by casting that unique number one lady of the cinema, Olivia deHavilland, with the newest male heart-throb, Montgomery Clift, and the world's most distinguished character actor, Ralph Richardson. The less important roles, too, were carefull and perfectly filled. Heading the supporting cast are Miriam Hopkins, who portrays Miss deHaviland's understanding Aunt, Mona Freeman, Vanessa Brown, Selena Royle and Ray Collins.

Miss deHaviland in the title role gives one of her most brilliant characterizations as the shy repressed girl who is courted by handsome man-about-town Clift and who falls wildly in love with him. The story concerns her father's efforts to prove to her that Clift is attracted only by her money, and when this threat to disinherit her if she marries him does, indeed, affect their romance Olivia emerges as a different kind of person, capable of taking cruel revenge on both her father and her suitor.

Greatness of production was achieved by the luxurious settings and costuming, and by the obvious attention to every detail, for which Mr. Wyler is so justly famous. And greatness of story is unchallenged, since "The Heiress" was adapted from the Broadway stage hit based on Henry James' celebrated novel, "Washington Square."

All in all, "The Heiress" adds up to one of the all-time greats of the screen, definitely a film to be seen and cherished.

Answer to Saturday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

Today in school Miss Kitty was telling us about the 5 sense including the sense of taist, saying, Some people live merely to eat, while others eat merely to live, and they are both wrong, because a wise person cultivates his sense of taist just as artistically as a painter cultivates his sense of kolo r, a musician develops his sense of heering.

Sounding kind of impossible but seeming more like a good idea at supper time when I saw a big coconut layer cake on the buffay in the dining room, and I thawt, Oh boy, here's where I cultivate my sense of taist as carefully as anything and leave plenty of room for dizzert.

And we had a big leg of lam without mash potatoes for suppar, making me feel lucky to start with on account of not being out of my favorite things like frankferters and sawerkraut, and ma said, Well, Benny, are you ready for more?

No mam, I'm starting to cultivate my sense of taist so it will be even better than all my other senses, I said, and ma said, Well, I'm quite speetchless, and pop said, Yee gods, he polished off his plate pritty quickly for a careful cultivator. Are we having that bewtiful monument on the buffay for dizzert, my dear? he said.

I should say not, ma said. I made that for the bridge ladies tomorrow. I fixed a simple rice pudding for dizzert, considering I said, Well heck, ma, I mean we're both dieting, she said, and Jimmy noralem, I aint dieting. I'd rather eat more lam and stuff myself with rice pudding, I said.

Sutch a boy, I mite of known, ma said.

And she gave me another big sample of everything, and I finished it and 2 helpings of plane rice pudding besides.

The Body in the Ravine

By Lloyd Carr

Bruce had seized Sid by the throat and half strangled him in his feverish determination to not let him get away. Grace, at first completely overcome by what had happened recovered in time to save Sid from Bruce's violence and then, calmly and with incredible courage, conceived the plan of protecting herself and her son from scandal by having her husband's body taken out in a boat and dropped, with the boat anchor tied to his waist, into the lake in front of the house. Then Emery Thurman's own boat was rigged to look like he'd fallen from it, and after dark when Sid was presumably in town getting some lumber, he was actually rowing the boat to the far end of the lake. He beached it, climbed out and moved the boat out into the water, then walked to where Sid's parked the truck.

"So the body is down in the lake, in front of the Thurman house," Jake said. "All right, we'll go out right now and get it. That's the evidence that will convict him."

Jake started toward the door and Tim promptly followed. "You'll need some help," Tim said to Jake. "I'll go along."

Jake said nothing. Offered no objection, and the two of them hurried out of the lodge and down toward the boathouse.

Grace Thurman was sobbing hysterically by the time Sid had finished his story and Greg and Mort Taylor lifted her out of the chair and put her on the couch. The girls took over then, Jean bringing a cold wet cloth from the kitchen to put on her forehead. And in that moment when attention was diverted from him, Sid made his break for freedom.

Greg was the first to notice Sid's absence and he promptly ran toward the back door of the lodge, the only exit which Sid could have used. He was heading for the car shed when he heard a screen door slam in the old Thurman cottage on the hill.

Making a quick decision, he ran up through the woods and approached the cottage from the rear. He was on the back stairs when Sid came out brandishing a small automatic in his hand and he lunged hard and straight, at the man's knees. Sid went down, taken completely by surprise, and Greg promptly wrested the gun from his hand. Then he pulled the light, frightened man to his feet and propelled him down the hill to the lodge, holding the gun against his back.

They were crossing the porch when Greg heard Tim's startled yell from down at the lake. Jean and Diane heard the yell too, and came running from the lounge.

"Here Di, take the gun—and use it if you have to!" Greg said thrusting the gun into his wife's hand. "Tim's in trouble."

Jean Radcliffe was already down the stairs and running toward the lake but Greg quickly overtook her. They were still 50 feet from the lake when they saw what was happening.

Tim Donovan was in the water holding one hand over his head to ward off the oar that Jake Carson was trying to bludgeon him with and with his free hand he was struggling valiantly to swim away from the boat. As Greg and Jean reached the water's edge they saw the oar land hard from a swing that started over Jake's head, and Tim disappeared beneath the surface.

"Run down and get a boat, Jean!" Greg cried. "And go like hell. I'm going to swim out." He was already peeling off his leather jacket and in another instant, with Jean speechless and pale as a ghost racing toward the boathouse, he had his shoes off and was plunging into the lake.

He struck out from one of Jake Carson's boat start up as he swam and for a couple of fearful moments he wondered whether he would be the next to get knocked under, as he watched the direction, looking principally for a glimpse of Tim for he realized by subdued Sid sat there trembling under the muzzle of the well aimed little gun.

Diane didn't even look away from her prisoners as Greg came in with Tim over his shoulder and Jean following. She merely said "I will be all right, Greg" And Greg said "yes" as he put Tim on the floor.

It was fully half an hour before there was any more conversation in that gaily decorated but rapidly ridden room. Only the logs in the fireplace were cool enough to make themselves heard as they crackled under the flames. Jean had gone up to the Taylor cottage and brought mercurochrome and bandages, and was busy to cut the hair from around Tims wound And she cleaned and dressed it with skill and infinite tenderness; completed the job before Tim was fully conscious and then with Jean in her lap while Greg, having got him breathing, stripped off his wet clothes and wrapped him in a blanket.

A few minutes later. Tim opened his eyes and smiled feebly at Jean. Greg brought him some hot coffee that he found in the kitchen, having been left, apparently by the waitresses before they departed for their Sunday "afternoon off."

COLLEGIATE NEWS

The first assembly after the Easter holidays was an exceedingly interesting one with Mr. Havelock Robb, noted poet as guest speaker, who told us of his experiences as teacher at B.C.I., and who won the hearts of his young audience by using colloquial speech to put home some of his thoughts. He also gave a short history of the Iroquois who were the native Canadian.

In closing, he read a poem from his book "Thunderbird".

All the students will remember Mr. Robb for his wit as well as the interesting facts that he passed on.

Things are getting exciting at B.C.I. Not even in the elections coming up April 28. As this goes to press, posters and speeches will be haunting the school in their full glory. On Wednesday the election speeches will be heard in the assembly and later in the day voting will take place. May the best man win. If the new 1950-51 council is as dutiful as this school year's has been, the officers will be in good hands.

Coming up is the Spring Formal to be held on April 28. It promises to be a gala affair. The gymn is to be decorated as a fair and Bill Arnold's orchestra will supply the sweet and hot music.

The parents responded to the splendid opportunity that the Home and School Club gave them to see and hear some fine talent in the auditorium last Friday evening. A fine time was had by all. The Home and School Club is doing the school a wonderful service and which deserves to be patronized.

"Spring Has Sprung" and that disease known as spring fever is taking its toll. A few empty seats have been noticed every day. Possibly these people are nature lovers and just can't bear to be walled in. Especially by the walls of a school. Ah well! There is always P.T. to pick you up but the question is, is the fever worse or better after having P.T.?

Cadets have started at B.C.I. and what lovely weather presented itself for the first day! It was beautiful except for one thing, it was cloudy and rained as though it was in a hurry to fill every street level to the sidewalk. Ah yes! Beautiful weather!!

Next week is the big week at B.C.I. That's when student government for next year is selected. This is a big affair, one of the biggest during the school term and it is certainly the most important. When you receive your ballot, think before you mark it, because the people you vote for may be in power next year.

Sports

May 5, remember that date. It's the annual inspection of the cadets. There will be music, handsome officers marching, which is a joy to watch, and many other attractions. Please remember, come and give yourself a treat.

Woman Sets New Deep-Sea Diving Record

Los Angeles, April 24 (AP)—A world's record for deep sea dives by women was claimed today by Mrs. Carmelita Cross, 34, music teacher and wife of the operator of a diving school here.

Mrs. Cross Sunday descended 152 feet, to the bottom of the ocean three-quarters of a mile offshore. She spent 24 minutes on the bottom. The entire dive took an hour and 10 minutes.

Her husband, E. R. Cross, 36, former navy diver, said there is no official record for dives by women but that his wife "hoped to establish one."

The open-sea record for men, he said, is 500 feet.

Face-Slapping Features Red Dean's Meeting

Sydney, Australia, April 24—(Reuters) — Face-slapping and fisticuffs Sunday marked an open-air "peace" rally here, at which Most Rev. Hewlett Johnson, "Red" Dean of Canterbury, addressed a crowd of 7,000.

A young man who shouted to the Anglican dean to "go back to Russia", had his face slapped by a woman. The women's male companion then punched him heavily on the ear.

The rally was organized by the Australian Peace Council.

Later, the dean said that United States refusal to grant him a transit visa for Honolulu and San Francisco will cause him to miss a meeting he has scheduled May 7 in Toronto.

"If that is the case" he told a press conference, "I will spend my time travelling from one end of Australia to the other, telling the people about the ways of American Imperialism."

"Outside" Hunters Can Shoot Bear in Spring

Toronto, April 24 — (CP) — Visiting hunters from outside Ontario may now obtain licences for Spring bear hunting, the Ontario Lands Department announced today. The non-resident licence cost $5.25 and are valid until June 15.

Residents of Northern Ontario may use the provincial gun licence at it until the same date Summer vermin licences are also available in that section of Ontario where the gun licences expired Feb. 28.

BONES MAY BE FROM OLD BURIAL GROUND

Jackson's Point, Ont., April 24 — (CP) — Some 200 bones, including parts of three skulls, unearthed four miles south of this Lake Simcoe resort Saturday by a group of Toronto boys, may prove to be the site of an old Indian burial ground. The bones are being turned over to the University of Toronto's anthropology department for study.

IVANHOE Carmel Talent Presents "The Campbells are Coming"

Ivanhoe — "The Campbells Are Coming," a 2-act comedy was presented in Ivanhoe Town Hall on Friday evening by Carmel talent to a capacity audience. This fast-moving play was sponsored by the Ivanhoe W.I.

While all the players were exceptionally well cast, Russell Fyear who played the part of the backwoods moron, is deserving of special mention.

There was a real live hen on the stage. This hen acted like an old trouper and never missed a cue. When the players came out for their last curtain call the hen was very much in the limelight.

This play got more laughs than any presented here this season. The Carmel group are assured of a welcome here any time they may return.

Between the second and third acts Russell Fyear and Sherwood Reid entertained the audience with a comedy routine while Miss Verna Brown supplied piano music during the intermission. Proceeds amounted to $54.

Airman Admits Killing Girl

Flint, Mich., April 24 (AP) — A handsome United States Air Force private broke down Sunday night in front of his sweetheart and again confessed he killed Beatrice Dickerson, 17, last summer, sheriff's officers reported.

Earlier in the day, Pte. Kenneth Nesbitt, 22, repudiated statement he made Saturday night that he killed the girl because she wouldn't get into his car. Then he demanded to see his girl friend, Patricia Simmons, 21, a Women's Air Force corporal stationed at Selfridge Air Force base.

Miss Simmons was summoned. Deputy Sheriff Jack Turner said Nesbitt broke into tears and passionately embraced the girl. Then, the officer said, Nesbitt told Miss Simmons he had killed the theatre cashier here.

Winnipeg Readies For Worse Flood Than That of 1948

Main Crest Now in Canada Causes Families to Flee

Winnipeg, April 25 — (CP) — Flood workers toiling in rain, gale, snowswept southern Manitoba Monday night got their first concrete evidence of the Red River's 1950 spring plans. It looked like a flood worse than that of 1948.

Along the 60-mile flood front from Emerson, near the international boundary, Winnipeg, word spread that the Red had topped its 1948 peak at the southern outpost.

The river was three inches over that mark by midnight. The rise rate was an inch an hour.

At Winnipeg the river held steady at 21.4 — two feet below the level of the 1948 deluge which brought millions of dollars worth of damage to southern Manitoba farmlands. The gauge had not moved since Monday morning.

But the respite held no promise of relief. Crews of 10,000 people vigil kept by those along its banks.

From the south came disquieting reports of a new flare in Devils Lake River, a Red tributary which had already forced half a Manitoba city to flee their homes.

Snow and break-ups in the ice sent more water to join the Red at Fargo, N.D., and Moorhead, Minn., 15 miles below the border. It menaced another flood crest had started on its way towards Winnipeg from Fargo.

Part of North Dakota reported eight to 12 inches of snow; two inches fell at Emerson while workers battled to keep vital rail lines open to the north. A strong northeast wind swirled muddy water through the deserted one-quarter of the town.

Large-Scale Evacuation

Large-scale evacuation of residents or threatened areas had moved more than 250 persons to higher ground by midnight.

The deserted business section was awash with water as deep as seven feet.

The first big crest, which entered Canada Sunday, was slowly moving downstream between Emerson and Winnipeg. Road links were cut in many places. Main rail highways still were open.

In the Winnipeg area, where the Assiniboine River joins the Red and the now-quiet Seine winds in, workers expected the main crest later in the week. Many families already are in their riverside homes in suburban St. Vital and West Kildonan.

City engineers say the peak will almost certainly exceed that of 1948 — 24.3 feet.

Many families have left their homes — particularly in the Kingston Row residential district to Elm Park — and about 550 persons have been evacuated against typhoid fever.

Several primary routes closed and three small bridges were under water. Dikes around Winnipeg Municipal Airport, St. Vital district were being raised. The Riverview Aquatic Club's buildings in suburban Fort Garry were almost under water.

WILL VOTE AGAINST GOVT.

London, April 25 — (CP)— The nine Liberals in the House of Commons decided Monday to vote against the Labor government in Saskatchewan's division on the new budget.

Czech Motorcars Will Not be Barred Entry

Ottawa, April 25—(CP) Canada will not bar entry of Czechoslovakian cars, despite the opposition of the Canadian automotive trade, it has been learned.

The small, low-priced automobiling, product of the huge Skoda Works and Tatraplans plants in Czechoslovakia, are making their first major appearance on the Canadian scene.

Import permits, said an official, have been issued this year for more than 600 cars, including spare parts, and it is likely more will be allowed into Canada later in the year.

Kenneth G. H. Hogan, president of the Toronto Automotive Trade Association, said recently that British are getting a big enough slice of the Canadian market. Canadian automotive dealers are opposed to the communist-made produce which competes with men employed in Canada's labor.

In Montreal, Randall Cotton, president of Etablissement Cotton, Inc., claimed that a shipment of automobiles now being assembled was sabotaged, and his company would lose $25,000 because nine cars had been totally ruined and more than 80 others badly damaged.

"This is more than coincidence on the part of the shipper," Cotton said. "It is nothing more than a deliberate attempt to keep Czechoslovakian cars out of Canada."

The government official said no claim about the wrecked cars had reached Ottawa.

Since Czechoslovakia is a member of the Geneva Agreement on tariffs and trade, there is little we can do to keep cars out of the country," the official said.

As a member of the Geneva Trade Agreement Committee, Canada gets most-favored nation tariff treatment.

Helicopter Takes Load of Mail To Airliner

Toronto, April 25—(CP)—A helicopter sped smoothly from a field near the Toronto waterfront today and headed out to Norman McLeod Rogers airfield to land on a small for a waiting airliner.

The flight was the first of a series of tests in which a helicopter will carry between 50 and 400 pounds of mail from the downtown post office building to the airport, about 12 miles northwest of the city.

Today's flip took 19½ minutes, less than half the time a truck would take. Officials said the plane, which will make nine trial flights in the next two days, can take off from the roof of the post office building.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, April 25 — (CP) — Synopsis: Winter is relinquishing its grip reluctantly in Northern Ontario and the states bordering on Lake Superior it is snowing this morning. Duluth reports four inches of snow on the ground and is still snowing hard. The Manitoba tone, have had most unpleasant snowy weather for nearly eight inches of snow yesterday. Temperatures in Southern Ontario districts continue well below normal and no relief is immediately in sight. Following the storm that will travel over Southern Ontario tonight more cold air will surge in from the northwest to keep temperatures down.

Showers will precede this storm today in Southern Ontario. Northern regions will have showers or snowflurries late today and Wednesday.

CONSERVATIVES OFFER POINTERS ON BUDGETING

Fraser of Peterborough Hits Publicity Outlay

Ottawa, April 25 — (CP) — A couple of sharp-eyed Progressive Conservative members gave the government a few pointers on budgeting in Monday's Commons budget debate.

Indicating they had scanned the government's balance sheets, G. K. Fraser (Peterborough West) and E. D. Fulton (Kamloops) said the Finance Minister Abbott how they thought he should handle the financial ails a bit and save the country a few dollars.

Mr. Fraser nailed the government on the question of publicity and pointed to the 19 departmental publicity divisions which employ a total of 218 persons at an annual cost of $1,046,000. A business consulting form, he suggested, might be asked to recommend improvements in publicity handling.

Paring Operation Proposed

Mr. Fulton, winning applause from even Mr. Abbott himself, had a pruning knife ready for $25,000,000 paring operation on the $49,500,000 which the government will spend this year on publicity, advertising, information services, films, radio and miscellaneous items.

Mr. Fraser and Gordon Fraser — Ross Thatcher (Moose Jaw) — joined them with a proposal that the government set up a board to study the overlapping and duplication that they say exists in the handling structure of government.

In the main debate, Mr. Fraser charged the government with trying to "keep up with the Joneses" and cited partial figures to show that it was spending at least $2 a minute on newspaper, magazine and street car advertising to "glorify" itself. Press releases of all types flooded out of its departments.

Mr. Fraser said much of the publicity ended up in the waste-basket. It also was handing out publicity in fields where agencies such as R. C. Vaughan, retired president of the C.B.C., who, he said, was given a $50,000 grant in addition to pension,

The government was trying to duplicate the efforts of 80 reporters in the Parliament Press gallery. Every department had its own information bureau and they were not needed, he said.

Mr. Fraser suggested that outstanding firms should be invited to deduct from their tax returns the money it cost them to handle employees' tax deductions for the government.

Peterborough should have an income-tax office. It had long been promised a federal building and the site was ready, the member said. Establishment of a permanent tax office would in time save the government money.

Neutral Indian Village Unearthed Dated 1000 AD

Tillsonburg, April 25—(CP)— Evidence of a Neutral Indian village dated about 1,000 A.D. has been unearthed by a party of archaeologists representing the University of Toronto, The National Museum of Canada and several United States groups.

Animal bones, fish bones and arrows, nails, awls and implements were found.

Mummified Body in Sarcophagus Found Under Floor of Village Church

Quebec, April 25 — (CP) — Discovery of a mummified body beneath the floor of the Roman Catholic Church at St. Anselme was announced here today.

The sarcophagus was raised, proof of a site here than in the placid municipality some 30 miles south of Quebec.

Rev. Eugene Dumas, Curate of the Parish of St. Anselme, said the mummified body, enclosed in an Egyptian-like metallic sarcophagus, is that of Francois Audet, who died March 14, 1855. Audet, said to have been a captain in the Militia of his time and prominent in the area, was buried with a prominent part in construction of the Church at St. Anselme more than 100 years ago.

The body was discovered three weeks ago by repairmen.

Who placed the body there and for what reason? Why had the news taken so long to leak out? These were questions Quebecers were asking themselves today. There seemed to be no immediate explanation.

In all events, the mummy has been returned to the resting place on display for residents of St. Anselme and vicinity. Curate Dumas says it is going to stay where it is.

Father Dumas said the workmen first discovered a marble plaque and that after it had been removed, the sarcophagus was unearthed.

The Curate said the body is "so well preserved that if contemporaries knew the artist, they would certainly immediately recognize Mr. Audet."

TCA Satisfied With British Engines Says Vice-President

Ottawa, April 25 — (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines are satisfied with the performance of their aircraft engines, but they are constantly on the outlook for developments.

W. F. Englehart, vice-president in charge of operations, Monday told the Commons Railway and Shipping Committee that T.C.A. was content with the performance of the British liquid-cooled Merlins used on North Stars and air-cooled Pratt and Whitney engines used on Vikings.

He had investigated engines used by other air lines, including those in the United States, and he was of the opinion that the T.C.A. engines were of equal performance.

Questioned by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, Mr. Englehart said T.C.A. was cautioning flight captains against flying four-engine North Star aircraft with three engines had been distributed in March, 1949. He said the instructions were that the notice went out because of "alarm" over T.C.A. engine failures was "far-fetched."

The notice asking flight captains to be reserved in use of the three engines applied to ferrying of aircraft from one airport to another.

It did not apply to movement of passengers or pay-loads. The North Stars then flew with all four engines functioning.

Mr. English also confirmed Mr. Drew's statement that a notice had been issued recently stating that North Star aircraft be operated at medium and not fast 1950 speed.

Mr. Drew maintained the reason speeds of the Merlin were being kept down was to avoid burning out engine bearings. Merlin engines were not operated at "maximum" efficiency because of concern over North Star engine failures.

The Commons committee, continuing investigation of T.C.A. operations, was told that T.C.A. expected to cut the annual deficit from $4,217,000 in 1949 to $1,245,000 in 1950.

G. R. MacGregor T.C.A. president, said the T.C.A forecast was for a decline in revenues from the Atlantic service because of increased competition from other countries.

Revenues from the Atlantic service for 1950 are expected to decline from $9,000,000 in 1949 to $7,900,000 in 1950, the deficit on the North Atlantic run also is expected to rise from $1,700,000 in 1949 to $163,000 in 1950.

On the Atlantic service, operating revenue is estimated for 1950 at $9,500,000 as compared with $10,200,000 in 1949; operating expenses $10,500,000 compared with $11,700,000, the deficit is expected to decline to $1,264,000 from $2,208,000 in 1949.

More optimistic is the company's estimate of T.C.A. operations on North American routes. The 1950 forecast is for operating revenues of $17,000,000 compared with $26,500,000 last year and for operating costs $30,195,000 compared with $27,500,000.

Instead of a deficit of $1,418,000 last year, the company expects to end up the year's operations in 1950 with a surplus of $21,000.

More Industrial Accidents but Fewer are Fatal

Toronto, April 25—(CP)—Ontario had more industrial accidents last year but fewer of them fatal, it resulted in permanent disability.

A report placed before the annual convention of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations by general manager R. B. Morley said the number of accidents recorded to the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board was 179,894 in 1949 compared with 174,000 in 1948.

The number of fatalities was down from 1948 and permanent disabilities from 2,210 to 1,740.

Mr. Morley concluded that accident prevention in Ontario's industrial is paying off in lives saved and money in the pocket.

Accidents cost Ontario more money last year. The compensation bill was $19,028,350 but the report said this increase was of a relatively lesser tendency to report even minor accidents.

The three top causes of injury shown in an analysis of the 1949 reports were material handling, mechanisms and falls of workers, Mr. Morley said.

World Lacks Clear Idea of Value of Work

—POPE PIUS

Vatican City, April 25 (AP)— Pope Pius said today that much of the world's present economic crisis is caused by lack of "a true and clear idea of the Christian value of work."

The Pontiff addressed several thousand employees of the Bank of Italy, but his words were directed to all workers in general.

Wealth, said the Pope, was not condemned by the Gospel of Christ. The Lord, he said, praised or condemned man's conduct in acquiring wealth, if the man's end was good or bad.

"Woe," cried the Pope quoting Luke (16:19) "to the wicked rich man who does not turn a glance of pity toward the poor, naked, covered with sores, lies at his door."

Professional work, said the Pope, "should be for Christians a grace of redemption."

"There is much discontent today, many misunderstandings, much indifference because there is no longer the true, clear idea of the Christian value of work, or at least it is not so alive," the Pope said.

"Work," he added, "should give bread and his family sufficient daily bread.

"Work should also serve the common good and testify to the presence of responsibility of each one for the advantage of all."

CBC Deficit Seen for Year Ending March 31

Ottawa, April 25 — (CP) — Revenue Minister McCann, whose department collects the annual levies of radio broadcasting, today told a House committee that the CBC will show a deficit in its report for the year ended March 31.

He spoke briefly at an organization of the Commons Radio Committee which held only two meetings for the first time since 1947.

R. W. Maybank (L-Winnipeg South) was elected committee chairman.

J. D. McCann spoke of the establishment of a new radio centre in Montreal which he said would be ready by 1952 in the world.

Cost of government-operated radio broadcasting had been heavy but it was worth it, Dr. McCann said. The international short-wave station installed recently at Moncton had cost $1,800,000 but the Montreal station which it controls was expensive.

The CBC would show a deficit because all costs were higher than ever.

Decide in Day Or Is if Formal Inquiry Needed

Toronto, April 25 — (CP) —A decision will be made in a "day or so" on whether to hold a formal inquiry into the complaints of seven young church choir singers that they were "bullied" by the Ontario Provincial Police officers.

Commissioner William Stringer of the O. P. P. said today a preliminary investigation into the affair is still going on. Reports from the two officers and from the persons who made the complaint are being studied at headquarters.

The choir singers complained that two provincial police officers, "dressed like a couple of thugs and speaking in French," stopped their automobile as they returned to Toronto from a church service in Chelmsford, north. They said the police searched their car.

"It looked to me as if they wanted some more liquor," said Douglas Talbot, one of the school teacher who was among the seven in the car.

The police officers were identified as Col. Dave Adair and a Constable Sparling. Cpl. Adair said they searched the car because they thought the boys had suggested the occupants might have been drinking.

The officers denied having been drinking themselves.

WHOLE CITY BLOCK IN FORT WILLIAM SWEPT BY FIRE

100 Persons Homeless, Loss Half Million

Fort William, April 25. (CP) A spectacular fire swept through a city block in central Fort William early today destroying or damaging 10 dwellings, two apartment buildings and a lumber and fuel yard. No lives were lost and none was reported injured.

First reports said that more than 100 persons were rendered homeless and the toll might exceed 150. Flames, fanned by gusty winds, roared out of control for more than two hours.

Flames first were noticed in the buildings of the wholesale fuel and lumber buildings of Snelgrove and Evans about 2:30 a.m. Swiftly they spread to adjacent houses.

Police Arouse Occupants

While firemen fought the flames, policemen and night workers ran from door to door to arouse sleeping occupants. The red glare over the downtown section of the city soon attracted hundreds of spectators who pitched in to help remove belongings from buildings in the path of the fire. So fast did the flames spread, however, that some tenants escaped with little more than the clothes they were wearing.

Flames leaped from house to the street to a solid row of dwellings. Occupants of these homes manned garden hoses to drench roofs and walls as protection against searing heat and flying embers.

As dawn broke, firemen still were battling to protect dwellings. Close by, the fire lines on lawns, sidewalks and streets were piled with furniture and belongings of the homeless.

Red Cross workers swung into action to aid the homeless.

U.S. to Build A-Powered Sub

Washington, April 25—(AP)— The United States Navy today disclosed plans to build radically new submarines powered by an atomic powered—and to convert its fleet of 14 guided-missile combat vessel.

These construction plans were made known in testimony to Congress for authority to build 112 vessels of varying types.

Admiral Forrest Sherman, Chief of Naval Operations, told the House of Representatives Armed Services Committee the recommendations were made by the Defence Secretary Louis Johnson with O.K.

Sherman said the proposed program would cost $335,000,000.

STORK WINS RACE

Weston, April 25 — (CP) — A taxi driver lost a race with the stork today. He got his passenger, Mrs. Ivan Wilson, to hospital — only as far as the entrance to Weston's Manhattan Hospital when the mother gave birth to a daughter.

Toronto Woman Given 12 Years For Knife Slaying

Mrs. R. Leland Sentenced For Stabbing Her Landlord

Toronto, April 25 — (CP) — A 12-year penitentiary term was imposed today on Mrs. Rae Leland, 40, convicted April 18 of manslaughter in the paring-knife slaying of her landlord.

Her husband, Keith, jointly charged with her, was acquitted.

Years welled in Mrs. Leland's eyes as the court clerk read and bed a man in the throat and brought about his death." Her lips quivered as she heard the sentence read by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer.

The charge arose from the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Leland's friend Montelth, 43, during an altercation with the Lelands outside their apartment in his east - end River Street home last Dec. 30.

As Montelth started down the stairs to his own quarters, he called out to his wife: "Rose, she stabbed me through the heart." He collapsed at his wife's feet and died a few minutes later.

Ontario Bureau Shows Decline In Employment

Toronto, April 5 — (CP)—Employment in Ontario showed a slight decline according to the Ontario Bureau of Statistics and Research.

Latest return indicates that employment in leading industries in Ontario during two per cent below the previous month and one per cent lower than the same time last year.

Compared with last year, employment in the construction group dropped in logging, non-ferrous metal mining, fuels, iron and steel and textiles. Gains were shown in the communications and construction groups, while manufacturing increased in eight zones over the month but dropped in 13 zones as compared to last year. As of the end of March there were 102,287 unemployed as compared with 84,933 a year ago.

Handy Gadget

Washington, April 25 — (AP) — The Navy Bureau of Air- Ships has developed a gadget to help fliers find out from the pilot whether he or she is strong enough for plane landings. The device is dropped by the fliers' parachute. The impact detonates a small charge which sets up vibrations in the ice. A seismograph similar to those which detect earthquakes records the vibrations. Its report is transmitted automatically by radio to the plane and the depth and strength of the ice mass can be obtained.

Sentenced for Assault

Toronto, April 25 — (CP) — Ross Burnett, 20, convicted of attempted criminal assault on a 14-year-old girl in suburban East York township, today was sentenced to seven years. His sentence was made consecutive to a three-year sentence for breaking and entering.

"The attack on this innocent young girl, accompanied with a baby in her arms was most shocking," said Chief Justice J. C. McRuer. "I am convinced you should be kept away from womankind for a long time."

More Than 450 Changes in Hymns Made in New C of E Hymnal in U.K.

BY DON GILBERT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 25—(CP)— A revised edition of the controversial "Hymns Ancient and Modern" is the first and many old favorites are missing.

More than 450 changes are made in the new edition. Church of England organists who can name any hymn from its number will have to learn all over again.

The first reaction to the revised hymnal issued by many churches will be in no hurry to adopt it. Some clergy are upset by the dropping of well-known hymns.

Rev. Cecil Northcott, a complete set of church hymn books also will be a consideration in many parishes.

The BBC was cautious, too. Rev. Frederick Hunt, director of religious broadcasting, said the old hymns will be used as long as there is sufficiently known, probably a matter of years.

Among hymns dropped are the 18th-century "Almighty Father Hear Our Cry" and "A Few More Years Shall Roll". Two favorite Christmas hymns, "While Shepherds That Breathed O'Er Eden" and "O Father All-Creating" have disappeared.

The new comers include Blake's prophetic "Jerusalem," set to music by Sir Hubert Parry, which is regarded as a sort of second national anthem.

Another addition is Sir Cecil Spring-Rice's "I Vow To Thee My Country," written Jan. 13, 1918, Sir Cecil's last day as British Ambassador in Washington.

The revisers also have let in some hymns from the writers' "All Through the Night," "Hyfrydrol," "Cwm Rhondda," and "Landaff," "Ebenezer," "Ton-y-Botel," and "Thou Great Redeemer" are probably for "Cwm Rhondda," composed in 1907 by John Hughes.

First publication of "Hymns Ancient and Modern" was the attempt of a group of Anglican clergymen to improve the hymns they heard in church.

OPPOSE SUGGESTION

Oppose Suggestion U.S. Bear Part Of British Debt

Washington, April 25—(AP)— Odd opposition was raised in the Senate today to Britain's proposal that the United States shoulder part of Britain's $3,000,000,000 ($8,300,000,000) debt to the sterling-bloc countries.

Three leaders spoke out vigorously against the idea. Opposition was believed to reflect a general feeling among congressmen.

Here is what they had to say:

Chairman Tom Connally (Dem., Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee: "The British proposal is astounding. It is my view that the United States cannot and should not entertain the British plan."

Senator Robert Taft (Rep., Ohio) chairman of the Republican Senate Policy Committee: "It is an extraordinary proposition for their part to ask us now to assume their debts."

Senator Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska, Republican Senate floor leader: "I am not ready for signing any further aid to Britain."

The British proposal was announced Monday as an "exploratory" plan being considered by the Truman administration officials. It would call for the United States to take care of a big share of Britain's debts to India, Pakistan and colonial Asia.

"When the British loan of $3,750,000,000 was made," Taft said, "it was the clear understanding that it was to help the British get back on a dollar-earning basis. Any amendment of their understanding simply adds to the load our people have been made under other circumstances.

Taft said the British government's financial statement last month showed the British had a balanced trade budget abroad and a balanced financial budget at home.

"They now have a gold reserve of nearly $2,000,000,000," he said. "Why should we advance them more money today?"

The British proposal came in the form of a request for the use of a $3,372,450,000 foreign aid bill which contains $687,000,000 for Britain.

DISCUSSION OF CURRICULUM REVISION

In 1904, a revised edition was issued. The controversial hymns have none of it. Mindful of that setback, the late Sir Sydney Nicholson spent the war years laying the groundwork for the new hymnal. He consulting out clergy, organists and choirs on their likes and dislikes.

Musical editor of the revised edition is Dr. J. Dykes Bower, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral in London.

SEA CADETS PREPARE FOR BUSY SEASON

The sailing season is again under way for the cadets of H.C.S. "Quinte". During the week-end the old ship gave the new sailing dinghy its trial runs, and declared the boat ready for another season. Petty Officer Richards and Leading Cadet Kelly-way with their respective crews soon took advantage of this, and each crew went for a sail. With cool shifting winds the first sail of the year proved a thrilling one.

The cadets have been working hard during the past week, to get their boats ready for service, and it is expected that all boats will be launched and ready by this week-end. At the present time all the cadets are looking forward to the summer months and the frequent trips that have been planned. The most extensive sailing trip in the history of the Corps will take place this year, with a full sailing schedule going into effect immediately after the annual inspection May 10.

TWO DOGS FOUND RUNNING AT LARGE

Dogs running at large in the city will be shot, according to the up lawns owned by the neighbor ey crops, or whole households, according to city dog catcher Thomas Thorn.

Just as evidence of this is the fact that Mr. Thorn this morning picked up two dogs in the Albert Street district which were found to be running at large.

One of the dogs was a female mongrel fox terrier and the other a black and white spaniel. Both dogs were wearing collars but no tags.

Safe-Crackers Get $200 From Tweed Feed Mill

Tweed — Knocking the combination off with a hammer, safe-crackers Monday night managed open the safe in the office of the Tweed Feed Mill, Colborne St., and escaped with over $200 in cash. The intruders entered the building by prying open a door.

The feed mill which does a wholesale and retail business is owned by Emerson Hodgins, Tweed.

Provincial Police Constables Jack Hatch and Hector Gould from Madoc, assisted by O. P. P. Constable James Driscoll of Belleville, and Police Chief G. M. Spratt of Tweed, are investigating the break-in.

Police stated they believed the safe-cracking job had been done by persons from outside the Tweed district.

Local Y's Men Meet Ottawa Club

Fifteen members of the Y's Men's Club travelled to Ottawa over the weekend to hold a conference with the club of the capital city on ways and means of spreading the spirit of Y'ndom throughout the Ottawa district. The meeting was held at the Boys' Camp of the Ottawa Y. M. C. A. on the shores of the Ottawa River, fifteen miles west of the city overlooking the Gatineau Hills of Quebec. It was a perfect setting for the fellowship and understanding which developed in the course of the weekend meetings of the Belleville club conducted new members of the Ottawa Club.

Many Complaints Received on Smoke Damage

It's washday blues for numerous city housewives this week during the past few weeks have complained bitterly and emphatic on to the city police department that their weekly wash is being ruined by their black smoke pouring from the chimneys of various commercial establishments.

The irate housewives have even carried the matter direct to the chief magistrate of the city with Mayor H. J. Allin reporting numerous complaints of this nature.

Monday night at city council Mayor Allin said that all of the complaints had been investigated. It was found the trouble, in two instances, was due to faulty stoker. These were being repaired, it was stated.

Promises Relief

Again yesterday a housewife in the North Coleman Street area complained about the smoke belching "continuously" from the chimney of a cleaning establishment. Her wash, she said, had been ruined by the sooty smoke.

Police investigated and true enough smoke emitted continuously from the chimney in question for a prolonged period. The proprietor promised the trouble would be remidied .

Y's Men Hear Talk on Law

In a rapid fire address highlighted by numerous peculiar incidents of courtroom procedure, Ron Cass addressed members of the Y's Men's Club at their weekly meeting in the Y.M.C.A. on the subject "Problems of Law".

The speaker reviewed the origins and history of law which he stated may be the code but the interpretation was the responsibility of the courts. The code he said is written into statutes of the province, the dominion or the British Parliament, and court decisions are based on these acts of Parliament.

The speaker was introduced by Willis Hutchinson and thanked by Mac Dowsett.

LATE MRS. WILLIAM MAYNES (Stirling)

Stirling, April 25 (Special) — The funeral of Mrs William Maynes (nee Mary Marie Johnston) was largely attended at her late residence on Monday afternoon.

The Rev. A. E. Baker, minister of St. Paul's, conducted the service, words of comfort to the bereaved husband and family and paid tribute to the services of the deceased in the church. Mrs. Maynes was a life member of St. Paul's Woman's Missionary Society and in a couple of weeks she would have been a life member of St. Paul's W.A. as her name had already been sent to Toronto in preparation for the Jubilee services.

Fraternally she was a member of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211 Stirling.

Mrs. Cecil Macklin and Mrs. Russell Stapley rendered a vocal duet "There Are No Disappointments in Heaven."

The pallbearers were Messrs. Percy Utman, Harvey Pitcher, Charles Hopkins, Clarence Eagleson, Harry Francis and C. R. Bastedo.

Interment took place in Stirling Cemetery.

A wealth of floral tributes were in evidence.

Deceased was the last of her family, She leaves to mourn, her husband, one son, Albert J. Maynes, Tweed; two daughters, Miss Florence Maynes at home and Mrs. Lorne Wilson (Mildred) of Stirling.

MRS. MINNIE (GREATRIX) HAROLD (Formerly of Belleville)

Mrs. Mary Etta (Minnie Greatrix) Harold, widow of James Harold, died in Kingston, on Monday. She was in failing health for some time.

The Mrs. Harold was born in this city and was a daughter of the late John and Mrs. Mary Greatrix, who were well known residents here many years ago. For the past few years she made her home in Kingston, but the greater part of her life was passed in this city, where she was well esteemed by many friends. In her early 'ter years she was a member of Christ Church choir and took part in the work of the parish. Old friends here will regret to learn of her death.

Surviving her are one sister, Miss Beatrice Greatrix, Belleville; two brothers, Mr. Hillier Greatrix, Toronto, and Mr. Ernest Greatrix, Kingston.

Funeral at the Corrigan and O'Brien Funeral Home, 30 Moira Street West; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

GEORGE GORDON FROST (Sidney Township)

George Gordon Frost died at his home on Bell Road, first concession of Sidney township early Tuesday morning after an illness extending over five years.

Born in Rawdon township the late Mr. Frost was in his 56th year and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Frost. For some time he lived near Frankford and for the past thirty years he lived in Sidney township. When health permitted he was engaged in farming. He was a member of Wesley United Church, Frankford, and was well esteemed in the community.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Sarah May Bikley; three daughters, Mrs. James (Helen) Wright, Toronto; Mrs. Ernest (Phyla) Pope, Belleville, and Mrs. Ronald (Evelyn) Graham, at home; one son, Gerald C. Frost, Toronto; two sisters, Mrs. Albert Casey, Murray township and Mrs. Charles Tucker, Stirling; three brothers, Carman Frost, Cecil Frost and Harold Frost, all of Frankford.

Meeting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street until early Tuesday evening then at his late residence; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

MRS. MARGARET McKEOWN (Roslin)

Mrs. Margaret McKeown, Bonarlaw, died early Tuesday afternoon in the Belleville General Hospital. She was 66 years of age and was a patient in the hospital since April 4th.

Routine Matters Given Attention By City Council

Purchase of a new truck for the public works department at a cost of $3,171.80, was authorized by city council Monday evening. Purchase of the truck will be subject to approval of the Municipal Board for financing through issuing of debentures. The truck will be purchased from the Belleville Motor Car Company, whose tender was the lowest.

The meeting was one of the quietest city council Monday nights more than routine business matters being handled.

Arrears with Resolution

Council concurred in a resolution from the local board of health to the effect that no building permits be issued by the city for the erection of dwellings on streets which have not been serviced with services. Council will also take steps to clarify the scope and extent of the local health board's authority to insure that infractions of the building by-law and other regulations are properly dealt with.

The recommendation from the Health Board resulted from difficulty which the health authorities have had in enforcing sanitary regulations on streets on which there was no water service.

Council took no action on a bid of magistrate Thompson of Belleville Suburban Planning Board with respect to the extension of street as bearing duplicate or confusing names. The list was referred to the next committee meeting of council.

Harold Hamilton and the assessing officer will attend the annual meeting of assessing officers to be held in Windsor in June.

Install New Motor

A new motor will be installed in the core-room blower and compressor at a cost of $360. Alderman Thomas stated the committee of governors had made its purchase in 1947. A spare tire for the motor has been purchased at a cost of $150.

On question from Alderman Hyde as to the amount of taxes collected so far this year, city treasurer Ben Millens stated that approximately $180,000 had been paid by taxpayers.

Alderman Argue enquired as to the progress of the special committee set up which had been appointed to confer with the hospital board of governors regarding the health clinic leaving the hospital and for discussion of other hospital matters.

Mayor Allin replied that members of that committee had not had been busy and that no meeting with the board had been held. Alderman Argue said he enquired only because of the urgency of the matter as had been reported at the time.

Plan Storm Sewer

A notice of motion was introduced by Alderman Thomas calling on the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications of cost for up to a 50-inch storm sewer on Cedar Street from which the large sewer would be needed because of the fact that an area of approximately 7000 acres would be drained. The engineer will investigate the relative cost of steel and machine labor in construction of the sewer.

The city public works was authorized to repair the road surface on Queen Street from Bridge Street to Cumming's Bridge. Alderman Allin and Alderman Hyde both thought the responsibility of repairing the roadway should rest with the contractor following the installation of water mains, but it had been found that the contract did not cover the repairs.

Street Name Changed

Third reading given to a by-law changing the name of Bell and Cemetery Streets to Stanley Street. The change was one that had been approved by County Judge J. C. Anderson, it was stated.

Chairman of executive, Alderman A. M. Haig presented an interim report of city expenditures thus far in the year. He reported that all city departments were within their budgets, but the position was such that there was no room for carelessness by any of the committee chairmen. Approximately 32 per cent of the city budget had been spent, he said.

POLICE COURT

Appearing for sentence after pleading guilty last week to the theft of a blanket and a windshield fan from parked cars, Ernest Dunlap, 28, of Wallbridge Road, today in city magistrate's court was sentenced to 21 days in jail. Dunlap has pleaded guilty to the two charges last Friday and was remanded until today for sentence.

Allan Misner, 25, city, charged with the theft of a bicycle from since cheque, the property of a Station Street woman, was remanded in city police court on Friday of this week. The remand was allowed to permit the accused to secure counsel if he desired.

Firemen Given Authority to Develop Playgrounds at Rear of Firehall

A children's playground for the west side of the river to serve the area adjacent to the Coleman Flats district is seen as a distinct possibility by council Monday evening's meeting of city council when members of the local fire department were given authority to proceed with the development of a park at the rear of the new fire hall on Moira St.

The area on which the park would be developed is directly to the north of the firehall and is approximately 480 feet deep and averages about 125 feet deep. The unused Fahey Street road allowance were used, the area would be 150 feet or more wide. The land is city owned but will be deeded to the firehall property.

1st Out Baseball Diamond

Immediate plans call for cleaning up the property and laying out a softball diamond. Trees will also be planted by the firemen while it is expected fill can be secured from time to time in the low places. An outdoor skating rink would be operated on the property during the winter months.

The city parks board will be asked to supply some park benches while ultimately it is hoped that swings and junior playground equipment for the younger children will be made available.

Alderman Angus Duffy, chairman of fire, suggested that the new park be called "Firemen's Park" in recognition of the assistance which firemen have offered in making the playground possible.

To Mail Scrolls

Veterans' scrolls, originally intended for presentation by the city four years ago to veterans of the Second World War, will be in the mails by early next; week, members of city council were told Monday evening by Alderman Everett Liddle.

During the tenure of office of Ex-Mayor Frank S. Follwell council voted that scrolls bearing the city expressing appreciation from the municipality for service during the war, be presented to each veteran claiming Belleville as his home at the time of enlistment. However, delay was encountered in having the scrolls engrossed.

Two weeks ago Alderman Liddle was authorized to supervise placing the city seal on each of the approximately 1,000 scrolls. He added he intends to address the scrolls. Here again difficulty has been encountered because in some instances have been changed and other veterans have moved from the city.

Mayor H. J. Allin last night officially presented the first scroll to one of his council members, Alderman Dr. Richmond T. Potter, who served during the last war.

Says New Drug May Add 25 Years To Ordinary Life Expectancy

The promise of achievement of distribution was a serious one, a new drug to bring under control degenerative diseases will add a quarter century to life expectancy, Dr. George H. Stobie told the Rotary Club yesterday.

Speaking on the subject of research on "New Discoveries of Medical Science," Rotarian Stobie said the drug ACTH now controls many degenerative processes so that people originally with a threat of life for years, will run and dance within a few days.

While ACTH is in a most elementary experimental stage, Dr. Stobie said that the future conceptions of degenerative disease causes that promise to be the greatest gift to mankind since the discovery of the germ theory of disease.

"It does not mean that we are on the road back to Methusalah but it does mean that we probably will prolong the years of youth and conserve to a huge degree of middle life by postponing the degenerative processes we know as old age. In other words, turns back the biologic time and control the rate of ticking."

He pointed out the great increase in average length of human life in countries where modern medicine and sanitation are practised. Seventy-five years of life in China, India and Africa is 22 years—just what it was in Europe during the dark ages before modern medicine. Every man in the 50-year crowd is a conquest of modern medicine.

As a consequence of this great increase in length of life, the population of the world is incressingly disturbing. The problem is one of death rate of the last war, world populations has increased 400 million during the last five years.

Food Production Decreased

Turning to a different picture Dr. Stobie pointed out the serious problem of the decrease in food production. Soil erosion is accounting for a huge annual loss of arable land. In the USA they are losing it at the rate of 700 "40-acre" farms per day.

Royal Message Received on 60th Anniversary

Messages of congratulation were received from the King and Queen, Lord and Lady Alexander, Laurent by Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Brannan of Marysville on their Diamond Wedding Anniversary last Friday.

During the day the couple received many messages of congratulation from friends and neighbors at their farm home where they began their married life in 1890.

Three of their family of four sons, who live in the Marysville district, called on them during the day. The youngest, an engineer for the Pathenay Township Lines, was unable to be present.

some of the monies now earmarked for armaments."

Medicine in the olden days "as based on superstition and treatment was a matter of cants and incantations, he said.

Pointing out that 75 years medicine has made tremendous progress and continues at an increasing rate, and I can say with confidence that more lives have been saved by those great discoveries during that period than all years of recorded history have taken."

He outlined the valuable discoveries of vaccination and vaccination; sulpha, penicillin and other drugs which, he said, "have pretty well knocked out the last great stronghold of disease caused by infection."

Surgery Advanced

Chemistry and agriculture have made great contributions to medical science and surgery has been so greatly advanced by all these discoveries that every cavity of the body can be entered safely. Even the interior of the heart can be operated on.

Dr. Stobie made special mention of the drug, curare, which he said has a temporary paralyzing action, if given in small doses. It has been used by the American Indians used to poison their arrows with. It has been employed with great success in surgery through the science of anaesthesia.

In reviewing these accomplishments, Dr. Stobie asked, is it not logical to attribute it, says the remarkable advance of mankind in all branches of knowledge in the last half century to the longer span of productive years?

"Can be not say," he went on, "according to the law of averages that many of those who have contributed to the discoveries that have changed the face of the world would have died in infancy or before attaining maturity, had they been born before the era of modern medicine, sanitation and hygiene?"

"And so standing at the half century mark," he concluded, "I firmly believe that the years which have already given to mankind these things, will conquer T.B. and cancer and stem the tide of degenerative diseases."

"And I also firmly believe that more men and women will live in the better world of tomorrow and that medicine together with agriculture will find ways to feed and keep healthy a greater number of people."

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Jamieson Bone with Rotarian Doug Whillans expressing club appreciation.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 25 — (CP) Prices slipped slowly for a second successive day on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Industrials led a slow decline that showed signs of picking up speed at the half-way mark. Several individual mining issues were brisk traders for moderate advances. Volume for the first three hours was 1,039,000 shares.

In the industrials, papers, utilities, steels showed majorities of declines in the groupings while agriculturles, constructions and liquors firmed. Several blue-chip financial issues bounded up strongly. Canada Permanent Mortgage was ahead $3 at a new high at $220 on sales of 10 shares.

Senior gold producers gained fractions while the majority of juniors chalked up penny declines.

Base metals were mixed in a narrow range. Leaders were ahead fractions. Waite Amulet, East Sullivan and Sherritt - Gordon showed losses ranging up to 10 cents.

Western oils were under mild downward pressure.

District Members of Canadian Legion Attend Rally at Lindsay

Over 300 members of the Canadian Legion heard Premier Leslie M. Frost give an inspiring address, and took part in the colorful parade to the cenotaph on Sunday afternoon at the District 20th rally meeting of the Legion in Lindsay.

Premier Frost, who is one of the original members of the Sir Sam Hughes Branch No. 67 in Lindsay, and who has always taken an active part in Legion activities, was presented with an illuminated copy of an address he made to members of the Legion at a rally a year ago.

Morning Meeting

The meeting opened in the morning with District Commander "Tiff" Comrade Frank Threadgold of Whitby officiating. Ronald Maghay, son of one of the members of the Lindsay Legion say Branch, sang the Lord's Prayer.

After the opening remarks of Chairman R. H. Liddle, Deputy District Commander, district reports and addresses of welcome were given by Comrades Ernie Hall, R. E. L. Sharp of Sir Sam Hughes Branch and Ray Hennessy, Maxwell.

Major General Arthur E. Potts, District Administrator, Department of Veterans' Affairs at Kingston, a life-long member of the Legion, gave an excellent address on veterans' welfare. He addressed the three deputy heads of the Kingston district in the meeting.

The various branches formed under their respective branch colors to march to the cenotaph where tribute was paid to deceased members of the Canadian Legion. Wreaths were subsequently laid by the band of the 4th Field Regiment (S.P.) R.C.A. of Lindsay.

Tribute Paid

Tribute was paid also to the memory of a member of the Lindsay Post who passed away suddenly on Saturday. When the parade returned from the memorial Service, it halted and stood at attention outside the house of their departed comrade.

Premier Leslie Frost, Major General Potts, Provincial Command President Comrade G. M. Fitzgerald and other high-ranking officials entered the home and paid personal tribute.

Premier Frost gave his address during the banquet which followed the parade. He was introduced by Comrade Jasper Forman of Branch No. 67, who is sheriff of Haliburton and Victoria counties, and was thanked by Comrade Commander Ewart Jones on behalf of the members.

Zone Commander Jones, who was also chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, was presented with a medal by the Provincial President.

Clayton Hodgson, M.P. for Victoria and Haliburton, and a Lindsay resident, gave a short talk.

Resolutions Presented

During the meeting fifteen resolutions were presented to the delegates, and four were turned down.

Nine representatives from Belleville were present including Commander Ed. Smith, Deputy Zone Commander, "F3" who gave the impression that now, Henry Becker of Belleville tendered a vote of thanks to the Ladies' Auxiliary, the host branch, the speakers, and all those who helped to make the day a success.

According to present plans, the next district rally will be held at Madoc.

Neglect of Mail Boxes on Farms Poor Advertising Says Postmaster

Standing conspicuously by the gate at each farm home in this section of Ontario, the humble rural mail box represents an advertising medium that is seldom taken advantage of by farmers.

Just this is the opinion of Mr. J. C. Waddell, local postmaster, who claims that a shiny, mail box bearing the farmer's name can do service a dual purpose.

In the first place the name of each farmer or person receiving mail from each box is required by postal regulations to be painted on the box. And in the second place the appearance of a neatly painted on boxes has an advertising value that can be of advantage to each farmer.

Boxes Neglected

But how different is the actual case, Mr. Waddell claims, that not one in ten rural boxes has the farmer's name stencilled on it, or else the stencilling was done so long ago that it would defy recognition as such. In many cases the lawn is tidy and the house and barns are freshly painted, yet the mail box remains rusting and forgotten.

This question of suitable and efficient mailboxes is a sore point with many of the rural mail couriers but it seems that farmers can be either forgetful or negligent when it come to providing regulation equipment. This despite the fact that failure to do so could result in a suspension of service. Signal Purposes

The regulation mail box is constructed with a swivel, but possibly few farmers today can remember just for what purpose this particular feature was intended.

This swivel feature on all regulation mail boxes is intended as a signalling device which if properly used could save the farmer or his good wife many unnecessary trips.

The intention is that whenever mail is placed in the box either by the courier or the box holder, the box should be turned at right angles to the road. Thus, unless he has mail for that particular box, the courier need not be required to stop. By the same token the householder need not go to his box if it remains parallel to the road.

For Mail Only

Farm split-rail mail boxes are to be used for mail and mail only. But this regulation is almost completely ignored by the well meaning farmer.

"Sometimes couriers even find bread in the mail boxes," said Mr. Waddell.

Then again approaches to the boxes should be kept free of snow. The courier is not required to get out of his conveyance to put the letters into the box when deep mud conditions as well as snow.

Occasionally a Western Institute or some other rural organization will start a campaign to paint mailboxes and farmers soon assent. In the interests of better mail service Mr. Waddell says that more organizations would get the idea.

GATEMAN REMANDED

Welland, April 25 — (CP) — Melvin Yaeger, 23, charged with manslaughter in the triple railway crossing fatality here early Sunday, today was remanded for a week.

He was the gateman at the crossing when a New York Central flier struck a truck, killing Mrs. Harry Korowny, 52, Mrs. Raymond Motolanex, 47, and Mrs. Mary Shepteuko, 38.

Queen Mary Home And School Assoc. Holds Open House

The Queen Mary Home and School Association recently held their annual meeting in the school auditorium, and "Open House" in the four class rooms. The president, Mrs. Jo Hopkins, presided, and welcomed the guests.

Mrs. Hopkins gave reports from the different departments, which were satisfactory in all respects. Mrs. Ray Post gave a short report on the recent "Hobby Fair". Banner attendance was by Miss Alice Arkle's room for junior school, and by Miss Clara Wilson's room for senior school.

General business was discussed. Mr. J. E. Bateman, principal of Prince Charles school, spoke briefly, and extended a cordial invitation to all to visit the new school before it opens. Mrs. Hopkins, delegate to the Home and School Convention held in Toronto during Easter week, brought a fine and detailed account.

Mr. L. Frederick, principal of Queen Mary school, extended appreciative thanks to the choir of Christ Church who were present, and who had rendered some fine musical numbers.

Three mothers, Mrs. H. Croll, Mrs. A. C. Campbell and Mrs. K. J. Shulman each gave an interesting brief talk on the various aspects of "Parent Education".

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem by the refreshment committee.

WEST HUNTINGDON

"THE CLUB GIRL STANDS"

West Huntingdon—The Maple Leaf Club Girls recently held their 7th and final meeting at the home of Mrs. John McIntyre for this club unit, "Club Girl Stands on Guard".

Facts were studied under the following headings, shoes, stockings, other clothing; exercises for weak muscles; tender feet; care of the eyes and care of the skin. The serving of tasty refreshments by the hostess and a social half hour brought the meeting to a close.

In summing up the full unit and with the help of the group leaders, it was found this one of the most interesting and educational units yet taken.

Heavy Livestock, Property Loss When Fire Destroys Barn at Picton

Picton (Special) —Loss estimated at $15,000 resulted Monday night at the farm of E. A. Jessup, two miles east of Picton, on the High Shore Road, when fire destroyed a large frame barn, together with cattle and other livestock, machinery and seed grain.

Destroyed in the blaze were, a head of cattle, a team of horses, two sows, 1,000 bushels of seed grain, machinery including a new manure spreader never used, and hay.

The Jessup family had retired for the night when a daughter saw the reflection of flames through her bedroom window. She looked out to find the barn ablaze.

The fire had gained so great a start that it was impossible to get near the building and the cattle and other livestock died in their stalls. The flames also set a nearby combined pig and hen pen ablaze and members of the Bloomfield Fire Department who answered the alarm performed the almost impossible in saving the structure. Water was pumped from a nearby well. A sow and eight small pigs together with a number of hens were chased from the building.

The spectacular barn fire standing out against the darkened sky attracted hundreds of spectators from the district and the vicinity of the fire was lined with cars of people who went to the blaze. Insurance on the barn and contents amounted to only $5,000 it was stated.

EX-MAYOR GEORGE A. REID

One of Belleville's and the district's best known citizens, George A. Reid, has passed to his reward after a life of tireless activity. Though not a native of this city, being born in the adjacent counties, Lennox and Addington, he had in his thirty-seven years of residence here been privileged to exercise a wide influence upon the community of his adoption. The proof of his interest in matters civic in this community and the district was clearly manifest. He was a man of firm convictions and of tireless effort in matters of a civic nature, as was to be expected in one possessed of so dynamic a personality.

He served the city as alderman and filled the office of chief magistrate and for years occupied a place on the Belleville Public Utilities Commission. He was interested in the Hydro enterprise and was a staunch advocate of the purchase of the Belleville system, the by-law for which carried by a big majority in his own business field of insurance he was recognized as a leader in this service to the individual and community. He was a prominent member of John Street Presbyterian Church and later of St. Andrew's United Church and his loss will well known in fraternal circles. George A. Reid will long remain in the memory of the citizens of Belleville as an advocate of city progress.

The vigor and enthusiasm with which he championed the various causes which came to his attention were characteristic of the man and of the whole course of his life.

CANCER AND CHILDREN

Strange as it may seem cancer is racing into second place as the greatest killer of children in Ontario, says Kenneth W. McTaggart for the Cancer Society. He points out that because of the great advances in recent years in overcoming death from infectious diseases such as diphtheria and meningitis, accidents lead as the most common causes in the one to fourteen age group. Tuberculosis and cancer are now the second place.

It is surprising to many that cancer death rate among children is greater than that of adults suffering from cancer because of two reasons, children seldom complain of vague pains and aches, while physicians are not trained in cancer and the form of cancer that attacks children is unlike that in adults and is difficult to detect. Frequent and regular physical examinations may disclose it early enough to give promise of recovery.

Nowhere is the war on cancer fought with greater concentration than in the Hospital for Sick Children, in Toronto. Here work in the Hospital for Sick Children is directed along two avenues with teams working on each . . . the cause and the treatment. Normally the body replenishes its worn out cells. Occasionally, however, a lack of normal control affects a part of the body, and cancer, a wild offshoot of the normal body processes, results. It may be in the blood cells, thus causing leukemia. In children, a common form is cancer of the kidneys. In some cases an operation removes the malignant tumour; in others radium and X-Ray therapy is used.

In clinics and hospitals all over the civilized world, researchers are groping for the key to fit the door, which, once opened, will end cancer's toll of life. Any discovery of the cause and some change of forces that affect the body chemistry could end it; it may be a discovery of a drug or compound that could eradicate the condition. Two dozen people are concentrating on the problem in the laboratories of the Hospital for Sick Children. While they labour, present known methods are used to try to save children.

Research is a long and costly business, and for this reason part of the funds collected during the Canadian Cancer Society April Campaign for funds will be allocated to research projects in many parts of the Province, including those cases being carried on at the Sick Children's Hospital. Contributions to the Society should be made to any local unit or mailed direct to Postal Station "F," Toronto.

CRAZE FOR YOUTH

The old world has not lost its reverence for age. It seems to be the misfortune of a young country to put more emphasis on youth than age. The demands of pioneering life, the demands of modern factory life and the many demands of the rather fevered and highly artificial life of the present day all together too great an emphasis on youth.

Time and again occasion arises when the sad story is all too patent of discrimination against age and replacement by youth. The modern factory system, with its ever newer machinery, tends to discard the aged and to employ youth with much consequent hardship. It is sometimes forgotten that judgment comes with years, and an active mind may by constant use be only a much more tempered and highly developed instrument when years have left youthfulness in the distance. — Woodstock Sentinel Review.

JUST FOLKS

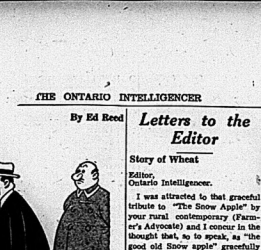
ARROGANCE

Some men to whom is much allowed
Of wealth and fame, grow overproud.
Head high, chests blown, they strut about.
Their least commands they loudly shout,
But, they forget — a blunder grave—
Good will lets no one misbehave.



Their money proves that they are shrewd
But grants no privilege to be rude.
The richer is the man, then

The gentler, kinder ought to be,
For wealth bestows on none the right
To be to others impolite.

My boy, learn all the world you can,
But gently treat your fellow man.
Should fortune smile on you, be glad
And grateful for the luck you've had.
But long remember what I've said:
For what you win don't long

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

IN SPITE OF WHAT THEY SAY

A tourist, who had spent a day at the Louvre looking at the great masterpieces, was interested to the guard at the door as he was taking his departure, "I don't think much of your pictures." The guard's cool reply was "Sir, the pictures are not on trial."

A whole multitude of people today need to realize that certain things in life are fundamental and are not on trial. Democracy, for instance, is not on trial, although we hear or read almost every day that it is. Democracy has brought greater decency and happiness into the world than any system humanity has known anything about. It is not perfect because imperfect men administer governments, but it is the best thing we have known in all the long annals of the race.

Monogamous marriage is not on trial. We have been through the variety of serial polygamy known as divorce and remarriage before, and past ages have found it no more satisfactory than we are finding it now.

The religious of Jesus Christ is not on trial. Nevertheless we ought to say it is on trial, for it is the experience of Christian faith which has given peace to men's minds the truth of the things which Christ taught.

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I was attracted to that graceful tribute to "The Snow Apple" in your rural contemporary (Farmer's Advocate) and I concur in the thought that a "good old, good old Snow apple" gracefully retires from the Canadian scene—after the heat and burden of generations — "nodding is here or there", as the modest "Snow" bows out before a wider circle which has been drawn by the plant scientists, in the form of "giving us better late summer and early fall varieties and bending hardier trees for the frontier."

The editorial induces me to bring to the attention of your readers in the city as well as down on the farm, the following interesting reference to the development of hardier strains of wheat over the past fifteen years to be credited, also, to the same patient persevering work in the agricultural laboratories and the plant scientists in the field.

"An outstanding contribution to the development of the wheat industry in Western Canada was the introduction to the prairies of Red Fife wheat. This wheat was introduced into Canada by David Fife, a farmer near Peterboro, Ontario. Fife requested a friend in Glasgow, Scotland, to send him a sample of wheat from northern Europe. A cargo of Red Fife arrived in due time and a sample of this was sent to David Fife. This grain was planted in the spring of 1842. One kernel sent up five heads and the next spring all of these planted grew six two stems of the wheat plant, but Red Fife was thriving, away and saved the other three stems. That seemingly trifling fact changed the whole destiny of western Canada. The acreage and production

Picton Kinsmen Present Gavel To Local Club

Members of the Belleville Kinsmen Club were hosts Monday evening to representatives of the Picton Kinsmen Club who presented the Belleville organization with a gavel during the bi-monthly meeting of the local club held in the Quinte Hotel.

Mr. Sam Gentile, spokesman for the Picton delegation, explained that the gavel would, in turn, be carried by the Belleville club to the Campbellford Kinsmen Club, which would take it to the district convention in Montreal. The idea behind this procedure, he said, was to foster inter-club visits and cooperation.

President Ernest Colebourne thanked Mr. Gentile and welcomed the Picton group to Belleville.

During the meeting, Mr. Clyde White was initiated into the Club, and presented with his pin by president Colebourne. Duff who ably described the principles upon which the Kinsmen Clubs of Canada were built.

Various aspects of the swimming pool project were discussed and reports on the fund-raising campaign were presented to the members by chairmen of the various committees.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Sam Gentile congratulated the local club on their organization and described problems that confronted the Picton club when it undertook work of a similar nature.

Other members of the Picton delegation were: Don Beaumont, Jo Wark and A. Mosier.

Classification speaker was A. R. Holway.

Rush Peace Talks In Rail-Labor Truce Interim

Washington, April 25 (AP) The government today pushed for all labor peace meetings after averting a serious strike due Wednesday on several key railroads in the United States.

Francis A. O'Neill, Jr., chairman of the National Mediation Board, said negotiations will be started soon in Chicago in an effort to solve a union demand for an extra fireman on big diesel locomotives.

The union, The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, agreed Monday night to a two-week truce proposed by O'Neill, thus averting the strike deadline from Wednesday morning to May 10.

The issue, however, has been discussed in many years in rail labor relations without a solution that prospects for any settlement in the two-week truce period seemed dim.

The multiple-engine diesels now have two-man crews composed of an engineer and a fireman Both the engineers and firemen have argued for years that an extra man is needed for safe operation.

However, two white house factfinding boards have ruled that the present crews are sufficient. The firemen's brotherhood decided to make it a strike issue bringing up the present crisis.

The strike vote has been directed at four major railroads, including all of the southern railway system and the entire Atchison, Topeka and Sante Fe.

Also, the strike would have closed down the Pennsylvania railroad west and north of Harrisburg, Pa., and the New York Central west of Buffalo, N.Y., and three of its divisions, the Michigan Central West of the Detroit River, the Big Four and the Ohio Central Lines.

Troops, Ratings March to Docks To Unload Ships

London, April 25 — (Reuters) — Nearly 2,500 troops and navy ratings marched into London docks in a blinding April snow storm today to help unload foodships tied up by the six-day strike of stevedores and dockers.

Nearly 12,500 men were out on the strike, which started last Wednesday in protest against the expulsion from the Transport and General Workers Union of three men alleged to have led last summer's stoppage in support of the Canadian seamen's dispute.

Matthew Gravitt, member of the unofficial Port Workers' Committee, told strikers they would seek support from London bus depots and Smithfield, the London wholesale meat market.

The committee will picket docks still working normally and planned a mass march to Victoria Park, East London, tomorrow, he added.

The government, which has labelled the strike as "communist - inspired" Monday ordered 1,000 soldiers and sailors to begin shifting urgently - needed food cargoes for some of the 80 idle ships.

More troops were drafted into the port area overnight bringing the total service force in the docks today to 2,476.

A heavy two-hour snowfall added to the troop difficulties on the slippery quayside and docks.

Tugmen, lightermen — who man the Thames barges — dock clerks and drivers of fuel trucks carrying oil for dock equipment threatened Monday night to refuse to work with the military.

Lightermen called a mass open air meeting for tonight to discuss action.

"RED HOT" IN MOSCOW

Moscow, April 25 — (AP) —A spring heat wave hit Russia's capital today. With the mercury at 85 degrees, the weather bureau said it was the warmest April 25th in 70 years.

Hang Upside Down In Crevasse For 22 Hours

Wellington, N.Z., April 25 (Reuters) — Two young fliers spent 22 hours hanging upside down in a wrecked tiger moth plane, not daring to move in case they sent it crashing into a glacier crevasse.

The craft caught in a downdraft, had been sucked on to an ice-field where it became wedged between two ice pinnacles.

The two uninjured men described their ordeal after being brought down by rescuers Monday night. Murray Thomas, 22, was the pilot, and his friend Norman Marshall, 43, was a passenger.

"The nose of the plane rammed one of the pinnacles and this left us nicely suspended and upside down over a glacier which was pretty deep," Thomas said.

"We did not dare move in case we upset the plane's balance. We were just hanging by tail and nose."

Charges Canada "Refused Right" To Indies Trade

Ottawa, April 25 — (CP) — George Hatfield (Lib.-Grenville), a Brockville business man, charged Monday night Canada is being "deliberately refused" the right to trade in the British West Indies on an equitable basis.

He said a lot of business firms in those islands, colonies of the United Kingdom, resent this situation and told the Commons the time has never been riper for Canada to cultivate closer economic relations there. The West Indians, he said, are even willing calypso songs about the situation.

Speaking in the budget debate, he said the government's pressure should be applied on the Colonial Office in London to improve Canada's position in the B. W. I. markets, at least to the point of being allowed to balance her exports and imports.

Such an opportunity beckoned in impending renegotiation of the Canada-B. W. I. Trade Treaty and it came just at the time when the trend of thought in the Islands

Guerillas Cut Off Nationalist Escape Route

Taipei, Formosa, April 25 — (AP) — Communist guerrillas, pressed for months in the rugged "five-finger" mountains of Hainan Island, today swarmed within four miles of Yulin, Nationalist escape gate on the southern coast.

(A Hong Kong press report said Nationalists had evacuated emergency army and navy headquarters at Yulin.)

The guerrillas were spurred by the collapse of Chinese Nationalist troops in the face of numrically-inferior communist forces who stormed ashore nine days ago.

The Nationalists, possibly 125,000 strong, cracked under the pressure of some 15,000 veteran communist fighters and the threat of 60,000 guerrillas at their rear.

They fled Saturday from Hoihow, the capital where only the day before they had staged a victory celebration. The communists entered peacefully Sunday morning.

Communications with Hainan were virtually cut off. It appeared the evacuation of top leaders was in progress.

The suddenness of the Nationalist collapse provoked gloom on Formosa. For one thing, it prevents transfer of sorely - needed war materials Formosa itself may be fighting communist invaders before the year is out.

Warning is Served Under Plant Diseases Act of Department

Toronto, April 25, (CP)—Farmers have been served a warning that the Ontario Agriculture Department is clamping down under the Plant Diseases Act.

Fines and costs totalling $172 were imposed on three North Simcoe farmers for not observing regulations respecting bacterial ring rot in 1949 potato crops.

C. E. Coutts, Midhurst, was fined $46 in Barrie Court while Mauril Charlebois, Perkinsfield, was assessed $65 at Penetanguishene. Lucien Robitaille of La Fontaine was fined $60.40. The option in each case was 15 days in jail.

Crown evidence was that the farmers failed to dispose of infected crops and did not properly disinfect storage machinery and equipment.

was toward closer collaboration with Canada.

Should Get Guarantee

Mr. Fulford said Canada's imports from the B. W. I. have outvalued her exports there for some years and argued that Canada should at least get a guarantee that Canadian dollars spent there will be used to buy Canadian goods in return. At present these dollars went into the sterling area pool in London and New Zealand, Australia and other sterling area countries were usurping markets formerly held by Canada.

Trade barriers were built up against Canada in the guise of currency controls. Canada had never sought to become a financial power and he wasn't suggesting she should now. But her partner dominions all exercised a degree of rule over outlying islands which gave valuable economic advantages. He knew what protests would well from them if they were denied access to the markets of those possessions as was being done to Canada in the B. W. I.

New Floor Price On Butter Is Discussed

Ottawa, April 25 (CP)—Discussions on the floor price on butter were held today among Agriculture Minister Gardiner and representatives of Canadian farm producers. The meetings were closed to the press.

However, it is learned that at one conference, Mr. Gardiner conferred with representatives of the dairy farmers of Canada and at another with the National Agricultural Advisory Committee of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

Mr. Gardiner is expected to take the recommendations of the farm groups before the Cabinet and announce the new support price for butter within the next few days.

There was some speculation that the new price may be about 52 cents a pound or even lower, effective May 1. The support price last year was 58 cents a pound.

STIRLING

Edna Jaques Gives Reading of Poems

Stirling—A good crowd was in attendance at St. Paul's United church last Tuesday evening for the Edna Jaques concert under the auspices of St. Paul's W.A.

The well-known Ottawa poetess and author delighted her audience with readings of her life interspersed with several poems. Her charming personality, and platform manner held her audience in rapt attention as she portrayed the common incidents in her life. Assisting artists were Adam Hawley, baritone, of Peterborough, who rendered solos, accompanied by Charles Allen, a former Stirling boy, organist and choir leader of George Street United Church, Peterborough and Mrs. Morgan Baker, of Brighton ,who delighted with several piano solos.

At the close of the program the executive of the W.A. served refreshments to the artists.

SECRET WAS SIMPLE

"Isn't it amazing what children notice? Last night my little girl said, 'Mommy, why is Granny's washing whiter than yours?' I swallowed my pride and found out today. The secret's a swish or two of Reckitt's Blue in the final rinse for it's Reckitt's Blue that prevents clothes turning yellow. There's no pure white without blue. Costs only a few cents a month, and means I have no chances with anything that may damage fabrics. It is the only way to keep clothes snowy white."

Fine Art Show On Exhibition At Y.M.C.A.

A pleasing display of some 30 or more watercolors and oils by one of Canada's new citizens, Nicholaus R. Mika, former Hungarian artist, was seen yesterday afternoon at the Y.M.C.A.

In his exhibition, Mr. Mika has selected for the public's pleasure, scenes in his former homeland in the quiet glow of evening over the marsh lands, fishing boats in rapid flight; so like Canada's own marshy nooks; the fishing smacks of Holland resting in all their colourful array after a day's work; fields of sunflowers in Germany; and beauty spots near and now remote from Belleville, along the Frankford road; the Moira River near Canniffton, and scenes winter and of fall, depicting nature in her many different moods—cloud and sunshine, storm and calm.

There is a delicacy in Mr. Mika's work that is at once gentle, yet firm, realistic and true, with a warmth and wealth of color which is most attractive in its clarity and freshness, bringing to the beholder a calm and again to view with delight the lovely scene before him. With the exception of two, which might be termed allegorical paintings, the artist presents a true home when portraying nature in all her exquisite loveliness than when inselecting subject matter.

One of the two allegorical pictures showed the artist's conception of Canada in the guise of a young girl, in the nude, kneeling under a beautiful tree, on which held over a few coals of fire, while with the other hand she is picking a spray of red flowers of no particular species; the whole typifies the youth of this new country, its different degrees of climate, cold and warmth; and the leafless branch, the open spaces of Canada's vast domain. The other painting of this is a child's delirium who, seeing grotesque animals and hideous faces round about with clutching fingers, cries out in its sleep and is comforted and quieted as its mother's arms enfold it.

Early Recollection

Mr. Mika says that his earliest artists recollection was that at the age of six years he began painting in chalk, using the neighbor's fences, houses and barns as his canvas, which resulted in many smarting reprimands. However, they served to stimulate the budding talent. After graduating from high school he attended the Academy of Fine Arts in Warsaw, Poland, and had two exhibitions of his painting there, with other young art students

In 1940 the German soldiers forced him to work in a cheese factory, and from there he went to Frankfurt-on-Main where he again took up his art work, and began also to write short novels, using episodes from his own life in the plots, with his own illustrations.

Mr. Mika's objective is to edit a stamp encyclopedia, depicting the characteristic stamps of the 100,000 stamps in circulation, in colors and descriptive writing of the outstanding features of the country so pictured by its stamps. So far he has completed one volume of this work in the space of four years, and his art exhibitions are to further that aim and ambition. The second ambition is like unto the first, to travel from coast to coast and from north to south putting on canvas the beauties of his adopted country whose shores he tried so long and so zealously to reach.

This exhibition will be on view today and tomorrow.

MADOC

Officers Elected At W. Institute

Madoc — The Madoc Branch of the Women's Institute held their April meeting at the home of Mrs. G. C. Moon on Friday afternoon with Mrs. Ina Nicol, president in charge. Roll call showed 26 members and one visitor in attendance. The reading of the minutes and communications followed. It was decided that six be sent to "The March of Dimes." The president announced the special meeting to be held in Belleville May 8th, when W.I. members will have as their speakers the international president, Mrs. Sayre and Lady Brooke of Northern Ireland.

Current events were ably reviewed by Mrs. J. Aylesworth. This being the annual meeting, the president reviewed the activities of the year and expressed her appreciation to the officers and members for their co-operation and help.

Mrs. G. C. Moon, secretary and treasurer, read the financial report which was most gratifying. Receipts being $1,279.92 with a balance on hand of $442.12. The reports of the convenors of standing committees were complete. Mrs. George Hill, past president, took the chair for the election of officers, and Mrs. Hulin acted as secretary pro-tem. Mrs. C. Whytock, convenor of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers for 1950-51 after which Mrs. Hill installed the officers elected.

The members were privileged to have as their guest speaker, Miss Gladys Aylesworth, Reg. N., who gave an interesting talk on "Mental Health." Miss Aylesworth has just recently returned home from New York after spending six months specializing in Midwifery at Maternity Centre Association to accept a position as Public Health Nurse for the Province of Saskatchewan at an outpost hospital, Stoney Rapids, N. Sask.

Mrs. Hulin expressed the appreciation of the members to Miss Aylesworth and to all who assisted at the meeting.

The officers elected are —

MARMORA

Returned Missionary Describes Foreign Field Conditions

Marmora — St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society held their April meeting at home of Mrs. John W. Richardson on the Tuesday afternoon. Owing to the funeral of Miss Munger, a number were unavoidably absent and sympathy was expressed for the bereaved relatives and friends.

The president, Mrs. Barlow, welcomed the visitors, Mrs. Hastelling and Mrs. Prentice, conducted the Easter Worship service with Mrs. Young and Mrs. Brown taking the readings.

A short business period was conducted by the president, and Mrs Sweet gave a brief, but concise report of the Presbyterial held in Napanee two weeks ago.

Foreign Field Conditions

The highlight of the afternoon was an address by Mrs. Butcher, of Stirling, a returned missionary from Rhodesia, Africa. Introduced by Mrs. Sabine, she spoke for nearly an hour on the climate, living conditions and people of that part of Africa, and her listeners were intensely interested.

While conditions are showing improvement in the last few years, it is hard to realize that people could survive under such circumstances and little wonder that the African people are dying off as fast as 60 per cent. But the African people love to be happy as clearly as any white mother ever does, and has the entire care, taking it to the fields, tied to her back and working all day with a short handled hoe or cultivator.

Mrs. Butcher had a number of red cloth for a skirt "(of sorts) etc.

Mrs. Barlow thanked the speaker for a very interesting talk and Mrs. Prentice sang a solo, "Beneath The Cross of Jesus."

The April meeting and general collection was received and dedicated and Mrs. Young pronounced th benediction.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour spent.

Mesdames Eggleton, Sutherland and Jones accompanied Mrs. Butcher and were welcome guests at the meeting.

LATTA

Latta— The Birthday Club of Plainfield met at the home of Mr. J. W. Hamilton last Wednesday afternoon to wish her many happy returns of the day in words, cards and gifts.

There were 14 present. After a little time spent in visiting, Mrs. Jack Salmon presided at the piano and Mrs. N. Wilder and Mrs. Larley sang and all the others took part in singing songs and hymns after which Mrs. J. W. Hamilton opened her presents and read her birthday cards, thanking each one separately for the lovely gifts given her.

"Happy Birthday" and grace were sung and her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Wilder with her helpers, served delicious refreshments, while Mrs. Larter and Mrs. Salmon poured tea, bringing a delightful afternoon to a close.

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

When quantities get too big to comprehend, we simply take them for granted and don't stretch our imagination too much. Few people for instance, will get excited about the recent report of the Department of Agriculture concerning the astronomical amounts of fruits and vegetables shipped all over the country.

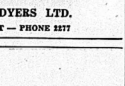
There are at least a million carloads of fresh produce shipped each year by train and another million delivered by truck. A single carload of potatoes weighs 36,000 pounds. Multiply this by two million and you'll have an idea of the vast traffic that brings California potatoes to New York and Florida citrus fruits to Montana.

In all this vast activity one should pay attention to some of the minor food items which are shipped for the benefit of people living thousands of miles away.

Fennel is an example of a delicious vegetable which not enough people have taken the trouble to discover, although it is frequently offered on vegetable stands.

Introduced to this country from Italy, it has a faint flavor of anise (used for flavoring licorice), and can be eaten cold in salads, as a vegetable or casserole.

Fennel With Egg Sauce. Serves 4.



Cut off tops of 4 medium size bulbs fennel. Throw away any dark spots. Cut lengthwise into eighths.

Place in a heavy saucepan with one inch of boiling water to which 1-2 teaspoon salt has been added. Simmer slowly until fennel is tender, about 20-25 minutes.

Drain. Place on a greased baking pan, cut side up.

Make sauce as follows: Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margerine in a saucepan but do not brown. Blend in same, 2 tablespoons flour, mixing well. Gradually add 1 cup hot milk, stirring constantly. Return to flame and simmer 5 minutes. Add 1 hard boiled egg finely chopped, 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley, 1-2 teaspoon salt or more to taste, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Pour egg sauce over fennel in baking dish. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons white bread crumbs over sauce. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Bake in a hot oven 400 degrees for 10 minutes or until crumbs are browned.

Ladies... BEWARE!

BETTY BEAR SAYS:
"It's dangerous to risk a day
With coats outside of storage.
The clothes moth is fall to pat away,
Moths eat up for their porridge."

New Dominion Master Market to Open in Belleville

Excavation for the modern and commodious new master market took place through the winter months. The steelwork has now been completed and bricklayers are now constructing the walls. No date has been set for the completion or official opening of the new food store.

Many new and modern innovations to make shopping more pleasant and convenient will be incorporated into plans for the new store. Among features are wide, brightly lighted aisles, new design of decorated shelving which brings all merchandise within easy reach of the customer, special displays for fruit and vegetables and refrigerated meat counter.

Another feature of the new store will be convenient drive-in parking space for customer's cars.

Keep your youngsters fit . . . steady health is precious!

"Martha, your Elsie and Bill eat dull and listless at times. But, to keep up with playmates they just have to be on their toes all the time. That's where steady health counts — they must keep fit."

Keep your family fit all the time. One good way is to guard against "irregularity"—often caused by lack of bulk foods in the daily diet.

Post's—the better Bran Flakes—supply the natural bulk needed to help keep food wastes moving promptly—help the whole family retain vigour and vitality.

And all the family will enjoy wholesome wheat nourishment—POST'S BRAN FLAKES are made with other parts of wheat. Appetizing as a cereal. Also tasty and effective when made into light, tender bran muffins. Follow recipe on package. Two package sizes, large or regular. Insist on Post's—the better Bran Flakes.

Now its 'Hog East' Charges Coach Chuck Conacher

Lionel Conacher, onetime 'Big Train' of hockey, says some of the goings-on in hockey nowadays are "a downright shame."

During a visit to Western Canada, the former National Hockey League defenceman criticized Conn Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs for his stand on the player's Allan Cup playoffs. Smythe said Toronto Marlboro Seniors, if they win the eastern finals, will not come west unless guaranteed an additional grant by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

"When you think that the Marlboros are representatives of the Toronto Maple Leaf organization, one of the wealthiest in the game today, and that the Allan Cup is supposed to be the highest trophy in Canadian amateur hockey, it makes you think just what the C. A. H. A. stands for," Conacher said in an interview at Kamloops.

"I think it's time Eastern Canada quit trying to hog everything from the west."

Oscar Judd, in the twilight of his playing career, still is a much-sought-after baseball player.

The veteran major league hurler, released on the voluntary retired list last week by Joe Zeigler, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, is being sought by both Guelph Maple Leafs of the senior Ontario Senior Intercounty League and Ottawa Giants of the class D Border League.

Tommy Gorman, owner of the Ottawa franchise, is reported ready to talk business with the native of Ingersoll.

Right now the balance of favor seems to be swinging toward Ottawa.

In Springfield, Mass., Ziegler Field Monday night:

"I had a job lined up for him but he says only Ottawa. I'll not stand in his way if he can hook up with Ottawa."

The 1950 Southwestern Ontario weight lifting championships will be held Friday at the London, Ont. Y.M.C.A.

Some of the best weight lifters in the province will be seeking titles and the right to advance into the Canadian championships at Montreal. Entries have been received from Hamilton, Brantford, Burlington, Dundas, Sarnia, St. Thomas and London.

Leading entrants are James Dick of Brantford in the 181 lb. class; and Jack Bridges of Burlington in the 165-pound class. The latter is a former British record holder.

Westmount, Que., will test Sunday sports this summer, the city council decided Monday. Following a referendum, authorities of the residential suburb announced that municipal playgrounds and parks will be open four Sundays during the warm season to "gain experience on such matters as interference with the peace and quietness of the neighborhood and traffic parking . . ."

At New Haven, Conn., Rocky Graziano of New York, former middleweight boxing champion, knocked out Danny Boy Williams of Detroit in the third round of a scheduled 10-rounder at the New Haven Arena Monday night before a near-capacity house of 5,000.

A FEATHERED BUNNY

Albany, N. Y., April 25 (AP) — Here's one hunting alibi that didn't stand up.

A state game protector came upon an out-of-season hunter who just had shot a grouse in flight.

"I thought it was a rabbit," the hunter said.

Eastern Canada final — Sherbrooke Saints at Toronto Marlboros, Toronto leads best-of-seven series 3-2.

Port Colborne Takes Lead In "A" Series

Port Erie, April 25 — (CP) — Port Colborne Merchants Monday night took the lead in the Ontario Hockey Association intermediate playoffs with Tillsonburg Chev Woods, defeating them 8-3 at the Port Erie Memorial Arena. Kilpatrick starred for Port Colborne, a scoring three goals, while Benner registered two. Rose was best for the visitors, counting twice.

Ports took a lead in the first period, scoring twice to one goal for Tillsonburg, in a rough session with five penalties.

In the second each scored registered twice and going into the final the score was 4-3. There were seven penalties in the second period.

In the last period, however, Port Colborne swarmed to the attack and scored four goals. Tillsonburg was unable to stem the determined Merchant offensive with Clarke, Leslie and Kilpatrick the later scoring twice, being the only registrar for Port Colborne.

About 2,000 fans were on hand including a large delegation from nearby Port Colborne. The fourth contest will be played at Tillsonburg Wednesday night and if a fifth game is necessary it will be played in the Port Erie Memorial Arena Friday night.

Guelph Bilts Defeat Barrie in Overtime

Guelph, April 25 — (CP) — Guelph Biltmores got back on the win trail Monday night with a 5-4 overtime victory over Barrie Flyers in the best-of-seven playdown Hockey Association Junior B. Finals. Barrie leads the series 3-1.

Rouyn Protest Over Thurso Is Allowed

Midland, April 25 — (CP) — Rouyn Flashes protest over Thurso Lumber Kings' victory in the Eastern Canada Intermediate playoffs has been upheld by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

George Dudley, C.A.H.A. secretary-manager, said Monday the decision was that Thurso could advance in the playoffs if it dropped right-winger Maurice Gougeon and that the three Rouyn-Thurso games in which Gougeon participated should be replayed.

Dudley said, however, he has been informed that the Lumber Kings cannot continue. Rouyn directors have declared winner of the Eastern Intermediate title.

Rouyn protested that Gougeon was ineligible because he was not released by Pembroke Lumber Kings until after the Dec. 15 transfer date.

PICTON

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

As long as there's roast beef and Yorkshire pudding, mulled ale, oysters dunked in bread, and darts, Canadians need not worry about losing their English atmosphere, despite the inroads of baseball, and crepes suettes, the proposed third-dimension movies and television.

Lusty lads and lassies from Yorkshire, sunny Suffolk, Devon and other shires of Merrie England brought the roast beef and "mine" here centuries ago.

We see by the papers that a lassie from over 'ome will officiate at a substitute pub in the forthcoming fair in Toronto which will feature mead, and oyster-flavored ale in an atmosphere of "ye olde Inne".

We'll never understand why Comic Cuts, Jack, Sam and Pete, Dick Turpin, and the rest of the English "comics" never invaded these shores.

However, we've got the darts, which are as much part and parcel of the village Inn as wax and lit, we believe, the rosy-checked barmaid "Tims, gents", the swinging creaking signs of the "Elephant and Castle", "The Sheaf of Barley", the "Golden Cock" and the rest of the pub names that are as English as Dick Whittington's cat, Beau Brummell, Nell Gwynne, Lodgzie 'ill and the Old Bailey.

Yup, it looks like the good old game of darts is here to stay especially in veterans clubs of the nation. It has made sweeping inroads into Legion circles, the young sweats of the Canadian services brought a super-knowledge and skill of the game back from England and proceeded to show their gray-thatched sires of the first bit of nastiness how to pink triple twenties.

Apparently, it hasn't been altogether the "mechanized" veterans that have had their own way in titular combats with the "infantry" heropons. Some of the C.B. Jutlers, "Wipers", Paschendale, Somme, Mont Kemmel, Loos and Vimy Artillmers can still "wheel" a heavy dart.

We don't know the origin of the game. One report has it, that it caught the popular fancy away back in the days of the early Britons when a playful Druid attending a party of the Stonehenge Masons, plinked Queen Boadicea with a stone silver while she was bending over to retrieve a dropped bobby pin.

Be that as it may, The game, since Hitler faded into the whizz of oblivion after occupying the world stage for a decade, and his satellites died dancing—at the end of a rope, has gained tremendous popularity in Canada.

In fact it has grown, like soccer, from a toddling infant into a hefty youngster. A few years ago, it was confined to a few that learned the game overseas, and those "old sweats" whose interest in the game was revived. Today it is growing to the point where there is scarcely a veterans' organization in the country that does not boast a darts organization. Other clubs, too, have adopted the game as one of its chief indoor sports.

In Belleville, three or four years ago, the Service Darts League started with a mere handful of veterans in the sergeants' mess of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. The popularity of the game grew until today several clubs are on the roster of the league. Now, others are clamoring to enter.

And the calibre of the players here ranks with the best in other parts of the province. The Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada branch team, augmented by star players from other clubs in the loop have met and defeated the best Kingston and Hamilton can produce. At the moment the ANAF's are proud holders of the ANAF Trophy, emblematic of the provincial championship of member clubs.

This weekend darts representatives of this city will seek the championship of the Ontario Darts Association, an affiliate of the Dominion body. The team, which plays in Toronto against Ontario's best will be captained by the veteran Joe Samaie and will include such star players as Lionel Lefaivre, (ANAF); Stan. Melbourne (Foilwell Supply); Norman Mills (ANAF); Bill Ford, (Foilwell Supply); Chas. Featherstone (CN Veterans) and Steve Sim (Foilwell Supply), Ken. Edgecombe (CNR Veterans) and Johnny Foxon (CNR Veterans).

The Belleville team will meet teams from Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor, London, and Oshawa in a set to be played in the Toronto Tivoli Gardens on Saturday afternoon and evening. There will be trophies for teams and for individual champions. Matches will consist of two games of 601 and one of "baseball" and each team must win two of three to qualify for playdowns.

* * *

Having defeated Hamilton and Kingston and one Toronto team in the past, the Belleville aggregation is confident of success in the first tournament of the Ontario Darts Association. They are practicing faithfully for the big event and hope to bring back the handsome trophy to rest with its sister silverware, the ANAF Provincial Darts Association challenge Cup, which is now in their possession.

ANOTHER FINE SHOW

Sergeant "Mike" Kelly, Trenton RCAF Station, informs us that the boys in air force blue are staging another colorful boxing show in the station sports hangar on Monday, May 22nd. In the main bout Ronny Lacelle, starry Ottawa welterweight, of HMCS Carleton, will trade leather with Don Wallace of the Diamond Athletic Club, Toronto. In the semi-final Joey Peters, Diamond Athletic Club, clashes with Joey San Dulo of Ottawa. Jimmy Spears RCCS, Kingston, meets Gunner Bobby Smith, RCA, Picton, in the third five rounder. Seven more service pairs will be Kingston, Picton, Trenton, Brockville and Ottawa will round out the card.

THAT MAN'S HERE AGAIN

Well, well and a couple of Yipes. Look who's here to greet the faithful with his burly bulk and torsonic beauty in Memorial Arena next Friday eventide. None other than our old friend Ski-Hi Ed. the rasslin' editor of Ozark the who has lost none of his Tennessee charm, linch-long sideburns, hillbilly drawl and anything but angelic ring tactics. Bring out the fiddles and bows, ye faithful, for the pine tree lad walks like a man will be here in all his rough-toughie glory to take on the clever Ray Villmer in the main bout of Friday's grip-and-grimace fiesta. Ski-Hi, who has to duck when the ceiling is low hasn't shrunk any since his last appearance here and during his absence he has been converting equally tough ring "revenooers" into human weasels. Lee is confident he can transform the wily Villmer into the human counterpart of a wet dishrag after it has been thoroughly wrung out — but Malone Ray will have something to say about that. A top-flight bill for Friday for sure. In the semi-final John Barrod and Joe Christie, two lightning - like grapplers meet in their first appearance here with Al. Korman and All the Turk (G-rr) providing the opener.

Senators' Rae Scarborough Jinx Still Baffles Red Sox; Starts Season With 3-0 Win

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

What strange power does Washington's Rae Scarborough hold over Boston's Red Sox?

Joe McCarthy, Boston's puzzled manager, would give half his salary to find out. Tom Yawkey, the Red Sox wealthy owner is reported to have offered the Senators $200,000 and two players for the pitcher's services, just so that his club won't have to face him. He was turned down.

And no wonder. In six seasons in the big leagues, the 32-year-old righthander has won only 38 games and lost 43 to the six other clubs. Against the Red Sox, Rae boasts a gaudy 10-3 record. No wonder the New York Yankees offered six players for him recently.

Scarborough Monday night met up with the Red Sox for the first time this season. He shut them out 3-0 on three hits-all by one player, Al Zarilla, who rapped out two doubles and a single.

The Senators scored all their runs in the eighth. Until then Al Papai had kept pace with Scarborough, holding the Nats to four hits.

Lanier Good, Too

Another masterful pitching performance was turned in by Max Lanier, veteran southpaw hurler of St. Louis Cardinals. The pardoned Mexican League jumper threw a four-hitter at Cincinnati Monday night in defeating the Reds, 1-0. Ken Raffensberger, who holds to one-hit shutout victories over the Redbirds, was the loser.

Lanier drove in the lone run of the game with a double.

Brooklyn defeated the Boston Braves, 6-4, in the National League's only other game, scoring the winning runs in the seventh inning on a wild throw by catcher Del Crandall.

Dick Donovan, making his first start in the majors, was the loser. Don Newcombe was credited with his first victory although he needed help from Willard Ramsdell in the ninth.

YMCA Crown Swimming Event Held in London

London, Ont., April 25 (CP)—London will be the site of the Ontario Y.M.C.A. swimming and diving championships next Saturday afternoon and evening. The meet will be held at Spencer Memorial Pools at the University of Western Ontario and has attracted a record 192 entries.

Teams will be entered from Toronto West End Y, Toronto Central Y, Toronto Broadview, Galt, Brantford, Woodstock, Windsor, Peterborough, Stratford, Sault Ste. Marie and London Y which plays host to the championships.

Some of the top flight swimmers in the province will be in action as they strive to shatter some of the existing marks in the fast Western pool.

Laab's Pinch-Hit Paves Way For Leafs Win

(By The Associated Press)

Chet Laabs, who used to "break 'em up" for St. Louis Brown, still has the knack of getting that "money" hit.

The veteran outfielder, whose home-run slugging helped to bring the St. Louis Club its only pennant in 1945, still wields a big bat, even in pinch-hitting roles.

Laabs, now a performer in the International League delivered a pinch single Monday night that sent Toronto Maple Leafs off to a 6-3 victory over San Hack's Springfield Cubs. The winning blow came in the eighth inning and broke a 2-2 deadlock.

The Maple Leafs added three more runs as Johnny Mayo's two-run single and Johnny Mela's double. Jack Britain got credit for the Maple Leaf's third victory of the season, although he was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the big Toronto eighth, Gale Pringle was the loser.

At Baltimore, the Orioles overcame a 9-1 Montreal lead to defeat the Royals, 10-9. Montreal pitcher Paul Epperly heaved a wild pitch in the ninth inning that gave Baltimore the game.

The Orioles, in winning their first game against five defeats, used six pitchers, with Ra. Shore —the fifth—gaining the victory. No other games were played Monday.

District Soccer League Arranges Fine Program

Soccer is scheduled to commence again in this district on Saturday April 29th. This grand old game which is believed to have originated in Italy, in the 11th century and in which legend says a Danish skull was the first target of the booter, is so for its second season since it was revived locally.

The Bay of Quinte Football Association have a fine program laid out for the enjoyment of local soccer fans. Seven teams have affiliated with the Bay of Quinte F.A. this year, an increase of two over last year. They are Belleville United, Belleville Navy, Army and Navy Vets Club, Trenton Merchants, Trenton Flyers, 6 R.D., and Batawa.

Clubs to enter this year are Navy Vets, Flyers, and Northern Electric have dropped out of the field. Most of the last year's Northern squad are signing forms for the Navy team and the Navy will play in the old Northern colors.

Two of the local teams, Belleville United and Navy have entered the new Eastern Ontario League as well along with Ottawa Combined Service Club, Brockville, Kingston United, Vimy Signals of Kingston and Peterborough U.E.W. and these matches should be particularly well-worth watching.

Good Matches Arranged

Three first class exhibition matches have been arranged for the local All Stars The first is to be played at Trenton with Both Recreation Week when an All Star team from the Toronto Senior League come down on May 27th. On July 1st Toronto Celtic are the visitors and on August 7th East York United another well known Toronto team provide the opposition.

Besides the league trophy the Belleville Merchants Charity Cup and the Trenton Challenge Cup will be competed for and it is anticipated that all local clubs will again enter the Ontario Intermediate championship series.

The matches for 29th April are Vets vs. Belleville at the Belleville Fairgrounds, Trenton Merchants vs. 6 R.D. at Bain Memorial Park in Trenton and Flyers vs. Navy at the R.C.A.F. ground. On Tuesday May 2nd Flyers entertain Trenton Merchants and May 4th., 6 RD. tussle with Vets on the 6 R.D. pitch.

Although one match will be played on the Fairgrounds before the end the official opening of the season in Belleville has been arranged for Saturday May 6th., when Mayor Jack Allin will kick off. This will be the occasion of the first Eastern Ontario League game in the district when the Navy boys play host to the Belleville United squad.

Calgary Stampeders Win Western Canada Senior Hockey Crown

Calgary, April 25. (CP)—Stan Device scored the series-winning goal with eight seconds of the game remaining Monday night to give Calgary Stampeders a 4-3 victory over Fort Frances Canadians and the Western Canada Senior Hockey title.

The Stampeder victory gave them the best-of-seven series with Fort Frances four games to one. The Calgarians, who last represented the West in the Allan Cup final in 1947, now will meet the winner of the Toronto Marlboro-Sherbrooke Saints series for the Dominion's Senior title.

The Stamps who won their earlier games from Fort Frances by scores of 11-0, 4-3 and 5-2 against a lone 3-2 loss—had to come from behind with two third-period goals to pull the win out of the fire.

The high-flying Stamps took a 2-0 lead in the first period and the game had all the appearances of being a repetition of two previous lacings for Fort Frances.

But the Canucks, the little Ontario Paper Mill town—who entered Regina Capitals in six games in a similar Western Canada final two years—were far from out. In the second—they led they dominated play as Calgary had to be thankful to escape in three goals and hung on tenaciously to their lead until past the middle of the third period.

Awati Eastern Winner

At 12:12 winger Herb Lovett slapped in the rebound from defenceman Hugh Coffin's long golf shot for a 3-3 tie. Then in the dying seconds two veteran wingers connected for the all-important marker.

Calgary's other goals were both scored by Roy Heximer in the first period. Butch Pearson, Ed Kliner and Fred Evans were marksmen for Fort Frances.

Heximer banged in his first one on a rebound and his second was a conversion of Johnny Millard's goal mouth pass.

In the second period, when Fort Frances got all their goals, blond Butch Pearson rapped in a 25-foot angle shot through a maze of players.

Fort Frances in the fourth club eliminated by Calgary in consecutive playoffs is the Allan Cup finalist. Earlier stamps took out Saskatoon Quakers, Edmonton Flyers and Kamloops Elks.

The Canadians—who were coached during the series by their trainer Joe Bolzan after Coach Bob Kinnear was fired by the Fort Frances club the day the Calgary trip—took out Port Arthur Bearcats and Emerson Canadians.

Brantford Ousts Legion to Win Senior B Crown

Brantford, April 25—(CP)—Brantford Nationals defeated Peterborough Legionaires 5-3 Monday night to win the Ontario Hockey Association Senior B championship in the seventh game of a hard fought best-of-seven games final.

Brantford jumped into an early lead Monday night and led at the end of the first period 3-1. Neither team was able to score in the second, despite the fact that five penalties, three of them drawn by Peterborough, left the sides short-handed.

Petes turned on the heat in the third period and continually gang ed around the Brantford goal. However, McGratten in the Brantford nets stopped them all, while his mates registered two more markers on breakaways before Peterborough was able to tally in the dying minutes of the game.

Heathuk scored two of the locals' goals, the other going to Linn, Stemmler and Singelo. The Petes' shifty winger, Crowley, tallied both of his team's markers.

Canadiens' Ype Against Guelph Is Disallowed

Midland, April 25 — (CP) — Guelph Biltmores who have hung up their skates until next winter, got a clean bill of health Monday from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

George Dudley, C.A.H.A. secretary-manager, said Monday that Montreal Canadiens' protest against Guelph's use of Andy Bathgate has been disallowed.

Montreal lodged the protest during the Montreal-Guelph series for the Eastern Canada Junior title. Montreal won the series Saturday on two more meats Reginald Pate for the Memorial Cup.

Dudley said the C.A.H.A. ruled that Montreal misinterpreted residence rule and that Bathgate was fully eligible to play for Guelph.

Bookies Favor Liverpool Over Arsenal Gunners

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Liverpool, England, April 25—(CP)— Legend says Liverpool can't win the football association cup but the bookies in three parts have made "the pool" 5-5 favorite to whip Arsenal in London's Wembley Stadium April 29 and debunk the local lore.

Soccer soothsayers say that while the world-famous "Liverbirds" — gargoyle-like statues — remain perched high above the city on top of the Royal Liver Buildings, Liverpool will never win the game's most coveted trophy.

Up to now, Liverpool never has. The closest she ever came to success was in 1914, when she lost 1-0 to Burnley in the final. Once, in 1947, Bo looked as if there might be something in the story. The birds were taken down for cleaning but Liverpool marched into the cup semi-final but here again they met Burnley—and Waterloo.

Despite the jack of cup success, Liverpool has long been one of England's strongest soccer clubs, winning five league titles — in 1901-06-22-23-47—and threatened for a time this year to pull off the rarest of all Wembley feats — cup-and-league "double."

The Merseyside outfit captured in a red-hot league race with Portsmouth, Manchester United, Sunderland, Blackpool and Wolverhampton, but their 2-1 defeat at Portsmouth Saturday ended their league hopes.

Liverpool opened the league season with a spectacular-breaking string of 19 undefeated games, slumped a bit in mid-season but pulled back into contention and appeared to have hit its best form just in time for the cup final.

Experts give them a shade of the edge during Liverpool attack when the blue chips are laid on the greensward of Wembley before the expected 100,000 spectators.

McFater Bye-Bye Crowd Stunned, Savoie Smiles

Toronto, April 25 — (CP) — Armand Savoie, a Montreal lightweight making his first Toronto appearance, stunned a crowd of more than 5,000 in Maple Leaf Gardens Monday night by knocking out Toronto's favorite Allan McFater.

In his first main bout appearance, Savoie kayoed McFater in the last second of the seventh round of an eight-round main bout. Savoie weighed 132, McFater 137.

Savoie was on the way to his 12th straight knockout victory, and his 21st out of 22 professional starts, when he unleashed a savage attack in the hectic fourth round. He slammed McFater about for fully two minutes. The Toronto boy was hanging on at the bell.

Apart from the fourth and seventh rounds McFater appeared virtually even on points, but the Toronto boy never recovered fully from the fourth round beating, and in the seventh round was unable to withstand another flurry of power-packed punches. It was a right cross after a burst of infighting that finished him.

Savoie turned professional in October, 1948, after returning from the Olympics.

Sherbrooke Has Chance Tonight To Even Series

Toronto, April 25 — (CP) — Sherbrooke Saints have a chance tonight to show Toronto Hockey fans the high calibre of play that won them the Quebec Senior League title.

The Saints, trailing Toronto Marlboros 3-2 in the best-of-seven Eastern Canada Senior Finals made a sensational comeback during the weekend, taking two victories after trailing the speedy Toronto Club 3-0 on the round.

In two contests here, Toronto won twice, 7-2 and 11-3.

Marlboros' Junior stars, Danny Lewicki and George Armstrong, were stopped cold in the weekend games and coach Joe Primeau was reported incensed at the "indifferent" style of play used by his players in both games.

"This is the big one," said Joe, "and we've got to get back on the beam or it's going to be too bad. We've got to get them at the Gardens, skate and check, skate and check. If we come out busting from the start we can do it all night."

Sherbrooke's problems haven't changed. They still have to keep the Toronto speedsters bottled up. In the first two games of the series the Quebec club tried heavy bumping in a vain attempt to slow down the youthful Dukes. They may have found the formula, however, in their weekend wins.

Hawks Search Coach to Replace Chuck Conacher

Chicago, April 25 (CP)—Chicago Black Hawks have tentatively begun searching for a new coach to succeed Charles Conacher, who Monday announced his long-expected resignation from the Hawks' hockey helm due to ill-health.

Conacher, 39, former star for Toronto Maple Leafs' famed "Kid Line" of the 1930s, had been at the Hawk helm since December of the 1947 season. The Hawks finished last in the 1947-48 campaign, climbed a notch to fifth in 1948-49 and again were last in 1949-50.

Hawk president Bill Tobin, who disclosed Conacher's resignation, said the Toronto native wants to devote more time to his oil interests in Western Canada.

Tobin said Conacher has been asked to remain with the Hawks in an advisory capacity, and indicated he might accept. Presumably, this would chiefly entail scouting in Canada for Hawk prospects.

Weeks ago it was rumored Conacher would leave the Hawks to become coach of the Boston Bruins, whose George (Buck) Boucher was released at the end of the season. Conacher, however, said he would not return actively to hockey if he left the Hawk post.

Intense Player

An intense hockey man both as player and on the bench, Conacher last February punched a Detroit hockey writer in a dressing-room argument. The squabble later was ironed out, with the writer, Lew Walter of the Detroit Times, dropping a charge of assault and battery.

Tobin said Monday he has not given immediate attention to a successor to Conacher. Ebbie Goodfellow of St. Louis Flyers, Frank (King) Clancy of Cincinnati, also an American Hockey League mentor, and Hawk players Red Hamill and Doug Bentley have been mentioned as candidates. Clancy and Conacher teamed together on the Toronto squad during their prime.

In his playing days, Conacher is also performed for New York Americans and Detroit Red Wings During his nine-year stay with the Maple Leafs (1929-38), he twice successively led the N.H.L. in scoring, with 52 points in 1932-34 and with 54 in 1934-35. He came to the Hawks in 1947 following two seasons as coach of the Ottawa Generals, an Ontario Amateur team.

How many people to the gallon?

Many thousands of Canadians have a part in making a gallon of Esso available for your car.

About 12,000 of them are employed by Imperial. Some search for new oil fields; some move oil from producing fields to refineries where others make it into Esso and hundreds of other useful products; still others see to it that these are on hand wherever you want them.

Then there are almost 10,000 independent business men who, as Imperial dealers, supply you with our products.

And there are the many thousands of people who derive part of their livelihood from making and transporting the things that Imperial uses in its operations. Last year we bought equipment and supplies from more than 3,000 Canadian firms.

But those are not all.

About 70,000 Canadian residents are shareholders in Imperial or owners of Imperial bonds.

And there are more thousands who have an investment in Imperial through their bank deposits or their insurance policies, because a number of Canada's banks and insurance companies have put some of their clients' money to work to help us do our job.

Finding oil and bringing it to you in the kind of products you need is a big job, a job that requires the skills and the savings of many thousands of Canadians.

Bringing you oil is a big job ... and a costly one

About Canada's Oil — On its 1949 manufacturing and marketing operations Imperial earned a profit equivalent to less than three-quarters of a cent a gallon for each gallon of product sold.

Imperial's investment in plant and equipment is equivalent to more than $19,000 for each employee.

The wholesale price of gasoline has increased only a third as much as the average wholesale price of all commodities over the past 10 years.

What some have been known to think of as the overall bid is in fact an overcall in opponent suit. This bid comes in so: South opens with one heart and west bids two hearts; an overcall in opponent suit.

Such a bid makes two promises and one demand. It assures partner that nine tricks are there and no tricks in hearts will be lost. It requires partner to help keep the bidding alive to game.

This is the defensive bid that shows a hand as good as an opening of two in a suit. It is forcing to game. Partner is asked to show his longest suit first and then help reach game.

What if a player has nine tricks and one or more losers in the suit bid by opponents? He has not quite enough for an overcall in opponent suit. So, he steps down to the next bid in order of preference.

The bid next in choice is a jump overcall. This is a defensive jump bid in a new suit. It promises eight tricks and a re-biddable suit. It does not force partner to answer if he has no tricks.

South opens with a bid of one heart when west holds this hand:

♠ K Q 10 9 8 4
♥ 8
♦ A K Q 7

Count the tricks in the west hand: six high cards (aces, kings, queens) two shorts in hearts, one short in spades; total nine.

But he must not bid two hearts, an overcall in opponent suit. Why? He has a loser in hearts. His correct bid in this spot is two spades, a jump overcall in his rebiddable suit. Even if this shows only eight of his nine tricks.

Is there fear that a game may be missed if partner passes? Yes. There is always such a fear with a hand so close to a game. But if the partner has nothing there is no game.

What if partner has something? Knowing west has at least eight tricks, partner with two tricks will bid. Find something else to worry about. This is the least of your worries in bridge.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 25. (AP)—Paris and New York designers are getting a boost from Vincent Price in their campaign for brighter clothes for men.

"Men are just dying to try new styles," says the lanky actor, "Just look around at the bright-colored and flashy print shirts men are wearing. They're hungering for a chance to wear something different."

Price is helping the drive along with his current role in "His Kind of Woman". He plays a flamboyant movie star and his outfits include:

Plaids and Suede

A dinner jacket of bold plaid with matching trousers and a cumberbund.

A hunting jacket with built-in cartridge holders and a suede patch for gun rest.

A pure white gabardine suit.

A royal blue velvet smoking jacket with chartreuse trim, vertically pleaded cravat with cerise tie.

California is the logical place to start the crusade for brighter and more practical clothes, Price said.

"The men here have long worn flashy sport clothes," he observed. "Informal and comfortable clothes are what they want."

To help Price's campaign along, I am getting out my black-and-red checked mackinaw. The one with the belt in the back.

Arise, men!

Violent Death Stalks Family

Stoughton, Mass, April 25—(AP)—In the last eight years, violent death has stalked the family of 14-year-old Helen Goodchild, a junior high school student. Since 1942, Helen has lost six members of her family through violence. Monday Helen killed herself with illuminating gas.

RAWDON

Mrs. B. Sharpe Gives Splendid Travelogue At Birthday Party

Rawdon—Last Thursday afternoon Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society tendered Mrs. Fred Jeffs a birthday party on her 80th anniversary.

Twenty-one members of the W.M.S. were in attendance and this included Mrs. Frank Smith, and Mrs. Arthur Phillips, recently returned from the sunny south.

Five ladies of the community who are over 70 years of age were present—Mrs. G. F. Spencer, Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. James Linn, Mrs. John Reid and Mrs. George Merrick.

Several Relatives

The group also composed of several relatives with included Mrs. Jeffs' two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Eagleson, Burnbrae, and Mrs. Murray Mekleljohn of Ryleston. Her sisters Mrs. Lindsay Anson, Burnbrae and Mrs. Geo. White of Stirling.

Her only brother, Mr. Wilbert Hagerman, and Mrs. Hagerman, also Mrs. John Jeffs of Campbellford, Mrs. Tristen Williams, and Mrs. Ray Williams, of Hoards Miss Mildred White, Stirling and Mrs. Elmer Laver, Norham were also in attendance.

Over 40 guests were in attendance and several children. This included her family, grandchildren and great grandchildren.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. William Jeffs, Mrs. Frank Jeffs and the two daughters.

The guest of honor wore a lovely corsage of pink and white carnations in honor of the party.

Mrs. Roy Thrasher, president of the W.M.S. presided over the program and spoke briefly. She welcomed the friends and relatives and said that for the past 11 years all the older people have been honored with a birthday party when they were 80.

Mrs. Jeffs was a member of the W.M.S. years ago, and helped with the organization, but she did not continue her membership in the society.

All sang "Happy Birthday, Mrs. Jeffs." Mrs. Ross Hoard led in sing-song of several familiar hymns which included "Church in the Wildwood" and "Abide With Me." An invitation to attend St. Paul's jubilee service at the end of April was read. Two selections were read by Mrs. Elwood Johnson and Mrs. K. Weaver.

Splendid Travelogue

The highlight of the program was a splendid travelogue the dress given by Mrs. Blake Sharp. She took her audience with her on a trip down the Mississippi from mouth to Minneapolis, where they are paid four dollars for every hundredweight of cotton. The party saw thousands of bales of cotton and hundreds of trucks at work.

On to Texas and the wide open spaces with ranches ten and fifteen miles apart, no fences, and the roadsigns read "Beware of Cattle and Pigs on Highway." The northern part of Texas is fenced. Mrs. Sharp told of the friendliness of the people where er eryone speaks whether strangers or not.

Famous Health Resort

They visited the famous health resort "Home of Crazy Crystals," the largest single well in Texas and then on to New Mexico. Here there is no natural running water. They have deep wells with the water lifted by power. This is also the home of the famous "smokebleweed" which rolls itself in bundles six feet across.

Then California, and a rigid state inspection. They drove through sand deserts where nothing grows and telephone poles are imbedded in rock. Here they visited the famous Sacramento Capistrano. For 172 years the swallows have made their yearly pilgrimage on a certain day in September for places unknown.

Regularly on the 19th day of March, they return to make their homes in the old mission. The day of their return is a legal holiday when everyone in the city dresses in their best and attends church in honor of the occasion. It certainly is a miracle how the swallows know the exact date to go and come.

On to Los Angeles where the frost played havoc with the Valencia oranges. Here Mrs. Sharpe visited Mrs. Nelson, who is 104 years old and still interested in clothes.

Forest Lawn

The speaker gave a vivid description of "Forest Lawn" Funeral homes and churches where funerals cost from $40 to $60,000.

The party visited several cities and parks and then over No. 99 Highway to Jacksonville, Fla. Here they saw vast fields of tobacco being grown under cotton sheeting and rice growing in the water. They visited the turpentine forests and crossed the Swanee River of fame. They were six days travelling from the Pacific to the Atlantic and arrived home on January 22nd. The party travelled over 3,000 miles and saw no sign of any accident.

On their trip down, they saw beautiful large colorful electrically-lighted signs depicting Santa and his reindeer, and the Christmas story of Joseph, Mary and the Baby. Hydro was plentiful and the signs were certainly beautiful. Many homes had blue lights in all their windows.

Mrs. Sharpe was given an ovation for her splendid portrayal of her trip to the sunny south.

The pastor, Rev. H. C. Vaclavik paid tribute to Mrs. Jeffs for her kindliness and usefulness and offered a prayer of thankfulness for her life of service.

Mr. G. W. Hagerman, brother of Mrs. Jeffs, spoke briefly. Mrs. Holmes conducted a contest "Things 60 Years Ago and Now".

It was granted that Mrs. Annie Bailey, a life member, and honorary president, was unable to attend because of illness.

Mr. John Holmes read an address of appreciation, which spoke of the sterling qualities and sweetness of character of Mrs. Jeffs.

Presentation Made

Mrs. Will Potts made the presentation of a rose wool blanket on behalf of W.M.S. Members and elderly ladies. Mrs. Jeffs was also the recipient of several other gifts, flowering plants and a large array of lovely cards from relatives and friends.

Mrs. Jeffs graciously extended thanks to all for their kindness to her on this happy occasion.

Refreshments were served with Mrs. Gladys Weaver and Mrs. B. Sharpe seated at the dining table with its lace cloth and silver services.

The lunch committee were, Mrs. Will Potts, Mrs. Percy Macmullen, Mrs. Gordon Linn, Mrs. Elwood Johnson, Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mrs. Lorne Spencer, Jr., Mrs. R. McConnell and Mrs. K. Weaver.

A two-tier birthday cake suitably inscribed, the gift of Mrs. Murray Mekleljohn, was cut by the guest of honor first, and then Mrs. Mekleljohn and Mrs. Eagleson arranged the slices on silver plates for serving.

The happy afternoon came to a close with everyone wishing Mrs. Jeffs many more happy birthdays.

AT THE CAPITOL — Charles Winninger and Fay Bainter add to the high-spirited gaiety in "State Fair," the 20th. Century-Fox Technicolor musical, starring Dana Andrews, Jeanne Crain, Dick Haymes, Vivian Blaine, which is now showing at the Capitol Theatre today and Wednesday. On the same program "The Lisbon Story", a romantic and dramatic musical, starring Richard Tauber and having its first Belleville showing.

AT THE BELLE—Montgomery Clift, sensational screen newcomer, has his first big romantic role opposite Olivia deHavilland, in "The Heiress," Paramount's William Wyler production, continuing today and Wednesday at the Belle. They co-star with Ralph Richardson.

MARK TRAIL

Little Benny's Note Book

I was in Puds Simkins's house waiting for the rain to stop, and we started to pretend we were hipnotizing each other, Puds hipnotizing me first and saying, You're a bird, go ahead and fly south.

Like heck, this is spring, I'm going to fly north, I said.

Which I pretended to do all around the room, and then I hipnotized him, saying, You're a ball, go ahead and roll around the block.

Which he pretended to do all a ways across the carpit, and last nite a had a fearse dreem about Puds still thinking he was a ball and falling out of bed and rolling all a ways down stairs and ending up at the bottom unconscious from so many cracks on the head.

Being sutch a plain dreem it was just the real life, and I woke up and heard the living room clock strike 4 in the morning, and I thawt, Heck, I wonder if he really did put it way all my balls? Heck, ma always claims she believes in dreems if they are plain enough, I thawt.

And I couldn't go back to sleep on account of worrying about it, and I got out of bed and snuck downstairs and called up Pud's number, hoping Puds would prove he was all rite by answering the fone.

Which he didn't, but after a long while his father did, saying Hello, hello, who is this, hello, hello.

Me not saying anthing on account of not having expected to talk to anyone but Puds, and just then I heard Puds saying, Who is it Poppa, who's calling up so early?

That's what I'd like to find out, Mr. Simkins said.

Which he never will, on account of me hanging up easy while he was still saying hello hello, and sneeking back to bed.

Rambling Red River Resembles Great Winding Serpent Seeking Place to Strike With Floods

Winnipeg, April 25 — (CP) — Floods are an old running sport for the rambling Red River.

From its source in Minnesota Lake country, whence the southbound Mississippi also springs, it wobbles south—and up-time like a great winding serpent looking for some place to strike.

In its 250-mile course to Winnipeg, and on to Lake Winnipeg, it picks up the winter's refuse from some 100,000 square miles. Several large and countless small tributaries feed it, and every once in a while it goes on the rampage.

The chief danger comes from the small tributaries. The larger ones have carved out channels deep enough to take care of low and medium flood crests.

Source Through Prairies

The small tributaries have younger and shallower channels weave through level prairies, like the Pembina, which drains 6,000 square miles of border territory, their channels bring over a wide area.

The Pembina last week eased over its banks and started the floods in southern Manitoba. Four towns to the west of the Red's north-south course were flooded, but the local run-off now apparently is over.

A unique feature about the Red is its course. The river flows to the south, then moved northward with the flow of the river. The ice-bound river, which is breaking up at Breckenridge, Minn., two or three weeks earlier than at Emerson, Man., scene of what may be the worst flood by June.

The flood rolls down the river with cumulative effect, in reaching the north at a time when January at almost the same time as the tributary crests are on the run-off.

Water Rises Before Ice Clears

Usually the ice in the same latitude ice would clear from its whole length within a few days. But the ice remains in the main reservoir section of the system before it is entirely clear.

The channels that are partially blocked, and this retards and swells the flood.

In 1826 the ice went out May 5 and when Portage Avenue and Main Street now mark the centre of Winnipeg, water was five feet deep. It spread to touch Stony Mountain, nine miles north, and Birds Hill, 10 miles northeast. On the present gauge that would register 36.78 feet above datum—against Sunday's reading of 21 feet.

Englishmen Shy About Wearing Wedding Rings

London, April 25. (Reuters)—Englishmen are shy about telling the world they are married.

For years, jewelers have been trying to popularize wedding rings for men. But "it has found no favor," says a report just published by the National Association of Goldsmiths.

ROSSMORE

Rossmore—The regular meeting of Rossmore Young People's was held Monday night with a fair attendance, the president, Mr. E. Morgan, opened the meeting, after which a short business discussion was held. It was decided to show moving pictures next Monday night for the program. Everyone welcome. Following this meeting, the organization will be known as the Rossmore Recreation Club and will meet every two weeks.

The weekly euchre was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kropinak Wednesday night. Mrs. M. Thompson winning the lone hand prize. Winners of the high prizes were: Mrs. J. Kropinak and Mr. J. Empey. Winners of the low prizes were, Mrs. C. Empey and Mr. B. Thompson. The next euchre will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ross.

Sorry to report Mrs. L. Gerow, Mrs. H. Thompson and Mrs. Babcock on the sick list. All hope they are better soon.

St. Laurent Sees Another Era Of Expansion

Sarnia, April 25 — Prime Minister St. Laurent here Saturday night told a public meeting that Canada at the "beginning of another era of expansion and development" and can look forward to a high level of income "as far sliced as we can see."

If, however, economic conditions took a downward trend and national income fell, present tax rates would not produce enough revenue to meet federal government expenditures.

The only way substantially to reduce government costs would be to eliminate existing services but many Canadians "are asking quite insistently for more."

Tax rates, in adverse times, would not be sufficient to permit extension of these services, which the government favored, and during such times the government would be "called upon to make even larger expenditures to help maintain a satisfactory level of employment." The average tax burden could be reduced by increasing national production and by eliminating waste and duplication.

Discovery of oil in Alberta and other resources provided foundations for new industries and transportation as well as existing accessibility to mines and forests and gave an impetus to the tourist industry.

Pulp Workers Get Wage Boost Under Contract

1 Toronto, April 26 (CP) — A contract signed Sunday between the Ontario Paper Company and the Ontario and Manitoba Council of Pulp and Paper Mills Unions (A. F. L.) calls for an average six - cents - an - hour wage boost and an additional three cents night differential for 15,000 pulp and paper workers.

The negotiating teams represented 11 companies and eight A. F. L. unions. The contract marked conclusion of 20 years' stable labor relationships between management and labor.

Three weeks' vacation with pay, granted in some mills last year, was also extended to the entire group in the new contract.

"...AND THAT'S HOW we built the school"

It's the biggest contract I ever went after, so I lost no time in getting over to my bank manager.

"George," I said, "I'll need some help to handle a job this size."

We went over the whole thing, discussed how much I would need. When I landed the contract he gave me a line of credit and I was able to go right ahead. Now the school's as good as built.

Bell Telephone Workers Out, Peace Talks Fail

New York, April 25 — (AP)— A coast-to-coast strike of 10,000 telephone equipment workers began officially at 6 A. M. EST Monday in the United States.

The walkout by the Bell system came after a union ultimatum expired Sunday midnight with the collapse of peace talks here.

Since the strikers handle building and maintenance only, the public will not be affected immediately unless there should be a breakdown requiring repairs.

The danger of a complete telephone tie-up was postponed — though not eliminated — when the union said it would not picket before President Truman's wage strike fiuca ends at midnight tonight.

CENTENARY

Centenary— Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Garrison on the arrival of a baby boy.

The Body in the Ravine

By Lloyd Carr

And when sheriff Bill Simmons walked in with Jake Carson, looking wet and wild eyed, Tim was propped up in a chair with pop eyed color again in his good-looking Irish face. Jean Radcliffe sat on the arm of his chair, her elbow resting on the back and one hand laid carressingly on his shoulder.

"Just about to land when I caught up to him," the sheriff said. "Don't know where he'd have gone in them woods, but he was sure set on getting away. Dove right out of the boat. Nearly killed him swimmin' that speedboat between him and the shore.

"How about it, Tim," Greg asked. "Feel up to telling the sheriff what you know?"

"Quite," Tim replied bitterly. He turned to Sid. "Don't say anything about those footprints Sid, he said. I'm still the fellow behind. Okay?"

Sid looked like he'd found a long lost friend. "Sure I won't say nothin', he said, grinning.

"First of all," Tim began, conscious of everyone's eyes upon him, "this fisherman isn't just missing. He's dead."

"Dead!" The word was screamed, piercingly. And not by one voice but by two. By Grace Thurman and Claire Carson.

Grace's hand which she had been holding to her aching head, dropped to her side as she lay on the couch. And Claire Carson looked simply gorgeous with all the color gone from her face except that of the rouge and lipstick and mascara.

"I found his body this morning in the ravine," Tim continued "back of Mort Taylor's cottage. Sid found it too, and either because he'd smashed up Bruce's car and was afraid he'd be suspected, or because he liked the idea of putting Bruce next to his father, he took the body down to the lake and threw it in, with an anchor around the waist. That was the body we pulled up a little while ago, instead of Mr. Thurman's, and when Jake saw who it was he dropped the grappling line and pushed me overboard. Then he tried to kill me with an oar..."

Claire Carson interrupted with a terrible oath directed at her husband. "You killed him! Last night you went out and killed him after I thought you had gone to bed! You thought I was too drunk to know anything but I remember hearing you go out. I'll swear in court that I did! And the Knights heard somebody fall down in the bushes! Sure they did! They heard Bruce's body fall into the ravine after you killed him!"

The sheriff had to step in front of Jake then as Claire lunged at him with her fingers extended to tear his eyes out. Greg stepped up and pinioned her arms and pulled her back.

"You should have let him commit suicide years ago," Grace Thurman said, saying in an eerie, flat little voice. "I never thought you were any good Claire Carson, but my boy loved you. He tried to ruin Jake in that stock swindle because he thought Jake would kill himself when he lost his money. He didn't care that it also nearly ruined his father. But when Jake did try to kill himself you stopped him — you were honorable, for once — you stopped him and told him the whole story. And you promised not to see Bruce again. And Jake said he'd kill Bruce if you ever did see him again. I know, Bruce told me those things. He was the only thing I had and I loved him, and in his own way he loved me."

Then Jake was talking. He didn't seem to think it was any use, keeping quiet now. "Sure I killed him. Claire and she were going out for some air last night, and I went out and found her in Bruce Thurman's arms. I knocked him down and I took Claire inside, and then I went out again and he was still there, drunk and stunned from my blow. So I picked up a rock and caved in his skull, and then I threw him into the ravine. I didn't care if I killed him or not, but when I saw that he was gone this morning I thought I hadn't really killed him. But I'm glad I did. He was trying to ruin me; that's why he wouldn't let Grace sell the lodge to Mort and me . . . And Mort, the dirty rat, now he's in love with my wife." He seemed genuinely sad then as he said "he'll probably get her, too. Lee's going to get a divorce, and I'll probably swing for murder."

"Bruce was drunk," Claire protested wildly. "He didn't know what he was doing last night when he staggered up toward our cottage."

"He got what was coming to him," said Jake.

"Now about the footprints, Sid" Tim put in. "They were mine but I didn't tell Bruce I — merely found him. I wanted you to think that I, too, wouldn't suspect, and maybe tip off the right guy. You can keep the 10 bucks," he concluded, grinning at the astonished little hired man.

There wasn't much after that. Claire Carson was completely broken down, startling everyone including Mort Taylor — but no jury would ever penalize him too much. The sheriff didn't even consider doing anything about Grace Thurman, and everyone was glad in a way. She didn't look like she was going to live very long as she lay there on the couch, pale and still and wretched.

The Knights told the sheriff quietly that they were going to stay on at the lodge for a while to look after things and take care of Grace, and Bill tersely advised Mort Taylor and Claire to stay where they could be easily reached.

Greg and Diane walked slowly up to their cottage after the sheriff and his prisoners had gone, and Tim and Jean walked behind them, Jean gratefully resting her arm around Tim's waist to support him, and looking up and grinning as she bowered over her.

Diane's whispered words to Greg reached them, as was probably intended. "Wouldn't they make a swell couple, Greg? Married, I mean?"

"Yes," Greg whispered back thoughtfully, "I really think they would."

And they kept right on walking, although they knew the couple behind them had stopped. They kept right on, even though they knew the other two were in each other's arms, and that their lips were swelling in a loud and rapturous kiss. There was no doubt that they would make a very swell couple.

Five-Vote Margin Saves Labor Govt. On Tax Proposals

Slender Majority Staves Off Threat of Election

London, April 26 — (CP) — By a margin of five votes the Labor government today staved off two Conservative challenges which if successful might have forced a new election in Britain.

The votes came on tax measures introduced last week in the 1950-51 budget. In each case the Conservative motions of opposition were defeated 311 to 306.

The first motion would have rejected a budget proposal to increase the tax on gasoline by nineopence (about 12 cents) a gallon. The second opposed a proposal to impose a tax of 33 1/3 per cent on trucks.

Members Cheer

Labor members, who turned out en masse to stave off the latest challenge to the government, cheered uproariously as the results were announced.

Their enthusiasm was heightened by the outcome of a Parliamentary by-election Tuesday in the Scottish seat of Dumbartonshire west where the Labor candidate, Tom Steele, won a majority of 293 over Cndr. Robert Allan, Conservative.

Steele's victory raised the government's majority in the House of Commons to five.

House Packed

The House was packed and tense today, with all three parties mustering every follower able to walk or hobble. Liberals voted with the Conservative party.

It was the narrowest victory the government had obtained since Feb. 22 general election which returned Labor with a slender majority.

Last month they were defeated on a snap vote on a minor issue — a motion to adjourn a debate — which the government did not consider sufficiently important to warrant its resignation.

But today's threat was more serious. Observers were agreed that Prime Minister Attlee would have had to resign if his party had not been able to turn it back.

The vote of the Dumbartonshire election cheered the Labor party but still there was a very serious position. Absence of its followers through illness or official business could give the Conservatives a chance to unseat it.

Rarely has Parliament witnessed such scenes. Open cursing and sticks as it saw today. Ironically, one Conservative member, who almost broke his head when he lured his leg when running to vote in a division some time ago.

One Labor member wore his arm in a sling and several other members who had risen from sick beds looked pale and wan.

Another member who had been ordered that ministers almost perched on their colleagues' knees.

They assembled in the House and then escorted Mrs. Attlee to the Peers' Gallery before taking his place on the government front bench.

FIRE DESTROYS CARS, BUILDING ON TRENT ROAD

One of the best known landmarks on the Belleville-Trenton Highway, Half-Way Motors, formerly known as Riley's Pavilion, was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday night when flames of unidentified origin swept through the frame structure destroying seven used cars.

Used as an automobile storage and salesroom, about a dozen new and used autos were in the structure at the time of the fire. Four new English model cars and one used car were saved from the building.

The structure was owned by Dick Burrowes, Belleville auto dealer and had only recently been offered for sale. Building loss was estimated at $10,000.

Two pumpers owned by the Belleville Fire Department were rushed to the scene of the fire and the assistance of RCAF firefighters was given, but firemen could do nothing to save the structure from complete loss and the firefighters combined their efforts to save the Christopher residence immediately across the highway.

Frame Building

Built entirely of frame the lounging structure lit up the countryside for miles at the height of the fire. Transport drivers said the fire could be seen as far away as Shannonville, 15 miles to the east.

Traffic along highway No. 2 was tied up for approximately one hour, as heat from the burning structure and fallen hydro wires made passage impossible. Traffic piled up on both sides for well over a mile as police refused to allow cars to pass.

So intense was the heat from the flaming structure that firemen were forced to put forth every effort to save the residence immediately across the highway. At one time the flames reached almost completely across the highway.

Trestle Fell Police

Fire Chief Gerald Vance paid tribute to officers of the Ontario Provincial Police for their assistance in directing traffic during the height of the fire. He said traffic on the highway was completely shut off for one-and-three-quarters hours and that considerable direction when vehicles were again allowed to proceed.

The fire chief stated the entire south end of the building was afire when firemen arrived at the scene shortly before ten o'clock. A southwest wind blew the flames directly through the structure and across the highway. Firemen stood by until nearly three o'clock.

Originally Cheese Factory

The burned structure was originally a co-operatively owned cheese factory operated by farmers in the Bayside district. The factory, known as the Bayside Cheese Factory, was one of the oldest in the district but ceased to operate as such about 22 years ago.

The building was then turned into a dance pavilion and two decades ago was a popular amusement spot for young people of the district. Since then the building had been used as a roadside tourist refreshment stand, but for every store. Two years ago it was turned into a showroom for automobiles.

MEMBERS HEWING CLOSE TO LINE IN BUDGET DEBATE

Most Members Deal With Financial Matters

Ottawa, April 26. (CP)—The current Commons budget debate has one characteristic which makes it stand out above budget debates of the past: the talk is mighty about the budget.

Budget debates are unlimited in scope—the private member can talk on any subject he wishes.

But, with a $2,400,000,000 budget to be adopted, the House membership is hewing close to the financial line in its speechmaking.

Tuesday, as the debate flooded through its third day, five of the speakers who took the floor told the Chamber how they thought the budget should be handled.

A note of concern came from J. J. McCann, Edmonton Liberal member for the Manitoba riding of Brandon, who frankly told the government he is worried about the "large and rapidly-increasing" portion of the budget which is now listed as "uncontrollable" expenditures.

He got some support in a left-handed sort of way, from H. C. Green (C—Middlesex East), who felt the government had embarked on a program in both "spending and out-promising" the Socialists. That was how it had built up a $2,400,000,000 budget.

Other speakers included Alex Jeffrey (C—London), Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C. (PC—Nanaimo), J. W. Noseworthy (CCF—York West), and John Dickey (L—Halifax).

May Announce Floor Price

In the opening stages, Agriculture Minister Gardiner hailed the new wholesale floor price for butter may be announced today. The present floor expires April 30.

In the budget debate, Mr. Matthews said that if to-day's economic expenditures were placed on the superstructure of Canada's economy the pillars of protection and trade would not be able to stand the strain. The word "uncontrollable" was a danger signal that must be heeded.

He said the so-called uncontrollable expenditures included $449,000,000 annually interest, mainly on war debts, and $500,000,000 a year for social services. These were in addition to the "terrendous" our amounts "absolutely necessary for defence."

Mr. Jeffrey took issue with suggestions by Mr. White as to how the government could reduce expenditures in the budget and said he wondered if Mr. White would want the government to abolish Old-Age Pensions, Family Allowances and Unemployment Relief, all were major items on the government expenditure sheet.

Asked to Consider

Gen. Pearkes asked Finance Minister Abbott to consider the "double taxation" which he declared Ontario Hydro Service Pensioners living in this country. They were contributing to the British scheme and British income taxes when they earned money in Canada.

Yukon Gambling Goes Respectable As Part of Proceeds Given to Charity

Whitehorse, Y.T., April 26. — (CP)—Any sourdough who lost his gold-dust poke on a throw of the dice in the Yukon's rip-roarin' gold-rush days would turn over in his grave to see how respectable the frontier's main gamble has become.

The game is to guess when the Whitehorse Rapids will lift its ice coat and signal the opening of the season's pool proceeds go to charity.

The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire sponsor the derby and sell the tickets.

The gamble is as far away as Florida and Scotland are on the list in the town station where all names and guesses are tabulated.

Gushing closed April 4. Earliest break-up on record was April 8 in the year 1917.

Spring is late in the far north this year, but any day now the ice will start to shift near the Whitehorse round house. By the time it moves 250 miles the average depot it's expected the usual crowd of several score will be on hand to see it.

When it goes, a barrel in the river current will float and trip a switch. The switch stops an electric clock to give the official time.

When the ice goes it usually touched off a big celebration.

"Rivers are vital to the life of Whitehorse," said Jack Hall, veteran of the goldrush days who started the derby here. "When the ice goes it gives us a new lease on life."

Russia Aims to Drive Out Dollar From Satellite Nations, Would Set up Ruble Area

By G. K. HODENFIELD

Vienna, April 26 (AP)—Russia is pressing a campaign to drive the dollar out of the business dealings of her satellites, informed western sources said today. She is setting up a "ruble area", a rival of Britain's sterling bloc and the Canadian-American dollar zone.

The anti-dollar measures are part of a long-range program the Russians are using to gain absolute control over the economic policies of the eastern-bloc countries.

Out of the window will go present mutual-aid treaties binding the Eastern States together, and—gradually—unilateral trade pacts between Eastern European States and the West. Moscow thinks these give the satellites too much freedom to make a deal of their own.

Replacing them will be a central customs union controlled by the Kremlin, with payments channelled through an international financial payments bank in Moscow.

Informed western sources say all trade will be figured in rubles. The ruble—still largely on paper—is pegged to that money. All prices will be quoted in rubles.

Most of the present treaties and trade agreements are calculated on the basis of the dollar. Russia's plans to change this have a psychological and propaganda aim, one western economist explains. Russia's objection this way:

"No matter how loudly Russia proclaims the inevitable collapse of capitalism, her arguments don't mean a thing while the people know their own currency and their own trade is pegged to the capitalist dollar.

"But the people hear about dollars, the easier it will be to convince them that the dollar is worthless."

Some sources add the new Russian plan was drawn up by Dr. Karl Cloulius, former pupil and collaborator of the German financial wizard, Hjalmar Schacht.

St. Lawrence Seaway, Power Project Has High Priority In U.S. Army Says Secretary

Washington, April 26—(AP)—France Pace, United States secretary of the army, said today that the St. Lawrence seaway and power project has a high priority from the standpoint of national defence.

Pace, testifying before the House of Representatives Public Works Committee considering a bill to authorize $800,000,000 said:

"When considered along with activities that are vital to national defence, such as industrial production, power development, transportation, etc, it (commands) a high priority," he said.

One of the waterway's most important contributions to defence, he added, would be the greater security it would provide to additional sources of high grade iron ore in Labrador and northeastern Quebec.

"The Labrador ores are generally acknowledged as the most important now available within the North American continent. If the seaway is completed, ore from this area could be brought into the Great Lakes steel industrial area over a protected inland water route, requiring, in time of war, less protective measures than ocean routes."

Pace also said it is important for national defence to have a dependable supply of electrical power, such as the project would provide. The Canadian-United States power station to be erected in the Cornwall-Massena area on the St. Lawrence river near Massena, N.Y.

"Specifically," he said, "the power development would be of material benefit in the production of strategically important aluminum."

Pace said it is recognized that the seaway would be vulnerable to enemy attack and added:

"The protective objections can be raised in the future against similar projects anywhere in the continent."

Fire in Ballet School Believed To be Incendiary

Toronto, April 26 — (CP) — Fire which swept the midtown Volkoff Ballet School early today was believed of incendiary origin, police said.

Capt. Jack Hill said two fires, about 40 feet apart, started in different rooms on the top floor of the three-storey building. Damage was estimated at $10,000 to the building, not including contents.

Water and smoke damaged a second-floor dance studio and a ground-floor clothing store.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, April 26 (CP)—Synopsis: The centre of the storm that brought rain to Ontario Tuesday is over eastern Lake Superior and is still causing strife and snow in Northern Ontario. The lakehead - Kenora section took quite a beating from this storm, receiving 24 hours of rain setting off six to eight inches of snow that was driven by gale-force winds. The storm is slowly easing now and will not cause much trouble as it moves northeast over the Kirkland Lake region today.

South of the centre there will be considerable cloudiness and a few showers today and tonight, while north of the centre there will be intermittent snow or drizzle.

Thursday there will be brief clearing at times, beginning first in the Windsor area and extending eastward. A weak disturbance that is crossing the Rockies this morning will be the result of Clinton - Thursday afternoon and will cause increasing cloudiness over Southwestern Ontario later in the day.

Gambling Under Investigation By US Committee

Washington, April 26.—(AP)—A Senate investigation of big - time gambling centred today on Frank Costello, reputed boss of the Carroll of St. Louis — the "Mr. X" of the odds-making business.

Carroll was called to testify before a Senate crime committee committee studying a bill drafted to ban the movement of gambling information across state lines.

Carroll is known to betting men throughout the country as the man who establishes official winter-book gambling odds on Kentucky Derby and the major League baseball races. Hence his title of "commissioner."

But Chairman Ernest McFarland (Dem., Ariz.) told reporters as far as he knows Carroll has violated no federal laws.

Federal investigators reported searching for Frank Erickson of New York as a witness in the probe. Erickson, also New York police officials have said, is known to gamblers as a known "lay-off" bettor.

Carroll was the first witness identified with the gambling world to be called before the subcommittee.

"All we want is to get information on the pattern of bookmaking," said Kefauver. "Nothing published to bookmakers," McFarland told reporters. "Betting is not a federal offence and furnishing betting information to bookmakers violates no federal laws."

SEVENTY DROWNED WHEN U.S., CHINESE VESSELS COLLIDE

Chinese Red Agency At Hong Kong Reports

Hong Kong, April 26 — (Reuters) — Seventy persons aboard the 1,000-ton Chinese vessel Haitan were drowned in a collision with the 8,000-ton United States merchant ship California Bear on the night of April 20, the Chinese Communist agency alleged today.

The collision was said to have taken place between Dairen and Chefoo on opposite shores of the Strait of Pohai, North China.

Palestine Scores Photo-Finish Win Over U.S. Colt

Newmarket, Suffolk, England, April 26 — (CP) — Tension today edged out a photo-finish victory over the American colt Prince Simon in the 142nd renewal of the two thousand guineas, first of the English turf season's flat-racing classics for three-year-olds.

Masked Light came third in a field of 19 runners over the mile run.

Prince Simon, owned by American millionaire William Woodward, was beaten a short head by the Aga Khan's Palestine.

Five lengths separated the second and third horses.

Prince Simon started as 3-1 favorite, Palestine was 4-1 and Masked Light 7-2.

Charlie Smirke rode the winner with W. Carr up on Prince Simon.

The time of 1:36 4/5 broke the record for the classic of 1:37 2/5 set by Sunstar in 1913.

Palestine collected £11,490 first money.

6,000 Airmen Join Army, Navy Men at Docks

London, April 26—(CP)—The government called out 6,000 R.A.F. men today to help dockers unload the London docks in a spreading dockers' strike which started seven days ago.

The airmen will join the 3,000 soldiers and sailors already working on vessels immobilized by the dockers' strike. The strike was called in protest against the expulsion of three men from the Transport and General Workers' Union for their part in last year's disturbances during the Canadian Seamen's dispute.

The National Dock Labor Board disclosed that 14,406 men now were on strike, an increase of almost 2,000 since Monday's waterfront force is 27,000.

Eighty-two ships are tied up in port. Twenty-two vessels, many carrying food, are being handled by the troops.

Brief Charges Discrimination Against Women in Appointments

Ottawa, April 26 (CP)— Discrimination against married women's appointments to public bodies was claimed today before the senate committee on human rights in a brief submitted by the National Council of Women.

"Since women are about 50 per cent of the adult population we regard it as our right that we should have women on the boards that control and direct many public services," the brief said. It claimed there was undue discrimination in other aspects

In war and peace women had proved themselves capable of assuming their full share of responsibility. Their contribution was at least equal to that of men.

"Yet our government in income tax acts regards a husband's income as solely his without consideration in money for the services of his wife within the home and her contribution to the family and the state in bearing and rearing children," the brief said.

The council believed woman's function of managing her household "equals her husband's right to earn outside the home. . . ." It contended a wife's right to one half her husband's earnings should be given recognition.

The brief said it regarded as "unfair" the fact that a man's children could earn up to $500 a year without affecting his income-tax exemption. A wife could only earn $250.

Colleen Reid, 7, Strikes Her Head On Fender of Car

Was Glancing Over Shoulder When Accident Occurred

Darting across the street while on her way home from school today at noon, seven-year-old Colleen Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryson Reid, 5 Grier Street, was instantly killed when she ran into the fender of a passing car.

The accident occurred a few minutes after 12 o'clock when the little girl was struck by the left front fender of a car driven by Arthur Powell, 80 Geddes Street, who was turning his car from North Front Street onto Evans Street.

On Way Home

According to reports from the scene of the accident the little girl had been in to Coulter's Marketeria to purchase some candy after coming home from classes at King George School. She had come out of the store and while glancing over her shoulder had commenced to run across Evans Street when she collided with the slowly moving auto. She is believed to have struck her head on the fender of auto.

Powell, a mechanic at J. B. Boyce and Sons Garage, was driving home for noon lunch when the accident occurred.

Police Inspector J. C. Hayes said an inquest had been ordered, the preliminary hearing to be held at the Corrigan-O'Brien Funeral Home this afternoon.

710 Miles Hour F-86 Sabre's Unofficial Record

Mt. Clemens, Mich., April 26—(AP)— The United States Air Force's newest jet-propelled fighter plane—the F-86 Sabre — will protect industrial Detroit.

Said one Air Base hero recorded the first of the planes Tuesday.

A speed of 710 miles an hour is claimed unofficially for the F-86. The Air Force says the craft holds the official world record of 670 miles an hour.

The RCAF recently announced it was adopting the F-86 as its main jet-powered attack plane to take the place of the British Supermarine Vampire fighters.

Canadair Limited now is building the F-86's at its Montreal plant. These planes will be powered by Canadian-developed Orenda jet engines.

SAY CAR PUSHED OFF ROAD AND LEFT TO ROLL

Brockville, April 26 — (CP)— Mystery shrouds a traffic accident that occurred about 1 a.m. Tuesday night near the entrance to the international Thousand Islands bridge, 10 miles west of here.

Police tracks indicate that a sedan bearing a Toronto licence plate was deliberately driven or pushed off the road and left to burn.

The Gananoque detachment of the Provincial Police is investigating.

428,216 PERSONS SEEKING WORK END OF MARCH

Ottawa, April 26 (CP)—There will be fewer job seekers in Canada after mid-April, the Labor Department predicts.

In a periodic report on present conditions, the department said unemployment generally decreased slightly during the last two weeks of March.

A "slight worsening" was expected when figures became available for the first two weeks of April. But after April 15 the total number of job seekers would drop rapidly."

By March 30, the report said, a total of 428,216 persons were seeking work through National Employment Service offices.

The highest number of unemployed applicants seeking employment through N.E.S. offices during the 1948-49 winter was 265,000. It was impossible, the report said, to make a fair comparison with the March 30 figure of 428,216 job seekers "because the granting of supplementary allowance had caused 56,500 persons to register who had not registered before."

Drop in Middle of Months

Persons seeking work through N.E.S. offices at the end of March totalled 371,700, excluding the 56,500 new registrants under supplementary benefit provisions approved by Parliament during February.

This represented a drop of 4,200 from the comparable number of applicants seeking work at March 16.

The improvement was attributed to a "continued sharp decline" in the number of work seekers in the West Coast, together with new job openings in industries such as agricultural implements, men's clothing, some primary ferrous and preliminary work on the oil pipeline in Alberta.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 26 (CP)—Prices dipped in mid-session from early firmness on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Mild selling pressure appeared in market leaders, wiping out early gains and sending several key issues into the minus column.

Papers opened higher while utilities, steels, refining oils and liquors showed majorities of gains. Montreal Locomotive was down 1 3-8 at 20 in steels.

Giant Yellowknife featured the mining board, adding 40 cents at a new high at $8.25 in brisk dealings. Smaller stocks traded briskly for some good gains while junior producers lost pennies.

Fractional losses by Quemont and Consolidated Smelters pulled base metals into lower price territory, Waite Amulet held, gaining 25 cents at $9..

WOOLER

Fire Damages Redcliffe's Mill

Wooler —Redcliffe's grist mill was damaged by fire on Tuesday forenoon when a grass fire, set by the owner, Mr. Lorne Redcliffe, got beyond control due to a change in the wind. One end of the engine room was burned. A passing motorist who noticed Mr. Redcliffe fighting the fire alone, spread the alarm in the village. The prompt arrival of about 30 men who formed a bucket brigade to Cold Creek and fire extinguishers saved the large building. Drums of oil for use in the mill and the gas pumps at the front would have made a serious blaze.

TRENTON

Textile Union Holds Closed Meeting

Trenton—(Special)— A special meeting of the Local 105 A.F.L. Textile Union was held to discuss the alleged "planted" microphones which were found in the union in a room adjoining the police station on April 12th.

The meeting which was closed to all but trade-unionists was attended by representatives from various other plants in Trenton district. Main speaker for the evening was Val Bjaranson, Ontario organizer for the AFL Textile Union who said in part: "It is important that all trade-unionists fight to protect what they have won, and to strengthen their position for the future. Our future depends on how much we do now to protect our rights and liberties. The placing of microphones and using police to break the Dorset Coulter strike is one of the best interests. Unified action by all trade-unionists can and will stop these infringements of our rights and liberties".

No definite plan was formed, however, concerning an inquiry into the microphones, but Mr. Bjaranson stated that a complete investigation would be made.

POLICE COURT

Highway Traffic Act offenders answered the majority of charges in Magistrate's court in Trenton. George Slaspy paid $10 and $21 costs, Ralph Gibson and Donald Loshaw paid $13 each, while David Noakes and Marguerite Evans were fined $5 each for infractions of the H.T.A.

Robert Johnston will spend two days in jail in default of paying $13.50 for being intoxicated in a public place. Harold Gunning paid $26 for an offence under the L.C.A.

For causing a disturbance Ronald Slaspy paid $17.50, and for violating the parking by-law, Edward Darlington, George Labrash and Earl S. Greenough were fined $2 each.

FALLS TWO STOREYS, DIES

Toronto, April 26 (CP)— An hour after falling two storeys from the roof of a building in downtown Toronto, William MacFarlane 24, died in hospital today. He was working on the roof when a shakedown run.

R. McCord, the engineer and M. Sheridan, the fireman, are both from Brockville.

Close Ties Between Canadian, U.S. Armed Services Theme of Address

In commemoration of Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week, Captain Ben Scott, Custer US naval attache to American Embassy at Ottawa, spoke on the theme of inter-service co-operation, between the Armed Services of the United States and Canada at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club on Tuesday afternoon.

Being a naval officer, he mentioned in particular the close ties now existing between the Royal Canadian and United States navies.

He described how a Canadian Naval Air Group underwent training exercises on the U.S. aircraft carrier, "Saipan" when the R.C.N. light carrier "Magnificent" was temporarily out of commission. Emphasizing the need for training in naval air operations, he said that it was heartening to see the R.C.N. ready to accept its responsibility in convoy and anti-submarine training and mentioned that Canadian naval groups in the Halifax area were now being equipped with American "Avenger" aircraft.

Praises Co-operation

Turning to the rescue work conducted by the armed forces of the two countries, he praised the fine co-operation in the vast search undertaken by the air and land forces of Canada and the U.S. when an American plane crashed in the Yukon prior to the commencement of "Operation Sweetheart."

Speaking of the nation as a whole, he praised the "uniformity of attitude, the ways of doing business, the integrity, and the civic pride that exists from one end of the country to the other."

Captain Scott graduated from Annapolis twenty-six years ago, and commanded an escort carrier in the North Atlantic during the war. After the war he was active in flight safety and accident prevention work in Washington and was ultimately attached to the U.S. Embassy at Ottawa.

During the meeting, messages of goodwill from the Kiwanis Clubs of Miami, Florida and Martin's Ferry, Ohio, were read.

Congratulations Extended

Congratulations were extended to Angus Duffy who has become district scout commissioner and to William Slovin who has become president of the Sales and Advertising Club.

President Taylor Franklin also congratulated Jack Walton, director of boys' and girls' activities, and presented him with a rose on behalf of the club. Mr. Walton accepted it on behalf of his fellow committee members.

An added attraction in the form of three Kiwanians dressed in appropriate costume symbolizing the "Spirit of '76" who marched about the hall carrying the Stars and Stripes and beating out "Yankee Doodle" on a fife and drum was greatly enjoyed by the members.

The speaker was introduced by Fulton Fraser and thanked by Archdeacon Arthur Smith.

Unaware Child Was Killed Says Engine Crew

Belleville crew members of a Canadian National Railways freight engine which struck and killed a one and a half year old child near Highland Creek this morning knew nothing of the accident until their train reached this city.

The child killed, Terry Bales, whose parents live at Roseburd, near Highland Creek, with another small child, apparently was running along the track after being called by his mother. He ran into the side of the locomotive and was thrown free. The accident occurred about nine o'clock.

Engineer of the train, Richard W. Richardson, 96 Chatham St., and the fireman, George Secker, 98-A Canniffon Road were quoted as saying that neither had seen the children and did not know any accident occurred until they arrived at Belleville.

ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVE ON SHAKEDOWN RUN

The first streamlined electric locomotive built in Canada is expected to pass through the city at approximately 6.30 p.m. today on her maiden trip pulling 92 cars. The new 3,000 H.P. locomotive No. 9400 built by Montreal Locomotive Works for Canadian National freight service in Northern Quebec left Montreal at 10 a.m. this morning for Toronto on a

I.O.D.E. NEARS FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

The Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary on May 29-31 in Montreal with approximately 6,000 members attending from coast to coast.

The past half-century of development in this country has been in no small degree associated with the work of the I.O.D.E. It has been a period of vast growth in the Dominion and in that progress the I.O.D.E. has been closely associated.

Accordingly the golden jubilee of the Order "will be a time for members to reflect on the achievements of the Order as they chart its course for the future." These are the words of the National President, Mrs. Frank B. McCurdy.

It is a far-back glance to fifty years ago when Mrs. Clark Murray of Montreal conceived the idea of a national women's organization which would inspire Canadian women with a deep love of their country and of the Empire. She planned a society of women's and children's chapters across Canada and in other parts of the Empire, federated in municipal, provincial and federal chapters for service to King and Country and for the promotion of a better understanding among the peoples of the British Empire.

The history of the fifty years can be seen in the magnificent proportions of the Order today with more than 30,000 women in 930 chapters. There are also organizations in Bermuda, the Bahamas and in India. At the same time the Order is associated with organizations in Bermuda, the Bahamas and India. It is connected with the Women's Institutes in England and the Daughters of the British Empire in the United States.

Canadian chapters are linked together through municipal chapters in communities with three or more primary chapters. All are organized under the Provincial Executive of their provincial chapters and at the head is the national chapter in Toronto. Ontario has the largest number of chapters, no fewer than 391.

The public has a general knowledge of the fine work of this Order, the accomplishment of these groups in the South African War, First World War and Second World War. Its magnificent performance in the First World War is well known. In the years between 1945 the Order has raised one million dollars to smooth the wrinkles of the post-war period. Its history is an inspiration to Canadians and stimulates a profound respect for the Order. Through its Fiftieth Memorial it has awarded bursaries of more than $5,500,000 and in the Second Great War its efforts totalled nearly $6,000,000. Besides through the First World War Memorial it has awarded bursaries and scholarships totalling more than half a million dollars. In this memorial there is more than $400,000 invested to maintain the "Overseas" scholarships in perpetuity. To launch its Second World War Memorial it has raised $583,000 for distribution along educational lines.

While its interests concern war memorials, education, wartime and post-war services, it is immigration and child and family welfare that are the main branches of I.O.D.E. work. The activities of individual chapters are as varied as the needs of the communities in which they operate.

Mrs. McCurdy pays tribute to the Order for its encouragement of authors, musicians and artists. The great organization cannot stand still, "it must expand with the years that lie ahead," to use the words of the President. "The broad scope of our aims and objects will enable us to accept the challenge of the future."

In the I.O.D.E. Canadians recognize an organization which has a noble record and merits the hope and confidence that the future will be greatly enriched by the society's work.

FOR CHILDREN'S SAKE

The present age has shown the interest in the welfare of children to a marked degree. Every step of this kind redounds to the improvement of the conditions under which the young grow up and makes it possible for them to gain the power ultimately to govern. One of these steps is the provision of playgrounds for the youngsters. The results are seen in mental, moral and social betterment and growth.

It is a happy thought that lies behind the latest project —the development of a park on Coleman's Flats at the rear of the new fire hall. Firemen are going to play an active role in this and other citizens will lend their cooperation.

Children in this period of world history come into an atmosphere of intense speed and progress as indicated by the automobile.

At the same time they come into contact with the new ideas of these times such as plans for playgrounds where children will learn that very important art, how to play and mix with others.

Such training as they will receive in such a place will show all through their lives.

WATCHER

I said I'd watch them through the day
The while their parents were away
And, watch them anxiously I did
As down the banister they slid.

I watched them racing room and hall,
Just missing tables when they'd fall
I watched to divide them ran
The several times a fight began.

I watched them in and witched them out
I watched them throwing things about
With beating heart and trembling knee
I even watched them climbing trees.

I said I'd watch them through the day,
And watch I did; but still I say
What most of I watched for was to see
Their Mum all Ma relieving me.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

TAKE A LETTER, HELEN

Dear Frigidaire Corporation:

Along with several million other guineas, I caught your television show a few Sunday's back —the one with Ruth Hope — and I'd like to register a beefy beef about the six (or was it 60?) commercials which kept getting in the way of the entertainment.

Now, I grant that you're entitled to a few plugs for the $135,000 you spend on this 90-minute whoopdydo, but I think somebody ought to tell you there is a big difference between the plug and the plug-ugly — and seeing as how I have nothing but time on my hands, it might as well be me.

From where I cohed and ogled, it seemed as if every time our show got going, it was interrupted by a Frigidaire announcer who went into a windy spiel about refrigerators, and the end result was the opposite of what you were after. I found myself wondering whether a manufacturer who couldn't put together a show that ran right would have trouble putting together a good icebox.

Of course, I know better —the Frigidaire label is plastered all over this program because I think that a lot of listeners may not know better.

And don't tell me you only did what sponsors have been getting away with on radio for 20 years. There's a solar system of difference between a radio stunt and a telecast — one is "now-you-see-it-now-you-don't" stuff, the other is the difference between the theatre and movies. How big a hit do you think "Gone With the Wind" would have been in Scarlet O'Hara had turned her back on Clark Gable during the making of the picture and plugged a mouthwash? Stage a fist fight in the third "South Pacific" would be if Ezio Pinza stepped to the footlights at the end of a number and whispered a pep talk about a certain brush?

From where, I ponder, no television show should have more than three minutes, at most, before the entertainment begins, one during a station break, and one at the sign-off. And what's more, they should be staged and integrated by the director of the show and presented with gaiety rather than haste.

In other words, gentlemen, stop sticking your thumb in the audience's eye. As my landlord will tell more merchandise scratching its back.

Sincerely,
B.R.

Dear Bob Hope:

According to the trade papers, you were not only paid $40,000 for your appearance on Frigidaire's Easter telecast, but you also have a commitment to do four additional programs for the same kind of take-home money.

Well, more power to you, sez I — but I'd like to ask one burning question: Do you honestly feel that you — a guy with only one head — are actually worth $40,000 per hour?

Now don't give me the glove in the face, Roberto — I'm not saying you aren't good. But you and I know each other from way back and I think you'll agree that neither you nor anyone else is $40,000 good — even though this bumptious baby of an industry has momentarily lost its sense of proportion and is offering that kind of cabbage.

Why, you ask, should one umbrella hustler blow the whistle on another umbrella hustler? For two very good reasons, chum: (a) I'm sore as a boil that the Treasury Department is going to put the snatch on virtually the entire 40 grand, and (b) your astronomical figures do both you and TV no favor. I'll tell you why.

Let's see if I can't blueprint it for you.

To get out of its swaddling clothes, video must present the top-grade talent that has made movies — talent like yourself. However, by insisting on so fat a fabulous fee, you have made it impossible for less reckless sponsors to present Jimmy Cagneys and Bing Crosbys — grants every bit as talented as you. These performers are a cinch to demand the same kind of big money and during shows and you know they'd lose face if they showed up for less.

As I see it, the unexpendable dough Frigidaire is paying you is a dangerous precedent. It's easily hold television back in the period of infancy in which its business has been plenty good to you why wouldn't it be a good thing to keep it that way? Instead of making one heck of a gesture— the figure is more than 25 grand your first pay check and agree to appear on the four shows coming up for five grand per each?

Money-wise, Bob, it would take a mere little out of your pocket; publicity-wise, it would cop plenty of headlines, and audience-wise, it would help bring a lot of better entertainment into a lot of parlors.

Sincerely,
B.R.

Strength for the Day

DAY OF RECKONING

A certain Insurance company issued a folder on which appeared the caption, "After the wreck— what? The reckoning." There was a lurid picture drawn of what may happen to a person if he does not make provision to protect himself against the day of mishap. The truth is emphasized that if there is a wreck, there is always a reckoning.

There are people who believe they can beat this system. But if these people are not in the insane asylums they ought to be for the reckoning which comes in God's universe is infallible. Men make mistakes, but God does not.

"There is a wideness in God's mercy like the wideness of the sea." God's mercy is in perfect balance with his wisdom. . . For every one of us there comes a day of reckoning. Neither it should be said that every day is a day of reckoning, although there are certainly great periods of reckoning, and a final reckoning when we shall all stand before the final judgement seat of Christ. But that there is a reckoning, no one may indeed be anxious and afraid. Everything is in God's hands, and therefore in the hands of mercy and love. But this does not mean that we are to be as if God's universe a wreck must always be followed by a reckoning.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

In war time, if you remember, butter was so scare that the hotel and restaurant business learned how to conserve butter so mean and thin that it was more of an aggravation than a service.

The way it long ever. But by and large, the hotel and restaurant business still serves butter in those skimpy little war-time wafers. It may be that the restaurant business is carrying on with the butter austerity in the interests of conserving the supply for shipment overseas to Britain and Europe. But something tells me that this is hardly so, if it is, the hotel and restaurant associations ought to be presented with one of those florid testimonials we used to get for having bought Victory bonds. But the probability is that the managers of the kitchens, having got used to a saving could be effected in butter by war-time restriction, have clung to the system to keep down one controllable expense. Butter comes high.

In most homes, during the war, housewives learned to serve butter in individual patties for each member of the family. Instead of the four-inch square of butter on its own plate for everyone to dive into, everybody got a fair share. But the minute the war control of butter became available, back came the good old butter dish, with its inch thick slice knifed from the pound.

Butter is one of the most easily wasted of all commodities, probably nobody knows better than the restaurant and hotel keeper how much of it is washed down the sink if it is served with any generosity on the tables. This is to be said for them: if you ask for more butter, you get it without demur. So whether they are saving it for Europe or for their own pockets, they are now a little less making it cheaper for us all. When anything is wasted, the price of it stays up.

INSIDE DOPE ON BLOOD PRESSURE

A very determined lady sat at the doctor's desk and in response to his question as to what she could do for her, thrust out her arm and commanded, "Take my blood pressure." The doctor hesitated then said: "If the information would be of any real value to you I'd do it. But, first, tell me what is bothering you."

To cut it short—the lady swept out of the office abruptly.

The professor from the liberal arts college wanted a prescription, several clerks, interns and nurses and walking into the university laboratory the professor demanded of any and all within hearing distance that he be given a "cholesterol test." The pathologist looked up from his microscope and remarked that the professor said, pathetically, "If you need attention, please see a doctor in the receptionist. She will explain the routine to you."

I'll cut this short, too. The professor charged out asserting that someone would hear about all this fol-de-rol.

In both instances, the visitors, the hearty misfits of the day were attempting to be their own physicians.

When the heart contracts, the blood pressure is momentarily higher than when the heart is resting — or filling. The blood pressure "reading" thus involves two figures: That concerned with the pressure registered at peak of the heart's contraction and that concerned with the lower pressure recorded while the heart is resting. The average person who wants to know what his blood pressure is should be referred to the doctor mentioned both finished.

Inevitably there would follow a spirit of questioning all of which, however, interesting to the patient, would have no direct bearing on the problem of protection against his illness. The relation of one figure to the other and the significance of either figure would be matters about which the patient could form no opinion. What then should the patient bother about?

If a person suspects that his "blood pressure" is giving him trouble, the intelligent thing for him to do is to go to a doctor and ask his complaint. He would be the doctor's time—and his own—by suggesting his reasons for thinking his blood is his blood pressure."

The word that his blood pressure is "average" or "low" should be sufficient to satisfy a patient. To be told that it is "high, but itself should be sufficient without demanding to know the figures ing.

WEDDINGS

McINTYRE—FEENEY

The rectory of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, April 22, at 8:30 a.m., when the Rev. Father J. Buckley united in marriage Mary Elizabeth Feeney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Feeney, Belleville, to William Fletcher McIntyre, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lampron, Belleville.

The bride, who was given in marriage, by her father, was governed in a charming gown of old china blue crepe, featuring princess lines, with matching headdress, mitts, accessories, and carrying a muff of red roses.

Miss Eleanor Feeney, of Belleville, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of navy taffeta, with white accessories and carrying a muff of pink roses.

Mr. Donald John Barrett, of Belleville, was groomsman.

Following the wedding dinner, which was held at "Tobe's Country Gardens, where the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a gown of navy bengalene with yellow accessories, and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was governed in light blue crepe with black accessories and corsage of pink and white carnations, the young people left for Toronto and points west. For travelling, the bride chose a pearl grey ensemble with paddy green accessories. Upon their return, they will reside in Sudbury, Ont.

Out-of-town guests were present from Montreal, Toronto, St. Mary's and Waterloo.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was honored by a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Helen Lovering and a crystal shower by Miss Grace Ferth and Miss Marion Jerdan.

A trousseau tea was held at the bride's home on Sunday, April 9th.

WATTAM—WEAVER

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at King Street United Church in Trenton on Saturday, April 22, when Sylvia May, B.A., daughter of Mrs. Weaver and the late Lyman S. Weaver, Trenton, was united in marriage with David Eugene, son of Mrs. Wattam and the late Herbert Wattam, Picton. The Rev. G. J. Minnille officiated.

Mrs. Lena Baker rendered the wedding music and Mr. Donald Long sang before the ceremony "I Promise Me" and during the signing of the register "Because".

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Ralph Weaver, Trenton, looked very charming in her floor length gown of ice blue taffeta fashioned with long torso lines with very full skirt of nylon net. The bodice was accentuated with seed pearl detail. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was caught with blue forget-me-nots and fell to a small hat of taffeta. She carried a cascade of pink roses and stephanotis.

Miss Gwen Kitchen, Belleville, maid of honor and Miss Betty Wattam, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, were becomingly gowned in powder blue lace over taffeta. They wore a bandeau matching lily-of-the-valley in the hair and carried small bouquets of daffodils.

Mr. Lawerge Minaker of Picton, was groomsman, while the ushers were Mr. Al Weaver, Trenton, and Mr. Bill Seeley, of Picton.

The reception was held at "The Golden Acres" where the bridal party received the guests. The bride's mother wore a navy blue crepe dress dressmaker suit with navy accessories and corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother who chose burgundy suit with navy accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

For a motor trip to Lake Placid, New York, the bride donned a black gabardine suit topped with salmon pink shortie coat, her set matching material trimmed with French roses and chose a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Wattam will reside in Picton.

Prior to her marriage the bride was guest of honor when Miss Gwen Kitchen entertained at a miscellaneous shower. Mrs. Wm. Myers, Picton, also entertained at a miscellaneous shower and Miss Betty Wattam was hostess at a buffet supper.

KEAYS—CLAPP

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, 26 John Street, Belleville, on Thursday, April 20, when Phyllis Ann Clapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Clapp, became the bride of LAC. John Ernest Keays, of the RCAF Station, Trenton, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Keays, of Ottawa. The officiating clergyman was Padre William Rodgers, RCAF, Trenton, who performed the double ring ceremony before a background of hydrangeas, daffodils, sweetpeas, snapdragons and roses.

The wedding music was provided by Mrs. Ella Winnifred Keller, who presided at the piano, and the soloist, Mr. Arthur Duby, rendered "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely ballerina-length gown of white frosted organza with concord headdress of lily-of-the-valley, matching mitts, and carried a nosegay of tuberoses roses and sweetpeas.

Miss Marguerite Clapp, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing nile green organza, fashioned on lines similar to that of the bride's with headdress of pink concord and carried a nosegay of sweetpeas.

O.S.S. Harold (Bud) Keays, of H.M.C.S. "Magnificent", brother of the bridegroom was groomsman.

At the reception which took the form of a buffet luncheon served by Misses Joy Belnap, Dorothy Howes, Betty Calhaney, and Edna Malcolm, the bride's mother received wearing a gown of navy nylon net over navy crepe with corsage of red carnations.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa and points east, the bride travelled in a navy flowered crepe dress, navy topcoat, with white accessories, and corsage of red roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Keays will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were from Nova Scotia, Ottawa, Quebec, Orillia and Sulphida, Ontario.

Synodical Society of W.M.S. Meets in Convention Here

By GLADYS WARD

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church is host on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week when the Synodical Society of the Women's Missionary Society of the Western Division of Toronto Synod, Kingston, meet in convention there. The general convener for the annual meeting is Mrs. G. W. Fuller; hilltop tea, Mrs. Ernest Baragar; post office and registration, Miss Beth Bain; information, Mrs. A. Diamond; literature, Mrs. Ross Miller; check room, Mrs. W. MacDonald; music, Mrs. A. Bell; press, Miss M. Mackintosh; reception, Mrs. D. E. Fleming, Mrs. J. G. Hornsby, Mrs. I. I. Moore, Mrs. W. Mantle, Mrs. F. Parsons and Mrs. W. J. Mills.

A conference for delegates was held on Tuesday afternoon led by Miss Freida Matthews, executive secretary, Toronto Synod. Suggestions were made and it was felt that interesting meetings would attract some of the "drifters" back to missions. Miss Matthews pointed out that missionary letters from overseas missionaries are available without charge for use at meetings.

"Our Commission" Theme

The theme of the annual meeting is "Our Commission" and the thought is the keynote of the various sessions.

At the meeting on Tuesday evening Mrs. A. Glenn Thompson, president of the Synodical was pressed the pleasure and gratitude of the delegates for the invitation to meet in Belleville. This is the first occasion of the annual meeting in Belleville. Mrs. Thompson asked the members to keep in mind the forward steps for which the society is dedicated in a three-year plan, and to apply the text of the theme: "So teach us. . . that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."

Rev. J. Goforth, Hornsby, Minister of the Church, extended a cordial welcome from the church He traced briefly the history of St. Andrew's Church from the time in 1820 when Belleville was a village and as acre of land was deeded to the Presbyterian Church. Ten years later a little church was built. It had no pews, just planks laid for benches, and

In Manchuria the Presbyterian Church had established fifty-five missions when they were forced to evacuate in 1941. Of these 44 are still carrying on.

One slide showed a postage stamp issued in Manchuria to celebrate international Labor Day. At the top was the date, May 1st, 1948. In the centre was like a global map with a flag carrying the hammer and sickle flying above the map to show the Communist aim of world domination and world revolution. The price of the stamp was $50 which meant it was worth very little in view of the inflated currency

2ND THURLOW Friends Entertain Neighbors Aid

2nd. Thurlow — Mrs. R. Lazarulk and Mrs. William Lazarulk recently entertained about 25 members and friends of the Neighbor's Aid. Mrs. Harry Thomson was in charge of the meeting.

Several letters of thanks were read for cards and fruit received, from members who were ill. The treasurer, Mrs. Don Leeming, reported that $83.80 collection had been taken in for the euchre parties.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved to Mr. Harry Grills who so kindly paid for the chairs for the Aid.

Donations were received from Mrs. Corah Mitchell; Mrs. Thomas Purtl; Mrs. Lazarulk, for the Aid fund. Several ladies' nighties, sweaters and dresses were handed in for the Red Cross.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Eric Leeming. Mrs. Ross Thomson is to arrange a program for the meeting.

As it was Mrs. Lazarulk's (Sr.) birthday, "Happy Birthday" was sung. A delicious cake made and decorated by Mrs. J. Craig was presented to the guest of honor, for which sincere appreciation was expressed. Refreshments were served by the hostesses and upstood assistants.

rates which prevail in China.

Hymns Impressed Bandits

Another slide told the story of the Sun dynasty, two girls who were threatened by bandits. They were just 13 years old, but they offered to sing for the bandits. The songs they sang were hymns, and the bandits, at first were interested, and then so impressed that not only did they give back the loot they had taken, but they presented the girls with two silver dollars.

With a picture of a new church Mr. Goforth closed his address with it. One farmer who did not have a contribution to make sold a pig for $14. He brought $14 as his offering, and when the pastor asked why he had brought more than the price of the pig, he replied "how could I bring a broken dollar to the church?"

In larger centres the church is still carrying on under communism, but in the smaller places it has gone underground. One Chinese under Communism they feel ing about the situation in China with the words, "we were disappointed with the Nationalists, but we are not satisfied with the communists."

Mr. Reoch believes that where the church is strong communism cannot make headway. If people only realized what conditions are like under Communism they would rally to the church and the Christian way of life, and not desert their church except for Easter and Christmas services. There are over 1,000,000 Christians in the East who are eager to learn about Christ and receive His message.

Post-War Factory Styles Fur Coats for U.K. Market

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Sheldon, Durham, England.—Ex-miners, railwaymen, laborers and boys are some of the British craftsmen producing modern fur coats for British women.

At Shildon Estate—erected in a depressed area in 1945—former servicemen returning without a job could join factories producing fur, linens, sheepskin boots and sportswear.

During the last five years nearly 200 local men and women have been trained in processing and producing furs and fur coats.

The Shildon factory concentrates on utility-style beaver lamb coats which have a high demand on the home market because of their durability and the low purchase tax—33 1-3 per cent against, the rest on all non-utility furs. Furs are the only utility garment still purchasetaxed.

A new process introduced at this factory makes mutation beaver lamb richer and more lustrous as well as cheaper. A full-length coat costs £32 ($90.20) to £37 10s.

Details of the new process are still secret but manufacturers are impressed by the first of the new coats.

Backs Are Full

There are also embros lamb coats in style such as the grey krimmer-embros with full swing back and wide bell-shaped sleeves and the sandalwood embros dolman-sleeved jacket with pouched back, gathered waist and long roll collar.

An effective three-quarter-length style has two-tiered, four flare back with two-tier sleeves. The tiers are piped with leather for accent.

Another experimental design is the bronze moleskin coat with skins worked in different ways to catch the light. With its loose, swing style and huge sleeves it seems to catch the light like a spring flower.

The brightly-colored furs lately popular in France and New York will not be produced generally for the home market. Manufacturers do not expect them to "take".

They say that with present-day tax and restrictions in fur, British fur-buyers ask for dark, neutral shades that "go with anything."

State Watchdog, Woman Conserves Taxpayers' Cash

By JAMES CARY

Phoenix, Ariz. (CP) — Ana Frohmiller — the trim, greying state auditor of Arizona — has proved women can be a success in a man's world.

She has held her office for more than 23 years. The voters, who like her diligent watch over state expenditures, have re-elected her 11 times in succession.

Energetic, friendly, Mrs. Frohmiller has tried in turn to see that the public gets its money's worth from government. She has established a statewide reputation as the "watchdog of the treasury."

But the lively 58-year-old woman feels her efforts (she is credited with saving taxpayers an estimated $100,000 yearly) have only touched a field that needs much more cultivation.

"I have a lot of sympathy for the public paying the costs of government," she says. "They're paying for many things they don't get." With that philosophy, Ana, as she is known affectionately to her friends, has earned the respect of her employees and official colleagues. Most of them are men.

"Being a woman was a handicap at first," she asserts, "but I was reared with four brothers and learned how to get along with men. Besides I like them; they're easy to talk to—down to earth."

When a claim for a questionable expenditure crosses her desk, it is Ana's duty to say "no."

That she does with alacrity, and no amount of veiled or outspounding or threats of 'reprisal can move her. Only a clarification of the law, or a court order will change her stand.

Ana was born in Burlington, Vt., on July 28, 1891. When she was seven her family moved to Phoenix. She won commercial courses in high school, later worked as a bookkeeper and was appointed treasurer of Coconino County in 1922. She won her first race for state auditor in 1926.

To offset her arduous work she has developed a hobby. At night, or on holidays, she works on the latest additions to her collection of early American furniture. She likes to "pare off the old finish and get a good look at the natural wood. . . . Sometimes I can tell how old it is, and perhaps how it was made." She also collects old glassware and dabbled in ceramics.

Caught in a reflective mood, she will speak of the things she has learned in governing a new state grow.

"There is so much we could do if we had the authority," she says. "Government is still wasteful despite improvements in recent years."

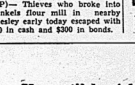
She thinks great savings could be obtained through a centralized purchasing program, and better control of property. She feels the tax base could be broadened, and overall structure of government streamlined to eliminate many duplications. But even with that she offers a word of caution.

"Reorganization is needed, but its' no cure-all. Governments will still have to be run by the people. Our needs are for better-trained, better trained people in public life."

THIEVES GET $300

Owen Sound, Ont., April 26—(CP)— Thieves who broke into Henkels Furniture Store nearby Chesley early today escaped with 200 in cash and $300 in bonds.

2ND THURLOW Mr., Mrs. R. Thompson Entertains at Euchre



2nd Thurlow — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson entertained the Neighbors' Aid members and families to a progressive euchre party on Wednesday night last. Nine tables of euchre were played, prizes were won by the following:

Ladies — Mrs. Arnold Mitchell; Miss S. Stapley; consolation — Mrs. R. Greatrix; Men — Mr. Wesley Gray; Mr. R. Stapley; consolation Mr. R. Greatrix; Lone Hand, Mrs. Harry Thomson.

A vote of thanks was given to Mr. and Mrs. Thompson for opening their home for the enjoyable time.

Refreshments were served and a social time spent.

THE J. A. McNABB LIMITED
254 FRONT STREET BELLEVILLE

MARIO ... In his distinctive feature about Food... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

Judge Roy Bean will only travel by plane.

The Judge, if you remember, weighs 1,200 pounds and was the prize steer at the 1950 International Livestock show. The special plane used to transport Bean will carry him to livestock exhibitions all over the country.

The present owners of the Judge, the Dearborn Motors Co., are naturally concerned with his safety, since they spent $11.50 a pound for this particular piece of beef.

Jumping from the exorbitant to the reasonable, homemakers concerned with the price of beef and a daily budget can have economical dinners by serving fresh beef liver frequently.

There aren't many people who don't relish the aroma of fresh liver pan fried in bacon fat to a light golden color.

As a variation from the usual fried liver make a scalloped liver and potato dish. Use a moderate oven. An intense heat will toughen the beef liver—even Judge Bean's liver. Cut the potatoes extremely thin, as though you were cutting them for potato chips. This will reduce the cooking time and keep the liver tender.

Scalloped Liver and Potatoes.
Serves 4.

Order 1 pound of fresh beef liver cut 1 inch thick. Cut off any tubes or membrane. Cut liver into 1½ inch squares. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Dip in flour. Pat off excess flour.

Melt fat (bacon if possible) to a depth of 1-4 inch in a frying pan. Brown liver very lightly on each side.

Pare 3 medium size potatoes. Cut into very thin slices.

Place a layer of potatoes on the bottom of a greased baking dish. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon grated onion and 1 tablespoon flour. Add a layer of the liver.

Add another layer of potatoes with 1 tablespoon grated onion and 1 tablespoon flour. Add a layer of liver. Top with potatoes.

Add enough hot milk to nearly cover potatoes. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Sprinkle lightly with paprika.

Bake, covered, in a moderate oven 350 degrees, for a half hour. Remove cover and continue to bake until potatoes have become soft and absorbed liquid.

Women's Activities

WHITE'S W.A.

White's District—Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson was hostess to the ladies of White's Woman's Association last Thursday afternoon with 13 members and two visitors in attendance. The president, Mrs. Glen Meyers, presided.

The devotional period was taken by Mrs. Ernest Curtis who read the 10th chapter of St. John verses 1-16. Mrs. C. Rush led in prayer.

The minutes of March meeting read by Mrs. Walter Jones, were approved. Mrs. Ross Stickle paid dues, Mrs. Walter Jones made a donation to the birthday box, and Mrs. Manchester Ketcheson donated $1.

Invitations are to be sent out by the secretary to the Woman's Association of Johnstown, Grace, Wesley and Centenary Churches to meet with White's Woman's Association in the month of June.

A "Thank-you" card was received by the W.A. from Mr. Floyd Sandercock who has been ill and was remembered by White's W.A.

Mrs. R. J. Flyer and Mrs. Ernest Curtis were named as delegates to attend the Woman's Association Convention at Stirling on May 17th.

The birthday card, donated by Mrs. Frank Sandercock, and signed by all ladies present, was presented with a box of chocolates to Mrs. Acker who was celebrating her 84th birthday.

Mrs. Casey Ketcheson took charge of the program. All sang two verses of hymn 108. Readings "Why", by "Mary's Pet" and "April Days" were given by Mrs. A. Jones, Mrs. R. Flyer and Mrs. C. Jeffery. Mrs. C. Ketcheson gave a talk entitled "Getting Together". Mrs. C. Ketcheson served dainty refreshments and a social time was enjoyed by all.

REDNERSVILLE W.A.

Rednersville W. A. meeting was held recently at the home of Mrs. T. Thompson with 13 members present. Mrs. Ralph Stafford led in prayer followed by the scripture lesson taken from Mark 9: 25-35 verses, read by Mrs. Charles Dempsey.

In the absence of Mrs. Roraback, Mrs. Stafford took charge of the "Study Book." Mrs. George Roblin read "thank-you" cards from Mr. Allan Dempsey and Mrs. Leslie Fraser.

It was decided that each member bring a linen tea towel to the next meeting as the hall kitchen is showing a shortage of them.

Mrs. Westhergup took charge of the program. The guess on a jar of beans was won by Mrs. Ross Roblin and garden contest was won by Mrs. Harry Adams.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Thompson for opening her home, and to the lunch committee by Mrs. Harry Adams.

GREEN MOUNTAIN FARM—Merrick.

During the depression the author took his wife and small son to live on a run down Vermont farm. This account of their Vermont interlude spiced with anecdotes and character sketches of their Vermont neighbors.

NO BANNERS TO BUGLES — Eisenberg.

A continuation of the record of the author's war services begun in "Under the Red See Sun." This is an account of salvage work done in the Mediterranean ports rendered useless by the scuttling of the French navy.

CRAZY GLASSPECKER — Dodge.

An account of the year or so the Dodge family spent in Arequipa, Peru—told with utmost good humor, an eye for local color, a willingness to let form the reader about Peru but never too much."

I MARRIED A REDHEAD — Musselman.

The author describes the first ten years of his marriage to a redhead actress. Together they braved a Chautauqua tour, summer stock and days of unemployment.

SHANNONVILLE L. J. Phillips Presents Play "Scootin Grandma"

Shannonville—A large attendance was present on Thursday evening in the United Church hall at the play "Scootin' Grandma" presented by the St. John's Ladies' League of Stirling. This play was sponsored by the Sunshine Girls' Group, of the local church. Refreshments were served to the players at the conclusion of the evening.

This play was exceptionally well presented under the direction of L. J. Phillips and held the attention of the audience from start to finish. During the intermission, Verna Woodbeck gave several accomplish guitar selections, and also led in an enjoyable sing-song.

List of cast were as follows:

Daisy Ellen Lohnes; Verna Woodbeck; Bob Cage; George Noble; Mae Kent; Phyllis Cherry; Bernice Richardson; Jean Morgan; Alice Coombes; Dick McLaughlin and Harold Morgan.

Club Activities

PLAINFIELD MISSION CIRCLE

Plainfield— The April meeting of Plainfield Mission Circle was held at the home of Mrs. Harry McCreary on Thursday evening last.

The devotional service was under the leadership of Mrs. Orland Bertrand who took as her theme "Prayer", based on the 23rd Psalm. Prayer to the soul is like sunshine to the plant. A duet by Mrs. Bertrand and Mrs. McCreary and prayer was the closing of the service.

Business was discussed. Third group leader, Miss Mary Bertrand took charge of the remainder of the service. Study book Chapter II, (Growing With the Years) was well explained by three of the girls. Solo, "The Glory of His Presence" by Miss Betty Chumbley. Three very helpful readings were read by Miss Shirley Parks, Betty Gelling and Miss Betty Chumbley. Collection $1.03.

S.S. 4 MISSION BAND

3rd Thurlow — The Mission Band of S. S. 4 Thurlow held their regular meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Jay Mrs. Jr., Mrs. Greatrix at two o'clock. Greatrix had very kindly invited the mothers and Rev. and Mrs. L. Scott, of Shannonville, and all were greatly interested in., the following program —

Meeting was opened by the Rev. L. Scott. Mrs. Greatrix told the story of the island of Trinidad Collection was taken by Grant Leland, and dedicated, Ann Sinclair and Jim Gray at "Tom's Mistake." Shirley Stapley read the scripture lesson; duet by Grant Leland and Mona Sanderson, "This is My Father's World" was enjoyed. The children all sang, "What A Friend We Have in Jesus."

Mrs. Greatrix told of Easter in Trinidad.

Mr. and Mrs. Sfott both spoke commending Mrs. Greatrix and the children for their work in the Mission Band, and Scott gave the children an invitation to sing at Shannonville church at a later date. There were 21 in attendance and the collection was $1.40 which is for use of the meeting refreshments were provided and a social time enjoyed. Thanks were extended to Mrs. Greatrix for her enjoyable, as well as profitable Easter party.

Interesting Program Planned for WCTU Convention

The April meeting of the Women Christian Temperance Union was interesting with reports from the different departments.

The devotional period was taken by Mrs. N. Montgomery with helpful thoughts on the Christian life in every day living.

An invitation from Mrs. J. E. Short, a former president, to attend the anniversary of their silver wedding, was extended to the president.

A short tribute and silent prayer in loving memory of the late Mrs. J. N. Boyd, was participated in by all present.

Will Meet in Picton

Announcement of the county convention in Picton, May 10, was made by Mrs. Gorsline. The field secretary, Mrs. Beth McKay, is to be present and address the convention. In the evening, Donald Baxter, M.P.P., will be one of the speakers, also a group of Alcoholics Anonymous will join in the interest of temperance. The A.A. foundation is in New York, which is a service for groups all over North America, Africa, India, Ireland and elsewhere in which are enrolled 90,000 active proved members.

The weakness of the A.A. approach says the Christian Science Monitor is that they are interested in the program only as a rehabilitation means. Prevention should go hand in hand with it to be complete.

Dr. R. G. Bell, Medical Director for the Shadow Brook Health Foundation says in "Health", official magazine of the Health League of Canada that approximately 85 per cent of the adult population of Canada uses alcohol in some form or other. Of this 65 per cent, it is believed that one in twenty develops an illness that can progress to premature death as surely if not treated in time.

Dr. Bell compares tuberculosis and alcoholism thus, "One is caused by a tiny living organism, a germ—the other by a chemical or drug. Tuberculosis in the main implies only the physical aspect of health. On the other hand, alcoholism causes impaired physical health both immediate and progressive, a marked impairment of mental health, and a significant impairment of social health. Alcoholism is a self-inflicted illness and growth should be scientifically taught the danger of the social glass.

Women Put Life And Meaning Into Work of Church

St. Catharines, April 26 (CP)—"Each and every day the 170,000 members of the United Church Women's Association across Canada are putting life and meaning into the work of the church," Mrs. N. R. Fallis, president of the Dominion W.A. Council, said in an address to the Hamilton Conference Branch here Friday.

The conference agreed to support national issues concerned with Christian citizenship and with rights given to newcomers.

The conference commended the provincial council of women on their recent stand against the sale of alcoholic beverages. Educational programs in the schools and churches, accompanied by an intelligent attitude in the home, was held the most practical way of dealing with the problem of youth and alcohol.

GOOD MANNERS

There shall be dancing at her wedding reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in the chapel of our Divinity School here, at 11 o'clock . . . wearing white bridal gown and veil . . . .

to have my sister as maid of honor, two bridesmaids, ring bearer, two flower girls. The reception is to be followed by a reception.

We both have a large number of friends and relatives, all of them enjoy dancing very much, and so I have engaged a hall for the reception-with-dancing. I must pay for this hall from early morning until two o'clock the next morning. A kitchen is a part of this hall, and we would like to avail ourselves of the use of this in order to save expense. Would it be in good taste to have the reception in the hall directly after the ceremony?

If we do this, we could have certain foods prepared the day before the wedding, taken to the hall, and, in some cases, have them re-heated in the kitchen on the day of the wedding. (Baked ham, for example, baked beans, rolls, and so forth.) An alternative is for me to take only the bridal party into a restaurant for mid-day dinner, and then have the reception at the hall later, serving only light refreshments.

The difficulty with this arrangement is that I have quite a few relatives coming from out-of-town who are to be guests at our house, and I feel it is most discourteous to leave these guests alone. If I take them to dine with the bridal party, it really feel that I have to invite my fiance's relatives too . . . . which would make forty guests, and this I cannot afford. A second alternative is to have the wedding party and close relatives on both sides to my house to dinner. But my house is small, and it would be quite crowded. If I do this would I have to have refreshments in the evening, then serving only light refreshments?

The points are: (1) to have an enjoyable time dancing at the reception, and (2) to take care of all concerned not too expensively.

J. S.

Of all the plans you have in mind, my suggestion is that you have the mid-day dinner at your house (buffet service, for more convenience) and again invite the members of your wedding party and close relatives on both sides. This courteously and delightfully provides for your house guests, would be less trouble than serving in the hall, and would be more leisurely service. Then have your reception at the hall, to serve on o'clock in the hall, serving simple refreshments, and invite the bride's cake . . . or, if more convenient for more dancing, name the supper hour.

For their forty-fourth wedding anniversary

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I will be married 44 years soon. The date falls on Sunday, and we are going to High Mass at 11 a.m. at our church. Several of our relatives and friends said they would like to come to our apartment after church. We have a small apartment and I am wondering if I could serve a buffet breakfast (Would it be proper to do so?) (2) What do you think I should wear that day . . . was thinking of getting a light-tan dress and hat.

M. M. D.

Do invite these relatives and friends to come to your apartment after church . . . for a buffet breakfast in the easy buffet style . . . .

Offer the first course of fruit or fruit juice of some kind; then perhaps scrambled eggs, or eggs in any fashion, with crisp bacon or tiny sausages; or, if more convenient for buffet serving, creamed chicken or chicken a la king on toast (or make waffles at the table and serve with sausages) or serve any of your breakfast specialties', if not waffles, buy kind of hot bread or rolls or biscuits; and steaming hot coffee. (3) Choose a dress and hat to the color most becoming to you . . . a light-tan if you wish, or how about blue, the rich, dark blue that is such a favorite this season? You might plan to have an ensemble, a sheer material for the dress and a matching or short jacket or bolero; matching hat with perhaps some flowers on it to tie with the clothing or harmonizing accessories.

CHILD'S SULKY SPELLS WORRIED HER UNTIL . . .

If your child has moody, cross, irritable spells for what seems to be no reason, watch for constipation. Many children, particularly overactive ones, are constipated and do not move completely. As a result, harmful toxins remain in the intestines, making the child fretful, peevish and irritable. Give him a mild laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Own Tablets. They help give the thorough evacuation that quickly helps banish most spells of the blues. Get the happy relief Prescott parents, small, easy to take Dr. Caldwell's Own Tablets. Children love the taste. Price $1 to $2. Ask at your druggist. Get a box today.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

The victim of fatigue might just as well throw her beauty aids

Fatigue is beauty's dim out

Every woman who is forty years old or older is a time-fighter. It is her hope that she can keep the star with the sceptre and the long white whiskers at a distance; he must never catch up with her. Her ammunition is in the form of bottles, jars and boxes of cosmetics. We allow that they are useful, that they fulfill a purpose, that they smell wonderful and are fun to play with. They can do so much and no more. No toiletry has even been compounded that will completely conceal the shadows of fatigue or bring radiance to the face when one is worried or despondent.

Keeping fit is beauty's first law. Mother Nature laid down certain rules; only a foolish woman will disregard them. One should have a certain amount of work, a certain amount of play, and enough rest to be well physically, mentally and spiritually. The penalty for breaking health laws are severe—pallor, pouches under the eyes, sagging tissues, horrid little wrinkles, drooping bodies, lagging steps.

The woman who is running herself ragged might just as well throw her beauty aids out of the window. Rouge will not help if the muscles of the face are tense, the eyes dull and expressionless.

A survey made not long ago by an electrical company—promoting electric carving—dug deep into the question of nutrition. It was found that, in the majority of cases, the father and children of a family were well nourished, but the mother was suffering from malnutrition. Women are inclined to think after everybody but themselves. It is a well-known fact that the business of preparing food and serving it is a no help to appetite. By the time dinner is served, mama is tired, and when you are tired you are not interested in food. Hence the need of taking your time, not getting flustered, and of serving your favorite dishes frequently.

A short nap during the day should be the privilege of every wife and mother, if it can be managed. Better some dust under the bed than mama on the bed, laid low with nervous exhaustion, while the home is in a state of confusion.

Fresh air, sunshine and exercise are out of doors help to keep one fit.

The possibility of mind is a wonderful beauty aid. In order to have it you must overlook the faults of others. Try not to be upset by trifles. Try not to worry. That is not always easy. But you can control your thoughts if you try hard enough. Worry never brought you any dividends, and it is possible that it has brought you much misery. It matters a lot for the business of living gallantly, carrying on, facing one's responsibilities.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

If a young man wants to delay his marriage a year or two until he is financially able to "give his wife everything she wants", how far is his finances justified in trying to make him change his mind?

A girl, who is the fiancee in question, writes me that she thinks her young man has the wrong attitude. Her idea is that "in order to have real happiness we both should work together to reach the top. We should be together to share our burdens, joys and sorrows. I want to be with him while we are still young, so that we can raise our family and still be young enough to enjoy them when they are grown. I want to do all this so that in later life we can look back and say we struggled to reach the top but we did it together."

Besides, she adds, "the day may never come when he can give me everything I want."

She wants to know if I don't think she is right in her view-point.

I see it, the "right" in this matter lies somewhere between the two points of view.

I think it is quite desirable for a young man to want to wait until married until he is reasonably secure from a financial standpoint, and I think it is usually unwise for any girl to insist on being married on the proverbial shoestring.

It is all very well to talk about working together "to reach the top." There is plenty of time, and plenty of chance for any young couple to do this without beginning their married life under the financial handicap of not having enough to live on. Early struggles do sometimes, as the saying goes, weld hearts, believe, result in drawing a husband and wife closer together. But, generally when they are very young, too continuous a struggle very often has the effect to put the opposite and pull them apart.

The writer of the letter is 18 years old, and while she doesn't give me the young man's age, presumably he is not much older, and I think that both their experiences expect, and should have, a lot of opportunity and freedom for good times. If they do not, it almost invariably happens that later on they feel they have been cheated out of their natural rights in this respect. Letters come to me every now and then, bitter and dissatisfied wives who, now in their early twenties, have been married several years and complain that they married so young they did not have a chance to go and find babies and other marital responsibilities, and so make it impossible for them to have the recreation they want.

I don't think it is necessary for a marriage to be delayed until a young man can give his wife "everything she wants". I think it is perfectly reasonable that she should be willing to do her share, whatever it may be, in helping to build their future secure, and so to wait for many of the things she would like to have. But this shouldn't be interpreted as approval of marriage without any financial security whatever.

As a general rule, I would say that the boy who has a good job and every expectation that he will continue to keep it; who is steady and reliable and dependable, so that he will not be likely to throw up a job for trivial reasons and find himself without a means of earning a living, should be able to marry and make a go of it. And I think that if girls would insist on this much security in advance, there would be fewer broken marriages.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

We had a date for lunch with Mae West the last day she was in Toronto playing in her own production Diamond Lil. But it turned out that Miss West was not well that day, so we bit a cracker and lapped some delicious chicken with her leading lady — Miss Pollock —by no means her luscious than Miss West herself. Miss Pollock received much praise for her part as The Madame in the show. Besides being a top actress, she is a talented and cultured drama teacher.

In fact, Miss Pollock is such a fine personality herself, you forget she is special to Diamond Lil. She says Mae West is a quiet person, who has always led an almost monastic existence off-stage.

Mae is reported to be a Spiritualist. She neither smokes nor drinks. Seldom does she go out at all, and only the odd time does she entertain a few friends at her home. Quiet and most likeable to work with, Miss West is one of the most popular actresses among her own profession.

On a cold day, it's quite a relief to drop into a greenhouse where the moist, pungent air is about 80 degrees. Today in the greenhouses, you can catch a glimpse of summer gardens in miniature. For there in rows of boxes are tomato plants, not more than an inch high, and sprung from the seed a thousandfold.

Each one of these hair-like plants is now ready to be transplanted by hand into another box. A finger-fork the size of eyebrow tweezers is used to dig out the root. Plants are then transplanted an inch and a half apart. Later, they are transplanted to the outside hot beds. A tomato plant is handled four times before it is actually planted in the garden.

One thing you can't help marvelling about as the sun beams through the glass roof, is how a whole head of lettuce can possibly build up from those two wee leaves. Why they are no bigger than a couple of baby's tears.

After many months of fondling under controlled temperature, it is these very seedlings which will produce the vegetables and fruits of our tables.

After reading accounts of the Dr. Klaus Fuchs trial, people are shocked when they see to what ridiculous lengths we go, to be lenient with the most dangerous of our internal enemies.

It was reported that Lord Chief Justice Goddard put the question: "Dare we now give shelter to political refuges who may be followers of this pernicious creed, and then, as well disguise themselves and bite the hand that feeds them?"

A Canadian who takes one life, may hang or get a life sentence. A scientist who confesses to giving away atomic secrets affecting the lives or millions of people, gets 14 years . . . Yes, he bites the hand that fed him. Now we turn around and feed the hand that bit us.

QUICK, EASY WAYS TO VARY YOUR MENUS

HERE ARE 7 QUICK, EASY DISHES to vary your menus—all made with the wonderful new food product, French's Instant Potato! It can be made into creamy, mashed potato in just 1 minute. It's just the thing for making delicious soups, meat and fish dishes, rolls and pastries. You'll be delighted with the many exciting ways to use French's Instant Potato. We know that once you've tried it you will never want to be without it!

Clip these recipes for your file or cook book!

1. French's Mashed Potato

NO WASHING! NO PEELING! NO COOKING! NO MASHING!

When dinner is ready to serve, put 1½ cups instant potato, ½ cup milk in medium-sized saucepan and bring to a boil. Remove pan from heat and add ¼ cup cold milk. Commence stirring with wire whip or fork, then add ½ cup French's Instant Potato. Beat until light and fluffy. Add salt, pepper and butter. Makes 2 cups mashed potato.

2. Potato Soup

To 3 cups very hot (but not boiling) milk, stir in gradually ½ cup French's Instant Potato. Stir over low heat until mixture thickens to desired consistency. Season to taste with onion salt, pepper and butter. If preferred thinner, add milk. Sprinkle with paprika. Serves 3. (For each additional serving use 1 cup milk and 2 heaping tablespoon French's Instant Potato).

3. Party Potatoes

To two cups mashed potato, beat in 1 to 2 tbs. minced chives, or 1 tbs. chopped watercress, and 1 tsp. finely cut mint leaves.

4. Codfish Cakes

2 cups mashed potato made with French's Instant Potato	1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tbs. butter or margarine	½ tsp. white pepper, if desired
	2 cups salt cod fish freshened

Add butter, pepper, seasoning and egg to mashed potato. Beat until light and fluffy. Freshen fish according to directions on the package. Add fish to potato mixture and mix well. Chill. Shape into cakes. Roll in French's Instant Potato and fry in deep fat a little fat in a frying pan heated to 390°F or brown in a Drain on absorbent paper.

5. Cocoanut Kisses

½ cup hot mashed potato	½ teaspoon almond extract
½ cup confectioner sugar	1, 4-oz. can moist cocoanut
1 lb. confectioner sugar

Measure mashed potato made with French's Instant Potato into a medium-sized bowl. Add butter. Beat in gradually the sifted confectioner sugar. Add almond extract and cocoanut. Mix thoroughly. Drop by spoonfuls on wax paper to harden.

6. French's Fried Potatoes

Bring 2 cups water to brisk boil in medium-sized saucepan while still boiling, quickly stir in 1 cup French's Instant Potato. When slightly cooler, turn out on lightly floured board. Roll ¼ inch thick. Cut into strips ¼ inch wide and 2 inches long. Fry in small batches in shallow fat (2 inches deep) heated to 390°F. until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Salt. Serves 6-8.

7. Cocktail Puffs

Prepare potato "dough" as for French's Fried Potatoes. Roll out as thin as possible. Cut with cookie cutter 1½ inch in diameter. Fry in shallow fat. Salt. Delicious hot or cold.

FRENCH'S INSTANT POTATO is also a wonderful help to:

- Quickly top a Shepherd's Pie, Meat or Chicken Pie, or baked casserole dish.
- Thicken gravy, stews, chowder, cream soups, vegetable soups, etc.
- Coat fish, croquettes, cutlets, before cooking, for a crisp, even brown coating.
- Coat French-fried onions before cooking.
- Make a little sauce of any consistency — thick, medium or thin.
- Make meat go further in such dishes as hamburgers, meat loaf, hash, etc.
- Use in dressing to go with roast fowl.
- Use in the preparation of scones, steamed puddings, refrigerator rolls, doughnuts, pancakes.

AND REMEMBER—You can add zest to many different dishes with French's Prepared Mustard!

FOR BABY'S MENU

Doctors recommend delicious mashed potatoes for children's diet. French's Instant Potato is made from top-quality potatoes precooked by a special process that preserves nutritional values and flavour.

Here's all you do . . .

To make one small serving, add ½ teaspoon salt to ½ cup milk. Heat to scalding (but not boiling) point. Add 2 tablespoons French's Instant Potato. Stir vigorously until light and fluffy.

Some Interesting Ways to Prepare Fillets of Fish

By KAY REX

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 25, (CP)—Fish your favorite dish?

The games and fisheries department in Quebec has issued recipes for turning sea-food into tasty meal-time fare.

Fresh or frozen cod fillets may be served "au gratin," with tomatoes or cheese.

Cut fillets into portions and place in greased baking-dish. Cook in hot oven (500 degrees Fahrenheit) for 12 minutes for fresh fillets and 15 to 22 minutes for frozen fillets.

Fillets Au Gratin

Dip fillets in well-salted milk (one tablespoon of salt to one cup of milk). Roll in dried bread crumbs. Bake in oven.

Fillets With Tomatoes

One tin cream of tomato soup; one tablespoon of shallots (cut in small pieces); two teaspoons sugar.

Salt and cover with cream of tomato soup. Add shallots and sugar have been added. Cook during required time.

Fillet With Cheese Sauce

Ingredients of sauce: two tablespoons butter; three tablespoons flour; one cup hot milk; one-third cup grated cheese; one-half teaspoon powdered mustard; one-quarter teaspoon salt.

Melt butter, remove saucepan from fire and add flour gradually, mix well; add hot milk, cheese, mustard and salt. Stir until cheese is melted. Cook five minutes. Pour over fish and place in oven.

Fish Chowder

Ingredients: four tablespoons butter; two onions (finely chopped); three cups uncooked potatoes (diced); two cups uncooked cubed (chopped); four cups boiling water; three cups milk; one tablespoon minced parsley; one tablespoon salt; one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Cook onion and celery five minutes in melted butter. Add boiling water, potatoes and fish, through the glass roof, is how a whole head of lettuce can possibly build up from those two wee leaves. Why they are no bigger than a couple of baby's tears.

After many months of fondling under controlled temperature, it is these very seedlings which will produce the vegetables and fruits of our tables.

Capture of Hainan Great Loss To Nationalists

By FRED HAMPSON

Honolulu, April 26—(AP)—Loss of Hainan Island to the Chinese communists shows that the reported resurgence of the nationalists was largely an illusion.

It also means that another obstacle to the communist advance into southeast Asia—Indo-China, Thailand, Burma, Malaya and Indonesia—has been cleared.

The nationalist defeat on Hainan was another doleful meaning to the non-communist areas of the far east; the Reds appear to have overcome to a considerable extent their greatest military weakness. Previously their efforts across water against an enemy have been unsuccessful and costly.

They put troops ashore on Hainan, held beaches and reinforced them, and did it without either air cover or a navy, both of which the nationalists used against them.

Hainan, of course, is only 10 miles from the nearest mainland, but the Reds say their invasion flotillas traversed 30 miles of sea to reach their chosen beaches. The question immediately arises: Can the final nationalist refuge of Formosa long remain invulnerable across 100 miles of water?

Hainan finally rallies again the question: Is there any hope for the non-communist world in the leadership of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek? All last winter the nationalists appeared to be improving. A new hope and a new resolution seemed to be growing out of their last ditch of despair.

Then Chiang resumed the presidency that he had given up a year earlier. Since that moment, all the old internal dissensions and hostile cliques have been sprouting anew within the nationalist armies and government.

Yellow-Daubed Stand Doubles Paper Sales

New York — (CP) — A mirror and a coat of yellow paint for his news stand doubled newspaper sales for Natale Costa, 63.

"Yellow's the best for a customer," he said, explaining why he carried the green stand to a vivid canary yellow last year.

"It wakes 'em up, just like the sun in the morning. When they get here, they got to open their eyes, and then they remember to buy a paper."

A conveniently placed mirror is another asset.

"You'd be surprised," said Costa. "Men, women, they pass here, they stop, they holler: 'Oh yes, I got one on my nose.' They thank me and most likely buy a paper."

Rebuild Famous Suffolk Bridge

Ipswich, England — (CP) — Reconstruction of the Flatford Bridge in Suffolk is under discussion. The present structure is of English oak and it is proposed to rebuild it in Burmese teak.

The bridge spans the River Stour and leads to Flatford Mill which, like the bridge, has been immortalized on canvas by Constable. Although it is only 10 feet wide, Suffolk County Council is determined to retain the bridge's original character in every particular, in view of its international fame.

FLAT-TOP TO BECOME FLOATING HOTEL

The 16,000-ton British aircraft carrier H.M.S. Campania, now in reserve at Gareloch, Scotland, is to assume a temporary peacetime role as a travelling exhibition ship for next year's festival of Britain. The Campania's festival attractions will include demonstrations sports displays, an open-air cafe, a restaurant and a licensed bar. Her tour is planned to begin in April, 1951. Say Industries Fair To be Largest Ever

London — (CP) — Organizers of this year's British Industries Fair say it will be the largest ever.

The fair will be May 8-19 at Olympia and Earl's Court, London, and Castle Bromwich, Birmingham. Organizers are preparing for a record attendance of Canadian and United States trade buyers.

Last year's total of 1,208 buyers from the two countries is expected to be exceeded by 50 per cent. Added inducements British manufacturers have to offer this year include reduced export prices through devaluation and manufacturing economies.

Potential buyers from North America are being subjected to an intensive advertising campaign through press and mail and in co-operation with bankers, insurance and shipping companies, air lines and travel agents.

More than 3,000 firms representing 90 industries will occupy more than 1,000,000 square feet of exhibition space in 32 sections.

Big Trumpeter Swan Winters in Alberta

Grande Prairie, Alta. (CP) — The lone trumpeter swan which has passed its third winter at the farm of Joe Tomshack is getting mighty restless these days.

Although he has never migrated and has known no other home than the farm since he was found on a lake shore near here in May, 1947, the beautiful big white bird seems to know by instinct that it is time for the migrating swans to return.

Grande Prairie district lakes are among the few spots in western Canada where the rare birds nest.

Trumpeters do not mate until their fourth year. Perhaps this spring Mr. Tomshack swan will find a mate.

The big bird has become the pet of the Tomshack farm. He slept in the chicken house during the bitter cold weather of last winter. Each day he would turn up at the kitchen door of the farm house for food handouts.

Recalls Wild West With Buffalo Bill

Cranberry Portage, Man.—(CP)—Caribou Smith, 80, wild-west showman, cowpuncher and freighter, says: "Buffalo Bill and Calamity Jane were like father and mother to me."

He displays a frontier-model Colt revolver—a .44-calibre on a .45-calibre frame—which he says was a gift from Buffalo Bill. He says he remembers "many scalps hanging from the belts of Indian friends" in his boyhood.

Caribou's story is that he ran away from his home in Yakima, Wash., in 1873, taking along a pony and a few supplies. His target was Wyoming, where he wanted to join Buffalo Bill and work on his cattle ranch.

(Buffalo Bill, or William Frederick Cody, was born in 1846, died in 1917. His early life was spent among Indians and he served as a Union Scout in the United States Civil War. His nickname came from contracting a trade to supply buffalo meat for railway workers and hunting in the American west.)

Cody gave him a job as a cowhand. Later, when Buffalo Bill started his famous Wild West show, Caribou went along.

Caribou speaks fondly of Calamity Jane. He says she found him in a gambling hall where he wandered by mistake, learned his story, gave him food and lodging and next day took him to Cody's ranch. He always came back from trips abroad to wherever she was living.

After leaving the Cody show, Caribou says, he worked the rodeos and stampedes all over the United States, then moved to Alberta in 1916. About two years later he moved to The Pas, Man., and soon was teaming freight to Reindeer Lake and Flin Flon, in that vicinity.

Ford Planning Big Program Of Expansion

Windsor, April 26. (CP)—Start of an expansion and modernization program, involving "many millions of dollars" has been announced by Rhys M. Sale, president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd.

He told the company's annual meeting here Monday that one of the first projects to be undertaken is a $3,500,000 steam and electric generating plant at the Ford works in Windsor. The new turbine generator and high-pressure boiler, expected to take three years to complete, would take care of anticipated needs for the next ten or fifteen years.

Two months ago the company announced purchase of a 205-acre site in Windsor for future development. The first stage in this is expected to be a $4,000,000 national parts depot. Ford's present plant here extends over 240 acres.

"We attach the greatest importance to keeping our productive facilities up to date, efficient and competitive," Mr. Sale said in his annual address to shareholders Monday. "That is why our planning today includes several long-range projects involving expenditure of many millions of dollars."

He also announced that late this year or early in 1951 Ford would introduce an automatic transmission as optional equipment on all Ford, Meteor, Mercury and Monarch passenger cars.

Graydon Requests More Information On Fuchs' Case

Ottawa, April 26 (CP) —Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel), unsatisfied with evidence by External Affairs Minister Pearson, urged Tuesday that the "responsible government authority" be called before the Commons External Affairs Committee to testify about Canada's follow up on the Fuchs' case.

He and G. K. Fraser (PC-Peterborough West) pressed for information about what the government did about the "scores" of other names found in the notebook that contained the names of Klaus Fuchs, British atomic scientist recently imprisoned for spying for Russia.

They did so after Mr. Pearson recorded that "some scores" of names, including Fuchs, were found in a notebook owned by one of the 20 people charged in Canada's 1946 spy trials. Mr. Pearson, in the face of a series of questions about what Canada did about them, generally said he didn't know the answer or would try to get the information.

Mr. Graydon, after considerable debate, eventually suggested the matter be left over until Mr. Pearson could report further on the basis of more than "hearsay" evidence.

The committee chairman, Joseph Bradette (L-Cochrane) said appearance of other officials would be up to the Justice Department and obtained approval of a suggestion that the steering committee consider what should be done.

Never Mentioned

Mr. Pearson, at the outset, testified that Fuchs' name never was mentioned before the Royal Commission on espionage in 1946 nor in its report but that the notebook containing it was made available, along with other evidence, to both the United Kingdom and United States at the time.

Mr. Fraser asked if there had been a check up on the other names since the Fuchs' case. Mr. Pearson said he understood that was normal police procedure.

The minister told Mr. Graydon he knew of no intergovernmental communications between London and Ottawa about the other names, "but I wouldn't like to say I'm answering without inquiry."

As the questioning continued, the minister said he didn't know if the notebook owner was one of those convicted and told M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, that not being a security expert he wasn't sure how far he should go. He would look into the question.

Mr. Fraser came back to ask whether, if any of the people whose names were found were still in Canada, and if they are being investigated. Mr. Pearson said "I will do all I can to get the information."

Mr. Graydon said that in view of the international importance of the case the responsible authority should be called to give evidence. He would like to know what was done about questioning the owner of the notebook about Fuchs and the other people.

Tom Steele, Labor, Wins U.K. Seat

Dumbarton, Scotland, April 26 — (CP) — Tom Steele, Labor candidate, today won the Dumbartonshire West Division seat in a by-election, to raise Labor's over-all majority in the House of Commons to five.

Steele's majority was less than 300 over Cmdr. Robert Allan, Conservative in the two-way contest. The Labor victory of 20,307 to 20,074 was confirmed after a recount.

OBJECTIONS RAISED

Ottawa, April 26 — (CP) — Gordon Higgins (PC—St. John's East) objected Tuesday night to Trans-Canada Air Lines' practice of carrying express parcels in empty passenger seats. He said long boxes, probably containing flowers, were being carried during a recent "tempty" trip. One of the women passengers pointed to them and said it was no wonder they were having trouble with coffins aboard. The crew had quite a time to quiet her.

Ottawa-Sudbury Highway Will be Paved This Year

Sudbury, April 26. (CP)—Highways Minister Doucett said Monday that Ontairo will complete a paved highway from Ottawa through North Bay to Sudbury by the end of this year.

In a telephone interview from Toronto, he told the Sudbury Star:

"The official Trans-Canada highway—that in which the Ottawa government will share the cost—will be the route announced yesterday, linking Ottawa, Peterborough, Parry Sound and Sudbury. But what might be termed an alternative Trans-Canada Highway will be that from Ottawa to North Bay to Sudbury, which we will build entirely out of our own funds.

"This route will go through Arnprior, Renfrew, Pembroke, Mattawa and North Bay to Sudbury and will be completed by the end of 1950.

Start Work at Once

"We are starting a paving program immediately. There is a rough stretch to be paved west of Renfrew and the pavement to be completed between North Bay and Sudbury . . . . for the time being, the Trans-Canada Highway in which the Ottawa government shares will go to Thessalon and then to Chapleau. We are considering building a direct link from Sudbury to Chapleau in connection with the Ottawa-North Bay route.

"It is our intention to build a connecting link from Sault Ste. Marie over what is known locally as the Ranger Lake Road. This will tie in with the Trans-Canada Highway near Thessalon. The highway from Sudbury will tie in with White River and Terrace Bay and open up a tourists' paradise.'

Part of Overall Plan

Premier Frost, in another telephone interview with the paper, said the decision to route the Trans-Canada Highway through Sudbury and Chapleau is part of a large-scale plan to develop the resources in the area east of Georgian Bay and the north side of Lake Superior.

"It is our intention to develop fully that vast area in Northern Ontario that is not yet served by a highway," he said, "There is a great opportunity in the north and that great area to the east of Georgian Bay and the shore of Lake Superior has not been scratched."

Thinks Plane Downed 28 Miles Past 12 M. Limit

Stockholm, Sweden, April 26 —(AP)— A Swedish naval staff expert expressed the opinion today that the Russians shot down the missing United States navy privateer plane 28 miles outside the 12-mile limit claimed by the Soviets in the Baltic.

Cmdr. Stellan Hermelin, head of the shipping section of the Swedish naval staff, said in an interview he believed the wrecked undercarriage of a plane found in the Baltic Tuesday was from the missing navy patrol plane.

On the basis of water currents and winds, he estimated that the plane was shot down almost 40 miles straight west of Polangen, on the coast of Soviet-occupied Lithuania.

The United States has charged that the unarmed patrol plane, with 10 men aboard, was shot down April 8 over the Baltic. Russia contended a B-29 trying to photograph Soviet military installations exchanged fire with Soviet fighters which chased it away from Latvian territory near Libau.

A yellow rubber suit possibly from the missing plane, was found today on the beach of the Danish island of Langeland.

The aircraft undercarriage, picked up by a Swedish fisherman south of Gotland Island, was due in Stockholm tonight for forwarding to American authorities at Port Lyzalby, Moscow, the home base of the missing navy plane.

The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said one of the tires was riddled by bullets.

Missing Witness in Lattimore Case Turns up Safe, Well After Vanishing From Hotel

Last Road Out Of Emerson, Man. Has Been Cut off

Winnipeg, April 26 — (CP) — The swollen Red River Tuesday night displayed the temperamental ballet dancer. Its levels at separate stretches of southern Manitoba's 100-mile flood front were steady, receding and rising.

At Selkirk, 25 miles north of here the swell held steady; at Winnipeg it fell slightly, and at hard-hit Emerson on the international border the level still was rising.

Meanwhile residents fought to protect their homes under the added discomfort of unseasonable snow and sub-freezing temperatures.

The respite is not expected to last long. The river's first assault has slowed, but by Friday another is expected from the mountain stream's sources in the north-central United States.

At Emerson, the first Canadian town hit by the southern crest, the river was 48.5 feet above normal and seven inches above the peak during the bad flood period of 1916. The rate of rise was a quarter-inch an hour.

The last road out of Emerson has been cut off. Engineers say they'll protect their sewers and the wall line, last link with the outside world.

More than 60 of 250 homes were surrounded, and 275 persons were homeless.

A severe shortage of sandbags at Letellier, 12 miles north of Emerson, has hampered flood prevention operations. More than half of the town's 300 habitants worked at dikes against the swollen Morais River, a Red tributary.

West of St. Jean Baptiste, the Morris River flooded several fields. Many families were evacuating homes and driving livestock to higher ground.

At Morris, 30 miles south of Winnipeg, 200 evacuated habitants slept in C. N. R. bunk cars.

...LS, CHICKENS ...N BLAZE

Waterford, Ont., April 26—(CP)—Fire of unknown origin, a cow, 13 pigs and 200 pullet chickens died Tuesday night in a fire which razed the barn on the farm of Peter Leyka. Also lost were 500 bushels of oats, a large tent of hay, 20 tons of straw, machinery and tools.

BRITISH PLANE CRASHES

Brussels, April 26—(Reuters)—A British aircraft, running a London-Paris-Brussels newspaper service, today crashed near Mons, southern Belgium, according to reports reaching here. The two British occupants were seriously injured, police reported. The plane crashed into a small house in a crowded industrial district.

GUARD THOSE YOU LOVE

Washington, April 26 (AP) — A missing witness in the Owen Lattimore case turned up safe but nervous today 20 hours after he had vanished from a Washington hotel.

John J. Huber, described as a one-time Federal Bureau of Investigation informer, telephoned his wife at Mt. Vernon, N.Y., that he had "blacked out" Tuesday shortly before he had been due to appear at the Senate inquiry into charges of communism in the United States government.

Although there had been hints that he might have met with foul play Mrs. Huber said he seemed to be well.

This left up in the air the question whether he might return here today to testify before the Senate investigators.

Many Developments

The disappearance of Huber came amid these other fast-breaking developments in the inquiry:

1. An assertion by Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep., Wis.) that Louis Budenz, a former communist, had identified as a communist a man in a "very, very important job" in the State Department.

McCarthy told the Senate late Tuesday that Budenz "put the finger" on the individual in a secret testimony to the Senate Foreign Relations sub-committee.

2. McCarthy also told the Senate that he had given the inquiry committee the name of a man with a police record as a homosexual who, McCarthy added, holds "an extremely sensitive position" in the Central Intelligence Agency.

3. Joining in a Senate row over the investigation, Republican leader Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska said the man McCarthy termed a pervert has resigned, and Wherry shouted: "You're going to get some more resignations. This is not the only man."

4. Dr. Bella V. Dodd, a member of the communist party's national committee until she was expelled from the party last year, testified she never knew Lattimore as a communist, a fellow-traveller, "or even a friend of the party."

Subpoenas Issued

5. The inquiry committee issued subpoenas for Earl Browder, former head of the communist party, and for Jack Stachel, one of the 11 top American communist leaders recently convicted on conspiring to overthrow the U.S. government by force.

The search for Huber, the missing witness, got under way last night when Senator Millard Tydings (Dem., Md.), the committee chairman, called for him to take the stand. There was no response.

Former F.B.I. agent Larry E. Kerley, now on the staff of the New York Journal-American, told the committee he flew to Washington with Huber Tuesday morning.

Kerley testified Huber had advised him that early in 1946 he saw Lattimore at a party given at the home of Frederick Vanderbilt Field.

Both Budenz and McCarthy have called Field an avowed Communist.

WATERS STILL RISING, MANITOBA FEARS WORST FLOOD

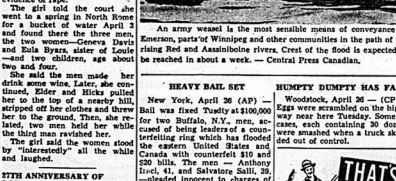
Two White Men Convicted of Intent to Rape

Rome, Ga., April 26 (AP) — An all-white jury Tuesday night convicted two white men of intent to rape a 12-year-old Negro girl, who testified she was ravished while two white women and two white children looked on.

The jury, predominately made up of middle-age farmers, fixed the penalty for both men at three to five years prison. They deliberated approximately two hours.

The two white women told conflicting stories. One testified the men did not touch the child. The other said they wrestled with the little girl, pulled off her clothes and attacked her.



Convicted were James Marion Elder, 26, and Jerald David Hicks 24. A third man, Louie Eugene Byars, 20, is under indictment, but will be tried separately.

Two physicians, who examined the girl shortly after the alleged attack testified they found "no evidence of rape."

The girl told the court she went to a spring in North Rome for a bucket of water April 3 and found there the three men, the two women—Geneva Davis and Zella Byars, sister of Louie —and two children, age about two and four.

She said the men made her drink some wine. Later, she continued, Elder and Hicks pulled her to the top of a nearby hill, stripped off her clothes and threw her to the ground. Then, she related, two men held her while the third man ravished her.

The girl said the women stood by "disinterestedly" all the while and laughed.

An army weasel is the most sensible means of conveyance in Emerson, parts of Winnipeg and other communities in the path of the rising Red and Assiniboine rivers. Crest of the flood is expected to be reached in about a week. — Central Press Canadian.

HEAVY BAIL SET

New York, April 26 (AP) — Bail was fixed Tuesdy at $100,000 for two Buffalo, N.Y., men, accused of being leaders of a counterfeiting ring which has flooded the eastern United States and Canada with counterfeit $10 and $20 bills. The men — Anthony Insci, 41, and Salvatore Salli, 39, —pleaded innocent to charges of conspiring to manufacture and sell $700,000 worth of bogus bills. Date of the trial was set for May 10.

THREE CAPTURED, ONE ESCAPES WITH $4,300 IN HOLDUP

One Youth Critically Wounded in Hospital

Montreal, April 26 (CP)— A 20-year-old youth lies critically wounded in hospital, two alleged accomplices are under arrest and a manhunt is on for a fourth suspect following a $4,300 bank holdup in northeast Rosemount district.

Three of the four armed men who allegedly held up a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada Tuesday were captured following a running gun-fight with police. Their getaway automobile crashed into another car and then hit a pole.

The fourth man crawled out of the wreckage and escaped with the money.

In hospital is George Wallace, 20, suffering from a police-inflicted bullet near the spine which may paralyze him for life. Hospital authorities say they may attempt to remove the bullet today.

Arrested were Eric McConnell, 26, said by police to be the owner of the car and Jean Brunet, 25, who received minor leg injuries.

Wallace was brought down with a bullet in the abdomen with police said, he levelled his gun at the bandits.

The holdup occurred shortly before the 3 p.m. closing time when six persons, three employees and three customers— were in the bank.

Three Enter Bank

Three men entered the bank. They forced a girl teller, Louise Germain, to hand over the money. They also forced bank manager J. N. Fradette to hand over his wallet containing $10 and took $22 from a customer.

After the bandits fled, Miss Germain sounded an automatic alarm connected with a nearby police station.

Constables Armand Bourret and Gerard Ruel, patrolling in a police radio car, arrived on the scene soon after and started the chase.

"They kept firing at us along the way just like you see in big chases in the movies," Constable Ruel said. "Out of about 25 shots only three came close."

Czech Embassy in London Requests Aid to Place Appeal For Big Powers Peace Pact

London, April 26 — (Reuters) — The Czechoslovak Embassy in London announced today it had sent a note to the British Foreign Office requesting aid in placing an appeal for a Big Powers Peace Pact before Parliament.

The appeal was in the form of a resolution from the communist-dominated Czechoslovak National Assembly.

An Embassy spokesman, Dr. P. Kavan, said that, if the big powers agreed, Czechoslovakia would herself be prepared to agree to supervision of disarmament.

The resolution gave a series of demands including:

That "imperialist production of arms" should cease; that atomic weapons and warfare should be banned; that "the criminal wars in Malaya and Vietnam" should cease; that "persecution of fighters for peace" should cease; in "imperialist-dependent and colonial countries."

A British Foreign Office spokesman criticized that part of the Czech resolution calling for an end to "imperialist arms production." He said this appeared to recommend the disarmament of the western powers.

Directed Against West

The spokesman added that although he could make no official comment until the note had been studied he wished to draw attention to that point, which appeared to be directed against the west.

The resolution finally called on the great powers to conclude a peace pact.

The resolution itself listed the Vatican, right-wing Socialists, and "the treacherous Tito clique," among aggressors, and claimed that "only the mighty Soviet Union," was carrying out a peace policy.

Dr. Kavan was asked if Czechoslovakia intended closing down her own war industries, and what was proposed for supervision of disarmament.

He said these would be matters for the United Nations and the big powers but, he added, "if the big powers agreed, Czechoslovakia would be prepared to join is disarmament on whatever terms would be decided."

HIT BY TRAIN

Middlemiss, Ont., April 26 — (CP) — Wendy Louis Wilson, 12, of this village 15 miles south of Glencoe, died almost instantly Monday night when hit by a train as she tried to rescue her three dogs from its path on the Wabash bridge over the Thames River near her home.

BATTERED BODY FOUND

Moose Jaw, Sask., April 26 — (CP) — The burned and battered body of a Moose Jaw painter was found late Monday in the ditch beside a rural road, Police said Tuesday the evidence points to murder by a crazed or intoxicated person. The victim, identified as Wenzel Wilhelm (Vince) Hartel, was last seen alive Sunday evening.

Stirling Minor Hockey Teams Presented With Crests, Feted By Proud Parents and Fans

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Stirling, Ont. — Spring may have come in this up and coming Hastings County village but last night they wiped off an honorable debt to the gallant bands of hockey youngsters who brought home, not the titular beacon, but a lot of prestige.

Stirling sturdy burghers, and their good wives, daughters and sons turned out 200 strong here last night to pay honorable tribute to their minor hockey teams.

In the village community hall under the aegis of the popular Rotary Club, over 200 people, a cross section of the village augmented by officials of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, the execs of the district, radio and high ranking officials of the arena presented gifts and paid tribute to the youngsters who carried high the minor hockey banner of this part of Ontario to almost a championship.

Stirling, in its Community Hall last night, did not spare the honors. They villagers took a hockey-minded community fully cognizant of the efforts of its teen aged hockey sons went all out to pay them fitting, and tangible tribute in a wide-open style.

It was a grand party. Centres of attraction were two teams of sturdy youths, bashfully cognizant perhaps of "Sunday clothes" but literally a bit proud of their achievements.

Up To Finals

And well they should be. The Stirling Juvenile "C" squad which turned back the threat of all Ontario opposition only to falter in the finals against the starry Kincardine kids, and the gallant midgets from this village, who also were bridesmaids "but not a bride" received well-merited recognition from their "home town."

They were presented with crests, emblematic of their group championship and the Eastern Ontario title. They were (in absentia) presented with handsome red-trimmed white windbreakers (which turned up at a late hour), but most of all, and which most of them appreciated was the intangible appreciation of their "dads and dads" of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association as represented by its high-ranking officials, and a cross section of the district in which they live.

They heard addresses of all kinds. Mostly eulogistic, yet the speakers, hockey-wise admirable tactful and experienced officials in all phases of minor hockey, while paying sincere tribute to the teams issued useful advice and constructive criticism that was eagerly absorbed by the youngsters.

Thanks, mainly to the Stirling Rotary Club and the Women's Association of St. Paul's United Church, the affair was a grand success. The "boys", their coaches managers and guests were treated to a royal repast, served by the ladies. They, after presentations of crests, heard a highly informative address by Aubrey "Dit" Clapper, well-known international professional hockey player, their officials and those of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association.

Fine Program

They were treated to a fine program of entertainment featured by the legardemain of Len Heard, Belleville, a grand vocalist, William Reynolds, who possess a grand voice and instrumental music and vocal solos by the well-known trio of X. Mayhew, W. Smith and William Bartlett.

The "party" actually was a well-functioned idea of the Stirling Rotary Club. The service clubmen under President "Dick" Hadley, sponsors of the Midgets team, administered the show in true Rotary manner with "fines and all".

George Crown, "a natural" led the community singing. Then came the toasts, after the official toastmaster Cliff Hatton was given charge of the program. And he did a fine job. The toast to the fans was proposed by R. B. Bell with response by J. L. Good.

William Reynolds, a fellow possessed of a grand voice, was encored after two solos then came the toast to the "Parents", proposed by Doug. Patterson and responded to by R. Hermiston.

Toast to Teams

The toast to the "Teams" was proposed by Juvenile Coach Dr. Ralph Sanderson and responded by youthful Johnny McCrory who sprang a surprise when he presented Dr. Vandervoort with a golf club (driver) as an appreciation of the players.

Special guests at the "party" were President Otto Hardwick, Bolton, Ont., of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, his genial and hard-working secretary, Jack Christie, Sam (P.M.) Curry, famed executive member, Roscoe Robson, M.P.P., Hastings West, Jack Devine, sports director CJBQ, Belleville; Audrey "Dit" Clapper, famous Hall of Fame professional hockey star, formerly of the Boston Bruins, and yours truly, Alan Pedro Anderson.

President A. Hadley of the Rotary Club, presented the Midget team with championship crests with Mr. Curry handing out the Juvenile group title crests. OMHA Prexy Hardwick gave the boys the Ontario Juvenile Finalists crests with Secretary Christie being "robbed" of the presentation honour of team jackets (a pretty number in white wool with red trim). Mr. Robson deplored the fact that no trophy offered to the juvenile champions of Hastings County had not arrived although they did two hours later.

Guest speaker of the evening "Dit" Clapper, introduced by Jack Devine, outlined his career in his native city, the Boston Bruins and imparted a lot of information to the youthful hockeyists, and after-party conducted a "quiz" program. He as a Bruin coach, manager and training method as a young player has to pass through before (if he does) make the major hockey leagues.

Kids Have Chance

"The hockey kids of today have a great chance of making a golden opportunity for the future," he said, "but I advise all youngsters to keep in condition. By this, I mean get in summer sports to keep yourselves fit. Smoking is no good, I did not smoke for 17 years. Get lots of rest, and remember, the hours lost at night cannot be made up by those which are 'slept in' in the morning."

He had played for Boston Bruins for 20 years, he said, "and we only won the Stanley Cup three times although we won the league title on many occasions."

He urged the youngsters to learn to skate early for in this day of modern hockey, "everything depends on speed."

Finally, he said "one of the finest banquets I have ever attended and much credit is due the ladies."

He suggested that the Stirling hockey team not be disgusted but keep on plugging and someday I hope to come back here with the hockey title."

Rotarian Walter Elliott proposed the toast to the ladies, which was responded to by Mrs. Percy Utman.

Marlboros Win Eastern Senior Hockey Title

Toronto, April 26—(CP)—Toronto's bustling Marlboros, the city's first Eastern Canada Senior Hockey champions since 1933, leave for Calgary and the 1950 Allan Cup final tonight.

The under-dog Sherbrooke Saints 3-1 Tuesday night, hope to equal the triumph of Toronto National Sea Flies, National champions in 1932.

Tuesday night's victory gave the Joe Primeau-coached Dukes the sixth game of the best-of-seven affair before 8,792 fans.

The under-dog Sherbrooke crew surprised Toronto's supporters by taking two games from the Ontario champions.

Marlies, one of the youngest teams to represent the east in a final, won the first three games of the series in straight order. They were the betting favorites to end it all Saturday night when Sherbrooke found themselves and scored a 6-3 victory for their first win. The Saints stayed hot Sunday winning 5-2.

In trawling west to meet Calgary Stampeders, western champs, Marlboros are following an alternating plan which has the Allan Cup final played in the east one year, and in the west the next.

Saints Score First

The Saints, Quebec and Maritime champions, were off to what seemed their third win in a row Tuesday night when Bernie Vincent, hard-working Sherbrooke winger, banged a shot home in the first period.

Marlboros' 18-year-old puck sensation from Fort William, Danny Lewicki, put his club back into the game in the second when out-guessed Paul Leclere in a play at the mouth of the Sherbrooke goal. Lewicki had taken the pass from his 19-year-old linemate, George Armstrong.

But it was Hugh Bolton's shot from the blueline in the third period that brought down the house. The tall rearguard, a university of Toronto student, drove it into the corner from a few feet inside the wide lane less than five minutes remaining. Then Al Buchanan sewed up victory with his goal at the 17:35 mark.

J.M. Roxburgh Elected New OHA President

Toronto, April 26—(CP)—J. M. Roxburgh of Simcoe has been elected president of the Ontario Hockey Association for the 1950-51 season. He succeeds J. McFayden of Galt who becomes immediate past president.

This was announced by the O.H.A. which disclosed that the only election to be held at the annual meeting next Saturday in Toronto will be for the executive committee with five men nominated for the four positions.

Other acclamations resulting from nominations which closed April 22: first vice president, Bieward McTavish, Oshawa; second vice president, M. L. (Tory) Gregg, Wingham; treasurer, Geo. S. Dudley, Midland; secretary, W. A. Hewitt, Toronto.

The five nominated for the four executive committee posts: Frank Buckland, Peterborough; Evan D. Brill, Guelph; Lorne D. Cook, Kingston; Roy Reynolds, Chatham; Stan Stokes, London.

George Painter of Gravenhurst will continue as business manager.

Great Fielder Is Ed Sanicki Says Sawyer

New York, April 26 — (AP)— The greatest centrefielder in all baseball is at the moment playing for Toronto in the International League, says Manager Eddie Sawyer of Philadelphia Phillies.

He makes the statement earnestly in discussing Ed Sanicki, the big youngster whom he recently sent to the Phils' Triple-A farm club for a bit more polishing.

"I mean over the long haul — for the next 10 years," Sawyer explained. "Sanicki, in other words, is now where Joe DiMaggio was when he came up. He's going to be truly great.

"He can field with Joe, or any other outfielder in the game right now. But there are two or three little things he needs to learn and I believe he can learn them quicker with Toronto. We can get him back when we want him, and that probably will be a long time before the season ends."

Sanicki was somewhat of a sensation when the Phils brought him up late last season. He made three hits in 13 times at bat in the big show and all were home runs.

Probably the principle reason he isn't in there with the other hustling young Phils at this early stage of the National League race is that Dick Sisler, relieved of first - basing duties by the return of Eddie Waitkus, has been doing a commendable job of outfielding.

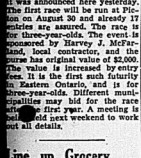
Truck Crashes Into House, Child Escapes Injury

Picton — (Special) — A heavy truck crashed into the side of a house yesterday, seconds after a small child had been moved from a couch against the wall which the big vehicle smashed. Five-months-old Freddie Whitmore had been playing on the couch near the window. His mother, Mrs. James Whitmore, had picked him up and handed him to her father, Fred Shannon, just before the wall was smashed and the radio sent flying across the room.

Driver of the truck, Harry Jones told police that he had lost control of the truck, when it struck a rough spot in the street and the steering gear apparently had jammed between two trees narrowly missing them, before striking the house. He suffered cuts on the knee.



"It was not only lucky that I moved Freddie when I did, but that he was not in the direct path of the truck outside, as he had been there in his carriage a short time earlier in the afternoon," said Mrs. Whitmore.

Tuesday Race

A new futurity race, for harness horses, has been established, it was announced here yesterday. The first race will be run at Picton on August 30 and already 17 entries are assured. The race is for three-year-olds. The event is sponsored by Harvey J. McFarland, local contractor, and the purse has original value of $2,000. The value is increased by entry fees. It is the first such futurity in Eastern Ontario, and is for three-year-olds. Different municipalities may bid for the race after the first year. A meeting is to be held next weekend to work out all details.

Line up Grocery Staff, Get Empty Box

Toronto, April 25 — (CP) — Two armed masked men today lined up the staff of a downtown wholesale grocery firm and ordered the staff to hand over the cash box. The employees told police there was no money in the boxes and the pair fled. Police said the men might be the same ones who stole $2,600 from a messenger of the firm last December.

New Archbishop Of Montreal Is Consecrated

Rome, April 26 (CP)— Most Rev. Paul-Emile Leger today was consecrated Archbishop of Montreal in high and solemn ceremony in the ancient church of St. Mary of the Angels in the heart of Rome.

The solemn moment of consecration came when Cardinal Adeodato Piazzi, secretary to consistorial congregation, laid his hands upon the head of the new Archbishop in symbolic transfer of the episcopal authority inherited from Saint Peter.

At the same time, the two consecrators, Msgr. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec, and Msgr. Julien Weber, Bishop of St-Jerome, laid their hands on Msgr. Leger's head with the words "receive the Holy Spirit."

Thus Msgr. Leger on his 46th birthday became one of the youngest and most important Archbishops of the Roman Catholic Church with more than 1,000,000 of the faithful in charge. The Montreal Archdiocese is the largest in the Commonwealth.

Rector of Rome College

Msgr. Leger, for the last three years rector of the Canadian College in Rome, succeeds the late bishop of Montreal two months ago by Pope Pius in succession to Most Rev. Joseph Charbonneau, who resigned because of ill health.

Many Canadian pilgrims in Rome for the Holy Year, were among the impressive congregation of cardinals, bishops, priests, laymen and diplomatic corps for the three-hour ceremony.

Only three cardinals of the eight expected attended the ceremony, they were Cardinal Piazzi, who officiated; Francis Cardinal Eugene Tisserant, secretary of the Eastern Congregation of the Eastern Church, and the Italian Cardinal Giuseppe Pizzardo, Prefect of the Sacred Congregation of Seminaries and Universities.

Jules Leger, brother of the new Archbishop and Secretary to Prime Minister St. Laurent, officially represented Canada with the Canadian Ambassador to Italy Jean Desy. Jean Paul Sauve, minister in the Duplessis Cabinet, represented Quebec.

Impressive Ceremony

Msgr. Leger and Cardinal Piazzi had spent Tuesday fasting and in retreat in preparation for the ceremony.

After reading of the Papal order by Bishop Weber, Msgr. Leger knelt before the altar and took the 500-word oath of loyalty to the Roman Catholic Church.

"I, Paul Leger, for now and forever will remain faithful and obedient to the blessed Apostle Peter, to the Holy Roman Catholic Church, to our Holy Father Pope Pius XII and his legitimate successors," he said.

"I will observe and cause to be observed, with all my power, the rules of the Holy Fathers, the decrees, the ordinances, the provisions and apostolic mandates.

"I will combat and pursue according to my power, heretics, schismatics and rebels against our Holy Father the Pope and his successors."

Following the traditional ceremony, Acolytes cleansed the oil from the new Archbishop's head with crumbs of bread, combed his hair with an ivory comb and washed his hands with water from a silver ewer.

Msgr. Leger will leave on May 3 for Canada, He is expected to make his entry into Montreal for the enthronement May 15 or 16.

WILL OUTLAW GADGET

Sudbury, April 26 — (CP) — Forestry officials said Tuesday they will try to have a novel fish-killing gadget outlawed. It consists of two heavy brass hooks held apart by a spring which snap together and impale any fish touching the trap. Wildlife officials say under-size fish would be killed by the device, which is imported from Finland. The device recently has been sold in Northern Ontario.

Police Say Driver Abandoned Truck

Toronto, April 26—(CP)—Frank Simpson was charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident, failing to report an accident and careless driving Tuesday night shortly after John Wheeler, 41, was thrown by a coal truck and left lying on the sidewalk with a broken leg. Police said Simpson abandoned the truck and walked away.

Phone Workers, Company Heading For Settlement

New York, April 26 —(AP)— Telephone workers and the huge Bell system appeared to be heading toward a general wage settlement today after indefinite postponement of the country-wide phone strike set for this morning.

New talks that lasted all night were adjourned for a later hour today without any final agreement. But conciliators and mediators reported continued progress.

Such major moves toward peace came quickly Tuesday night after the strike was postponed by the Communications Workers of America (CIO), and talks resumed with the Bell parent corporation, American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its subsidiaries.

1. Union long distance operators announced the settlement of a wage agreement granting pay raise up to more than $5 a week.

2. Union equipment installers —already striking against a Bell subsidiary, Western Electric Co.— called off plans to picket and start jamming long-distance telephones today.

The break in the seven-month fight that threatened to paralyze the United States phone system came in a message late Tuesday from Joseph A. Beirne, president of the C.W.A., from Washington to his leaders in New York.

"Recent developments indicate a responsibility of settlement in the present Bell system dispute" he told them. "There will be no strike Wednesday."

The union has been demanding a cash increase of 15 cents an hour, or nearly $6 a week, and other benefits

Five Injured When Blast Rocks Apt. Building

Seattle, April 26 (AP)— An unexplained explosion made a shambles of a four-story female apartment building early today.

Miraculously, no occupants were killed or critically injured. There was no estimate of the number in the building.

Fire Captain R. F. Mahoney said the blast in the 30-unit cooperative apartment occurred on the second floor, just above a boiler section. He said the cause was unknown, but several firemen and rescue workers reported smelling illuminating gas.

A quick check showed only five persons taken to hospital—none regarded as critical.

Numbers of persons carried from the building by firemen and stretcher bearers were given first aid at the scene. One woman was revived by the inhalator squad on a lawn.

The blast blew out the rear wall of the building and the whole back end collapsed, but there was no fire, Mahoney said.

Govt. Plans To Take Action Says Minister

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 26—(CP)— The Ontario Government plans to take action against persons unfairly engaged in the tourist trade.

Disclosing this Tuesday, Travel Minister Cecile told the opening session of the annual Ontario Tourist Conference that the Cabinet will consider revision of laws considering tourist establishments.

"In certain sections of our province various individuals who have been refused outfitters' licences have endeavored to carry on as outfitters under the guise of a tourist camp licence," he said.

"This action has been reprehensible from two points of view: It placed an unwarranted burden on the natural resources of particular areas, and it also represented an unfair type of competition for restablished outfitters.

Baby Boy Killed

Oshawa, April 25 — (CP) — Terry Bales, 18 months, was killed today by a Canadian National Railways freight train as he played on the tracks with his sister near his Roseband home, 12 miles west of here.

Mrs. Bruce Bales, 20, said she heard a train whistle and called to Terry and his sister, Suzanne, 3. Terry jumped from the wagon and stood laughing at his mother as the train struck him.

HOBART CAVANAUGH ACTOR, DIES

Hollywood, April 26—(AP)— Hobart Cavanaugh, 63, one of the movies' best-known character actors, died early today after an operation in hospital. Often appearing as a hen-pecked husband or a harried bookkeeper, his face, if not his name, was known to millions. Among his pictures were "Captain Blood," "Klondike," "Margie" and "Driftwood."

Friends, Neighbors Honor Couple On Anniversary

Read.—Upwards of 100 friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Buckley, Read, Ont., honored them at an "At Home" in the parish hall on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. During the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Buckley were presented with two handsome chesterfield chairs as gifts of the community. Mrs. Joseph Nash, made the presentations.

The bride and groom of a quarter century were married in St. Charles Church, by Father er McCartney. Descendants of old families of the district they have resided all their married life on the old Buckley homestead.

Six children were born to the union, three sons, Harold, Leo and Joseph, and three daughters, Josephine, Cecilia and Rose, all at home.

The evening was spent in social amenities, and dancing with music furnished by the McAvoy orchestra. Lunch counters were served late in the evening.

GUNS BOOM SALUTE

Pearl Harbor, April 26 (AP) — The big guns protecting Pearl Harbor boomed a salute Tuesday to the cruiser Ontario, Canada's second largest fighting ship. The 8,000-ton Ontario, arriving for a two-week visit, dipped its colors and returned the 21-gun salute, 15 guns at a time. The exchange took place as the cruiser sailed past the batteries which guard the entrance to Pearl Harbor.

U.S. Liner to Evacuate 1,000 Foreigners

Hong Kong, April 26—(AP)— The United States Consulate said today the American President liner Gen. W. H. Gordon will evacuate between 800 and 1,00 foreigners Saturday from Red China. The evacuation will bring about 50 State Department personnel, the last in communist China. It also will cut to half the number of foreigners stranded in Shanghai since the reds won that city last May. An attempt last month to evacuate 1,000 foreigners on the Gordon was blocked by the communists.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Otto Hardwick, president of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, Sam (6:30 P. M.) Curry, alias Jack Christy, hardworking secretarial bloke of the OMHA, Jack Devine, CJBQ sport corner, were chatting in the well-appointed living room of Doc (Coach) Ralph Vandervoort of the Stirling (runners-up) juvenile kids, last night, or early this morning.

The confab was more or less general but it wandered around to the point where those, (non-columnists or sports writers, 4-1) opined that alleged humor was "out" as far as pitter sloff concerned. As far as we know, any sports writer doesn't try to be funny, his hours are too long to be anything but serious but this quartet of blokes who go to bed after the game, had other ideas.

They made pointed remarks, especially Curry, and mind you, this editor (it still a small newspaperman) who happens to be the boss and doesn't stay up, (or get up) shut after the printed baby is put to bed, figured that all sport columnists should adhere to sports alone and not stress humor, or what they think is that pillsprodust.

We agree with that statement (and no wisecracks, please.)

However at this unholy hour, (the cockerels are crowing, the milkmen rattling pennies and the sun poking a pink snoot over this Wednesday morning horizon) Ouzyward, there was Curry Editor Claude Tice Ham Radio Operator (which he's home, folks) we are in no mood to indulge in arguments.

However, prior to the gathering at the home of the hospitable Doc Vandy, he looked at our teeth and said he was fresh out of brandy, (but would a sledge hammer do in lieu of a Stirling Anesthetic) and we figured over what the estimable "Dit" Clapper vouchsafed when the Stirling kids, mostly oldsters poked questions at him.

Big "Dit" who is not by any means a Churchillian speaker, in fact he'd rather be arguing with the boys in any dressing room, answered plenty of questions.

"What's the stiffest body check you ever got?" sang out a kid of 59 years.

Dit smiled.

"Early Barry and I perfected a passing play", he grinned. "One night we were playing Detroit and we tried it. Bucky MacDonald was on defence. I looked at Mary and waited for the pass. Then a thunderbolt hit. The roof looked very pretty from where I lay."

From then on it was a rapid fire of quizzes at the famous defence star.

Rangers, he said, in this Stanley Cup series, fired through on their spirit. It was purely Rangers and Rayner.

His biggest thrill, or one of them came when he scored his 200th goal in the NHL. He was playing with Bruins against the Toronto Maple Leafs in Toronto. The score was 5-5. "Bill Cowley, one of the greatest centres of all time, sailed with me towards the Leaf goal. Cowley drew out the defence, slipped the puck to me and I slipped it in. (modest cuss). The Toronto crowd cheered me louder than they did their own team."

The other great thrill of his hockey lifetime, said the ex-Bruin star, "came when I was informed that I had been named to the Hockey Hall of Fame. But with it came a note of sadness. They cheered when they heard of the nomination, but I was downcast. For with the declaration came the knowledge that I was through with hockey — that I had to hang up my skates. I hated that, even after so long a period. I wanted to play, but that was fate."

* * *

The toughest forward to stop?, he was asked.

Dit smiled again. He grabbed the back of the chair and looked at his feet.

"I could name you a dozen", he said. "Howie Morenz, in the hockey of his day, Syl Apps, Jackson and Neil Colville, brother Gail Colville was a honey."

King Clancy was not a great hockey player but a grand competitor, Clapper said in response to a question as to whom was the best defenceman, Bruins or Leafs.

"Clancy," he said, "weighed about 140 pounds, but he had a heart of 200 pounds. there was no all-round all-star and a better hockey player. (Shore played for Boston).

Bill Existchi is not a dirty hockey player by any condition. He is a hard checker but not dirty. He might better, however concentrate on hockey rather than holding all and sundry into the lines and greys. He did that when he of much more value to the Leafs." Dit grinned.

Finally we got the big ex-Bruin in a corner.

"Listen, bud", we shot out of the portside of our jowls, "wanna sakya something, off the record. Okay?"

"Sure, bud" said Dit getting rid of a wristrack character.

"Listen, chum, we're from the press, savvy?"

"Yeah," said he looked down from his six-foot four "but I don't know nuthin about the bangtails. See Coleman, Jim, that is."

"Sure, sure, buddy," we gangstered back, "but what we wanted to ask ya is this?"

"Yeah, what?" Dit. Let's have it."

He did. "Listen, George," quoth he, "off the record, I'll tell you. But don't breathe a word."

We hung on his every breath.

"He looked about him again. Then he spoke.

"Off the record," he smirked (the big sap-and-so), "I don't know."

But Dit paid a fine compliment to the ladies of St. Paul's United Church Women's Association who provided the splendid repast.

"I've been to many banquets," he said, in all sincerity, "but if the Stirling ladies were in Banquet League Cup playoffs, they would win in four straight."

And so said we all. It was a grand feed — for those guys who weren't on a diet, or ani beside those that were.

It will be a David-against-Goliath type of mat collision at the Memorial Arena on Friday night, when Rapid Ray Villmer, the human bust-saw from St. Louis, will rush at towering Sky-Hi Lee, the gigantic Ozark hillbilly, in the headline wrestling event.

The 225-pound Villmer, though considerably smaller than the mammoth, 325-pound Lee, is practically perpetual motion personified. While Villmer is far off Lee's tremendous stature, the St. Louis product is muscled like a blacksmith and should worry Sky-Hi like a terrier at the heels of a bull.

Popular Johnny Barend, of Rochester, a talented young mat star, will wrestle Joe Christie in the semi-final, with Al "Krusher" Korman tangling with Ali The Turk in the first match.

New York Giants' Winter Trade With Braves Better As Stanky, Dark Spark Team

They snickered when New York Giants traded away all that power to Boston Braves for defence-minded Eddie Stanky and Alvin Dark.

They smiled knowingly when Sid Gordon returned to the Polo Grounds in a Braves' uniform and practically whipped his former mates singlehanded with a spur of home runs. One same with the bases loaded.

They laughed as Will Marshall, Buddy Kerr and Gordon continued to star for the Braves while Stanky and Dark did nothing at bat or in the field to distinguish themselves.

All this happened the first week of the season. But Tuesday it started a new week—with different results.

While Gordon, Marshall and Kerr were held hitless by southpaw Joe Hatten who pitched Brooklyn Dodgers to a 3-0 triumph over Boston, Stanky and Dark sparked the Giants to their first triumph of the season. The pair reached base two times as the Giants defeated Philadelphia Phillies 8-4.

Stanky proved he was still an excellent leadoff batter by drawing a pair of walks and singling in five trips to the plate, he scored twice.

Dark walloped a home run and double in four times at bat to boost his batting average to a lofty .421.

Jansen the Winner

Jack Harshman, rookie first baseman, also chipped in with a homer for the Giants to haul Russ Meyer his second loss of the young season. Larry Jansen was the winner.

Hatten allowed only two singles as the Dodgers registered their fifth straight triumph. He retired 23 men in succession.

Vern Bickford held the Dodgers in check in all but the third inning when the Brooks scored all their runs.

Vic Raschi became the first New York Yankees pitcher to go the route, pitching a 3-1 victory over the Athletics in Philadelphia. It was Raschi's 12th victory in 13 decisions with the Mackmen.

Detroit's Tigers won their fifth game in six starts, defeating the Browns in a St. Louis night game. Virgil Trucks had a one-hit shutout for seven innings but homers by Hank Arft and Dick Kokos and a double knocked him out of the box. Art Houtteman stopped the Brownie uprising in the ninth to preserve Trucks' second victory.

Thurso Decides To Hang up Skates For the Season

Thurso, Que., April 26 (CP)—Thurso Lumber Kings have decided to hang up their skates for the hockey season.

Gaston Clearmont, Thurso's coach, said Tuesday night:

"We have notified the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association that we are not going to play any more this season. That is final."

Tuesday, Hanson Dowell, convener for Eastern Canada's Intermediate hockey playoffs, notified Thurso that a protest filed against Thurso by Pembroke Lumber Kings had been upheld by the C.A.H.A.

The Flashes protested Thurso's use of Maurice Goupien who was transferred to Thurso from the senior Pembroke Lumber Kings after the final date for transfers, Dec. 15.

If Thurso had decided to continue playing they would have been without Goupien and three other men are out with injuries.

(In Montreal Tuesday Frank J. Dillo, registrar of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, announced a rearrangement of playoffs for the Eastern Canada Intermediate Hockey championship on the assumption Thurso would continue to play.)

Roberge's Triple Enough to Beat Springfield Cubs

(By The Associated Press)

Monte Irvin's loud International League bat may earn the Negro flychaser another crack at Major league pitching.

The pride of Jersey City, who blew one chance with the New York Giants last season, again has his sights set on the Polo Grounds.

Irvin, a six-foot-one streak of light with a powerful right arm, hit his third homer in as many games Tuesday night to help the Giants whip Rochester's Red Wings, 13-5.

But if Irvin is to better his .324 mark in 38 games with the parent Giants last season, he must overcome the deficiency of swinging at high pitches. The 195-pound slugger has a penchant for going after the big ones his notorious "blind spot" — and, consequently, popping them up.

Irvin hit .373 for Jersey City last season as one of the hottest three home runs, each to a different field — left, right and centre.

The victory was the first of the season for Jersey and Rochester two losses. Conversely, it was Rochester's first loss after two victories.

Tony West, 21-year-old right-hander, spaced seven hits for the triumph. He walked three and struck out four.

Springfield, Toronto's rallying Maple Leafs came from behind again to nip Stan Heck's Springfield Cubs. The score was 8-7, with Al (Skippy) Roberge's base-clearing triple turning the trick.

The Jersey City - Rochester tilt drew only 460 fans, while Springfield-Toronto attracted 811.

Montreal at Baltimore was postponed due to cold weather.

Reserve Clause Of C.R.U. Brings Mixed Comment

Toronto, April 26 — (CP) — The reserve clause adopted by the Canadian Rugby Union has brought forth mixed comment from football teams affected by the rule.

The decision, made in a mail vote of delegates to the recent annual meeting, stipulates that a player signed with a team affiliated with the CRU may not jump to another team without first obtaining his release.

A similar rule is already in force in the International Rugby Union—the East's leading conference, and the Western League.

Bob Moran, president of Toronto Argonauts of the Interprovincial Big Four, said he was "very pleased" with the rule sponsored by Ted Reeve of the Ontario Rugby Football Union. "It'll help to keep leagues strong."

R. K. Emerson, president of Ottawa Rough Riders, also expressed approval of the clause but a negative reaction came from Al Anderson, manager of Edmonton Eskimos of the western conference. He said he felt it was active in "restraint of trade."

"After all," said Anderson, "if a player can make a better living in another league, he has the right to go there."

Toronto Makes Strong Bid To Stage 1954 Empire Games

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of four articles describing plans of Canadian cities bidding for the 1954 British Empire Games).

By JOHN PATERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 26 — (CP) — Toronto is putting most of its eggs in one basket in its bid to stage the 1954 British Empire Games. Chief lure is the specious $4,000,000 lake - front Canadian National Exhibition Sports Field dubbed by some critics as a "white elephant."

The Stadium, opened last year, "laid an egg" as a sport centre.

For some unexplained reason the cinder track circling the grass infield was made one-third of a mile instead of the regulation quarter-mile distance, automatically washing out any championship meets. The infield, more than 100 feet from the grandstand, is considered too far for fans to follow a football game.

Situated just a javelin throw from Lake Ontario in Toronto's west end, it was wide open on the south, east and west sides to chilly winds from the lake.

Guarantee of Housing

But all of this will be remedied if B. E. Games Association official hopes for the city's bid for the Commonwealth sports meet. Civic officials have backed up their initiative with the required $80,000 guarantee for the housing and feeding of the 600-or-so athletes and a decision is expected early next month.

Vancouver and Hamilton have officially placed their bids with officials and Montreal is expected to follow suit.

The "white elephant" is Toronto's lake bathing pollu.

The stadium now seats close to 25,000 and Controller Allan Lamport, chief Toronto booster for the site, says "We'll build bleachers to bring that up to 50,000 if needed." The track will be made regulation size and bleachers will cut down the lake breezes. A cement track will be built to circle the field cinder track for cycling.

Most of the other sports — wrestling, weight-lifting, boxing and fencing — would be held in buildings on the C.N.E. grounds and diving and swimming at Sunnyside pool on the lake front about 100 feet from the grandstand. The pool bleachers hold only a few hundred but these would be enlarged.

The only out-of-Toronto event, the rowing and sculling, would be held at Port Dalhousie, near St. Catharines, and scene of the annual Canadian Henley. The oarsmen would be housed on the edge of the course.

Accommodation for other athletes would be provided in University of Toronto dormitories in the heart of the city. These are located during the summer date of the games.

Champions Must Defend Titles Within 6 Months

Washington, April 26 (AP) — The National Boxing Association said Tuesday it will insist that all champions in the future defend their title's within six months against top-flight opponents.

President Fred J. Saddy, in announcing the quarterly ratings declared the 47-state organization is going "to effectuate a program of enforcing a six-months title defence by all champions with equal insistence that contenders prove their right to title opportunity against each other rather than against inferior opponents."

The N.B.A. then proceeded to list who should fight who, with their ratings.

The ratings contain only 14 logical contenders for the eight crowns. No top contenders are listed in the heavyweight and welterweight divisions.

Montreal's Johnny Greco is given an honorable mention in the latter division.

Only other Canadians in the ratings are Arthur Lasky of Toronto, rated an outstanding boxer in the lightweight division, and Leo Cantin, also of Toronto, given honorable mention in the same division.

Archie Moore the only boxer listed as a top-notch opponent for champions in light heavyweight crown, and Chicago's Freddie Mack as the only one listed as a logical contender for like Williams' lightweight diadem.

Saddler Best Contender

Sandy Saddler is rated "the lone logical contender" in the featherweight division.

Three Europeans and one American were named contenders for the vacant flyweight crown recently given up by Dublin's Rinty Monaghan. They are Terry Allen of England, Honore Pratesi of France, Jan Sneyers of Belgium and Dada Marino of Honolulu. Allen meets Pratesi in London Tuesday night to win the British and European title.

The N.B.A. listed three lightweights above Canada's Vic Towesi, who meets bantamweight champ Manuel Ortiz for the title May 20 in Johannesburg. They are Luis Romero of Spain, Danny O'Sullivan, of England and Luis Galvani of Cuba.

In the middleweight division, it put Rocky Graziano, who is on the comeback in the "outstanding boxer" class along with Tony Janiro of Youngstown, Ohio. Janiro and "the Rock" recently battled to a draw in New York City.

Leafs' Hitters Will Have Chance To Make Money

(By The Canadian Press)

Hitters at Toronto's Maple Leaf Stadium will have a chance to pick up an extra $500 this season as well as getting credit for a home run.

A local used-car dealer has promised to pay $500 to every International League batter who manages to hit the ball through a three foot "O" cut in the right-centre field fence. For hitting the surrounding sign board, the award is $50.

The sign in which the hole is cut is outside the fence, thus, any ball reaching it is an automatic home-run.

Walter (Turk) Broda, goalie for Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, has joined race-horse-owning sportsmen.

Broda announced Tuesday he has purchased a thoroughbred in Lexington, Ky.—Super Girl, a three-year-old filly by Rash, The Turk, who plans to sport orange-coloured silks, will probably race his horse during Dufferin Park's opening week, starting next Wednesday.

Two Canadian runners, Bob McFarlane of London, Ont., and Rich Ferguson of Toronto, will compete in special invitation events in connection with the Intercounty Track and Field championships at White City Stadium London May 27-29, the British Amateur Athletic Board announced Tuesday.

McFarlane, holder of the Canadian 440-yard record, will compete in the 400 and 800 metre events.

Ferguson, Canadian junior mile record-holder, will compete in the 1500-metre and two-mile events.

At Troy, N.Y., formation of the "Eastern Collegiate Ski Association," representing about 60 colleges and universities in the northeastern United States and Eastern Canada, was announced Tuesday by one of the association's officers.

Roland K. Brown, athletic director and ski coach at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, said the new organization replaces the Intercollegiate Ski Union.

Houston Buffs of the Texas League Tuesday night announced outright purchase of outfielder Danny Gardella from St. Louis Cardinals.

It was Gardella who Feb. 9, 1948, sued organized baseball for $300,000 after he had been suspended by Commissioner A. B. Chandler for jumping to the Mexican League in 1946. Gardella dropped the suit last fall after signing with the Cardinals.

At Quebec, Gus (Pell) Mell, 155, Montreal, gained an unpopular decision over Ted Bussey, Detroit, in the 10 round feature match of a boxing program Tuesday night before 1,500 fans.

Taking advantage of provincial legislation permitting Sunday sport in Toronto parks, the Toronto Senior Soccer League has scheduled games at four parks Sunday May 7.

Oma Decisions London Boxer In Tenth Round

Buffalo, N.Y., April 26 (AP)—No, 13 didn't change Lee Oma's luck Tuesday night as the Newark, N.Y., heavyweight punched out a unanimous 10-round decision over Vern Mitchell, London, Ont., youngster, in Memorial Auditorium.

It was Oma's 13th straight victory, and nine of these have been matched here.

For the 23-year-old Mitchell, the defeat snapped a string of five victories and a draw.

There were no knockdowns. Oma weighed 196 3-4 against Mitchell's 187 1-4.

Oma, who hasn't been beaten since September, 1948, has been promised a crack at the National Boxing Association title of Ezzard Charles this summer — if Charles gets over the bump of two medical check-ups and keeps his serious date with Freddie Beshore of Harrisburg, Pa., successfully.

Kenny Lovegrove, 174, Hamilton knocked out Eddie Marmo 166 1-2, Buffalo, in the 3:23 fifth round and Dave Cochrane, 146 1-4, Buffalo, scored a technical knockout over Larry Simon, 147 3-4, Welland. Both bouts were scheduled for six rounds.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, April 26 — (AP) — When you send a cold weather hitter against a hot-weather pitcher most anything can happen — — — Before yesterday's Giants-Phillies game, manager Eddie Sawyer remarked that Russ Meyer probably would pitch better in mid-summer, then added sadly: "But you can't keep a man around all spring just waiting for hot weather — — — A few minutes afterward someone pointed out that Jack Hardiman, the Giants rookie first baseman, hit a home run for Minneapolis the last season—only two after Aug. 1 — — — "Maybe," chuckled Sawyer, "Meyer can't put the couldn't hit a curved ball." — — — Three innings later Jack swung from the heels at one of Russ' pitches and belted it clear over the roof of the left field grounds.

Getting Close

Jack Onslow, the White Sox pilot, tells this one — — — seems when Wyatt Robinson was managing Brooklyn's famous Daffiness Boys, Jack was a Phillies' coach — — — Passing Uncle Robbie on the field one day Onslow asked: "Is it true, Mr. Robinson, that Robertson replied: "Not so good; they're not getting together." — — — That afternoon the Dodgers managed to pull their celebrated stunt of getting three men on third base at one time and losing the ball game through the mixup — — — Next day Onslow again offered a polite query and this time Robbie replied: "Why, they're looking a little better now At least they're getting together."

Surprising

The 1950 baseball register, just off the press, features a life story of Joe Dimaggio and records of the major league umpires — — — You'd be surprised that 20 of the umps have ever played big league ball.

Winnipeg, April 26 (CP) — Now here's a man who says bare legs — and not necessarily better baseball — is what will make girls' softball turnstiles hum in southern-Saskatchewan.

Alderman George Nesbitt, Saskatoon softball sponsor, is campaigning to replace long pants with shorts.

Murray (Moose Jaw Times - Herald) Brown quotes him as saying: "We should put the girls back in shorts and let the customers see some leg. I feel that if glamor is returned to the ladies' league the crowd will also return, just like it did in U. S. leagues."

The long - pant softball in Saskatoon is reported to be "dying a slow death." He says shorts would also make for freer running.

Hockey

Cam (Saskatoon Star - Phoenix) McKenzie reveals some rumors which he says may be news to Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

He says the rumors have it that both clubs will have new goalies next year.'

Murray is making the rounds that Terry Sawchuk, the Winnipeg youngster who this year starred for Indianapolis Caps, will be the next Red Wing goalie, and that Harry Lumley, current netman for the Wings, will go to Toronto.

"Lumley, although already a veteran in the N. H. L., is still in his early 20's and Sawchuk is just reaching voting age," Cam said.

The deal, he says, "seems logical enough."

Gene Sarazen Figures Title Going For Ride

New York, April 26 — (AP)— Gene Sarazen figures the United States open golf championship is going on a long ride this year — all the way to South Africa.

The winner? Bobby Locke, the nerveless money collector from Johannesburg.

"I've been thinking a lot about the tournament," Sarazen said today, "and every way I look at it it comes out to Locke."

The U.S. open title has been carried out of the country only twice in history and not in the last 20 years.

The 1950 open will be played at Merion Golf Club near Philadelphia June 9-10. Sectional qualifying begins May 22.

Locke cleaned up on the U.S. professional circuit two years ago. He was banned by the P.G.A. last year after he traded some sharp words with the pro golf fathers. But now everybody has kissed and made up.

American Horse Second Choice In British Race

Newmarket, Suffolk, England, April 26 — (CP) — Faced with his first major test, Kentucky - bred Prince Simon was a 3-to-1 second choice in today's 142nd renewal of the two thousand guineas, first of the English turf seasons flat-racing classics for 3-year-olds.

William Woodward's picture - book colt was rated second only to Masked Light, Britain's 1949 juvenile champion which has ruled favorite all winter. In the final callover for the one - mile event on a straight course, Masked Light was quoted at 5 to 2. Third choice was Palestine at 5 to 1.

Twenty three-year-olds were due to go to the post at 2 p. m. EST.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Ribbiter

One nice thing about working bridge puzzle. You can do it in the privacy of your own room where nobody can distract your thoughts. And if you make a mistake nobody can holler at you.

Seven tricks have been taken in the puzzle you see here:

NORTH
♠ None
♥ A 3
♦ J 3
♣ K 5

WEST
♠ Q
♥ Q 9 6
♣ Q 7 4

EAST
♠ None
♥ K
♦ None

♥ J 5 4
♦ None
♣ J 8

South must take five of the six remaining tricks with hearts as trumps. And south is at this moment in the lead.

He leads a small trump and wins with dummy ace to lead jack of diamond. If east plays a high, south ruffs small; ruffs a spade in dummy; cashes club king; leads the north diamond to success.

When north dummy leads the diamond jack, suppose east does not shed a club. Instead, suppose he ruffs the diamond jack with one of his trumps. If so, which trump will east use?

If east ruffs with heart nine, south can overruff with the jack. The south spade is ruffed in dummy, King of clubs is cashed for the fourth trick. The small diamond is then led from dummy.

If east shifts on this diamond, south ruffs with his small heart for his fifth trick. If east ruffs the last dummy diamond, south need only shuff a club. His small trump is good for the final trick.

When north leads diamond jack, suppose east ruffs high with his heart queen. South sheds a club. East now cannot procure a trump and this gives south a chance to pull a double whammy.

South now leads his last trump which is a 3er and it puts the squeeze on both west and east. If west throws a diamond, the north diamond is good. If west pegs a club, dummy is there with two clubs. Such things try men's souls.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 26 (AP) — Yvonne De Carlo would like to abdicate as the undraped queen of film females and devote her life to singing.

"When the time comes," the Vancouver gal vowed, "I want to do musical pictures altogether. If I don't get my way, I will quit the screen and do concerts.

"I've been studying for this for a long time. But I don't think I can really concentrate on my singing and work in non-musical pictures, too. It won't be for a few years yet."

Meanwhile the curvaceous cutie is content to caper in eye-catching costumes, "I don't mind wearing clinging dresses," she remarked, "as long as the part calls for it. And it doesn't detract from the acting."

In the current "Desert Hawk" she plays a Persian Princess, and the role naturally calls for some sexy outfits. "But I'd just as soon play a ragamuffin and go through the picture in the same plain dress," she claimed.

Right Direction

She has long sought a straight dramatic role and considers her next picture "Tomahawk," a step in the right direction. In this one she plays an Indian girl. Her ambition is to star in "Song of Norway."

"Actually it isn't easy to play these princess roles," she declared. "After all, they lived many centuries ago. You have to strive to make them believable in spite of the fancy costumes and settings and strange dialogue."

Capsule Review

"The Reformer and Redhead" (MGM) has a clever idea, but lacks the bounce to put it across. The reform candidate for mayor tangles with the zookeeper's daughter. Her passion for wild animals sir the comedy, but the laughs aren't as big as expected. June Powell and June Allyson help the nonsense along.

Man and His Dog Jointly Accused Of Biting Cop

Mishawaka, Ind., April 26—(AP) — Vernon W. Williams, 49, and his dog were accused jointly yesterday of biting two policemen.

Patrolmen Marlon W. Riggle and Lester C. Myers related in court that they tried to arrest Williams in his home on a beating complaint from his wife.

They said the dog bit both policemen and Williams chewed one of Meyers' fingers.

The dog was ordered tied up for 10 days' observation. Its master was fined $21 for disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Allan Cup Survivors

By The Canadian Press

The long playoff trail to the Allan Cup and the Canadian senior amateur hockey championship was over today for all but the finalists — Toronto Marlboros in the East and Calgary Stampeders in the West.

Two of a great number of teams that started post-season play a few weeks back, both clubs came through the impressive wins in their final series, Marlboros eliminated Shawbrooks, Saints four games to two while Calgary overwhelmed Fort Frances Canadiens four games to one.

Beautiful Bonfire Costly to Firm And Official

Redruth, Cornwall, England April 26 — (AP) — Ten winters have passed since Cattle Food agent William John Pearce started accusing Ministry of Food rationing forms.

Every spring for 10 years his wife said: "Clear 'em out."

Pearce, who had to deal with 50,000 documents a year, emptied his desk and cleared out the lounge, the living room, the dining room, the bedrooms and the garage. He made a beautiful bonfire.

Tuesday his firm was fined £20 (56) and Pearce himself fined £5 for failing to keep proper records.

ELEVATOR OPERATORS STRIKE IN NEW YORK

New York, April 26—(AP)—A strike of elevator operators and other service employees in 2,000 Manhattan apartment houses with more than 70,000 families has been set for "any time" after 5:45 p.m. EST today. The walkout was called after the landlords had refused to arbitrate the A.F.L. Building Service Employees Union's demands for wage increases and other benefits.

Bear Triplets Born in Zoo

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 26 — (AP) — The Shawman Park Zoo here is astonished.

One of its guests a black bear, has given birth to triplets.

Triplet births in the black bear family, says conservation officer Alex McLane, are "most unusual."

The mother bear hasn't permitted the newcomers outside her cave yet. The zoo says the cubs probably weighed only about nine ounces at birth—infant bears are small—but ought to be up around 70 pounds come fall.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma watched pop drinking his 2nd cup of coffee this morning, saying, I got into conversation with a very nice bizness man yesterday, William. I told him about your strong views on the importance of encouraging small bizness, he was very much intristed. He said you must be a very intelligent man. Naturally I told him that was a very good description of you, ma said, and pop said, Thank you, my dear but it does not take a grate enteleject to know that small bizznesses are the backbone of a country's economic sistem.

That's very nicely expressed, said pop, The dickens he is.

Yes, he calls it The French Resterant, because his name happens to be Mr. French, ma said, and pop said, That's not saying what his food happens to be.

Pop not liking resterants, especially one he's never tried, and ma said, Now William, remember small bizznesses, Today is his opening day and he gave us a very cordial invitation to include ourselves amung his first customers, she said, and pop said, Do you meen he wants to stake us to a free meel?

Certainly not, but I'm sure he'll is starting a small bizness of his own rite in the naybornhood, so you'll have a chance to suit action to the word. He's opening a new little resterant, she said, and pop said, The dickens he is.

Yes, he calls it The French Resterant, because his name happens to be Mr. French, ma said, and pop said, That's not saying what his food happens to be.

Pop not liking resterants, especially one he's never tried, and ma said, Now William, remember small bizznesses, Today is his opening day and he gave us a very cordial invitation to include ourselves amung his first customers, she said, and pop said, Do you meen he wants to stake us to a free meel?

Certainly not, but I'm sure he'll said, and pop said, You and Benziness, and I'll stay home and make myself an old fashion ice box stew.

Now William, I'm not going to have you messing up my kitchen

N.Z. Government Lifts Control Controls

By J. G. GRAHAM
(C. F. Correspondent)

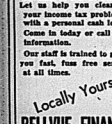
Wellington, N. Z. (CP) — Fulfilling its election pledge to free private enterprise from many of the controls and restrictions maintained by the Labor administration, New Zealand's new government is steadily wiping out long standing regulations.

Abolition of glass control regulations, except on farm land, has so far not resulted in any skyrocketing of prices. Buyers and sellers have both shown caution. Deals have mostly been at higher prices than the controlled rates which previously applied officially, but at lower prices than the black market rates at which a large proportion of real estate deals were made in fact.

The government now has abolished price controls on 100 further items, including many professional fees, newspaper advertising, commercial printing, hairdressery, brushware, stationery, and a large number of industrial goods.

Merchants consider that a large number of additional items could be freed without causing any price increases of importance as the supply position has improved considerably.

The National Party government's latest move has been the removal of restrictions on funds and securities held overseas in the sterling area. Hitherto New Zealanders have had to declare and offer to the Reserve Bank all overseas funds wherever held. Though this restriction is maintained for dollar funds, they may now dispose of funds held in the sterling area as they wish and shareholders can again deal in overseas securities on the local market without references to the Reserve Bank.



Prime Minister Sidney Holland declared: "This to a great extent restores the freedom formerly enjoyed by New Zealanders to spend their own money in whatever manner they see fit. This is another step in the government's policy of cancelling as far as is immediately practicable restrictions which cut across the rights of the people."

Civil Service Ousts Tons of Old Records

Ottawa—C(P)—It took a World War, a paper shortage, and steel control to get it started, but today the Civil Service at last is getting on with the job of combing the deadwood out of its records.

Blowing Bill Hadley nearly 66 records dating back 75 years are being checked. Some are burned, others are torn up, baled and sold as waste paper.

Roughly 250 tons of old documents have gone down the drain since the end of the Second World War. With the same cleaning-up campaign in progress at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Halifax, some 750 to 1,000 tons of paper have been tossed out of government filing cabinets.

Actors Come Home Win Their Gamble in Stage Careers

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto — (CP) — Robert and Margot Christie are two who "came back." They reversed the trend of thousands of talented young Canadians who left for theer countries in search of a career. Yet the Christies achieved recognition abroad and the future looked fine. In their profession, locked bleak when they returned.

The Christies are actors, real flesh and blood stage actors, although both are often heard on national radio programs. A precarious profession anywhere, the prospect of making a full-time living in the Canadian theatre might have deterred any with less determination.

After more than 30 years in which they have played in stock companies in Calgary, Ottawa, Toronto, Muskoka, Peterborough and other places, the say they're "still happy." They don't regret their choice, although the going has been difficult many times.

Margot, a tall striking brunette, with a voice reminiscent of a younger Ethel Barrymore, recalls their star in England.

"We landed there with less than $25 between us. We hadn't been married long and we decided to gamble 10 years to see if we could actually achieve our goal."

Robert, son of Rev. D. Wallace Christie, prominent United Church minister, was born and raised in Toronto. He met Margot a native of Winnipeg, when he was playing with John Holden Players in western Canada. They have two girls, Dinah, 7, and Cedar,3.

Both are well known on such CBC productions as the Andrew Allan "Stage" series, and other dramatic broadcasts. For a time Robert had a program as a disk jockey called "Christie's Wax Works."

Plans Art Exhibit For Cherry Prison

Bournemouth, England — (CP) Governor B. Lamb of nearby Dorchester prison borrowed on the saying about Mohammed and the mountain when thinking about his prisoners' cultural welfare.

Clearly they couldn't take in the exhibition at Bournemouth's municipal art gallery, so he suggested to curator Norman Silverter that some of the pictures go to the prison.

It was agreed — and also that there would be no censorship. Nudes would be permitted, "but I shall have them covered with glass to prevent their being defaced," observed the cautious curator.

The governor feels his step represents an innovation in reeducation of prisoners, and as well will help cheer up the establishment.

"It was my idea to ask for these pictures. As far as I know this sort of thing has not been done in a prison before.

"The pictures will probably be hung in the main hall."

Seaside Quiz Brings Two Thousand Ideas

Hastings, England — (CP)— Last summer's visitors said a mouthful when asked for their suggestions.

Anxious to improve Hastings' holiday amenities, the town council circulated a questionnaire among the visitors, and a total of 2,036 comments and suggestions were returned.

The ideas have been given to the responsible committees for consideration.

Most wanted stricter enforcement of no-speeding rules for traffic along the seafront. They wanted more post boxes, clocks, benches and deck chairs along the front and more cubicle dressing-rooms for swimmers.

A new one was from an angler who suggested that the corporation might rent out fishing rods for visitors wanting to fish from the pier.
